Can You Picture MICHIGAN without Highways?

A strange place it would be this State of ours if our splendid 8000 mile network of surfaced highways didn't just grow,

The absence of these priceless arteries in that much of the mountainous and forested parts of the State would make carrying on our daily activities—both for those of us living on farms and in cities, snow plows and SRV's, who would be isolated. Others would find it incredibly difficult to carry on even the most ordinary daily activities—with no tracks on the trains, no roads taking workers to our plants and farms, soldiers to camp and home on furlough, business travelers to nearby communities, children to school.

We in Michigan are apt to take for granted the convenience of our excellent roads—but these highways didn't just grow.

Building and maintaining them is a tremendous job and for achieving this successfully we can thank our past and present administrations and particularly the Michigan State Highway Department.

That isn't the whole story, however. Transforming those lifeless ribbons of concrete and macadam into live, active arteries of public transportation has been the accom¬ plishment of the Michigan Public Service Commission. They've given our State a transportation system that compares favorably with any other in the country.

As fellow citizens of Michigan, the Greyhound Lines have made a very large contribution in the form of license, fuel and operating taxes—but we feel that our greatest service is in putting the highways to work making near neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we serve throughout the State.

New Plan Proposes That Judiciary Board Interview Rules Offenders

A new system of deter-ming penalties for interference with EAS rules is under consideration for the Michigan Board of Judiciary, as

Regent William G. McDowell reported at the Board's meeting last week. The administration's present policy is to give administrators a direct role in the determination of penalties.

The new system would allow the Board to establish a particular number of violations before a case could be referred for administrative action. This system would be less formal and more lenient than the present system.

FOOTBALL

The Board of Regents has approved the budget for next season's football program. The plan was adopted at the regency meeting last week.

The budget includes a $15,000 increase for the football team.

The increase will be used for travel expenses, scholarships, and other expenses.
