Bombers Score in Western Norway

German Munition Supply Mine Hit in Surprise Raid

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Large German bombs fell there and elsewhere in the North Sea today as part of a German attempt to disrupt the flow of munitions to their allies in the west. The surprise raid, which came as a shock to Allied forces in Norway, was intended to disrupt the flow of arms and supplies to the Allies in the region, and was carried out by bombers from England and the Continent.

The raid was carried out by about 100 German bombers, which attacked the mines on the Norwegian coast, southeast of Oslo. The attack was made in the early morning, and the bombers were followed by a series of raids on other targets in the area.

The German raid is the latest in a series of attacks on Norwegian targets, and is part of the continuing German effort to disrupt the supply lines of the Allies in the region. The raids have been carried out by both German and Allied forces, and have been of varying intensity.

The German raid today was the largest so far, and was carried out with the aim of destroying the mines and disrupting the supply lines of the Allies in the region. The raid was carried out with the aim of disrupting the flow of munitions to the Allies in the region, and was intended to weaken the resolve of the Allies in the region.

The German raid today was the largest so far, and was carried out with the aim of destroying the mines and disrupting the supply lines of the Allies in the region. The raid was carried out with the aim of disrupting the flow of munitions to the Allies in the region, and was intended to weaken the resolve of the Allies in the region.
LETTERS . . . . . . To the Editor

This Editor

Torchbearers in the same manner that the students who are responsible for the decoration of the Union and the administration of the events surrounding it must also be responsible for the conduct of their participants. The purpose of this is not to limit the enjoyment of students, but to ensure that it is maintained within acceptable boundaries.

The editor of the Michigan State News has recently stated that "dancing is a perfectly normal recreational act enjoyed by students." While this may be true, it is not without consequences. Dancing, especially on a large scale, can lead to unintended consequences. The editor's statement overlooks the social and cultural implications of such an act.

Dancing can be a form of expression and a way to connect with others. However, it is important to consider the impact of our actions on others. The editor's statement, while perhaps well-intentioned, may not fully acknowledge the potential negative effects of large-scale dancing events.

In conclusion, while dancing may be a normal recreational activity, it is crucial to recognize the importance of responsible participation. The editor's statement emphasizes the need for students to be mindful of their actions and to consider the broader implications of their behavior.
French Commissioner Goes to Ease Tension in Syria

General Catroux Reaches Beirut on Mission

BEIRUT, Nov. 16 (AP)—Immediate French action to prevent outbreaks in the middle east over the Lebanon tempest was sought today when it was disclosed that General Catroux, commissioner of state for the De Gaulle committee, had reached Beirut tonight after a ten-day trip.

The disturbances in the Lebanon area following upon incidents in the United States over the Arab-Lebanon scene, and the deteriorating relations between France and several Arab governments, have led to calls for a French delegation to aid the Middle East.

The President of the French republic, Charles De Gaulle, has been urged to send a mission to the Lebanon area, and it is expected that the Arshad government will give immediate consideration to the request.

The French delegation to the Lebanon area was preceded by the U.S. commissioner of state in the Middle East, General Catroux, who arrived in Beirut today.

—The New York Times

German Troops Battle Patriots in France, Italy

Rome, Switzerland, Nov. 15—Adolf Hitler’s troops continued the assault on the patriot forces in France and Italy today, with reports that German forces had captured a number of important cities and that the patriot forces were retreating.

Spartans at War

By ANNE COWAN

The news that President Roosevelt was visiting the Middle East was welcomed by Spartanites in Michigan, who are proud of their country’s role in the worldwide struggle.

The news that President Roosevelt was visiting the Middle East was welcomed by Spartanites in Michigan, who are proud of their country’s role in the worldwide struggle.

To the Editor—

Spartanites in Michigan are proud of their country’s role in the worldwide struggle. We are grateful to President Roosevelt for his leadership and his dedication to the war effort. We are proud to support our armed forces and their efforts to win this war.

Sincerely,

[signature]

[Note: The text is a continuation of a previous page.]

---

THE BOOK THAT CAN HELP WIN THE WAR

You and the Telephone Directory: can do a lot toward lightening the wartime task of the “Information” operators.

The full working time of three out of five of these busy operators is required to supply numbers that are listed in the directory. By looking in the directory first when you want a number, you can help reduce needless calls to “Information,” permitting some operators to be shifted to necessary wartime telephone work.

When the number you want is not listed and you must call “Information,” please jot it down so you’ll have it handy for future use.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY
Russians Near Vital Junction of Korosten

Ukrainian Army Captures
60 Villages and Towns in
Rapid Advancing

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Russian Ukrainian army drove for the railway junction of Korosten from the south and northeast today according to 10 of the important communications in the Soviet attack on the anti-German forces in the Field Army. Ukrainian field armies, reaching the town, captured the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 16 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine.

News in Brief

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Russian Ukrainian army drove for the railway junction of Korosten from the south and northeast today according to 10 of the important communications in the Soviet attack on the anti-German forces in the Field Army. Ukrainian field armies, reaching the town, captured the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine.

News in Brief

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP) — The Russian Ukrainian army drove for the railway junction of Korosten from the south and northeast today according to 10 of the important communications in the Soviet attack on the anti-German forces in the Field Army. Ukrainian field armies, reaching the town, captured the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine. Korosten is 60 miles from the capital, and 100 miles from the capital and 14 miles from the capital. The town is the site of the last war battle in the town of Turbets, the seat of Korsen, and a coal mine.

Now It Can Be Cold

Mantailed Slacks

For winter-time campus wear. Plain wools, tweeds, gabardines. Checks, plaids, and solid colors in gray, brown, navy, black, red, green, blue, rust and natural. 5.95 - 11.95

Bold Print Shirts

Large pattern prints in crepes and Satins. 3.95

Jacobson's

Open Thursday Evening 6-8