Campus League Gridders

Game Today to Decide
Forbidden to ROTC—"The season closer" of the most anticipated game in the history of the Michigan State hockey season will be held today. The game between the Gridders and the Michigan State hockey team is the last game of the season. The game will be held at 8 p.m. at Macdonald Field.

The Gridders are the defending champions of the Michigan State hockey league and will be facing the Michigan State hockey team. The Gridders have a record of 7-2 and are currently in first place in the league. The Michigan State hockey team has a record of 5-4 and is currently in third place in the league. The game is expected to be a close one and will determine the champion of the Michigan State hockey league.

The game will be played on the ice rink at Macdonald Field. The field is well-manicured and is expected to provide a good surface for the players. The game will be played in front of a large crowd and is expected to be a thrilling one.

The Gridders are favored to win the game and are expected to make it to the final four of the Michigan State hockey league. The Michigan State hockey team is expected to make it to the final four as well. The final four will be held on February 26th and 27th.

The Gridders have won the Michigan State hockey league title three times in the past five years and are looking to add another title to their collection.

The Michigan State hockey team is looking to make a statement in their senior year and is expected to give a tough fight.

The game will be broadcast on WJMS and will also be available for streaming online. The score will be updated throughout the game and will be available on the Michigan State hockey league website.
