Jungle Troops Catch 2,000 Japanese

NEW DELHI, March 7 (AP)—American jungle troops fanned out from captured Walawilmie 10 miles behind the Japanese lines in north Burma today to try to cut off the enemy's retreat toward American and Chinese troops steadily advancing from the south.

L. G. Adams, Joseph Stilwell's commissary chief, announced that the Americans were hammering the Japanese against the Chinese until in continuous fighting.

Readies Established

General Stilwell said a road block had been established 20 miles west of Walawilmie, and that all enemy units attempting to escape were being massed by the main body of Japanese near Mogaung. Stilwell was thus able to hold a broad front in the main Japanese area, comprising the Japanese forces on the Yunnan road.

Chinese Fork Out

General Stilwell's headquarters also inspected the Chinese advancing west with drive in the last three days, capturing 15 miles of Japanese lines.

In other circumstance, 1st Division American troops were killed 10 by Chinese forces who crossed the Siang river near Naga. The Chinese are then supported by Allied political and military influence in the Burma road area, and resolute in their efforts to break the Japanese lines.

English

The English, on the other hand, are a second part of the Americans in the region. They have been reading, however, the army men all use a book entitled "The Man Who Was Right" by Dr. B. W. Lees, who gives practice in interpreting current and important events of national interest. Objective help is given in the reading as well as discussions of the material covered.

"Community" public telephones—some even in outside booth locations—are serving residents in war-born neighborhoods.

Many such telephones handle several hundred calls every month. It's a way more persons can use the available facilities, limited now by wartime material shortages.

The nationwide resources of the Bell System are enlisted in maintaining dependable communication services—vital in war, essential in peace.
