Allied Bombers Blast Jap Air Force Off Map at Hollandia

Yanks Drop Record Load on Airdrome

Allied Hq. S. W. Pacific, Wednesday, April 30
(AFP) The entire Japanese air force at Hollandia on the north coast of Dutch New Guinea has been wiped out by Allied bombers, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Of the 28 Japanese planes which were at Hollandia on March 30, all have been destroyed or permanently damaged, the commander said. A short load of 15 tons of bombs was dropped on Hollandia's three airfields, and 14,000 pounds of ammunition were fired on the giganto-airfield.

Twenty-six intercepting Japanese fighter planes were shot down in air battle over Hollandia, the general said. In addition, two American antiaircraft guns on the airfield were destroyed.
