Troops Seize Humbolt Bay Area in Drive

Mightiest Forces Used in Southwest Pacific

MacArthur's Advanced HQ in New Guinea

Tuesday, April 25 (AP)—The greatest land

cover yet used in the southwest Pacific war captured one of the Humbolt

Bay areas of Dutch New Guineas

during yesterday's major offensive for positions within

1,000 miles of the Philippine Islands.

The mightiest naval force

ever operating in the Pacific was concentrated on the Marshall Islands to support the troops as they pressed miles up the New Guineas

River. A retaking of the Japanese stronghold... a

1,000-miles drive for the Japanese forces into the lands on Humbolt and

Humbolt Bay areas of Dutch New

Guinea, and at Alatine, 130 miles to the east. The largest island... Douglas Millen

of the Philippines

an is part of the area in the northwestern New Guinea.

General Marshall

was on all the beaches with a few hours after the landings. He said the operation completed isolated 100,000

Japanese forces whose ultimate destination is now certain.

Pessimists, who have used

the weather for recreation.

Sunny Weather

While the interviews were taking place, a barometric storm was moving northward in this section of the country. Since

Jackson was on the eastern outskirts of the storm, Wilks explained how weather for college students would get rain while the eastern part of the state was spared.

Offering statistics to prove his point, the meteorologist gave

11.25 inches as the average rainfall for this locality, with an all-time high of 46.5

inches in 1953 and a 1954 low of 18.5 inches.

The greatest amount of rain fell in any single month was 11.35 inches, recorded for June,

1952. Two months, February,

1977, and August, 1949, share

the distinction of being the years with a rainless period.

The precipitation record for a 1,000-mile period is 8.47 inches. See WEATHER—Part 1

In Campus Quarters
By K0 HOWLAND and NANCY SHEPHERD

The traditional spring scenes have been ringing forth in our minds, as we looked last week through the glass by which the campus green and some of the buildings are visible. The campus is not quite as green as it was last year, but the flowers are beginning to bloom. The birds are singing, and the air is fresh and invigorating.

Last year, on May 10th, the Michigan State News published an article about the Michigan State Fair. This year, the fair is scheduled for July 1st.

In addition to the fair, there will be a number of other events taking place on campus. The Michigan State University Band will be performing on May 7th. The Michigan State University Symphony Orchestra will be performing on May 15th.

The Michigan State University basketball team will be playing their final home game of the season on May 3rd. The game is against the Michigan State University Women's Basketball Team.

The Michigan State University Women's Volleyball Team will be playing their final home game of the season on May 5th. The game is against the Michigan State University Men's Volleyball Team.

The Michigan State University Women's Soccer Team will be playing their final home game of the season on May 1st. The game is against the Michigan State University Men's Soccer Team.

The Michigan State University Women's Tennis Team will be playing their final home game of the season on May 4th. The game is against the Michigan State University Men's Tennis Team.

The Michigan State University Women's Cross Country Team will be running their final home race of the season on May 2nd.

In addition to these events, the Michigan State University Alumni Association will be holding a reunion on May 6th.

The Michigan State University Student Government will be holding a town hall meeting on May 7th to discuss the future of the university.

The Michigan State University Board of Trustees will be meeting on May 8th to discuss the budget for the next fiscal year.

The Michigan State University Faculty Senate will be meeting on May 9th to discuss the proposed changes to the university's academic programs.

The Michigan State University Staff Senate will be meeting on May 10th to discuss the proposed changes to the university's benefit plans.

The Michigan State University Student Recreation Center will be hosting a number of events throughout the month of May, including a fitness challenge on May 3rd, a yoga retreat on May 4th, and a dance party on May 5th.

The Michigan State University Career Services Office will be hosting a number of job fairs throughout the month of May, including a virtual job fair on May 2nd and a live job fair on May 3rd.

The Michigan State University Alumni Association will be hosting a number of events throughout the month of May, including a networking event on May 1st and a alumni mixer on May 15th.

The Michigan State University Athletics Department will be hosting a number of events throughout the month of May, including a campus Wide Senior Day on May 2nd and a alumni reunion on May 14th.

The Michigan State University Office of Student Affairs will be hosting a number of events throughout the month of May, including a student leadership conference on May 3rd and a student diversity conference on May 4th.

The Michigan State University Office of University Relations will be hosting a number of events throughout the month of May, including a media training workshop on May 1st and a communications workshop on May 3rd.

Baseball Nine to Face Rival Team Today

State to Play Exhibition Contest with Lansing

Trumbull, April 12—The Spartan nine will make another attempt today to win a practice game before the regular season opens Saturday when they play an exhibition game with Lansing today at 1:30 p.m. on the college field. The program will be followed for lack of weather and field conditions.

There is nothing definite as to when the regular season will be started but it will probably not be much later than today. A second contest might be played on Friday of this week.

In the absence of regular coach John Kobs again today and batting drills yesterday, working especially on the starting lineup, practice ended early because of the weather.

The lineup for the Spartan nine will feature Tom Ashley, first baseman, Dan Irving, second baseman; Jack Brelin, shortstop; Kerock, the correct spelling, will catch; Gene Coburn and Rob Kerensky, sweepers, and Yorkling, third baseman, will also share the catching duties.

The full nine will be in the lineup Thursday when the game is played in the base of the Kobs Memorial. The game will play outdoors.

We will be Lee Sand, Grossie Bie, freshman; Jack Kobs, said coach Kobs, will play if he is in the other outfield, but it probably will be Mill Creek, Detroit senior.

Kobs said that the base of the playing pennant is open to the wind and no admission will be charged.

Saturday will open officially. When Wayne U brings out its team it will be the end of the game of the year for the Spartans.

A Visit to Display Museum in May

The Art Mart, annual art document display of student art work, will be held in the Art wing of the Music building of the University of Michigan at a time which is not yet determined. The title for this annual art show is 'A visit to the Art Mart'

According to Dean of the Art department, William Y. Young, the Mart will be grouped by department and representative work in each department will be shown.

A ribbon will be added in the show which will be voted by the audience to the winner of the best work which shows the best in the show.

The Art Mart, continues through much of the spring and will be completed by the spring school term. The new chairman of the entire show will be Peter B. Boras, sophomore.

Germans Develop Case of Fitters Over Invasion

MADRID, April 24 (AP)—Pre-invasion nerves tension in Germany and occupied Europe has reached a high pitch, and the Nazis, in their campaign to prepare the German people for the worst, have warned that "the 1940-1941 invasion probably will be a different order than D-Day." The Allied armies have "been increased, but above all, air forces have been powerfully reinforced," said the Munche Nachrichen. "The enemy is preparing overwhelming material superiority to strike before we can prepare our defense.

Allied Aerial Blitz Continues
With Nazi Airpower Ravage

RAF warplanes bombing more than 5,000 bombers and fighters left the Nazi air superiority shot down more than 100 Nazi aircraft and raked Nazi airfields and other targets with powerful attacks from British and Italian bases.

Friedrichshafen, Munich, Bucharest, Ploesti and Belgrade were major targets in this greatest concerted daylight operation of the war.

Planes Destroyed

At the time, communities said the British bombers hit Fortresses and Liberators and U.S. Mustangs, Lightnings, and Thunderbolts and RAF Merlins of their support and escort down 150 German fighter—by the fighters and 37 by gunners—and destroyed other underground. Thirty-eight American bombers and 17 fighters were reported missing.

The Berlin radio declared with out condemnation that 30 American bombers which struck southern Europe from Italy had been downed over the German border.

RCAF Bombs Germany

The Allied aerial assault apparently continued without a break last night with the Germans warned by the Berlin radio of "strong enemy formations approaching the western Reich," suggesting the RAF was seeking to turn the high-altitude night pounding.

The United States communiqué announced that bombing results "were generally very satisfactory."

Music-Teachers Meet

Music instructors of colleges, public schools and private conservatories attending the 55th annual convention of the Music Teachers National Association in the Music building, said they hope Paul Underwood, head of the music department, will allow them to attend the convention and several talks are on the program, all music features will be interwoven in the day's program.
