Honorary Officers Give May Sing for Tapping

By JO DEE

If the weatherman will keep his word, the organization will have a beautiful spring weather Monday night, when it plans to celebrate the May Sing for Tapping. The ceremony will be carried on with its nine year old tradition, and Mortar Board and Tower Order will be in charge.

It all started fifteen years ago, when May Sing was first planned. The May Sing was a tradition in the college which is very old, and it was considered as the start of the primitive religious rites of the early settlers. The date of the May Sing day was broadcasted.

About nine years ago Mortar Board adopted the tapping candidates and with the popularity of the May Sing, Mortar Hill was a popular place to spend the May evening.

TODAY

Honoraries may give May Sing for Tapping

In its young days Mortar Board, the senior women's honor society, has a number of members that like to think of it as a new day and age. The members are the first to arrive at the May Sing, and Mortar Board and Tower Order will be in charge.

MOTHER'S DAY

MOTHER'S DAY

DAREST Johnny:

The majors of the campus have been shifted around this week and are no longer as they were under the new-proposed plan for organization. Dean Heston will be dean of the graduate school. Dean Dunn will take care of students in science and arts, and Dean Crowe will have just plain students under his wing.

Johnny Rudy will be director of business and public service, and Dean Glatter will continue to advise Varsity and other organizations. C. R. Rather has been selected to operate the basic college and Dean DeRinck and Anthony are being held at their posts of Engineering and Agriculture, respectively.

Dear lovely of you to call me the other night. I was quite bopped up about it until I realized it was a collect call. No voice. I'm still thinking it was a mixing up.

That fine Matrix society is affiliated with Theta Sigma Phi this semester. We can feel very proud to be informed that this letter is not correct. We're really quite proud of ourselves, however, and have already broken our arms putting ourselves up on the back.

The former Boy Scouts have got all riled up about the Pioneers game. Apparently the flower queen is to take the place of the usual pre-war water carnival queen. No wonder I thought it was an all-wart letter. The campus has been overflowing with visitors for the last two days and unfortunately we were able to talk off some customers who wanted to withdraw a letter for a change. Senior day, sponsored by the elementary education club, brought 75 high school girls who evidently thought it wise to incorporate a Union grill into each of their high school classes.

We won't have to worry about mud and hoses any longer now that the Red Cross has appointed heads of its various departments. This will take care of everything from landage rolling to motor corps.

At 3:00 tomorrow afternoon the landage rolling class is to take along a 12-inch roller to class. Perhaps it's an extra defense measure against wronged victims.

Yours-on the defensive.

Spartans At War

WORLD has been received of three members of Sigma Chi, natives of Michigan State College, who gave their lives in the service of their country.

Another Sigma Chi, Bob Parsons, of Flint, is reported to have received a commission in the United States Navy, and is stationed at Fort Knox, Ky. Parsons has been in the Signal Corps since 1938, and is at present stationed at Fort Sill, Okla.

Covering the department, with each major division, for the first time in its history, is the U.S. Signal Corps. The Signal Corps is the largest branch of the army, with over 300,000 officers and enlisted men.

Under the new university, the Signal Corps will be included in the school of science and administration. The Signal Corps will also be the largest single unit in the Signal Corps.

Leader Arrives

A meeting of the Armed Forces was held at the Signal Corps headquarters in the Signal Corps building in Washington, D.C., on April 17. The meeting was attended by a number of officers and enlisted men from the Signal Corps.

Bad Weather Holds Back Italian Drive

ALLIED HQQ in NAPLES, April 28: (AP) - Sharp patterns of scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected today over much of the Italian front today while bad weather continued to hold air operations to a bare minimum.

The Allied Air Force in Italy has conducted two missions over the last two days, but the weather has prevented the completion of the missions.

American and Italian pilots have been flying in rain for the last two weeks, which has hampered their ability to conduct missions.

Sociology Department Celebrates 20th Anniversary With Changes

In 1950 Harper, coming from the farm, entered the school of administration. Harried teaching caused him to change his major in 1951.

Four Year Course Begins

A year later, a new student body was formed in the college. The course was then a four-year undergraduate course developed with the help of the late Dr. E. L. Harper, who was the first president of the college.

In 1950 the four-year graduate program was organized. This year was an exciting year for the college, as it was the first year in which all of the courses were held on the same campus.

Placements forms for every graduate are filed by the department. These records yield interesting statistics concerning the success of the former Spartans who majored in sociology.
