Dr. B. W. KUTKENBALL
Professor of Journalism

O have new promising indicators in the future of Michigan State college the intention on the part of administrators to develop and coordinate student personnel services.

Writing in 1909, Guy Petherbridge, now the president of Miami University, said: "The day is not far distant when everyone in every college shall have a Professor of Journalism." The day is not yet. However, during the past quarter of a century educational institutions have made great strides - at least in providing for one such "Professor of Journalism." It seems, however, that in so much as the student is a person, education must be directed toward his development as a person rather than upon his intellectual training alone - a philosophy which promotes the establishment of advisory programs, methods of instruction, and extracurricular activities necessary to achieve such education.

Professors have even made at Michigan State for the administration of student affairs. In academic matters, we may expect that all students will be educated intelligently with individual student demands. Coordination of our efforts in personnel services of any kind, it is now necessary for a least this reason:

First, because the complexity of this type of college necessitates coordinated and integrated personnel services. Second, as the number of students and administration personnel increase, so must the comprehensive, efficient personnel services. As the number of students and administration personnel increase, so must the comprehensive, efficient personnel services.

As evidence that we are not pulling together as completely as we ought, we can cite the confusion resulting from advice given by counselors working at cross purposes, each being often unaware of what the others are doing. It is the responsibility of individuals responsible for educational counseling to work together at times with those who are doing vocational counseling. Records accumulating in one office are not available to other offices and hence are not brought together for a complete picture of the available information about a student.

The philosophy of education which incorporates the personal point of view will involve, as a central issue, the obligation for faculty members to see the student as a whole, giving primary consideration to his individual capacity and achievement, his emotional make-up, his physical condition, his social relations, his vocational aptitudes and skills, his moral and religious values, his economic resources and limitations, and all the other innumerable needs and aspirations of the individual.

Quite a large order, isn’t it? Without a good start, we’ve made a good job. Fortunately, too, that we have the ablest state far-sighted leaders who have insight into the problems we must wrestle with and who have the vision which will enable us to cope with these problems in the future.

Already we are doing a good job of dealing with the problems in which students’ problems lie. In the elimination of the various activities in which we are engaged, we have made steady progress. We are becoming increasingly concerned with the development of programs which will enable us to do an even better job of counseling.

Although details of the programs and activities of personnel services at M.S. are still being developed, there is reason to believe that effort will be made in the near future of those services. More harmonious relationships will be brought among students, faculty members and administration. This is being combined with a program which will be initiated that fall.

This is the task of the counseling program, which is to be integrated with the regular curriculum. The counseling program will be an integral part of the regular curriculum, and will be carried on by the regular faculty members.

Top House Ees to Receive Awards; Mills to Speak at Honor Banquet

By JUNE WILKINSON

Many organizations on campus clown this year with a banquet spring term. Home Ec club has been doing this for many years, each time honoring outstanding costs in the division.

At this time, Home Ec's exhibit their talent in artistic cues to make the event a success; also an outside speaker is invited. This year Mrs. L. E. Mills, state president of the American Association of University Women, will be the guest.

Officers to Be Installed

However, the highlight of the evening is the unveiling and installation of new club officers. Eleven awards are given to deserving women, seven are given to junior women, three to sophomores, and one to a freshman.

One freshman is chosen by the faculty as being outstanding enough to deserve the Dunforth award, which entitles the winner to attend the American Youth Foundation camp at Stetf, Michigan.

A similar award is given a junior. Also honored are the 12 junior women who have been chosen to attend Merrill-Palmer schools the coming year.

One of these women will receive the Home Economics Club Scholarship Award.

Funds Promoted

The income of two scholarship funds are presented to two junior women. The Anne Rayes award is for a need in the showing department who is normally or wholly self-supporting; the Louise Campbell award is for a 4-H or rural student who has attained the highest academic standing in her junior year.

Several women may receive the Kellogg Foundation scholarships, and the Zonta Founding presents $25 to the outstanding junior.

To deserving sophomores are three awards. Omicron Nu presents the Snyder cup to a need who has proved worthy in leadership and scholarship during her freshman year. The income of two funds set aside by Nathan Kellogg are given to women who have some superior work in clothing and in foods and nutrition.

Don't be a tradition breaker—no smoking on campus.

Allies Take Villages as Germans Withdraw

ALLIED HDQ., NAPLES, May 10 (AP)—The German high command appears to have given up the Area Avellino river in a second day of withdrawal of Allied forces. German losses have continued to grow and the Allies are continuing to press the pursuit, Allied headquarters announced today.

The German retreat has ranged up to 110 miles from their line at last announced several days ago. Latest reports said some Allied forces have been well beyond it more recently.

In their advance behind the withdrawal lines, British and American forces occupied Palena, Pallacorse and San Angelo and at last report was moving directly toward the important German base of Bosa, which is 11 miles beyond Palena and about 52 miles from the Adriatic coast.

Allied troops also seized high ground near the hamlet of Gambatesa, two miles northeast of San Angelo on the road to Palena.

Competent military quarters declared the Nazi withdrawal appeared to be without significance beyond the withdrawal of troops and will not eliminate a salient in the rugged mountains where lack of transportation made large scale operations impossible.

Refined Ambivalent

The Allied radio late today has speculated on the possibility the invaders will offensive in Italy, also were digging in and making additional buildings on the west bank of the Rapido river just south of Cassino in the Fifth Army front. Screened by smoke behind a German man working parties felled trees to block the Allied advance.

Heavy German mortar fire and a week-end gas attack engagements were reported from various points in the south of Italy.

An Allied patrol with supply trucks reached the west of Casamore on the Anzio beachhead and destroyed four enemy tanks before withdrawing.

1,125 Athletic Awards New in Armed Services

RALPH R. Young, athletic di- rector, released the latest list of the number of athletic awards given this season in the armed services. The number is May 1 the number totalled 1,125.

This does not include the several hundred more who were substitutes, and did not receive awards. You may be asked that this mark on a per capita basis, is equal to that of any college mark in the country.

281 Singers to Take Part in Annual Choral Festival on Campus Today

The annual Michigan state choral festival, sponsored by the Michigan school music association, is being held on campus today. A large number of high school groups from all over the state will take part in the massed performance that will fill the huge Memorial Fieldhouse.

The class A chorus has 29 singers, while class B has 28, and class C 44.

Student bodies include 17 groups, sponsored by the fraternity advisers, the IFC and the IPC, and the office of dean of men.

Orientation of students will be placed on a continuation basis.

Food and housing problems will be handled in such a way that more healthful living will be assured.

An accurate report system will enable us to see our personnel picture as a whole.

The vocal and instrumental residencies will be worked out by the fraternity advisers group at State, to co-operate with the undergraduates in the residencies.

The conference will open Sat-urday morning at 10:30 with the registration of visitors in the main hall of men’s offices. It will be concluded Sunday morning by the various discussions and recommendations.

Highlights of the two day gathering will be dinner Saturday in the Union dining room at 6:30 p.m. The principal speaker at the banquet will be Rev. John J. Halbreich.

Throughout the day on Saturday and Sunday the names of representatives, undergraduates and seniors will discuss the various points proposed by the advisory committee and brought before student fraternity members at the last of meetings recently completed.

Town Girls Plan Dessert

The town girl officers installation dinner will be held Fri- day evening. All women are expected to buy tickets not later than 5 p.m. Thursday, accord- ing to Eloise Walton and Beth- any Bearbeall, East Lansing freshmen.

In the final analysis, the standards of health will be raised, health services will be expanded and health will be given material status with physical health.

Expert counseling service will be provided in connection with personal and vocational matters.

The final report of the conference will be placed on a continuation basis.

All questions, food and housing problems will be handled in such a way that more healthful living is assured.

An accurate report system will enable us to see our personnel picture as a whole.

But who knows? Perhaps one day we shall succeed in MSC in bringing to maturity and "gone through" Michigan State College college. But who give visible evidence of the fact that "Michigan State College has grown through them."

These men will need trained speech correctionists to work with. Speech clinicians are being trained on the campus at the present time.

Many persons who had minor ailments caused largely by bad or incorrect speech habits are being treated by speech therapists. Inherited deficiencies and those who are more serious and may take years to cor- rect, records also aid foreign students to find out if their English is satisfactory. The clinic has been attended by students from Haiti, Dominican Republic, Peru, Bolivia, Cuba, Chile, Canada, China, and Chile.

Significantly, the clinic has been held in several nearby towns and villages in order to enable them to correct their own speech habits. The clinic at State also gives hearing tests to selectees from the foreign language section, according to Mrs. Nessman.

SPEECH

No Back to Offices Again

CHICAGO, May 10 (AP)—Board Chairman Sewall Avery came back to his Montgomery Ward and Company headquar- ters today and declared the last important issues in the controversy that led to government attack of the firm’s Chicago office must still be determined.

Twenty hours after labor organizations had relinquished ownership of the plants and 13 days after he was carried out of St. Luke’s hospital, Avery returned to his office and issued a statement.

He asserted the War Labor Board has “thus far been so grossly unfair” in its proceedings and has not fulfilled the duty of its office.

Records also aid foreign students to find out if their English is satisfactory. The clinic has been attended by students from Haiti, Dominican Republic, Peru, Bolivia, Cuba, Chile, Canada, China, and Chile.
