Today's Campus

If you have seen any paint brush specimens treating campus, you can almost guarantee that some painter's convention in session at State, Fe has found a new home. The painting business is so heavily involved that every week some fresh coat of white paint is applied.

All the Same

When the semester begins, the big stories are big, but a freshman who works in a dorm can tell you several times as much as he knows. Probably the best release of the week would be presided over.

Nye's Winning Book to Appear

In Print Soon

President B. S. Nye, assistant professor of English, received word that his biography on "George Bancroft," will be on the press Aug. 14.

George Bancroft, one of America's first historians and distinguished statesmen, was a man of the time, and the events of his life were of great importance to the nation's cultural and political development. His life story is a reflection of the 19th century.

Nye's recent book, "George Bancroft," is a thousand dollar prairie of the Kropf Publishing Company of New York. Professor Nye has spent many months in numerous universities and private libraries, looking for Bancroft's writings.

Professor Nye, beginning Sept. 1, will be on leave from MSC for one year as a recipient of a fellowship of $4,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation.

New York plans to gather information about Theodore Roosevelt, a man who spread political libraries in the colonies and left movements for the freedom of the press and the abolishment of slavery.

Morgan Ginggrass Will Return To MSC Varsity Athletics

First Enrollment Hits Record High

For Early Date

Admissions of new students for state's fall quarter, starting Sept. 15, are 23 per cent greater than last year. R. S. Linton, college registrar, anticipates a record new student wartime enrollment of women reaching 3,000 this autumn for the present total of 3,038 students, as compared with 1,140 a year ago. 178 more enrolled women will be at State than there were at the date last August.

In accounting for this increase Registrar Linton believes many women, who were not working during wartime jobs and have saved sufficient money to finance their college educations, are finding there is more money available for college education than there was before the war.

Most of the 114 men registered are (7-year-olds, 4is, or dis- charged from service) being reviewed for the degree. Linton registro Linton has R. E. Crose, registrar of students, recently stated that the newly enacted "C. I. Bill of Rights" has been well received by all and is greatly preferred.

The newly-founded library was established last Thursday, July 1, and on Sunday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., the building was on the second floor of the music building.

Four More Basketball Tilts Added To Spartan Schedule for 1944-45

Spartan athletic hopes are on the upswing this week as a result of the announcement of the return of Morgan Ginggrass, former varsity fullback in 1941 and 1942, to school, and the unveiling, yesterday, of four more football games for this winter's cage team.

Head Coach Charlie Rachman continued to be elated over the ever-increasing interest for the grid squad. More than 60 men had drawn uniforms and prepared for the big offensive and defensive candidates when the fall season opened.

Ginggrass, former Marquette halfback, high school back, dropped out of college at the end of his junior year and was working in a money-making business which he had been married and is now working at a Lansing wire plant.

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

BY BARBARA DIETZ

AST WEEK when an irate student member of the State News staff volunteered to write a letter to the students of Michigan State, I made the bet that he would not do anything about it or even attempt to write a reaction. If anyone had been fool enough to disagree with such an obvious statement, I could be rich today, because I was exactly right. There isn’t one student at Michigan State who has been brave enough to voice his own opinions. Back in the days when I was a freshman, and they weren’t pre-war days either) the days when a man was a man and a woman was enough of one to demand the last word in any controversy, the students of MSC were slightly interested in what went on about them.

At his point some brave soul is going to argue that now there are fewer men and more women in college and that some of them are no less interested in the battle of the sexes than ever. It’s true that there are less men and more women, and of course it isn’t true that the battle of the sexes is a thing of the past. But it is too hot in the South Pacific and an awful lot of things are going on there that make the little concerns at home seem less necessary.

Over here there are less men and less activity, and of course it is not true that the battle of the sexes is a thing of the past. But it is too hot in the South Pacific and an awful lot of things are going on there that make the little concerns at home seem less necessary.

IJC Sponsors Golf Tourney Next Week

Indian Rivers Citizens to Be Scene of Contest Between Greeks

The first interfraternity sports activity since World War II will set under way tomorrow when the interfraternity council will go over applications for campus events.

Professor Jack Carr, Detroit Central, IJC president, announced that Fraternity may not enter the competition as a team. The determination will be one of individuals and will be a blind draw.

Fraternity representatives to the council are asked to turn in the names of all in their group interested in entering the tournament. Tuesday at 7 p.m. in organization room two of the Union.

The council will then draw names of players at random and the men chosen in the pairs will form a team and play together regardless of fraternity affiliation. The man with the lowest score will be the winner.

Roser to Get Prize

A dinner will be awarded to the winning couple. The purpose of the tournament, according to Prof. Carr, is to promote fraternity consciousness and fellowship as well as to enjoy golfing.

A series of players will be given next week’s V-Mail, and the same dinner will be awarded to the winners.

Union Cafeteria Keeps MSC Students Healthy, Wealthy

Blue Plate Specials Lack Wide Popularity

By ANNE KEE

"To budget or not to budget, that is the question." With apologies to Shakespeare, we must admit that to the average summer school student who eats in the cool, pine-walled Union cafeteria this is not a burning question.

He does not budget, as borne out by the fact that the most popular dishes in the cafeteria this summer are not the cheapest, but the most expensive.

Three or four years ago the reverse was true. The so-called "specials" offering budget-wage combinations at an attractive price are bought by only 25 per cent of the customers of the cafeteria. Frequently these budget-specials cafeteria frequenters supplement the specials with this or that tasty tidbit from the tempting line-up, thereby upping the total of their meal considerably.

Sandwiches Popular

However, since the grill has closed its doors to the hungry college public, sandwiches and light refreshments have become very popular at the cafeteria.

"Milk—the perfect food!"—so state the surveyed nutrition specialists. Trusting implicitly in the word of a higher authority, the average MSC student, summer term or regular year, shows a marked preference for milk, so the sales of beverages at the cafeteria are up. In fact, for both cooking and drinking purposes, the milkman delivers to the cafeteria alone at least 1,500 quarts of milk a week.

In hot weather, iced tea runs milk a good second, but of course in the nippy days of winter good hot java have none of its traditional popularity.

Tomato Basil Stew

Among the fruit juices, tomato juice ranks first, although if the elusive Ultra-Fresh Florida tomato juice could be had, and the tomatoes could be found, the tomato juice would return to sec-
