Nation to Get 83 Billions as 1946 Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—President Roosevelt groped ahead today into a fiscal year that won't even begin until six months from now and pulled out a "tentative" budget of 83 billion dollars.

This would be a drop of 17 billion dollars from the present year, but would increase the total war spending program (1941 through 1946) to the gigantic total of 450 billion dollars. This is nearly half a trillion.

War Prediction Lacking

You could read the president's annual budget message forty ways and you wouldn't find a prediction as to the length of the war.

Yet estimates of government spending in fiscal 1946 evidently are based on a hope that Germany will give up some time within the next 18 months, because—

War spending was estimated at 70 billion dollars, about half way between the best and the worst that might happen. The president told Congress that war costs could be less than 60 billions or more than 80, depending on various assumptions as to the war.

Presumably they would be 80 billions if we had to keep fighting on all fronts throughout fiscal 1946. But the president chose 70 billions as his tentative estimate. The whole budget leans on that figure.

The president said—in fact he said twice—that "the rate of actual spending must depend on developments on the battle fronts."

Details Postponed

Because of the battle-smoke haze of uncertainty, the president postponed until early spring his detailed recommendations for war appropriations. He merely told congress he thought 73. See—BUDGET—Page 4

College Offers Exam to Underclassmen and Grad Students

The graduate record examination will be offered to students on Jan. 26 and 27, according to Paul L. Dressel, counseling head. All new graduate students must take the examination, and it is also recommended for seniors who plan to do graduate work.

Sophomores who are experiencing difficulty in choosing their major are frequently aided by the examination since it reveals ability in the various subject-matter fields. However, the examination is open to all students.

Since many graduate schools insist that such an examination be taken, it will be offered again during the spring term and seniors may take it at that time.

All students interested should make application at the counseling and examinations office in the Administration building before Saturday.

Huge American invasion forces landed on Luzon, principle island in the Philippine group, according to a report from MacArthur's headquarters last night. Japanese radio has claimed for the past week that Yanks were concentrating Lingayen gulf and bombarding the coast. The radio added that other "powerful enemy convoys" were cruising westward south of Mindoro and in Mindanao sea.

Herb Hoxie, hubby of Helen Miller Hoxie, obviously doesn't have much faith in the wife's home ec training in a cheaply budget-making. When the newly wedded couple were visiting the Pi Phi house Sunday afternoon, Helen ventured to ask Herb for a bit of money. Simple, but firm, came his reply. "Where's the 10 cents I gave you yesterday?"

SWL Announces Date for Annual Carrousel

Cossack Chorus To Open Term's Concert Series

The world famous Don Cossack chorus will appear in College Auditorium Saturday at 8:15 p.m. as the first number on the lecture-concert series for winter term, according to S. E. Crowe, series director.

A diversified program including religious chants, modern Russian love songs, and marches, will be presented by the chorus which is making its third appearance at Michigan State.

Under the direction of Serge Jaroff, often called the "Tom Thumb" of the Russian giants, the group is now on its 15th tour of the United States since it was formed 25 years ago.

In 1926 a group of Russian soldiers from the Don river valley, stationed near Constantinople were banded together by Jaroff to sing the songs of their homeland to help erase their loneliness. The fame of the chorus grew and it later was made the official choir of the Orthodox Cathedral of St. Sofia. Since that time the Don Cossacks have traveled the globe, singing the songs of Russia.

These singing soldiers have recently embraced the land of their adoption in both thought and deed. Some seasons ago they disheveled with their beards, and during the past year have taken to call as American citizens.

Roy Fraleigh Killed Fighting on Leyte

Word has been received here this week that Pfc. Roy Fraleigh of Detroit was killed on Leyte island Nov. 24, where he was fighting with the infantry.

A member of the class of '44, Fraleigh is remembered as playing first string end for State's football team in '41 and '42 before leaving college to enlist in the army. He was also a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and Varsity club.

The college carrousel, which received rousing applause at its initial appearance last year, will be held Jan. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the Union ballroom, according to Kitty Mitchell, East Lansing senior and president of Spartan Women's league.

Violinist Shows Skill in Recital Before Capacity Audience

Exact measures of Johann Sebastian Bach's "Sonata in E Minor" were capably executed by Romeo Tata, violinist, playing to a capacity audience in the Music auditorium last night. As his first number, the sonata offered Tata full opportunity to demonstrate his careful interpretation of the classical period of musical composition.

Roy Underwood, head of the music department, came to the piano to play the three movements of Grieg's "Sonata in C Minor" with Tata. Passionate and appealing, the romantic movement came to its full maturity under the fingers of the two performers.

Tata's precision on high notes was exceptional in "Havanaise" by Saint-Saens, for which he was rejoined by his accompanist, Ruth Doak. Turning to modern composition for his final selections, Tata played "Bagatelle" by Scarlattescu, "Four Preludes" by Schostakowitsch, and "Rondo" by Mozart, as arranged by Fritz Kreisler.

Included in the encores were "Nocturne" by Boulanger and "Prayer" from "Te Deum" by Handel. Miss Doak handled the accompaniments for the entire program with skill.—B.F.

LETTERS To The Editor

TO the Editor:
 Last term you printed a series of letters to the editor concerning the lack of tickets to the student lecture series. It seems to us that the situation is getting steadily worse and worse.

The student who comes out of that line at the Administration Building with a ticket is lucky and rare. We had been led to believe that these concerts and lectures were for the students and we would like to get into one and see what they're all about.

In past years a section was reserved for townspeople and the students sat anywhere they liked in the rest of the auditorium. Interested students came early and got seats.

The lecture-concert series seems to us to be more and more for the benefit of the townspeople and harder to get into for us.

Can't some better arrangements be made? Let's have immediate action, we don't want to miss those good programs coming up.

TO the Editor:
 I have here in front of me some excerpts from current issues of the State News sent to me by a State student. Her only comment was "disgusting."

For my part, and I'm sure I speak for all State students who are in the service, finding their time until they can get back to school, I think "disgusting" is a gross understatement. I certainly wish they could have a liberal dose of army life. I'm sure they'd learn fast that no one person or group of persons can be bigger than the whole.

As for this deal of twisting 18 year old adolescent's arms because they won't conform to policies inaugurated and applied by men far better than they. I have a feeling that twisting of something more substantial, namely backs, would be appropriate.

During my fresh year, fear of a swift and thorough dunking made us aware of the Varsity club's presence. For Mr. Shipper's benefit, the poor dear, I have only this to say: let him make the varsity football team and then judge for himself if these men should be allowed privileges accorded those worthier. Monday morning quarter-backs are cheap.

In my humble mind's eye this "juvenile" should, as Messrs. Hueschen, Kean, Prachaw, and Piccutto so aptly put it, "feel quite free to acquire his education elsewhere." When we, the service men of today, return to what we earnestly feel is our college, we want it to be the same fine congenial institution it was when we left.

May these words be brought to the attention of all who are either with or without their knowledge, tending to make State into a run-of-the-mill school.

SPEAKING FOR MYSELF

By BARBARA DENNISON

ONCE again the matter of students not getting seats for a lecture concert performance has been brought to the attention of the college. The complaint was heard long and loud at regular intervals and started again this term.

The situation is not what it was when the procedure for tickets was changed. It will be those who get the seats first.

There are those persons who have suggested that no tickets be issued to students, but let those who come first to the performance get the seats, and turn the others away. There are two flaws to that argument.

First, before the persons admitting students could know that there were no more seats left, many would be inside and would want to stand during the performance. That is against safety measures in a room which normally holds more than 5,000 persons.

The second objection is that the students who suggest this plan object to standing in a line at the administration building to obtain maybe a ticket. Is it any better to walk over to the auditorium and then maybe get turned away? No matter how early some persons do, others are always going to be too late to get a seat.

Also, students do not seem to understand or willingly accept the fact that it is the seats sold to the townspeople which pay for the first-rate programs and speakers brought to the college. It would hardly be fair to deprive a part of the town's many of the same opportunities that we rebel at being kept away from.

When it was announced last week that three additional programs have been added to the

Counter Drive May Affect Resistance

General Bradley Says German Move May Alter War Length

WITH THE 12TH ARMY GROUP, Jan. 9 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, breaking his silence regarding the German counteroffensive which was aimed at splitting the Allied line in his 12th army group sector and today that counteroffensive move "may materially affect the Germans' ability to resist."

Gen. Bradley, who was awarded the Bronze Star by General Eisenhower today for his leadership in halting the Germans' attack at a press conference that Germanys ability to prolong the war may have been reduced. He added quickly that this did not mean the Allies could "assume the Germans are on the verge of collapse."

Much Fighting Waits

There is much hard fighting ahead, Bradley warned.

Bradley told newsmen covering his group headquarters that following the Ardennes front breakthrough, the Allies took heavy losses in military terms. He said the situation was a "highly calculated risk," striking to the north and south of the front troops instead of attacking them in the then quiet Ardennes sector.

"The unique — of striking the Germans taking calculated risks," he declared, "is what has happened in the German border. If we had followed the German's lead, we would have been in the 'vest of Paris.'"

German Losses Are Heavy

German losses in men killed, wounded and captured since the breakthrough into Belgium and Luxembourg Dec. 16 are many times those of the Americans," he said.

Bradley said in halting the German penetration against the Ardennes described as "one of the most serious in the history of the world."

Americans Get Credit

Bradley gave the full credit for the German attack in the Ardennes to the American forces which he said had been weakened to the point where the German first and third armies could have broken through Germany, had he not been there, he added.

"If any counterattack had been made in the Ardennes could be made if it had done too much damage and this is exactly what happened."

Football League To Revise Rules

CHICAGO, Jan. 9 (AP)—The rules committee of the National Football League today turned down a proposal to abolish the extra point and settle for a "safer" death-kick rule. The committee also rejected a proposal for an "instant" season penalty for a referee's error.

When action on the 11 rules proposals is completed, the committee will be required to recommend to the league's owners.

It was rumored that the death-kick rule would be replaced by a "safer" rule, but the committee decided to keep the extra point. The committee also rejected a proposal for an "instant" season penalty for a referee's error.

Another major change approved was one simplifying substitutions any time when the clock is running, provided the substitutions are completed before the ball is snapped. This would not be permitted, however, in the last two minutes of either half. Violations would not be charged as time-outs, but a penalty would be inflicted for having more than 11 men on the field.

series for the remainder of the year, and that students could attend by paying two-thirds of the price instead of being admitted on their student receipts as usual, there was a terrific kick on the part of some.

The best solution to the plan would be to offer two performances of each event, and to reserve one of the downstairs sections in front for townspeople and leave the other for students, as was done in years past, instead of having both for outside patrons.

It is logical to assume that such an arrangement is next to impossible for the remainder of this lecture-concert season, but next year many things may change, we hope.

Besides, things are tough all over.

Collegiate Teams Argue Over Use Of Pro Athletes

NEW YORK, Jan. 9 (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association has no specific interest in the basketball controversies now centering around Hamline, Minnesota, Colby and Ohio universities because they are using professional athletes, NCAA Pres. F. O. Badger said today.

All have pro baseballers on their court teams, with Hamline and its Howard (Stretch) Schultz, summer-time first baseman for the Brooklyn Dodgers the most widely known case.

"Our members make their own eligibility rules and while I think the schools in question have gone a bit too far in the present cases, they have not violated NCAA rules because we have no rules," explained Badger.

In keeping with that opinion, New York University, a school faculty Badger is a member, has Ralph Franca, a pitcher with Brooklyn last summer, on the bench this season. A year ago Franca was a star of the NYU team and still has a year of eligibility left.

Badger, who left today for Columbus, O., and the association's first full convention since Pearl Harbor, said the NCAA did have eligibility rules for its basketball tournaments and that they prohibited use of professionals in such play-offs.

Don Ferris, secretary of the AAU, gave CUNY permission but ruled all other kinds of return AAU events. Ferris under Hamline would be ineligible for college and Texas Christian subsequently and they would not play Hamline.

Americans Close on Nazi Supply Gap, Escape Highway in Belgian Salient

Blizzard Slows Fight As Germans Strive to Block Threat

PARIS, Jan. 9 (AP)—American doughboys and tanks drove through a paralyzing blizzard today to within less than three miles of the Germans' last main supply and escape highway in the Belgian salient and tonight Field Marshal von Rundstedt was reported hurriedly shuttling armored forces from the Bastogne area to meet the threat to his lifeline.

A field dispatch from Roger Greene of the Associated Press tonight declared that "the next 12 to 24 hours may provide the turning point in the great battle that began Dec. 16 when von Rundstedt launched his surprise blow."

Snow Is Deep

The American forces threatening the enemy's only lateral highway out of the potential trap were pushing through snowdrifts four and five feet high south of the potential trap.

Ten miles west of the American thrust toward the vital highway the famed "hell on wheels" second armored division was locked in a furious armored battle for the crossroads hamlet of Samree, three miles northeast of Laroché.

British Face Weakness

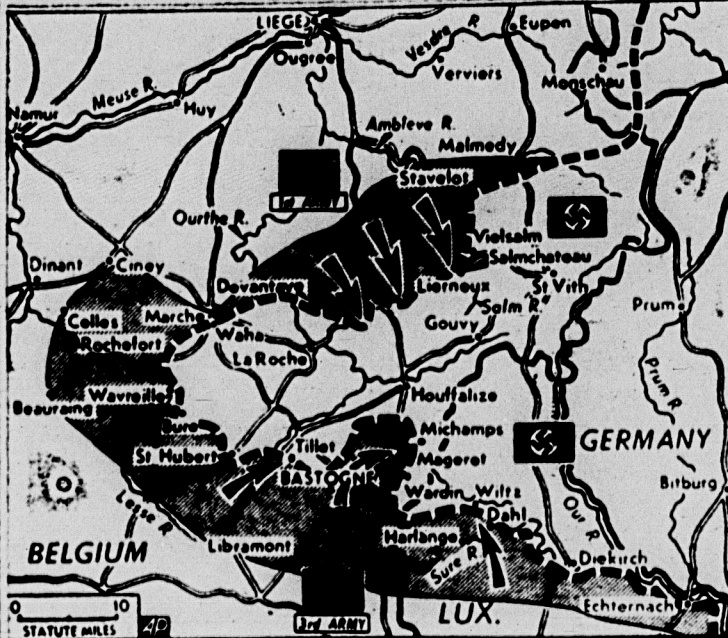

British forces hammering in on the western nose of the salient met weak opposition for the second straight day, the Germans withdrawing nearly a mile south of the Hottot-Marche sector. British infantry took the village of Cheux, five miles east of Marche, and cleared the entire Nolaumont forest nearby.

With British capture of high ground northeast of Grimblemont, midway between Marche and Laroché, German armor began quitting the area.

Other towns and villages along the northern flank of the salient which fell to the advancing Americans and British included Regne, Sart, Verleumont, Marcourt and Dochamps.

On the southern flank of the salient the enemy put up much stiffer resistance and Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's third army was held to minor gains north and east of Bastogne. The 101st airborne drove a half-mile in taking Recogne, three miles north of Bastogne.

First Army Presses Nazi Salient

Arrows indicate where American troops are pressing against the German salient in Belgium and Luxembourg. On the north the first army cut the St. Vith-LaRoche highway east and west of the Liege-Houffalize road. Southwest of Stavelot first army troops drove to heights west of Vielsalm and Salmchateau. Slight gains were recorded on the southern line of the front. Shaded area is that retaken by Allies since German push ended.

PHILIPPINES

"The enemy evidently had not prepared for a landing in the Lingayen sector," the communique reported, "and, as a result of this strategic surprise, our landing losses were insignificant."

"We are now in his rear. His main reinforcement and supply lines to the Philippines are cut and his ground fight on Luzon will have to be made with such resources as he now possesses there."

Against light opposition, made so by terrific warship and aerial attacks, the troops hit the Luzon beaches at 9:30 a.m.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today in his communique the eagerly-awaited news that the transports had disgorged the troops on the island on which are Manila, Bataan and Corregidor.

BUDGET

The president estimated that "non-war" spending in fiscal 1946 will be $13,103,000,000.

He sent detailed requests for appropriations of approximately the same amount to take care of those expenses.

Cost at Peak Now

And that brought the total of appropriations estimated for fiscal 1946 to $86,676,000,000. This would be 110 billion less than the estimated appropriations of fiscal 1945 which is now half over. The record amount of appropriations was for fiscal 1944—$128 billion. We are still spending that.

It was clear from the president's message that even if the war roars along on all fronts throughout the fiscal year, war costs—and thus total costs—will be less than the all-time peaks of the present year.

Those peaks are: total government spending of 100 billion dollars; war spending of 89 billion dollars.
