

Turks Declare War on Nazis, Japs at Last

Big Three Conference Held Responsible for End of Neutrality

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Turkey declared war on Germany and Japan tonight after nearly six years of neutrality, frankly admitting the declaration was the result of the "Big Three" as a result of admission to the security conference at San Francisco in April.

It was felt that the weight of the Pacific war as soon as it was crushed, the Ankara government implied strongly that the Soviet Union was aligned with Britain and the United States, demanding that still-neutral Turkey declare war on Germany as well as Japan.

The world organization will not hinder Allies in their military importance.

The Turkish assembly approved the declaration. Foreign Minister Hasan Saka said that Turkey had agreed on being a qualification for the United Nations. He pointed out that in the past the decision had been presented as well as Turkey.

It was reported that President Roosevelt had called the conference on the subject of Turkey's declaration of war on Germany and Japan, including Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Transjordan.

It was stated that Russia and the western Allies in their declarations of war on Germany and Japan, as well as a statement by the Ankara radio.

... Mardon Me Padam?

They say the telephone is a wonderful invention but at times it is amusing at least. Not long ago an operator perturbed a sailor or calling from Notre Dame by telling him there was no EFK house on Mack street in East Lansing but the one that really lepped it was when a coed received a letter from a friend informing her that he had tried to call but had been told that no one answered the telephone at the Nigh Ohinga society home.

... A Woman

For the first act, read yesterday's State News. . . . The answer, Dimmick, Aimeia, W.S. sophomore got always from Toni Proccisi, was that sophomore, after presenting her wtin a poem is as follows: Her eyes were beautiful, lovely, just what I could use them, for they were a fright. You know that a woman must give the last word, And I think any different is simply absurd. So I thought and I thought how to stop your reply. And I decided to first stop your shining eye. These blunders will keep them from straying to heels, And I will have more efficiency in the serving of meals.

'Behind Scenes' Crew Struggles On Term Play

BY HELEN TURNBLOW

Present Appearance, the winter term play scheduled for Friday and Saturday, March 2 and 3 in the University theater gives to the "behind scenes" gang numerous responsibilities in the way of tricky props and stage layouts.

This play, the story of a typical movie star and her adventures while on a personal appearance tour, is set in the colonial styled Struther's Tourist home near Greenville, Pa.

The construction crew has been madly chasing down Victorian period furniture, and in keeping with this furniture, a particular pattern in old fashioned wall paper was needed.

To meet this need, the crew, headed by Lansing junior Helen Kroll, along with Dorothy Smucker, Justine Lane, Yvonne Jones, John Swank, Jane Sata, John McLain, Barbara Chandler, Leonard Horn, and Jena Rhoads, Doris Gata, Eleanor MacDonald, Alice Smithey, Nancy Margaret South, Marjorie Atkinson, Gerald Cole, Roberta Hill, and Marie Thamer, pulled out in ingenuity and created a beautiful wallpaper with blue background and red flowers by means of a stencil.

Struther's tourist home would not be complete without a picture of an elderly gentleman of the 1880's, named Aunt Kate Barnaby in the play terms, a "bellhop." This specification placed the proprietress' gang, headed by Polly Monroe, East Lansing, in charge.

Revision Plan for Governing Women Now Underway

A plan to revise the whole governing system for women is underway with emphasis on a more fairly and evenly distributed representation for all women on the AWS council.

Questionnaires have been sent to approximately 20 other colleges asking for information on such subjects as manner and methods of elections, limitations put on women by the judicial board, the participation of women in the student government and the handling of late minutes.

Attention will be given to see that the approximate 300 women living in cooperative and off-campus houses will be heard on AWS as to their particular difficulties not realized by women living in dormitories or sororities.

AWS meetings, held on alternate Wednesdays at 8 p.m. in organization room one or two are open to all women students.

Red Cross Drive Starts for Students

Beginning Monday a Red Cross booth will be in the Union lobby from 1 to 5 p.m. every day during the War Fund drive to receive contributions from all students not living in college residences. All other students should give their contributions to the representatives in their own house or dormitory.

The drive will give every student a chance to say, in a very small way, "Thank you" to the American Red Cross. When one person's contribution is multiplied by 130,000,000, the total equals 150,000 movies shown, 14,000,000 letters, telegrams, and cables sent to anxious families, 65,000 persons aided in home disasters.

The office of secretary will be filled by Frances Finsberger, while Peg Smucker, Rochester junior, is the new treasurer. Miss Finsberger is an active member of Green Splash and Miss Smucker has served as manager for badminton. The new social chairman is Ann Metzger, Toledo, Ohio, sophomore.

Election results were announced by Billie Morley, New Troy senior, retiring president. Miss Morley said that only a small portion of WAA members turned out to vote.

The new officers will be installed at the annual winter term banquet which will be held March 7 in the Union. The new sports manager will be installed at that time also. Further plans for the banquet will be announced later, Miss Morley added.

1st, 9th Armies Use Big Gun Barrage Against Nazis

PARIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—The U.S. first and ninth armies opened the long-awaited Allied drive toward the Rhine today, sending thousands of troops storming across the Roer river in a broad moonlight assault. Light forces once on a broad front 20 to 30 miles from Cologne and Dusseldorf.

The crossing by assault boats, bridges, and amphibious tanks and trucks at 3:00 a.m. followed one of the heaviest barrages ever on the western front, with hundreds of big guns firing from a crowded line that stretched 20 miles to the side.

Satisfactory Progress

The American soldiers moved out foot by foot on the eastern bank in progress, the river almost to the satisfactory.

A front dispatch described the onslaught as a "Roer" battle of attack, "combined with and gun power. The tanks, including the flooded stream and steadily back in a great flood of ground, in a heavy attack had held the river line for a long time.

Accused Lines

Accused Lines, Germany, were met by Gallies, which they combined with Allied troops, already being deployed from the west. The fate of the lines is expected to be decided in the next few days.

United Move

The two armies jumped to the colors. Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' first army crossed the Roer despite of Aachen.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's ninth army crossed from the north to immediate north flank.

Initial crossings were made quickly and with less opposition than expected as the German lines buckled under the tremendous barrage, and troops in the trenches were left lonely.

The Americans found the Roer—which the Germans had tried to convert into a moat—had been filled with underwater spikes, stakes, sticky-choking mines and wire.

In the swift current some boats capsized, swept others downstream, and made it difficult to launch infantry barges.

Little Resistance

From the east bank came mortar fire, but there was less artillery fire than had been feared.

With the crossings the Americans put the two major barriers to the Ruhr and Rhineland behind them—the Siegfried line and the Roer, which the Germans had flooded by blowing upstream dams.

Seniors May Have Lungs X-Rayed

The other day there appeared in the State News a small and non-eye-catching article concerning the opportunity seniors are being given to have their lungs x-rayed by the health center.

No matter how small the article, it is of importance for the senior students to take advantage of his opportunity. It is offered for the convenience of those who will be accepting positions at the end of this term or spring term.

If the films show a positive condition, the student will be notified immediately and may see the films on request. C.B.

Dearest Johnny.

The foreign language department, especially the Spanish division, is bending over backwards with interesting activities. Hunt's Food shop patrons get an excited and careful of strange sounding rattle every Tuesday when members of La Cofradia "speak" for their supper. Imagine going hungry if you couldn't remember the words for "hamburger with everything." It's working out very well, though, and is certainly a novel and funny-filling idea.

Attempting to make it five straight, two straight over Detroit, and eight wins in their last nine encounters, Michigan State's basketball squad will invade Ferndale Lincoln school gymnasium tonight to take on the Titans in the final game of the regular season.

The two quintets of the University boys basketball team should give no trouble to the Spartans tonight. The Titans, employed by the school, had a 10-1 record last night and are expected to put out a strong team.

By other boys' basketball fans, it is expected that the Titans will give the Spartans a couple of weeks' work. They were Jerry Katz and Gene Vandehey.

Coach Ben Van Alstyne will lead the Spartans tonight. He has coached the team since last year. The Spartans are expected to win tonight.

In high school days, Katz was a star player for Detroit Central. He played his way through the Spartans' line, connected with some shots from the floor.

The Spartans are expected to win tonight. They are a strong team.

PLAY

Lansing sophomore, assisted by Pat Beechler, Lu Johnson, Joyce Chapman, Pat Finch, Sally Clark and Marion Parker, in somewhat of a quandary.

However, Sue Averill, Birmingham junior, was ready with the suggestion that their attic might contain just such an article. Calling home, she found that the Averill attic lacked this picture but that the neighboring home did not. Mrs. Averill dug far back into the kitchen cupboard and came out with that almost unheard of loaf sugar, which was also needed for the play, and so two of the play's difficulties were eliminated.

Love Interest

Bud Norton, the tall, dark, and handsome fellow with whom the movie star, Carol Arden, falls in love during her forced stay in Greenville, runs a filling station next door to the farm home. The noises from this filling station are the responsibility of the sound crew consisting of Morris Cooper, Three Rivers senior, Sally Gouge, Birmingham junior, and Frances Joyner, Battle Creek sophomore.

The play opens with the end of a movie, "Daring Lady" in which Carol Arden, played by Marjorie Rice, Saginaw senior, stars. Making such a movie was not beyond the capabilities of the construction gang who called in a film company.

Gamma Phi Contribute

The Gamma Phi Betas did their part by allowing the movie to be shot in their house. Again the sound crew functioned in making a phonograph record to synchronize with the movie. Opposite Miss Arden in the show is Franklin Crawford, played by Dick Straight, East Lansing junior.

Stage manager for "Personal Appearance" is Eleanore Koch, Detroit junior, assisted by June Menutt, Detroit junior, and also make-up chairman, Margaret Bradbury, Detroit senior, is the production manager and promoters are June Wahaven, Bay City senior, Carol Jean Rhomer, Grand Rapids sophomore, and Frances Joyner, Battle Creek sophomore.
