U. S. Ninth Smashes to Rhine, Shelling Duesseldorf Arsenal, Ruhr Basin

Marine Breakthrough Brings Final Stage to Iwo's Costly Invasion

EMPEH, GUAM, Saturday, 2 Mar. 3 (AP)—A powerful breakthrough by the U. S. third marine division at the center of the line on northern Iwo Jima brought definitely in sight the end of the most costly invasion in marine corps history.

In hand to hand fighting, veterans of that division commanded by Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine surged over rough terrain to occupy the western end of the uncompleted northern airfield.

The advance overran the main line of Japanese resistance in that area, Japanese reported to Lt. Gen. Holland M. South, commanding the marine expeditionary force.

After days of vicious fighting, the Leathernecks were in position for the final kill, and a dispatch from Marine Landing, AP, was correspondent aboard the expeditionary flagship.

The third division meanwhile advanced within about 2,000 yards of the island's northern tip. Forward patrols penetrated beyond scattering glimpses of the ocean.

Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cate, fourth marine division on the right or eastern flank was assaulting a 362-foot peak less than a mile from the northeast shoreline. Enemy resistance continued stubborn in all sectors.

German Defenses Collapse Swiftly; Canadians Score

PARIS, Mar. 2 (AP)—The U. S. ninth army, continuing south through cities after capturing America's first steel plant, smashed to the Rhine today and began shelling the big bridge of Duesseldorf after routing the German 15th Army and striking against the Ruhr basin west of the river.

All German defenses before the northward attack of the Rhine Army collapsed and the southern U. S. thrust army was the only one to break through to Germany's interior by capturing the ancient castle of Treves.

The U. S. first army, however, took of Neuss and the steel city of Krefeld near the Rhine, 10 miles to the northwest, both with astonishing speed, along with dozens of other small cities and towns, making munitions and materials for the German war machine.

One column, captaining the Main River, bridged the Waale and Roermond, before which many a British second army soldier died last fall and winter, dashed straight north to within 10 miles of a junction with the Canadian first army.

The U. S. first army, however, more was being out from the first river bridgehead, now 11 miles west of toward Cologne, which was under heavy bomber attack with four days' five bridges destroyed.

John Jacob Niles Program Planned For Tuesday

Presenting a program of folk music, John Jacob Niles, noted author's on music of the southern Appalachian region, will appear in the gymnasium Tuesday at 8 p.m.

A native of the Appalachian region, he sings the songs much as did the settlers who brought them from England, Scotland, and Ireland. Niles has the ability to put his personality and emotions into his singing and he captures and delights his audience.

He plays his own accompaniment on a dulcimer, which he made as an authentic replica of this ancient musical instrument.

Showing his versatility and acclaim from all groups of people, Niles has played for such people as the Franklin Delano Roosevelt family and scholars at Oxford and Harvard. But still he prefers playing for modest-sized audiences of average Americans, for in his opinion, the music rightly belongs to them.

Men Before Monkeys

The Sigma Chi ought to thank themselves as testimonials to the power of a newspaper advertisement for after reading the glowing accounts of a bear to sell in one of the daily papers, they decided to look bear and bear over and purchase a bear as a fraternity mascot. Tanking up on gas they drove to lower Michigan but returned without the prize, for on viewing what they expected to be a manly baby cub, it turned out resemble a monkey more. And they decided that definitely wouldn't be the best for the order.

Weekly Letter to Men in the Service

DEARST JOHNNY,
Your good friend, Doc, just walked out the door with a tall handsome man so I'm taking over for today. Really, I've been looking for a replacement, in sort of a friendly platonic way, of course, but naturally in return for my friendship you can send me cards or by any means.

It's been kind of a dreary week. Dredy in the way that I've been trying to get a date for the senior ball and haven't succeeded as I guess Woody Herman will have to get along without this week. But the news on the other front is good. The Red Cross drive is moving right along with students plenty willing to contribute and Red Cross outfits are as numerous as Dewey buttons were once.

And something new has been added. A French club has taken its place in the international limelight and they're calling themselves Les Francophiles. I wish they'd think up some kind of an honorary for me. At least I can say no in three languages.

Dr. Paul T. Kever was on campus last week and spoke to a small but appreciative audience on China's wartime colleges. You know the one and once was small and it's too bad more students didn't attend, they might have learned a few things.

The term play, "Personal Appearance" was a riot. I snuck over one night during the rehearsals and was real enthused so decided to get there to see them. You would have enjoyed it. You could have whistled at the good looks of the women all you wanted. Yes, Paul has what he needs. Let all of you know, I'm thinking of taking up acting, reason, I'm the type that could play character parts.

AWS is going through a period of toe lifting and has really gone into the subject of opening the whole set-up. Although nothing is settled yet I'll let you know as soon as something does. I've heard how interested you are in AWS. Especially the women part.

Guess this is about all I have to say except next week is the last week of classes and I've seen more people I haven't seen all term while attending the classes. Fact is I've never seen this so much. I can't get out of the habit of talking in a white hat. Watch the sky for the sign of the rainbow, it's coming. Mr. McGuire won't believe it.

It's been just peachy writing you and by the way and let me know if you want my picture. Anything like that.
Peace infinitely yours,
Doc
