Accentuating

There may be a very graceful and on-guard has been perceived and students in Miss Thelma Bishop's 10 to 11 a.m. class have been probable working hard all term to achieve that perfection. They were mightily perturbed yesterday in their last period of the term to hear Miss Bishop singing—"Don't come in." They still don't know whether it was a coincidence or not.

Shades of Dali

Modern painting is sometimes hard to understand, at least it is for those members of Prof. J. J. Garrison's art 265c class who are not art majors. Flashing a slide on the screen which, to the uninitiated eye resembled only a swirl of divergent lines and odd colors, Garrison said, "We now turn to the really advanced art of this century." Before he could add more a voice from the class remarked, "Yeah, finger-painting."

Aerial Attack Leaves Tokyo In Flames

21ST BOMBER COMMAND HQ., GUAM, March 10 (AP)—A force of more than 300 American B-29s bombed Tokyo in a surprise raid before daylight today, leaving the capital in "conflagration."

Bombing was visual, in clear daylight.

The raid, the heaviest yet made by the Superforts, caught the enemy capital by surprise.

The B-29s, flying from their bases in Tinian, Saipan and Guam in the Marianas, attacked Tokyo after midnight. Tokyo had its second night appearance over the city.

It was the first announced all-day raid by the sky giants. The bombing force exceeded 100 planes, the number participating in last Sunday's record strike at the capital.

The bomb load also was the heaviest ever dropped in Tokyo, exceeding a thousand tons. There was some speculation that the total may have reached 1,500 tons.

The target assigned and hit by the massive force was an area of five square miles in the center of Tokyo. It contains scores of small industries, factories and other military targets and a population of about 1,000,000.

Students Give $1,290 to Red Cross Fund

Results of the Red Cross War Relief drive show that $1,290 was donated by students during the week that the drive was in progress. Six fraternities, seven societies and seven off-campus groups reached the 100 per cent mark.

Outstanding contribution was the South Campbell donation of $30, the term's proceeds from the Coca-Cola machine. Miss Mary Mayo dormitory headed the individual donation list with $70. Sigma Kappa led the sororities with a donation of $80 and 641 students reached dollar membership.

U. S. Infantry Takes German City on Rhine

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—The U.S. first army today captured Bonn, German cultural center and a city of 101,000 population on the Rhine 14 miles southeast of Cologne.

Bonn, known as the "Harvard of Germany" and noted as the birthplace of Beethoven, fell to the veteran first infantry division after a heavy battle.

PARIS, March 9 (AP)—The U.S. first army drove possibly five miles east of the Rhine today, threatening to explode a breakthrough into central Germany, and also linked up with the third army south of its Remagen bridgehead, trapping an estimated 50,000 enemy soldiers.

As tanks and troops battled beyond the Rhine developing the brilliant capture of the great Ludendorff bridge at Remagen, other forces eight to 12 miles farther south met the third army's 11th armored division at Brohl and the Rhine ferry crossing at Andernach.

West of them in the Eifel mountains, five or more German divisions were caught in a gigantic sack, with roads north, east and south under the guns of converging first and third army infantry and tanks.

With Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, a corps commander on D-day, in charge of the new 15th in an undisclosed sector, Gen. Eisenhower now had nine armies, five of them American, for the final battles of Germany, which even now were moving with gathering speed.

Program on Ireland Scheduled for Final Adventure Feature

As the last attraction of the World Adventure series for winter term a movie, "Here Is Ireland," will be presented the evening in College auditorium at 8:15, according to Dean S. F. Crowe.

Produced by Pat Stanton, this first all-color film ever made in Ireland was compiled during a 3,000 mile tour of the island. It pictures ceremonies and pictures of the country's leaders at work in an attempt to escape the conventional idea of Ireland as a collection of tumble-down shacks and barren moors.

Lewis Covers Broad Field of Authors, Wars

Wyndham Lewis, noted English novelist, philosopher, and critic spoke last night to a near capacity audience in Music auditorium on "Tolstoy, Hemingway, and War."

That this highly touted scholar is brilliant cannot be denied, but that he is an inspiring speaker whose messages enlighten and satisfy an audience is open to question. Perhaps the fact that Lewis read his discourse in an indistinct and rather monotonous voice was responsible for this impression.

Examining the history, problems and theories of war, Lewis so broadened his subject that at times it was difficult for the listener to follow the line of announced thought... that of Tol-

Kimmel to Direct MSC Choir In Schubert Mass Tomorrow

Mendelssohn's 'Elijah' Planned for Spring

By PEG HUMPHREY

Under the direction of Prof. William Kimmel, the 75-voice MSC choir will sing Schubert's "Mass in A Flat Major" tomorrow night at 7:30 in Peoples church.

Although Schubert has been renowned as the greatest of German song writers, he also wrote six masses, two of which have acquired fame. His ability to write songs is evident in the lyrical quality of "Mass in A Flat Major," which has had much to do with making that work a favorite of audiences.

Written in liturgical manner the mass has been sung in the world's great chapels of Austria. The dramatic setting of the text exemplifies the influence exerted by the Italian opera, which had been popular for 100 years. Preference for instrumental music was great in Schubert's day and he has achieved similar effects with variation in the voice parts.

Organ, Piano Accompaniment
As it was written in 1829, it was designed for orchestra and chorus. The present performance will be done with organ and piano accompaniment, by Helen Roberts-Shoell and Gomer L. Jones, respectively.

The mass contains no arias using instead a mixed quartet. Rapid alternation between the chorus and the quartet produces striking contrasts, enlarging the dramatic quality of the composition.

Quartet Named
In the quartet tomorrow will be Jacqueline Bullen, Jackson contralto, Jean Blandford, Grand Rapids soprano, Ted Hart, Vassar baritone, and Carlton Eldridge, Lansing tenor. All four soloists are or have been students of Prof. Fred Patton of the music department.

Former News Editor Awarded Gold Star

Marine Lt. Tom Greene, 42, and former editor of the State News, has been awarded the gold star following the campaign of Saipan in the Marianas, according to word received here recently. The decoration given in lieu of a second silver star, was awarded by Lt. Gen. H. M. Smith, commander of the marine corps.

The star was given Lieutenant Greene for "conspicuous gallantry in action against the enemy while attached to a marine infantry battalion as an artillery forward observer on Saipan on June 23."

stoy and Hemingway and their treatment of war.

"Hemingway is first and last an artist," Lewis declared, "who chooses as his hero the nice, simple, tough, small-town, young American. His style is basically that of the newspaper reporter who inclines to sensationalism... who almost revels in the blood and dust of war and cares too little of what the war is about."

"But through all the violence and mess of war Hemingway does show concern for the common man, for the peasant, and for the economic injustice of life."

Concerning Tolstoy, Lewis stated that, "He was by birth a member of royalty and so the concern for the common man,

Weekly Letter to Men in the Service

March 10, 1945

DEAREST JOHNNY,
 Here I am back on the job again after a week's furlough. My eager friend Dee pinch-hit for me, as you probably know by now, and since I haven't received any letters from you this week I expect you're feeling out some of that well-known love to her.

Last night was the Senior ball and it was a huge success. Woody Herman and Co. woodchopped their way through the evening to the satisfaction of everyone, I believe. After three dances, my date told me that he thought I'd make a better woodchopper than anything else. I didn't know quite how to take that, but I'm thinking seriously of switching my major to forestry.

Next week is final week, so Basic College guinea pigs and upperclassmen alike are beating their typewriters eight to the bar in an attempt to square themselves at the last minute. Once I read in "Believe It or Not" by Ripley of a student who had everything done before final week. Can you imagine that?

We've been having quite a turmoil over the spring vacation. Every time we write home and tell the folks to save up the red points because we'll be needing them soon, the word goes around that we'll have no vacation. Uncle John still says we will, though, as the Michigan State set-up demands a few days between terms for clearing of records, etc. Besides, cancelling the vacation would be a sad blow to the parents who've been saving up spring cleaning and other inspirational tasks until their offspring get home to take over.

State, having gone over the top on the WSSE drive, has been selected as one of 29 other colleges being asked to contribute to the WSSE drive for books to be given to schools in the Philippines. Final week seems like a wonderful time to have it, too. Contributions along the textbook line ought to pour in from disgruntled students.

I suppose you've read about our curfew. New England had nothing on us. I'm glad you got the latest picture I sent you but what did you mean by saying that the finished picture would probably take out lots of those wrinkles? Those weren't wrinkles I sent, you character.

Unflinchingly yours,
PEG
