1,000,000 Nazis Surrender

Eisenhower Says Germany Whipped

Nazi Commentators Tell Germans To Have Dignity Under Occupation

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—More than a million German soldiers of Field Marshal Montgomery's 21st army group front surrendered on this historic May the 4th, bringing hostilities to an end for the Canadian army fighting in Holland and the British 2nd army fighting in northern Germany. It was the biggest mass surrender of German forces since the armistice of 1918.

A German surrender mission headed by Admiral Von Friedberg, commander-in-chief of the German navy, signed articles of unconditional surrender for the German land, sea and air forces, facing the Canadian 1st army and the British 2nd army, at 6:25 o'clock this Friday afternoon. Field Marshal Montgomery signed in behalf of the Allied supreme commander-in-chief, General Eisenhower.

PARIS, May 4 (AP)—All enemy troops in Denmark, Holland and northwestern Germany—more than 1,000,000 of them—surrendered unconditionally today and Gen. Eisenhower declared Germany was "thoroughly whipped."

Art Students Display Work At Art Mart

A student-faculty art exhibit has been shown at the annual Art Mart, Albert Christ-Jones, head of the art department, announced today. The exhibit, which will be held in the art gallery in the music building, will begin tomorrow and will continue until the end of May.

Forty students will have their art work exhibited in the show. They are: Marjorie Johnson, Saginaw sophomore; Jean Phillips, Detroit junior; Jean Harris, Albion senior; Elaine Simon, Wyandotte junior; Dorothy and Doris Renz, East Lansing sophomores; Virginia Gilhooly, East Lansing freshman; Dorothy Gustafson, Farmington freshman; Marion Haglund, Royal Oak freshman; and Deloris Kay, Detroit freshman.

"On land, sea and in the air, the Germans are thoroughly whipped," Eisenhower said in a victorious announcement heralding the approaching end of war in Europe. "Their only recourse is to surrender."

The general of the Allied armies declared disintegration also had set in to the south, where an entire enemy armored division surrendered at the Czech border and the Alpine strongholds of Berchtesgaden, Salzburg and Innsbruck fell in swift succession.

Only Norway remained in the north.

A CBS broadcast from the field said the surrender order was signed by Montgomery and Admiral Von Friedberg, commander-in-chief of the German navy, in a tent on Lüneburg heath just south of Hamburg.

All the Reich that Hitler ruled when he came to power had vanished save for a tiny shred of Bavaria around fallen Berchtesgaden.

Gen. Eisenhower, who brought American armies across an ocean rallied British, French, Polish, Dutch, Belgians in Britain, and invaded fortress Europe, announced the surrender order.

It becomes effective at 8 a. m. British double summer time, (2 a. m. eastern war time) tomorrow.

Said Eisenhower's announcement.

Field Marshall Montgomery has reported to the Supreme Allied commander that all enemy forces in Holland, northwest Germany and Denmark, including Heligoland and the Frisian islands, have surrendered to the 21st army group effective at 6:00 tomorrow.

Women Vocalists Present Program Of Varied Music

Dr. William R. Stead and 112 college women proved to a large audience in Fairchild theater last night that singing can be fun.

The MSC Women's glee club presented a varied and entertaining program, commencing with "Come, Spirits, To His Day" and "Land Ye the Name of the Lord," both solemn and reverential.

The second group was of a lighter nature, and especially enjoyable was the Brahms-Braun number, "Serenade."

Shirley Ryan, junior, music major from South Haven, offered three harp selections, "Et Bateau" by Debussy, "Scherzetto" by Debussy, and the modern, catchy Salzedo composition "Chanson dans la Nuit." The last number included unusual effects of a bell, trumpets, and even sharp, rhythmic skips on the sound board.

The heaviest song was the "Sunken Village" composed by Homer L. Jones and accompanied by him. The last groups of songs were all informal, happy selections, with the finale including participation of the audience in singing directed by Ava Jean Humphrey, Detroit senior. BAF

No Parlez, No Eats, at Le Tricolore Where Students Adopt Francais

Under the colorful name of Le Tricolore, French students and faculty members have brought a little bit of France to the campus.

Organized last term this French club offers an opportunity to eager French devotees to practice their new found tongue in ordinary conversational situations.

Three a month unusual sounds throughout of organization room 214 in the Union where Le Tricolore carries on its entire meeting in French. From the moment members enter the room French takes over as Pres. Janet Smith, Rutherford, N. J. sophomore directs the business part of the meeting in correct French parliamentary procedure.

At each meeting a social program is arranged introducing novel French games that depend largely on using the language.

Hunt's Food shop plays host to the group every Thursday at noon when students and faculty gather to try out their French table manners. These luncheons are open to anyone interested in French. Although if they cannot speak the language they will never get the salt passed to them since all conversation is restricted to French.

Plans for this term include a picnic May 16, at which the sponsors will serve an unannounced French dish. There is talk of rabbits and chickens and unusual French food combinations but the final results are still a mouth-watering mystery.

Mrs. Isabelle Gonon, counselor for women, Renee Kerr, and Mrs. Marcelle Abell, of the foreign language department, take an active interest in the club and act as joint sponsors.

The remaining officers of the club are Doris Grigsby, Detroit sophomore, vice-president; and Marlon Verce, East Lansing sophomore, secretary-treasurer.

Anyone interested in joining Le Tricolore is asked to contact one of the officers.

Summer Time

Time is still confusing enough at East Lansing, but leave it to the British to add further to their complications. On double top of Eastern War Time and Central War Time the reader must consider British Double Summer Time in order to figure out the time of day surrenders.

Angel in Disguise

The student speaking with gestures and a hand grenade in class the other day created an effect but didn't get quite the reception as the coed with two angel-food cakes. After a detailed explanation of "how to make an angel-food cake," she produced the cakes to illustrate her point. The speech instructor was heard to mutter between delicious mouthfuls: "I dare anyone to criticize that speech."

Let's Celebrate When It's Done

President Truman has requested that there be no hilarious celebrations on V-E day, but rather a sober reflection of the thousands of American men who have yet to give their lives in the fight with Japan.

We have fought up hill until now, and victory in Europe reaches only the halfway mark—a war just fifty percent completed. That score would not be passing in any college course.

We have a right to be proud of the successes of our armies in Europe, but their victories should never be excuses for days of hypocritical flag waving. Those who wear their patriotism on their sleeves only desecrate the almost 100,000 American men who have thus far given their lives in the first phase of the war.

Let us turn our full battle strength to the Pacific theater, which seemingly up to this time has been short changed on that score, in an all out purge to wipe the remaining vestiges of Japanese barbarism from this earth.

If you still persist in commemorating V-E day with wild celebrations, look into the eyes of a gold star mother. Then ask yourself, "What have I done to speed this victory?"—WBC.

THE ROAD TO PEACE WKAR Program Summed Up

By ROBERT P. ADAMS
Assistant Professor of English

DURING the month of May the weekly WKAR program, "The Road to Peace," (Sundays, 5:30 p.m.) will present a series of discussions on the part which the United States may be expected to play in the United Nations organization (U. N. O.) which is expected to emerge from the San Francisco conference. This article is an introduction to the May series of programs.

Because the overwhelming "story" in the news today is that of the approaching complete collapse of the Wehrmacht, it is not easy to remember that what is being done in the conference halls at San Francisco is probably more important for the winning of the peace than what is now being done in the ruined cities and mine-sown fields of Germany. For months the only question about the German military collapse has been when it would come. Likewise, unless the Allies become tired or split their alliance, the defeat of Japan, while distant, is equally certain to come in time.

Is the winning of the peace certain? By no means. During the first week of the conference at San Francisco it has become clear that, with the best will in the world, it is not going to be easy to form a workable security organization. Clearly the press and radio reporting of the conference can do much good or evil establishing public attitudes toward U.N.C.

It is already clear that the reporters covering the conference represent three groups. First, there are the thoroughly competent, responsible newsmen, like Walter Lippman, Jay Hayden and Raymond Swing, who realize their responsibility for fair, clear, unprejudiced reporting. The New York Times has sent a staff of the ablest reporters in the world today, and in the Times thoughtful readers will look for the best picture of the conference at work.

Second, there are the reporters from the reactionary and isolationist newspapers, who are out to wreck the conference if possible. These men have already begun to sing their main tune without waiting to see what the U. N. O. looks like. Their piece is made up of a theme and variations on the idea that "the purpose of the conference is to see that we will be in the next war." Isolationism is not dead yet, despite the fact that American failure to support the League of Nations after World War I became a prime reason for the League's ineffectuality in the face of major aggression leading to World War II.

In a class by themselves are the freaks of journalism who have descended upon the San Francisco conference like vultures upon a dead horse. These freaks—self-styled "saloon editors," Hollywood gossip vendors, and a whole menagerie of almost irresponsible columnists who specialize in prejudice—can do enormous damage by distorting the nature and purpose of the conference. The freaks are probably more dangerous than the wreckers, since trouble-making sensationalism, insinuations, the stimulation of suspicion, and the spreading of outright distortion or lies are the freak columnists' stock-in-trade.

During the first week of the conference the freaks have begun to do what they can to enlarge on the sufficiently great difficulties of getting along with the Russians. Example: a "saloon editor" interrupts Mr. Molotov, who was engaged in discussing a serious question asked by responsible reporters, to ask if vodka is pronounced "wodka." Irritated, Mr. Molotov broke off the conference, leaving a number of serious questions unanswered.
