Speech Department Honors Students at Annual Banquet

Outstanding Workers Receive Money Awards For Participation in Radio, Speech, Dramatic Activities at MSC During Past Three Terms

Outstanding students in speech and dramatics received awards last night at the annual banquet sponsored by the Speech club in the Union ballroom. Toastmaster for the evening was Cecil H. Nickle, assistant professor of speech.

Sororities to Sing For Three Judges

Judges for the annual sorority sing to be held tomorrow at 2:30 in the College bandshell will be Margaret Dolley, vocal instructor at East Lansing high school; Forest Rinehart, band director at East Lansing high school, and William R. McIntyre, vocal instructor at Eastern high, chairman Maryhelen Chick, Detroit sophomore, announced.

Singers will be judged on enunciation, 15 points; attack and release, 15; tone quality, 20; rhythm, harmony and balance, 15; selection, 15; interpretation, 15; and appearance, 5. The total number of possible points in 100.

Intermission entertainment will be provided by the Corn Borers from FarmHouse, Gregory Dean, Detroit freshman; Harry Blair, Danville, Ind., junior; Lynn Zimmerman, Fowlerville sophomore; John Bardens, Lowell, Ind., junior; Gerrard Heyt, Grand Rapids junior; Dale Brown, Huron sophomore, and Howard DeWolf, Sedalia, Mo., senior, are in the group.

If it rains Sunday the sing will be postponed to Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the bandshell or College auditorium depending on the weather.

Services in Memory Of Former Spartans To Be Held Tuesday

Memorial services in honor of former State students in the armed forces and especially those who have given their lives during this war, will be held in College auditorium at 11 a.m. Tuesday, S. E. Crowe, dean of students, announced.

The program will be opened by singing the national anthem, followed by the Alma Mater. Chaplain Albert J. Hoffman from Percy Jones hospital at Battle Creek, will lead the congregation in prayer. A mixed chorus of 75 voices will present a few numbers. Pres. John A. Hannah will give a tribute, and Larry Frymire will read the names of the Spartans who have made the supreme sacrifice for the country. Taps will conclude the convocation.

Today's Campus

... Lowbrows Go

Incongruity struck a high note when the FarmHouse "Corn Borers", Spike Jones II, came to the International day dress rehearsal dressed in their Sunday high-go-to-meeting suits, while the other half of their act, the Sigma Kappa "Square Dancers" were dressed in jeans and shirts. The Borers hurriedly assured Director Shirley Caswell, East Lansing junior, that since they'd just come from a banquet they hadn't had time to slip into their zoot suits.

Joe A. Callaway, professor of speech, presented Maxine Eyestone, Lansing senior, and Barbara Chandler, Muskegon junior, statuettes for being the most outstanding students in the field of radio.

Money Awards

Receiving money awards for representing the college in the state prose and poetry contests were Carol Reihmer, Grand Rapids sophomore; Helen Kroll, Lansing junior; John Swank, Eaton Rapids freshman; Ted Brink, Grand Rapids freshman and Darrell Cook, East Lansing sophomore. Mrs. Moiree Comper, instructor in speech, gave out these awards.

Also receiving money awards for representing State in the state contests were orators Sally Cornwell, Lansing freshman; Doris Guth, Ovid junior, and Harold Dachtler, Charlotte junior. Frederick Sorensen, instructor in written and spoken English presented the awards.

Extempore Speakers

Joseph Menchhofer, assistant professor of speech and dramatics, presented the awards for representing State in the extempore speaking contests to Leroy Hamlin, Dearborn junior and Dachtler. He also gave a short talk on the activities of the student forum.

Robert Starring, instructor in written and spoken English explained the year's accomplishments of the men's debating team. Speaking for the women's debating team was Bernard Knittel, instructor in speech. Mrs. Lucia Nesom, professor of speech, spoke on the activities of the speech correction group.

Highlighting the evening was a short skit entitled, "Nightmare in the Speech Department," and starring Jean Granville, Saginaw senior with Bob Kamins, Lansing senior, as the narrator.

Also honored during the evening were the 22 new active members of Theta Alpha Phi, dramatics honorary, who were given their pins by Don Buell, professor of dramatics.

Professor to Continue Research On Old Folklore With Fellowship

College President To Make Address At Baccalaureate

The Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, will address the graduating seniors and guests at the baccalaureate service in College auditorium next Sunday, Pres. John A. Hannah announced yesterday.

The program will open with the procession to Victor Herbert's "Victory March," played by the MSC orchestra under the direction of Alexander Schuster, professor of music.

Dr. D. Stanley Coors, minister of the Central Methodist church of Lansing, will give the invocation; and Jeane Blandford, soprano and Grand Rapids senior, will sing "Agnus Dei," O Lamb of God, by Bizet, before Father O'Donnell's address.

After the nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn, played by the orchestra, Dr. Coors will offer the benediction. The service will close with the recessional march from "Aida" by Verdi.

Dr. Richard Mercer Dorson, professor of history and political science, has received a $1,350 fellowship from the library of congress to continue his investigation of northwestern folktales and legends. The award is one of 10 grants-in-aid for studies in history of American civilization, the funds for which are provided by the Rockefeller foundation.

Dr. Dorson, who became a member of the faculty August 1, 1944, qualified for his assignment on the basis of his doctor's dissertation on New England popular tales and legends, which is now being printed in book form for general distribution by the Cambridge press. Dr. Dorson conducted the historical research for his thesis on a $1,200 Sheldon traveling fellowship.

Dr. Smith Thompson, professor of English at Indiana university, who is now writing a book on American regional folklore has requested Dr. Dorson to write a chapter on "Old New England" which will be included in the work.

This summer Dr. Dorson plans to return to Harvard, where he received his graduate degree, to study additional popular tales and legends of New England.

Beneath This Soil Lie Seeds — In Bottles

Buried 18 inches below the soil of the Michigan State college campus, at a point not disclosed for security reasons, are twenty bottles of soil and seeds.

Planted by Dr. William J. Beal, professor of botany in 1879, the bottles were the beginning of an experiment in seed viability which will not end until 2040 or later when the last bottle will be dug up and its contents planted and observed.

Fifty freshly gathered seeds from each of 20 different herbaceous plants, mostly weeds found growing on or near the campus, mixed with damp sand dug from three feet below the earth's surface, were placed in each of the 20 pint size bottles.

The uncorked containers were placed at 45 degree angles four inches apart, with the mouths slanting downward to allow for drainage.

Buried Scientifically

The original plan was to remove one bottle every five years, but in 1920 it was suggested that the interval of testing be lengthened to 10 years, thus increasing the duration of the experiment by 60 years. Dr. Beal himself dug up the first six bottles before delegating the job to Dr. Henry T. Darlington, professor of botany at MSC, whose first experiment on the bottles was conducted in 1914.

First Period Ended
The 60 year period of Beal's

viability experience ended in 1940 when Darlington dug up the 10th bottle and conducted experiments on its contents.

Ten of the original 20 species of seeds germinated when the contents of the first bottle were dug up in 1884, and 11 species were identified in the 25th year. The number has gradually diminished until in the 60th year, in 1940, four species germinated.

Two of the four were unknowns, which were not among the original species planted in 1879. The theory was offered that they may have been confused with a similar species when the bottles were prepared. See BEAL, Page 3

Pageant to Grasp Spirit of World Understanding

For the first time on the campus an international festival will be presented tonight in Fairchild theater at 8:15.

The program is a pageant consisting of dances, vocal numbers, and novelty skits staged by student talent and outside performers representing the various Allied nations.

Dedicated to the late President Roosevelt, the festival is under the auspices of International club with the assistance of fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations.

To Promote Understanding

The purpose of the pageant is to promote international spirit and aid in the understanding of other peoples. Being held in conjunction with the San Francisco conference, the festival may set a precedent on other campuses throughout the country, publicity chairman Alice Knott, Niles senior, announced.

Lloyd C. Emmons, dean of the school of Science and Arts, will open the program by dedicating it to the late president, and Joseph A. Callaway, professor of speech, will act as narrator.

America's Contribution

Following Emmons, an American square dance will be presented by the Sigma Kappa sorority. The dancers are Barbara DeGraw, Mary Kay Babeock, Betty Butler, Nelly Clark, Dorothy Dearing, Shirley Logan, Lois Mellin, Marjorie Smith and Muriel Wilson. They will be accompanied by the Corn Borers' orchestra. Members of the orchestra who are affiliated with FarmHouse fraternity include: Howard DeWolf, Dale Brown, Harry Blair, Gregory Dean, Gerrard Heyt and John Bardens.

Hawaii will be represented on the program by Maxine Arana, who will be followed by Constance Huddy, Paul Fuller and Mrs. Fred Huddy, singing songs from India. China will be portrayed by Hung-Yun Kuo, and Eugenia Libby.

Russian Songs and Dance

Members of Chi Omega sorority will sing songs from Russia. The members are: Doris Duedrich, Dorothy Langley, Betty Card, Patricia Darr, June Allen, Betty Lou Ruhling and Barbara Quayle. Eleanor Wischka, Kathryn Nolan, Ellen Servicky, Marcella Lewandowski, Virginia McDonald, Molly Moran, Mary Fuss and Joyce Potter of the Newman club will present a Russian dance.

Luella Price, Charles Beder, Charles Bostwick, Eleanor Hammer, Darrell Sook and Dorothy Leathers, who are members of Student club, will represent the Scandinavian countries; followed by Merrill Walker, who will sing an English song, and Barbara Chandler, Floramae Fisher, David Lang and William Thielicke who will give an English vocal skit.

Day of Doom

Today is Saturday, May 26th,
 The day freshmen begin their fall.
 It's tough to think of six-hour tests
 But worse when they mean NOTHING or All.

The end of today is only the start
 Of horrors spread over two weeks.
 Prayers will be many and probably loud
 For the "D" that each of seeks.

Yesterday was sad because it did end
 And today probably won't.
 But hang on, kids, and give'em your best.
 We'll pull out of this gosh-awful nest.
 —Phyllis Smith

LETTERS To The Editor

TO the Editor:
 The State News has committed grave injustices to MSC before, but few as stupid as your lack of coverage of the ballet program of May 19, or the Elijah recital at Peoples church on May 20.

Certainly the two events deserved intelligent criticism and review. Certainly your able and penetrating staff could produce adequate commentary if it would. Why doesn't it? The two programs were among the most exciting performances to be produced here at State, and no word from our daily. Did the sunshine on those two days temporarily blind you?

must be some senior music student who feels qualified to make such observations, an art student who could review art activities, and a drama student who could cover dramatic productions.

Why doesn't the State News see who it can find to write those stories?

Sincerely,
 HELEN GOVER
 Ed. Note: Applications will be accepted in person at the State News office.

STUDENTS

Friends Pay Tribute To College Employee With Words, Gifts

Honoring Frank Mitchell, chief electrician at the college for the last 46 years, 230 guests gathered at a testimonial dinner Thursday night for dinner in the Union ballroom.

Gifts for Mitchell, who will retire on July 1, included a $100 and a $50 war bond, a watch charm in the form of an electric light bulb and a varsity blanket with a block "S" inscribed; Frank Mitchell, 46 years of service to MSC.

The watch charm will serve as a perpetual pass to all events on the campus, particularly to athletic events since Mitchell has taken an active interest in them by either sitting on the bench with the teams or running the score board.

Yank Bombers Turn Heat on Tokyo Target

GUAM, May 26 (AP)—American Superforts turned more heat on Tokyo today with a down-pour of more than 4,000 tons of fire bombs from around 500 planes, making a total of more than 8,500 tons of incendiaries dropped on the city in less than 48 hours.

The Marianas-based B-29s sped over the Nipponese capital at medium altitude in early morning darkness. Crewmen could see the smoldering remains of at least a 3.2-mile area sprayed with 4,000 tons in the record-breaking plane raid early Thursday.

Target for today was the Marunouchi business district, which includes the Imperial government center and many so-called earthquake proof buildings, but most modern in the city, at medium altitude in early morning darkness. Crewmen

Kobsmen Defeat U. of D. Team, 6-5

Keith Steffee Pitches Second Spartan Win From Titans After Ninth Inning Tie

Victorious for the second time in two days, the Spartan baseball team defeated the University of Detroit 6-5 in a game held at Detroit yesterday. State took Thursday's game from the U. of D. team with a 2-0 victory.

Winning pitcher in yesterday's eleven-inning game was Keith Steffee, ace of State's five-man staff, who relieved Bill Page, Muskegon freshman, in the ninth inning. Norm McCormick, sophomore hurler, started the game for the Spartans against Walt Kelly who went the distance for the Titans.

The Titans' defeat gives the Kobsmen a record of nine wins and four losses against the Titan record of six victories and six defeats.

Final scores for the teams were: Michigan State, six runs, eight hits, and four errors; U. of D., five runs, nine hits, and four errors.

The two teams will clash again next week in East Lansing with a pair of games, one Tuesday and one Wednesday.

BEAL

Former digging caused a piece of glass approximately one half inch square to be chipped out of the base of the bottle excavated in 1940, exposing the soil in the bottle to vertical percolating of moisture and bringing the exposed soil in the bottle about seven inches nearer the surface of the ground.

Beal's experiment has attracted considerable attention, in scientific circles and has been mentioned in David Fairchild's autobiography, "The World Was My Garden."

Fairchild, who is the son of George Fairchild, professor of English at Michigan Agricultural college in the middle of the last century and for whom Fairchild Dexter is named, published his book in 1938 and has subtitled it, "Travels of a Plant Explorer."

He refers to Beal as a "gentle Quaker... a born investigator, and one of the first men to stress the advantage of planting only selected strains of trees and other vegetables."

Unlike many men of sudden fame, Beal's name will not run the risk of becoming just another name in the history of MSC, because every 10 years for the next 100 years, a row of buried bottles will serve to remind future generations of Spartans that the work done by one of the college's greatest scientists continues to be studied and exploited.

Spartans Meet Wayne, U. of D. Net Squads

State's netmen faced Wayne and University of Detroit on the courts this week in two series of matches held at the Detroit Tennis club and Highland Park courts, respectively.

MSC racket wielders lost to Wayne's net squad six matches to three. Results of the singles matches were Robert Ryland, Wayne, defeated Harvey Hunyady, State, 6-1, 6-3; Dick Young, State, lost to Delbert Russel, Wayne, 6-love, 6-4; Milton Hoofman, Wayne, scored over Jack McGrath, State, 6-2 6-4; Phil Schreiber, Wayne, defeated Ben Porter, State, 6-3, 6-4; Bill Coleman, State, beat Art Plotkin, Wayne, 6-2, 6-1 and Bob Ballard, State, overpowered Robert Lewandowski, Wayne, 6-4, 6-2.

In the doubles games Russel and Ryland scored over Hunyady and Young, 6-4, 6-2. Wayne's Hoofman and Plotkin also defeated State's netmen, Porter and Coleman, 6-1, 6-1. McGrath and Ballard beat Waggener and Bittenmiller, 6-3, 6-2, for State.

Spartans overthrew the U. of D. net squad winning four matches and losing two. Piling up points for State were Young, who defeated John Halleck, U. of D., 6-2, 6-love, 4-6, and Porter, who won his match by default. Fred Kassner, U. of D. over scored McGrath, 6-8, 13-11, 6-2, and another U. of D. netman, Max Taylor, defeated Hunyady 3-6, 6-6, 6-love.

Playing for State, Hunyady and Young scored over Taylor and Kassner 6-3, 3-6, 6-1. Porter and Coleman won their match by default.

INFORMATION

FESTIVAL REHEARSAL

Everyone connected in any way with the International festival is required to be present for rehearsal at 7 p.m. today in the Union ballroom, according to Shirley Caswell, East Lansing Junior.

HILLEL
Hillel will hold a Palestine night tonight at 8:30 at the Congregation Shaarey-Zedek. Everyone is invited for movies and refreshments.

Board Releases New Information Regarding Comprehensive Exams

Additional information regarding comprehensive examinations has been released by Paul Dressel, chairman of the board of examiners.

Comprehensives will be offered at the end of each quarter for any course in which the third term is being given that quarter.

Students who will take the comprehensive examinations this quarter, must present their photostatic identification card at each session of the exam. Those without proper identification must make previous arrangements for other methods of identification.

Students in the third term of a basic course must take the comprehensive this term unless they have been excused by their dean.

Failure to take the examination will result in an F grade for the year's work.

Notebooks, books and other articles will not be needed for the examination and students are asked not to carry them. Pencils and the necessary paper will be furnished. Fountain pens are desirable for the English exam, but they are not required.

Examination rooms will be open 15 minutes before the hour that an examination is to be offered. Students are asked to be in their seats ready to start taking the tests on the hour rather than 10 minutes after. A student may leave the room when he has finished his exam and need not wait for the end of each three hour session before leaving.

Weekly Letter to Men in the Service

May 26, 1945

DEAREST JOHNNY,
Once again a woman has been chosen to head Student council. This time it's Helen Fisher who'll be president with Bud Smith and Anne Cowan assisting as vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

Dinner meetings were in full swing this week, with everyone enjoying an opportunity for a free meal and awards besides. That's the right combination, no matter what Chesterfield says. Publications row turned out in full force Wednesday night when new appointments were made and campus versions of the distinguished service cross presented. Also presented were three little ditties describing almost everyone on the three publications with great gusto and detail. What the songsters may have lacked in quality they made up in volume.

The speech department followed on the heels of the other group and had its annual banquet last night. The affair was called "Nightmare in the Speech Department" and from what I hear the title wasn't far from wrong. It turned out to be a safe-splitting evening, as of course it would be with those characters in the speech department taking part.

The sorority sing is set for tomorrow night if—there's always an "if" these days—the ground in front of the bandshell is somewhat dry. If not, the coeds will have another day to tune up their whistles, for the sing will be held Monday night.

As long as we're talking about music, we might as well finish out the chorus, Bidu Sayao—you'll have to pronounce it, I can't—appeared Wednesday night and presented the last offering of her current lecture-concert series. Poor Bidu probably thought she'd never get here to enjoy our nice wet weather with us. She was originally set to appear with Richard Crooks, later Nino Martini, but she finally had to come manless. At least, she must have felt at home with so many coeds in the same situation.

A new local fraternity has been established on campus honoring Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, counselor for men. The group was begun by returned servicemen and is housed at the former Alpha Gamma Rho house on East Grand River. The house will be formally opened fall term, complete with extensive redecorating, but even now there are 14 members living there.

I'll get six tickets for commencement and if I thought you could use one I'd save it for you. After all, boys are coming home every day now and that expert rifle medal you got ought to count for something.

Lonesomely,
PEG.

Wrestling Coach Seeks Matmen

Fendley A. Collins, Michigan State college wrestling coach now hunting for next year's team, figures he's reached the bottom of the barrel and nothing's turned up.

"I guess we were pretty lucky last year to find a couple of 17-year-olds with wrestling experience," Collins explains. "We've yet to find anything for next year to match them."

Collins' findings included Gale Mikles and Don Anderson, spark-plugs of this year's squad that recorded an undefeated season of five scheduled meets, five Michigan AAU championships, a national AAU title won by Mikles in the 145-pound class, and a national AAU third-place winner by Anderson in the 155-pound division. The two boys are from Tulsa.

On May 11, Anderson, honorary Spartan squad captain, turned 18 and registered for the draft. Mikles doesn't reach his 18th birthday until October 24, but prospects are slim that he'll be around for another mat season.

Collins' field of search includes Oklahoma, the state to which college wrestling coaches usually turn when assembling material, and where Collins himself won national honors in 1927 while a student at Oklahoma A & M.

Enemy Suicide Pilots Attack U.S. Shipping

GUAM, May 26 (AP)—Japanese suicide pilots and troops heavily attacked American shipping and airfield installations Thursday night and Friday in the Okinawa area. They damaged 11 light naval units, one heavily. Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said in today's communique.

Five enemy planes attempted wheels-up crash landing on Yontan airfield, Okinawa.

Term Parties, Dances Rate High on Weekend Calendar

Union Board to Hold All-College Dance in Ballroom While Dorms and Sororities Keep Campus Lively With Varied Social Events

As they approach the end of the term, students find a long list of social entertainment for the last few free hours before finals.

Union board is sponsoring a dance with music by Dick Snook, his band and Norma Jean this evening at 8:45 in the Union ballroom.

Two Seniors To Present Recital

Mary Louise Tobey, senior music major from Manistee, and Shirley Crisman, Pontiac senior music major, will be presented in a recital tomorrow evening at 7:30 in Peoples church.

A piano major, Miss Tobey also sings soprano in the MSC choir. This afternoon at 3:15 she will appear over WKAR, playing the first movement of Beethoven's first concerto with a small orchestra.

Winter Term Soloist

Miss Crisman is prominent in campus music circles, playing in both orchestra and band. She was soloist winter term when the orchestra played Boccherini's "Concerto in D Major."

Miss Tobey will open the program with two of Bach's chorale preludes, "I Call on Thee" and "Christ is Risen." Improvisations on old chorale melodies, they were written for the liturgical year in the church. Her first group will be concluded with "Sheep May Safely Graze," arranged by E. Biggs, noted present day organist, from Bach's "Birthday Cantata."

First Flute Group
"Polonaise and Badinage" by Bach and "Cantabile et Presto" will compose Miss Crisman's first group. Enesco, violinist, composed the second number.

Schumann's "Sketch in C Major," one of his four sketches for organ, will be played next by Miss Tobey. This group will be completed by "Afterglow" by Groton, contemporary composer. "Concertino" by Chaminade, played by Miss Crisman, will follow.

Organ Finale

Miss Tobey will conclude the program with Boellmann's "Gothic Suite," which is written in the contrapuntal style. A contrast is produced by using first full organ and then a soft interlude.

Last year the Mu Phi Epsilon patronesses' award to the most outstanding junior woman music student was presented to Miss Crisman.
