Stop Fighting, Britain Says

LONDON, May 31 (AP) — Britain today urged the rest of the Allied forces to put an end to fighting in the Western Front and in effect stopped sending new reinforcements to France by noon today.

In a wire to the British Prime Minister, it was stated that the Prime Minister would not attempt to silence his guns or face the situation until the French forces have been called upon to return to fighting.

The appeal was made by the French leader “immediately to order” French troops in Syria to cease fire and withdraw to their barracks in order to avoid a collision between British and French forces.

A dispatch from Paris said the appeal was met with a “calm” by the “surprise” of the French.

They Were Not Too Busy to Die

That was certainly a fine showing of students and faculty members at Tuesday's convocation. Sarcasm, yes, but no more of a sham than the hollow mockery exhibited by those who were so smug that they could not find time to honor those who gave their lives to make V-J day possible.

And, you should have heard the bo and cry that arose when the college failed to hold memorial services on the death of President Roosevelt. Could that have arisen over a sense of guilt to put off school for several hours, or was it from a deep sense of patriotism? Who knows?

Yet, those were the very students and members of the faculty who failed to attend a convocation honoring many more men, certainly equally, if not more demonic, in their total than our late leader.

You are saying, "Oh, well, of course the State News has something to say that. It's to be expected." Well, why in blazes shouldn't we blow? The lack of a convocation on the death of Roosevelt was dismaying in a candle we do about it now, that's water over the dam attitude. That is a poor way to turn criticism aside.

Probably many of you excused yourselves from attending Tuesday's convocation by saying there would be plenty of others going, so why should I bother. However, if everyone attending that convocation had thought that, there would have been a pretty empty auditorium.

Are your lives so full that you cannot spare one hour in paying a feeble homage to men who have given their lives to preserve your way of life? Is it because you must get in the early lunch line in the dormitory or Union, or to finish just one more cake and gab just a little more in the grill?

The faculty is as much at fault as the students, if not more so. At least they should be mature enough to forgo their personal selfishness and pay a little respect to 250 men and women similar to them as a whole, than the majority of students now on campus.

Let us hope this lack of interest displayed by both students and faculty members does not mirror a lack of interest in perpetuating the democratic ideas for which these men died.—W.R.T.

Spartans to Wind Up Home Baseball Season Tomorrow

Hurons Listed As Last Foe on College Field

Michigan State will wind up its home baseball season tomorrow with a return engagement against the diamond forces of Michigan Normal college of Ypsilanti. The Spartans, who took toll of the Hurons 7 to 4 in the first meeting several weeks ago, will seek to extend their six game winning streak.

The mitmen defeated the University of Detroit twice this week by scores of 9 to 2 and 15 to 3, giving them their tenth and eleventh victories in 13 games. Bill Page was the victor in the first game while Keith Stoffle chucked up his sixth win of the season in the second game.

In the first game with Detroit, the score was tied at two all until the State half of the seventh inning, when the Robinsons ran up six more runs.

In the second game the big inning was the third, when the Spartans scored seven runs. Three hits, two bases on balls and three Detroit errors accounted for the runs. Ben Hadkins had his best day so far as he hit three triples and a single in four times at bat.

Faculty - Varsity Tennis Tournament Nears Finish

The tennis matches between the M.S.C. faculty and the varsity teams are hanging on edge. They have split the single match three to three. Two of the doubles matches have been played and won, and the lone one stood over to the first. The whole match was decided in the doubles match between McPhets and Euland of the varsity and Gallagher and Stuart of the faculty, which will be played today.

In the singles competition, Dorsen of the faculty took Huron 6-4, 6-1; Gallagher of the faculty won from McPhets 6-2, 6-4; Clark of the faculty won from Young 6-7, 6-2, 6-2; the varsity won the following: Gallagher from Mathews 6-4, 6-3; Porter of the varsity from Stuart 6-4, 6-2; Baugher from Roman 6-7, 7-6, 6-2. The doubles are also split up to this point, the last doubles match has to be played today.

Last night Humpl and Young defeated coppern, the varsity won from Dorsen and Clark and Steinmetz and Roman of the faculty won 6-8, 5-6, 6-2.

The results of Saturday’s varsity game with Wayne were decided by Hoffman and Bohlene of Wayne against McPhets and Ballard of State, the same doubles team that the match today depends on.

This probably will be the last faculty match since Ben Norris played for the faculty two years ago. At the time Norris was considered the best tennis man in the state. This is the first year that matches between the faculty and the varsity have been on an organized basis.
