Today's Campus

... Vanilla, Please

It must be summer. Even Prof. J. T. Caswell will agree to that. And 3-5 is a long time to spend discussing national government. So a 4 o'clock cherry break was called in his class Monday for ice cream cones. It must be nice to have a class in Ag hall. The dairy is so convenient.

... Old Home Week

After not seeing someone for a long time any place is good for a reunion, even the middle of the street. T. 4 Pat McCarthy, back from Germany, bumped into Lansingite Milt Haltema in the middle of the Grand River and MAC crossing, no less. Cars whizzing by made no difference to them. After all it had been a long time. At the same time, another civilian riding merrily along on his bike also saw a soldier friend of his and they too decided the middle of the street was the best place for a conversation. It's a wonder the outside world doesn't think college students are funny people. Or maybe they do.

... Something New Has

Current news releases from the buildings and grounds department announce that there are about 75 additional quacks on State's campus this summer. They arrived about a month ago and are sailing along the Red Cedar with the rest of the 175 feathered adults. The same general number of ducks continue each year regardless of how many new ones arrive in the spring. An example of why this happens is the family of minks seen along the shore last week, with visions of duck dinner dancing in their eyes.

No Admission Price to Be Charged For Mystery Thriller Production

"Ladies in Retirement," MSC's summer term play will be given Tuesday and Wednesday in Fairchild theater. The play, part of the summer lecture series, will start at 8:15 p.m. Admission will be free to students. All seats are reserved and students may obtain their tickets at the accounting office by showing their activity cards.

The theme of the murder mystery revolves around Ellen, housekeeper for Leonora Fisk. Leonora objects to having Ellen's two ward sisters in her home, but Ellen is determined they will stay.

Leonora disappears and Albert, Ellen's nephew, and Lucy the maid, attempt to blackmail Ellen because they believe she has something to do with her employer vanishing.

Paul Geisenhof, director of the play, has released little information about the actual plot, saying it is of the suspense theme and should not be revealed beforehand.

The department of business and public service is going to offer a short course in managing airports this September.

Home Ec Group To Visit MSC Next Week

Plans have been completed for the home economics conference for county chairmen and recreation leaders from Michigan, which will begin Monday.

The extension conference, to last until a week from tomorrow, has been designed to assist officers in home economics extension groups in carrying out their activities.

To Live at Williams

The delegates to the program will be housed in North Williams dormitory during their visit, and will use the Music building for most of their meetings.

Speakers on the program, outside of the home economics department, include Paul D. Bagwell, acting head of the department of speech and dramatics.

Persons on campus who are interested in advertising work on the State News are asked to attend a meeting at 5 p.m. today, according to Jan Hopps, manager.

discussing "Frontiers of the Future," Madison Kuhn, associate professor of history and political science, explaining "The Citizen's Responsibility in the Peace," and Major G. J. Burlingame, state office of veterans' affairs, telling of "The Veteran in Your Community."

Additional Speakers

Walter Berry, executive secretary of the youth guidance commission, Laverne Powers, speech instructor, Mrs. Myrtle Labbitt of CKLW and J. H. Alexanian, Lansing merchant, will also speak for the conference.

Dean Marie Dye and Miss Roberta Hershey are members of the Home economics faculty who will talk during the meetings.

Farm Camp Will Open

The department of agriculture has announced that a farm work camp for women is to be conducted beginning August 1 to harvest the snap bean crop.

Inquirers are directed to apply at the office of Miss Ruth Peck in the Ag building.

MSC Library Rated High With Other Colleges

By DOC EGAN

In 1919 Williams hall, a men's dormitory at Michigan State agricultural college, burned to the ground. In its place, Michigan State college has erected one of the most beautiful and complete college libraries in the United States.

Designed in the English collegiate gothic style, the building was completed in 1920. The north entrance is of soft gray marble and the wide corridor leads to the main floor.

Here is found the assigned reading room, where 140 students can complete assignments from every division of college, the rare book room whose contents are available only for special re-

McCaffree Joins List of Faculty Overseas

Coach Charles McCaffree has been added to the list of Michigan State college faculty members going overseas to teach under the army educational program for troops in the European theater of operations.

He was granted a leave of absence from the college until October, and will be in Italy in the training program which is presented to enlisted personnel and officers not engaged in full-time military duties.

Frank R. Theroux, professor of civil engineering and Earl Weaver, head of the dairy department are two more MSC men who have been selected to serve on the faculties of the study centers arranged by the war department.

Both of these men left two weeks ago under rather difficult conditions for Weaver, who had a broken leg still in a cast.

Swimming Coach McCaffree did not get word from Washington until last week, but when he left the college, he expected to fly to Rome on Saturday. He will be supervisor of swimming for the army reconditioning camps in Italy.

A. A. Applegate, head of the serve in this program, but was journalism department, was also asked to serve in this program, but was unable to accept the war department invitation because of previous commitments.

'Caught in the Draft' Scheduled as Movie For Friday Night

"Caught in the Draft" starring Bob Hope, Dorothy Lamour, Eddie Bracken and Lynn Overman, is the film scheduled for tomorrow as part of the summer entertainment series, according to S. E. Crowe, director of the series.

The Saturday night movie will be "Miracle of Morgan's Creek," with Eddie Bracken, Betty Hutton, Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff.

Both films will be presented in Fairchild theater at 7 and 9 p.m. and students will be admitted by the student receipts. Summer season ticketholders will use their stubs, and others may purchase tickets at the box office.

Prof. Lyle Maxwell will be a new member of the staff in the department of business administration in September.

Conference Site

Map locates Potsdam, outside Berlin, where President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Stalin are in meeting.

Variety Program To Be Presented For Soldiers

Michigan State is planning a variety show to be performed at Fort Custer on Sunday under the direction of Donald Buell, assistant professor of speech. An afternoon and evening show will be given and the performers will have a picnic dinner on the post.

Although the cast is nearly set for the show, auditions will be held this evening in the Union ballroom for other shows to be presented later on.

The cast includes: Elaine Baker, singer, Bay City; Bonnie Behler, pianist, Grand Rapids; Merrill Walker, singer, Niles; Gordon Stocking, rope act, Cadillac; Margaret Cline, baton twirler, Bay City; and Theresa Gadaletto, singer, Lansing.

Dolores Klukoski, Grand Rapids; Lenore Huddleson, Lansing, and Dahlia Kriehn, Lansing, will play as a trio violin, piano, and cello. Marion Heckel will be stage manager.

Grill Will Close August 9; Cafeteria Will Stay Open

The Union grill will close August 9 for the remainder of summer term, according to Emery Foster, manager of the building. It will reopen at the beginning of fall term.

The cafeteria, which will not be closed, will maintain the same hours during the last weeks of school.

desk that are used in good serious studying were laid end to end, they would reach almost twice around the coke machine in the Grill.

Statues Watch Students

In the main reading room there are eight bronze busts, reproductions of the originals in the Capitoline museum in Rome. These busts, intended to inspire students to higher intellectual attainments, are the gift of the late T. W. Koch, librarian at Northwestern university.

In the periodical room more than 1,370 magazines and newspapers are received and shelved.

To aid them in their work in the library, the students have the services of 18 professional librarians and 60 students.

MSC Annuals Appear After Long Wait

Scarcities Responsible For Delayed Release of Wolverine

"Spartina's" addition to the Michigan State college collection of yearbooks arrived Tuesday in the 1945 edition of the Wolverine. Distribution of the book was made in the publication's office.

Sui Foo, '44-'45 editor of the book, commented that its appearance climaxed a year of work. She and her staff, with Phyllis Boss Beukema as business manager, began planning and mapping the program in June, '44. By fall the general outline of the 49th yearbook had assumed some appearance, and material needed for the copy had been listed.

Advance Preparation

Miss Foo lined up her staffs and photographers also during the summer. A schedule of work was needed, because the material was sent to the photographers and linotypers prior to final publication and had to be completed early.

Throughout the fall and winter terms, photographs were made to illustrate each section of the fourth wartime edition of the Wolverine.

State News circulation for the remainder of the term will be limited to residences and offices on campus. All persons living off campus grounds are asked to pick up their copies of the paper at the Union desk, according to Barbara Fearnside, circulation manager.

After the photos had been developed and sorted, numbered and placed in the correct section, these were sent with the completed stories to the Grand Rapids company which bound and printed the edition.

Scarcities Slowed Production

Miss Foo said that the book was late in appearing because the scarcity of materials during winter term held up their office work, and delayed the work of the printers.

Doris and Dorothy Englehardt, Lansing seniors, have already begun work on the 50th edition of the Wolverine for next year.

Spartans at War

By MARSHALL STUART

LT. GERALD W. HATH . . . has recently been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant for commendable service on embattled Okinawa. An assistant sound ranging officer in the 287th field artillery observation battalion, Lieutenant Hath is taking part in his second Pacific campaign on Okinawa, having seen previous action in the battle for Leyte island in the Philippines.

LT. LOUIS J. MROZOWSKI . . . has been assigned to the first troop carrier command at Pope Field, Fort Bragg, N. C. He will receive a one-month course in navigational training at this base. Before entering service, Lou played varsity football for State.

HARVEY HARRINGTON . . . News has just been released of the death of a State alum, Lt. Harvey Harrington, whose plane went down in the Mediterranean August 27, 1943. It was Lieutenant Harrington's 49th mission in that area. While at State he was editor of the State News in '37 and '38, and an active member of the Blue Key and Excalibur.

PFC. BERT ANDERSON . . . is one of those people who take education seriously enough to further it at the battlefield. He has already successfully passed two mechanical courses offered by the U. S. armed forces institute at Cairo, Egypt. Bert says that they have been very beneficial in his work and also prepared him for an eventual return to civilian life. He is working as a mechanic with the fire department at the ATC base in Algiers.

He entered the army in July, 1943, and was stationed at Camp Lema, N. M., before going overseas eleven months ago. Before being sent to Algiers, he was stationed in Naples, Italy.

Late Enrollee Figures Show 1,633 Students For Summer Session

Final registration figures show that 1,633 students have enrolled in the 1945 summer session, which comes closest to hitting the all time high of 2,000 in 1942, than any previous summer enrollment.

Fifty-eight students registered for three-week courses only; 624 students registered for six-week courses only; and the remaining 951 students are carrying at least one twelve week course.

Of the total enrollment figure 890 are women and 743 are men, included twenty returned servicemen.

CAPT. DONNA WERBACK . . . deputy director of a WAC company at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio, is a member of the fourth class of student officers assigned to the Women's Army Corps school for personal administration at Purdue university. Captain Werback will return to her command at the conclusion of the two and one-half week course. She enlisted in the WAC in July, 1942. She was a former State student.

T. J. PAT MCCARTHY . . . '46, is home on a thirty-day furlough from the ETO where he has served during the last year. He lives in East Lansing and while at State he worked on the State News.

MSC Head on Vacation

Pres. John A. Hannah has been taking time off from his pressing presidential duties for the past week. President Hannah will be vacationing indefinitely with his family at Good Hart in northern Michigan.

That Does It

By MARION HECKEL

THE ultimate in something has been reached with the recent loud and prolonged dispute in Dearborn, Michigan, as to whether the honorable mayor or the town has the right to say what he wants. Seems that the council of the city has set up a public relations bureau to control all publicity relating to the conduct of city affairs, and this squelches Mayor Orville L. Hubbard.

Public concern has been so roused over the matter, that the mayor of St. Louis, speaking of the curtailments which demand the bureau's approval, calls it a "serious threat to American democracy." The part, though, that should have us worried is involved with the St. Louis official's comment that "from time immemorial it has been the happy privilege of mayors . . . to open fish fries, kiss babies . . . and issue proclamations in observance of Be Kind to Mother-in-Law month, Pretzel Week, or Use Your Own Toothpick day."

Since when has anybody had the authority to tell an American when he can or cannot spend a 24-hour period in silent meditation in honor of "Collect the Chewing Gum From the Bottoms of the Tables in the Nearest Drugstore and Have Them Repackaged To Aid in the War Effort day?" This is a democracy, and they can't do that to us.

DESPITE the great number of folks who are up in arms over this matter, though, there are more who have been hearing, reading and talking about the controversy between Michigan's Interlochen music camp and Music Czar Caesar Petrillo. Mister Petrillo, who doesn't like the idea of free, unnumbered music coming over his radio stations, has called the youthful Interlochen students non-professionals, and refuses to allow broadcasts from the northern Michigan camp over the NBC networks. Elements of this discussion and a mention of MSC's own station, WKAR, were included in last week's issue of Time magazine.

It's about time we passed the "everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it" stage, and follow the advice of one of the newscasters who was telling about the Petrillo ultimatum. He suggested sending letters to our congressman. It would be such a surprise for the poor man to get so much mail, that he might be shocked into worthwhile results, and the broadcasting of these excellent programs over more than one station would be started again.

In Campus Quarters

By JO DELP

WITH the cool summer breezes covering the campus it's not unusual to see wool sweaters and skirts worn by the coeds and the men in their argyles or what have you to keep in tune with the temperature. Though the sun is holding down to a mellow warmth we can't see where it has quelled our list of who's who in the "for-ever-yours" column too much.

We could and shall begin with Mary Voorhees, Alpha Phi — anyone even slightly glancing her way couldn't mistake the significance of that lovely diamond ring — did we say lovely — it's gorgeous. Lt. Chuck Derr of Detroit just back from the eighth air force in England, was the boy at the end of the receiving line. Rumor has it that wedding bells might ring in the fall.

Definitely in the bag for future events is the wedding of Yvonne Jones, Gamma Phi to Rudolph Ressel of Detroit — the date set is July 21st and the stage somewhere in Detroit.

Georgie Hayes, Delta Zeta returned from home this week to tell her friends that she'll make her final appearance as a single-gal just before September 15 — as Jack Pardee, Sigma Chi, will be waiting for Georgie at the other end of the aisle on that date.

The only pinning for the week which is recorded in our little blue notebook goes to Marie Reeves, Kappa, who is wearing an ATO pin previously owned by Lt. Bob Henry from Kenyon.

Barbara Bennett, Kappa, now finds that her last name begins with a capital W since making definite her plans for the future last June 30th when Al Walte of Detroit bestowed a round gold band on her third finger, left hand. Al is now in midshipman school at Columbia.

Leave us wind our way down to fraternity row and if we happened to run into such personalities as Chuck Crandall, or Ray Bell of Birmingham or George Bruske of Saginaw we'd see that some Psi U pledge pins have found new custodians.

The Delta Chi's too have passed out pledge pins. The two men comprising the list this week are Don Rees of Jackson and Dick Linton of Ionia.

MSC Squad Will Learn Flying 'Z'

System Used Last Fall

By NICK KERBAWY
(Publications Department)

Michigan State college's summer football practice squad this week will plunge into accelerated tempo to learn the Flying Z system of offense that Coach Charlie Bachman and his staff plan to employ in the Spartans' command nine-game schedule.

The Flying Z is almost as new to the fans who watch it as it is to most of the boys who will execute it. With it, Michigan State returned to football last fall following a year's imposed suspension caused by the war, and racked up six victories in seven starts.

Have Worked On It

Preliminary introduction to the Flying Z was given the squad in recent workouts. Most of this year's candidates are new, a sprinkling of holdovers including the dozen lettermen from last year's squad.

"Boy, you reach that line of scrimmage in a hurry," commented Tom Hill of Detroit Northwestern. "What I like about it is that someone is bumping 'em out the way the instant you get the ball."

Hill was a member of the MSC freshman team before entering Navy V-training program in 1941 during which he played football at Western Michigan.

Their Stay Hit

"Yeah, added Bob Schnitker, 235 pound tackle from Pontiac. "There's nothing about the blocking assignments either. We hit 'em and we win 'em. None of that contact stuff."

Halfback Amen Carter, of Grand Rapids, uses the opportunity it affords for punning. Last year's All-City A-high hurdles champion Carter believes the Flying Z will give him plenty of chances to use some of his track technique.

Important Guy

Fullback Ray Boothby, of Toledo, was more pensive than his teammates. "That fullback is really an important guy," he declared. "You either have it or you don't."

Similar comments were voiced by tackle Kent Esbaugh, Grand Rapids; Fullback Don Hood, of Hudson; Quarterback Bob Brown, of Cassopolis; and halfback Bogart, of Grand Rapids.

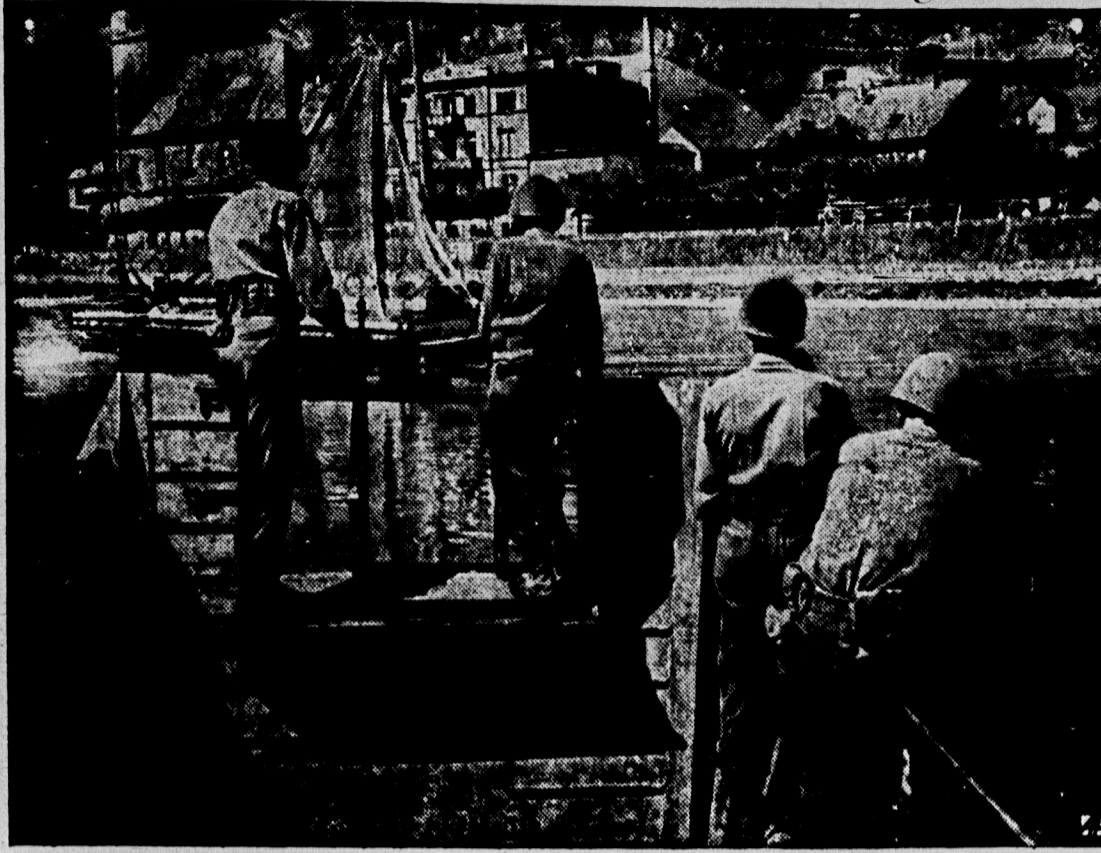

The Flying Z was first developed by Bachman while he was at the University of Michigan. Its inception in 1942 took place earlier at Michigan State as outgrowth of the Flying Z fullback in hand-off system with the Notre Dame team.

The coaching staff is making progress to determine what Michigan State can expect for the season that opens September 29 against Michigan.

Coach Joe Holsinger, of Grand Rapids, and End John Kops, and End Karl Schlademant are cautious to predict the 1945 outlook. However, they agree that "if speed and power are available, a combination will be found."

Prof. Harold B. Pepinsky, formerly of the University of Kansas, guidance bureau is going to work at MSC this August in the department of counseling and guiding.

Peace Broadcast To Be Aired Over WKAR on Sunday

Madison Kuhn, assistant professor of history and political science, will be the speaker on WKAR's Sunday broadcast of "Implications of the Peace" at 6:30 p.m.

Kuhn will explain the citizen's role in the United Nations organization. Walter Fee, head of the department of history and political science, spoke last Sunday on the Asiatic implications of the same organization.

Keeping listeners abreast of current events and the significance of the news to persons in the United States are the chief aims of the radio series, which began in January.

H. H. Kimber, director of the MSC social service division, will be the next speaker on the program, discussing the outcome and significance of the British general election.

Engineers Start New Activities Organization

Anticipating an increase in the enrollment of engineering students within the next year, a committee has been working on plans to form a representative organization for all students majoring in engineering.

The organization is to govern all engineering activities such as technical meetings, publications and social functions.

Tuesday, a sub-committee headed by Norm Aurand, Cranford, N. J., senior, presented a report on the constitution of the new inactive Engineer's council. The committee's recommendations for a new constitution were also discussed.

Any student majoring in engineering, whether in Basic college or in upper school, is invited to attend the discussion next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Union.

STATE NEWS

Regular meeting of State News staff today at 5 p.m., room 8, union annex.

INTERNATIONAL CENTER

Students and faculty who have friends or relatives in the China-Burma-India theater, are cordially invited to open house Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., at the International house.

At this time all questions concerning this theater will be answered by the Chinese vet students, who have recently arrived on campus from this area via the Burma road.

KAMPUS KIDS

Kampus Kids are sponsoring a canoe trip Friday evening. The group will meet at 7 p.m. in front of Peoples church. For reservations call 8-2573 by 5 p.m. today.

Dr. C. W. Chamberlain, inventor and retired professor of physics, will be guest speaker for Kampus Kids Sunday at 6:30 p.m. on the second floor of Peoples church.

IDENT CARDS

Students who have not as yet received their permanent identification cards may do so by calling for them at the Registrar's office in the administration building. Students are requested to bring their temporary cards when they call for their permanent identification.

ENGINEERS' PICNIC

Engineering students and faculty are having a picnic tomorrow evening at 6:30 on College field. Highlight of the picnic will be a softball game between the mechanical engineers and the civil engineers, followed by refreshments.

There are a few remaining tickets on sale at the Union desk, according to Stub Lill, chairman of publicity.

Music Department Professor to Leave

Julius Stulberg, teacher of violin and viola at MSC since 1934, has completed final arrangements for leaving the college around Sept. 1.

Stulberg is taking over a position at Western State college in Kalamazoo, where he will be an associate professor and head of the string department.

During the period of eleven years at State, Stulberg has been a member of the MSC faculty string quartet, concert-master of the Lansing Civic symphony orchestra and also conductor of the Kalamazoo Little symphony.

WKAR Will Continue Broadcast of Music Camp Programs

Interlochen music camp's concert will be heard tomorrow night from 7 to 8 p.m. through the facilities of the college radio station, WKAR.

Broadcasts from the camp, which have been restrained from the national networks through technicalities, will be heard over the campus station every Friday and Saturday nights.

The concerts will consist of selections from the band, orchestra, chorus and various ensembles, conducted by celebrated musicians.

WKAR, which is operated on a purely educational basis, is the only Michigan station to carry the music series of the camp.

MATVA Meeting Held on Campus

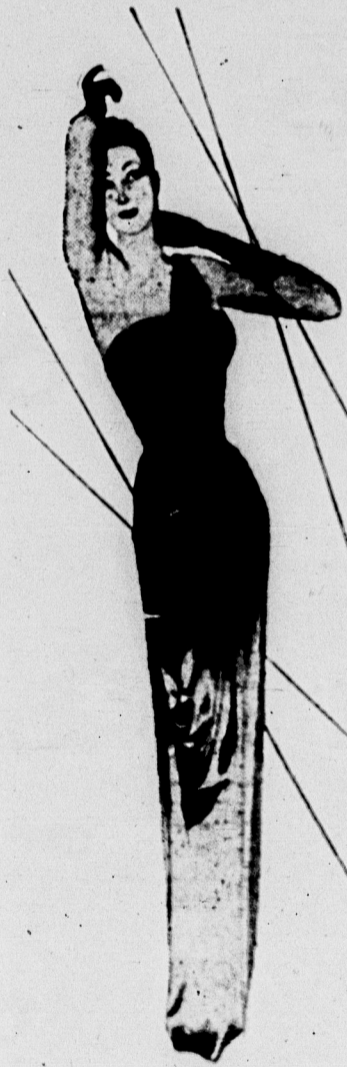

"Meeting Wartime Demands and Preparing for Postwar Adjustments" is the theme of the 1945 conference for members of the Michigan Association Teachers of Vocational Agriculture, who have been on campus since Monday.

Instructional aids and exhibits in the form of charts, posters and specimen materials have been displayed during the conference.

Superintendents of school maintaining departments of agriculture met in a one-day conference Monday to hear speech by Harry E. Nesman, chairman of the session, and E. L. Anthony, dean of the division of agriculture.

Don't be a tradition breaker. No smoking on campus.
