35th Spartan—Wolverine Battle Rages Today

Breslin Heads States Heavy Defense

By DICK FRAZER

When Coach Charlie Bachman leads his Michigan State college Spartans into Michigan stadium this afternoon to try the lid off their 1946 conference with Michigan, the team will be starting their next college game.

At the beginning of fall practice four weeks ago, Bachman was relieved to know he could fill every position except the tackles with veterans from last year's team. But since then several freshmen have shown themselves fit for their first team berths.

The four Gomez name make up a passer arm which any opposing team would respect, replaced the set-up and that in an effort to inject aerial spirit into the defense against the Wolverine.

In this opening meeting with the Wolverines, Michigan played at the end of the year every time, had three to four sure candidates. Some concurred the Michigan defense will be further toughened from the fact that the Spartan backs have four or five more games and could even make the record this year.

The worst beating ever handed Michigan by the State was the 25-6 loss in 1933. The 1934, "Argie" absorbed a 13-0 defeat from the Wolverines.

State won four games in a row from 1932-35 until H. C. "Fritz" Crouse was employed as Wolverine coach. In his four years since then, the Spartans have scored only five times in their five titles.

If the pep and school spirit at the game this afternoon is emulation that of the pep rally on the last night, the Spartans should be successful in limiting their 1946 season.
