Union Board Plans Weekend Dances To Follow Pep Rally, 'Rigoletto'

Two "stag-or-drag" weekend dances, designed to help Michigan State college students fill in vacant hours following Rigoletto Saturday and the pep rally Friday, were announced by Union Board last night, following a meeting of the Executive council.

300 Enroll Late

Late figures show 300 additional students have enrolled since registration, Registrar R. S. Linton said yesterday. The total number of students is now 5,200 of which 1,736 are civilian men. Military personnel includes 325 ASTPR.

First Workshop Broadcast Gets Air Today

The Michigan State college radio workshop of the air will present its first broadcast, "Radio is Here To Stay," by Norman Corwin, this afternoon, at 4 and tonight from 7 to 9 will hold auditions for membership.

Auditions for membership in radio workshop are being held tonight from 7 to 9 p.m., tomorrow from 4 to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 9 to 12 a.m. in room 246 of College auditorium, according to Paul Geisenhof, director.

Students who are trying out are requested to bring their own material. This material should demonstrate capability and versatility in radio acting. Only those who audition will be eligible to be in productions. The group, sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Rho, radio honorary, will perform both original and professional plays.

International House To Open Its Doors For College Sunday

Michigan State's International center at No. 3 Faculty row, will begin its second year, under the direction of Prof. Shao Chang Lee, with activities designed for and by students from foreign countries.

At the center, club rooms provide a meeting place for members and their guests. On Friday evenings the students have informal programs with music and dancing.

Every month an open house is held and various groups, especially the foreign studies classes, are invited to acquaint themselves with the International center. The first open house this term will be Sunday, from 4 to 6 p.m., and will honor post-graduate and undergraduate students who have come to State from many parts of the world including China, Australia, South Africa, Russia, Canada, and several of the Central and South American countries.

Dick Snook and his orchestra will supply music for the Saturday night dance, starting at 10 in the Union ballroom. Chairman Dick Mosher, East Lansing junior, emphasized that the dance is open to stags as well as couples, and is starting late so that students may attend the opera first.

Theme for the first Friday Frolic of the year will be "Boy Meets Girl," according to Jim Graves, Muskegon sophomore. In addition to dancing by recorded music in the ballroom, tables will be set up in the main dining room for students who wish to play bridge, chess, checkers or other games.

Friday Frolic will be an informal "sweater session" with a get-acquainted theme. Graves said that Union Board had received numerous complaints from State men that "They didn't know anyone to ask to a dance," and the Friday affair, from 8:30 to 11 p.m., was planned for that reason. The dance will follow the pep rally.

Union Board also scheduled its first "Party-Party," an afternoon dance and game session, for next Saturday. "Party-Party" and Friday Frolic have been among the most popular Union Board activities during the past year.

Watch That Thumb: It May Be Pointed To Serious Trouble

Hitch-hiking, which is so heavily indulged in by the majority of Michigan State college students, presents a serious problem, according to Chief Richard Rogers of the East Lansing police department, who warned that his staff will crack down on violators of the hitch-hiking regulations.

Section 43 of the traffic ordinance of the city of East Lansing states: "It shall be unlawful for any person to stand in any roadway and solicit a ride from the operator of any private vehicle." Rogers emphasizes the fact that there is no law against hitch-hiking but students will be arrested for violation of the latter ordinance.

Hitch-hiking can be a dangerous thing and something that demands extreme caution and judgement, he added.

The regulations will be rigidly enforced, says Rogers, and it behooves all students to acquaint themselves thoroughly with the existing rules.

Supervision Jobs Offered 12 Men

Jobs are available for 12 men who will work in a supervisory play of juveniles from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and for one hour in the morning at the Boy's Vocational school in Lansing, according to Tom King, head of the placement bureau.

In return the men will receive their room, three meals a day, partial laundry, one free night a week, and arrangements for the weekend can be worked out.

All men students interested are asked to apply at the placement office.

Verdi's 'Rigoletto' Will Open '45 Lecture-Concert Series

Doris Marinelli, Ernie Lawrence To Play Leads

By CARROLL BESEMER

First opera to be held this season will be Giuseppe Verdi's "Rigoletto" as announced by Dean S. E. Crowe. The performance will take place in College auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Saturday.

Dr. Bessey Retires

Dr. ERNST BESSEY, who has been associated with Michigan State college for 35 years, has announced that he will retire as head of the college botany department.

Major Houk Gets Appointment As ASTPR Executive

Major Earl T. Houk, who is originally from Oklahoma, and has been stationed at Camp Ellis, Ill., was recently appointed executive officer of the MSC military department and assistant professor of the military specialized training service. He has taken up duties in charge of approximately 300 men who are studying at MSC under the army specialized training program and a few who are studying an advanced course in engineering.

The men are now living in Wells hall and will remain in school until they are 18 years old, when they will be given a furlough home before reporting for active duty.

Two Pneumonia Cases Reported by Hospital

In a report from Dr. C. F. Holland, of College hospital, it was stated that 1,686 persons were given medical exams during freshman week. Of these, 396 were men, 1,290 women.

At the present time nine persons are being kept in the hospital with colds, and two women Jean Vorhes of Pontiac, and Jean Hubbard of Detroit, have been admitted to the hospital with pneumonia.

Reporters to Meet

All State News reporters are to report to Marion Heckel at the State News office at 4:30 today and the reporting class will meet at 5 p.m. with Barbara Jones in room 115, Union annex. Leone Seastrom, business manager, announced that all members of the advertising staff must attend a meeting today at 4:10 p.m. in the advertising office.

Verdi based his opera "Rigoletto" on Victor Hugo's "Le Roi s'amuse" which was produced in Paris in 1832. Hugo's play is one of violence and revenge and concerns the sixteenth century France of pleasure-loving Francis I.

In 1849 Verdi first came in contact with the play. It appealed to him so favorably that he had it made into an opera entitled "Maladizione" ("The Curse").

Setting Changed

Later, because of political implications that arose from the story, the setting and characters were altered so that the monarch of France would not appear in an unfavorable light. The scene was transferred from sixteenth century France to Mantua of the same period. The role of Francis I was changed to the Duke of Mantua. The play was then produced in Venice, March 1851, under the present title.

Doris Marinelli will play the feminine lead, "Gilda," in the Charles L. Wagner production of "Rigoletto" appearing on campus. She was born in Pittsburgh and lived there until she was 12 when she went to Milan, Italy, to study voice.

Old Hand at Gilda

At 16 she made her debut in the role of "Gilda" in the opera in which she is currently starred. Next she went on a tour in Berlin, Leipzig, Warsaw, Budapest, Prague and Moscow. In South America she sang in Chile and Peru.

In 1941 Miss Marinelli arrived in America where she sang with such artists as Jan Pierce and Lawrence Tibbett.

Duke of Mantua will be portrayed by Ernie Lawrence, tenor. Lawrence, born in Texas, went to New York to study. There he appeared in an opera and made broadcasts over the Mutual network. In the past few years he has sung leading roles in many well known operas.

Study Incentive

The new feminine inhabitants of Abbot hall received their first production to the ASTPRs the afternoon. Hanging with their mouths and popping eyes from the windows, the new arrivals watched as the men invaded the front door of Abbot. The visitors paused only long enough to see a study lamp in front of a closed door before they beat a reluctant retreat. In due time, notes concealed in the sold-donated lamps were discovered and now the phones are ringing.

'Quack' Doctors

There is a tragic sequel to the story in yesterday's State News about Dick Kvitek's duck, Lucia. Yesterday morning Lucia, while being carried via rickshaw to the Red Cedar to join other ducks, escaped her box and flew into the path of an oncoming car. She was struck and flew 100 feet from freedom. Lucia was rushed to the poultry clinic by way of the veterinary hospital. There she received the help modern science could offer her, but her remaining hours were few and she passed to another world. Her many campus friends, as well as those in the duck world, mourn her passing.

Bill Durant Tells Faculty That Man Is Social Primate

By M. D. SMERLING

That man can be considered, normally, in the foci of astronomy and geology, as an animal among animals, and in the light of social organization was the substance of the lecture Dr. William James Durant, noted author and historian, delivered to an audience of 500 faculty members, graduate students and guests in child theater last night.

Speaking on the subject "What Man?" Dr. Durant reflected that man is but a single species in the infinitesimal galaxies of the universe, a "passing fragment of an incalculable whole." The individual is only an incident in the more immortal existence of the kind.

"Life," said the lecturer, "is an interval between two kinds of organic death. It perpetuates itself by an 'amorous pertinacity.' Death is life's invention, life cheats death through reduction. Nothing is certain in but death."

social organization is the best tool of life man ever invented," declared Dr. Durant; "progress, the increasing complexity of mankind to do great things, comes about in a combination of competition and co-operation," he concluded.

question and discussion period was to follow the lecture; despite an urging by the speaker for comments and questions, the audience remained quiet and made that portion of the program short-lived.

Won't Play For U D

Walter Burke, star athlete from St. Joseph's Catholic Central high school, has enrolled at the University of Detroit, but is ineligible for college competition, because of the contact that he signed with the Detroit Tigers earlier this season.

To the Editor:
Well, vets, I guess you'd better not get out of the habit of taking assinine orders. It seems that the Board of Agriculture has assumed the position of the army; navy and marine corps' commanding officer, and it intends to make us realize that it's "boss." I know that most of you, as myself, while in service, looked forward to the day you'd be able to go to college and be a free man.

But when the Board of Agriculture laid down the "no car" order, it became evident that if we want an education at MSC we cannot have the freedom we fought for, but we must abide by the silly whims of our "superiors."

You guys have fought for what you believed in before; let's do it again. Let's either be treated as responsible adults as we should be, or if we must be treated as high school kids, let's go back to high school and say to heck with college.

Disgusted Ex-PFC.
To the Editor:
As an individual, I am curious to know just why the ban on cars has come to pass on the Michigan State college campus. I, for one, have heard no reasons, specific or otherwise, nor has anyone else I have questioned on this matter been able to enlighten me.
If Michigan State college is trying to emulate the University of Michigan by enacting some or all of the laws pertaining to the University of Michigan students, I should think that the authorities would think twice because as long as I have been a student here or have known students from Michigan State college, any reference to our being the University of Michigan or in any way connected with the U. of M. was received with distaste, to say the least, by the students in question.

In the law they make the arbitrary age for having a car as 26. Is this because it is stated that entering male students who are 26 or over when they enter MSC are not required to take military science? If this is so—what does it have to do with the ability to own or drive a car?

Many of the students here are discharged veterans and the greater majority of them are not 26. They didn't have to be 26 to fight or to return to civilian life—and some of them will never be 26. The legal age is 21—why the arbitrary age of 26?

In previous years students, not over 26, have owned and had cars at Michigan State—were they of any greater mental ability or more responsible than we, the present students are?

Student government plays—or is supposed to play—a large part of Michigan State college's make-up. As I can see it, the students had no say in this matter. If we are going to have student government I believe that the students should be represented in matters and laws pertaining to student actions.
Let us have some honest and

AH . . . choo. Pardon me, but I have a colt id da doze, along wid about halb da cambus pobulation . . . and walking in the rain doesn't help.
Administrative officials have passed a ban against driving cars on campus, and the double-time decision without any previous consultation with the student body is really rubbing the wrong way.

In 1939 the same problem and decision was attempted, but student opinion was too strongly against the doing away with cars. Parking on campus was restricted, but the cars themselves remained.

With gas rationing and the high sweep of patriotism in 1942 again the situation arose with a ban for the duration placed on driving on campus. Cars were restricted and a self-imposed lookout was kept by students themselves to reduce the number of drivers from the college.

Obviously holding their eyes on the future growth of the college and the increase of undergraduate cars, the administration and board of agriculture has decided to take steps this time without looking at the present too closely.

Public opinion has been running high, but the gist of the complaint seems to be centered in the query of "why don't they tell us what it's all about?" Do the officials seem to feel that there may be a possibility of accidents or injuries and are they punishing for a negligence and crime which has yet to take place? These are the refrain of other complaints.

The total of Michigan State students who are fortunate enough to have automobiles is really quite small, but the indignation of the entire undergraduate body is aroused at this sudden clamping down without explanation. Most of them worked for their cars and one veteran in particular has expressed the situation thus . . . "to earn my car I paid in something like blood, sweat and pain, and it's gonna take something comparable to deprive me of it."

Complete repeal of a Board of Agriculture law is like trying to do away with death and taxes, but a tolerant, liberal and practical revision of the ruling would undoubtedly be acceptable. It would at least make us feel like young adults rather than over-aged kindergarteners.

Oh well, we could be in the same position as the State coed who got a ticket for her escort Saturday night—seems that the University of Michigan doesn't even allow women to sit in the front seat of a car with a man after 9 p.m.

Detroit Problems Turn From Strike To Pennant Race

DETROIT, Oct. 2 (AP)—America's first peacetime world series in four years set Detroit on edge emotionally today and forced the city into a veritable balancing act to keep control in a whirlwind.

All over big and joyful motor-town the talk concentrated on the Detroit Tigers' chances of beating the Chicago Cubs for the world baseball championship in the series starting tomorrow, and ignored strikes and the threat of strikes.

A capacity crowd of 55,000 for Briggs stadium was expected, and that typified Detroit in general. For the motor city was loaded down to the point where it couldn't take much more.

Detroit was just beginning to catch its breath from its tremendous war job when the world series came along, and tonight a man couldn't buy or beg a place to sleep because of the congestion.

All hotels were filled to the last room, and harried managers were dodging out of sight of more patrons. Two Great Lakes passenger steamers, pressed into service in the emergency, were moored at the foot of downtown Woodward avenue in the Detroit river taking on some of the overflow.

To confuse the situation further, the oil workers strike had upset the city transportation systems. Buses and streetcars carried abnormal loads because thousands of private cars with empty gasoline tanks were out of service.

Titans Will Take To Travel by Air

Air transportation will be employed for the first time in the history of the University of Detroit this year, Coach Lloyd Brazil, director of athletics, said Saturday. The Titans are scheduled to fly to Memphis for their intersectional game with Mississippi State college on Oct. 13.

Two planes have been chartered for the game and approximately 35 players and four coaches are expected to take the trip.

'Run, Do Not Walk' Adopted As Motto For Brown's Cross Country Team

By BOB CARRIER

So there has been a little griping about walking way over to the auditorium for that eight o'clock on these fine drizzly mornings. Well, the next time that feeling of self pity comes, why not drop over and watch the cross-country team practice. Those boys run, not walk, two miles just to warm up.

There aren't any big crowds out there cheering for them as in football and no national publicity when they do win a race. They are out there because they enjoy running and the thrill of competition.

First Meet Oct. 13
Coach Lauren Brown sends his fourteenth Cross Country team out for its first 1945 meet on Saturday, Oct. 13, against Ohio State. The meet will be held here on MSC's course with the finish on the oval track next to the football stadium.

Coach Brown will present a well rounded team including five letter winning and some promising new men.

Promising Frosh
Among the new men are these freshmen: James Higgins, Buffalo, N. Y.; Dick Zobel, Ferndale; and Don Thadden, East Lansing. Thadden was Michigan high school Class B champion in the half mile last year.

The meet a week from this Saturday with Ohio State will start at 10:30 a.m. It will be a three mile run. Brown hopes a representative crowd will appear to give the boys a cheer.

Wildcats Threaten Spartans In Saturday's Home Game

Breslin, Sullivan Slated In Starting Line-up

Michigan State's football coach, Charlie Bachman, and the Spartan eleven will open the home portion of their 1945 football season this Saturday on Macklin field.

Russian Paintings Go On Exhibition In College Library

According to the art department of Michigan State college library, mounted reproductions of paintings by Nicholas Roerich are now on a special exhibition in the library.

Roerich, named one of the foremost living painters in the world, was born in Russia and made his home in the Himalayan mountain region of Punjab, India.

The exhibition consists of 16 full-color reproductions depicting strange scenes in remote areas of central Asia, Tibet and Himalayan mountains. There are several reproductions in sepia, and a full color one of Roerich gowned in oriental robes, painted by his son, Svetoslav.

The exhibition, which will be shown until mid-October, is frequented by art students in junior and senior high schools.

Backfield Threat

Shown above is DOMINIC CONTI who was one of the outstanding State backs from last Saturday's game with the Wolverines and is expected to play in most of the Kentucky game. His home is in Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Kentucky is a newcomer to the Spartan gridiron, and a relative new competitor to the Green and White. Last year the Spartans opened football relations with the Wildcats on the Kentucky home field, and squeaked out a 2 to 0 victory.

Tough in 1944
In the 1944 version, the new rivals proved themselves to be real competition, threatening the Spartan goal line four times in the first period, and once in the third and fourth. The two lone State points came in the second quarter when end Don Grandzik blocked a Kentucky punt.

Two of the 60-minute men from last year's Spartan eleven, fullback Jack Breslin, and center Brady Sullivan, are slated to play the entire game this Saturday. It was Sullivan's interception of a pass in the final quarter that put an end to the Wildcats' final threat to the Spartan goal.

Five Will Return
Kentucky will return five of its men that played last year to the field this Saturday. They include Wash Serini, a 23-year old 6 ft. 3 in., 225-pound tackle, who won a place on the all-star Southeastern conference team last year, in addition to mention for All-American honors. On the other end of the line at the tackle is another 225-pounder, Hugh Shannon. An injury kept him out of most of last year's games.

The Wildcats will not be a green team when they take to the gridiron this Saturday, as they have already faced two teams this year, Mississippi and Cincinnati, while Michigan State kicked the lid off its season last Saturday against the University of Michigan.

Council Kicks On Housing MSC Veterans

New Resolution Adopted To Move Project Near College

Accusing Michigan State college of providing fancy cow barns and hog pens, but poor housing for returning veterans, the Lansing City council moved Monday night to have an unsightly veteran's housing project on Lyons avenue moved to the vicinity of the college.

Unknown to it that the college had leased the project for returning veterans and their families, the council adopted a resolution to move the project out of the city. When it was made known to the council that this lease had been obtained, Alderman Harold Hungerford, of the sixth ward where the project is located, agreed to have the veterans live there if the moved the project out of the city to the vicinity of Michigan State college.

The fact was made known to the council Monday night that veteran students and their families have already half-occupied the houses. It was also made known that the federal housing trailer project on West Grand River is about half-occupied and will be moved from the city as soon as possible when other housing units are available.

It has been reported that the projects are well managed and have proved a definite aid in the temporary housing shortage. The college made no comment concerning this act.

Five-Power Convo Ends Peace Talk In Apparent Flop

LONDON, Oct. 2 (AP) — The Five-Power conference of foreign ministers, after three weeks of discussing European peace settlements, ended tonight in apparent failure.

The ministers of the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China, concluded their first peace talks in a deadlock over procedure which authoritative circles said would have to be resolved by President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee.

In an authorized statement, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes disclosed that the issue which deadlocked the conference was Russia's insistence on barring France and China from discussions of Balkan peace treaties.

"There is good reason to believe," he added, "that with continued patience and understanding on all sides agreement on essentials can be attained."

Japanese Press Uses American Freedom To Attack Mikado

TOKYO, Oct. 2 (AP) — The Japanese press, brandishing the American gift of freedom, attacked the government today amid reports the cabinet may fall or be overhauled for failing to act in the food crisis.

With a forthrightness impossible under the old regime, the press demanded the dismissal of "feudalistic officials" such as those who tried to stop publication of the emperor's visit to General MacArthur.

With his investigators already tracking down the spoils of war which Japanese exploiters gathered in the Orient, MacArthur set out today after the munitions industry that armed Japan's warriors.

Patton Removed From Third Army To Direct Fifteenth 'Paper Army'

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, GERMANY, Oct. 2 (AP) — General Eisenhower announced today he had ousted Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., as commander of the third army and administrator of Bavaria and had placed him in charge of a "paper army," the 15th.

The order, effective Oct. 7, followed complaints that the pistol-packing, colorful Patton had kept Bavarian Nazis in office, and was made public just four days after the 59-year-old armored commander was called on the carpet to give a personal report to Eisenhower on his denazification actions.

Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, who commanded the fifth army in Italy and later headed the seventh army, will succeed Patton as commander of the third army and administrator of the eastern military district.

No Occupation
The 15th army at present consists only of headquarters and special troops engaged in research work on allied relations during the war. It does not control any occupation area.

The official announcement gave no reason for the shift, but disclosed that Eisenhower had notified Patton of the transfer last Saturday, the day after Patton had been summoned to Frankfurt.

Patton could not be reached early tonight for comment. He has been unavailable to newspapermen for the past three days since returning to his headquarters at Bad Toelz in Bavaria.

Patton, known to his men as "blood and guts," has been one of the most controversial figures in the American army. His commands in Sicily and France moved with great skill and speed unequalled by any American gener-

ANPA Offers $500 For Best Report On World News

Presentation of $500 cash award and a gold medal will be made to the best, graduate or undergraduate student presenting a monograph entitled, "Free and Independent Reporting of Foreign News — Its Importance In World Relations," Prof. A. A. Applegate, journalism head, announced recently.

Winner of the contest will be the guest of honor of the American Newspaper Publishers association, with expenses paid to and from his college or home town. Competition is open to any student in a regularly organized college, school, or department of journalism.

A bronze medal in replica will be awarded to the school of journalism in which the winning student is enrolled. Second and third prizes will be awarded to worthy competing monographs. Students who have received their master's degree at the time the manuscript is submitted are not eligible.

Monographs are limited to 2,500 words. Three typed copies of each competing monograph must be submitted to reach the office of the president of the American Newspaper Publishers association, 370 Lexington avenue, New York 17, not later than January 10, 1944.

Hort Men Co-Author Article in Magazine

Dr. H. B. Tukey and C. L. Hamner of the Horticulture department are co-authors along with R. F. Carlson of Cornell university of an article on improving the keeping quality of succulent plants and cut flowers which appeared in the Sept. 28 issue of Science magazine.

The article contains data gathered from experiments that the three men made while working at the New York State Agricultural Experiment station at Cornell.

al and his fighting ability has been respected by friend and foe alike.

His slapping of a shell-shocked soldier in Sicily, and his knack of making blood and thunder statements that aroused indignation in England and America at various times made him Eisenhower's No. 1 problem child.

Censored General

During his drive across France and until the lifting of censorship after V-E day none of Patton's utterances were allowed to be published.

Patton's transfer followed his latest outburst Sept. 22 when, replying to charges he was keeping Nazis in office, he defended his action as necessary to avoid anarchy.

He told a news conference that it might be necessary to keep some Nazis in office "to insure ourselves that women, children and old men will not perish from hunger or cold this winter."

Successor Picked To U. of M. Captain

ANN ARBOR, Oct. 2 (AP) — Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler said today the University of Michigan football squad already contains a good replacement for Captain Joe Ponsetto, the Flint field general who this year completes his last season with the Wolverines.

... Ponsetto ...

"I won't tell you who he is," Crisler declared, "but within two years I should have him ready to take over the quarterbacking spot."

That leaves at least one season when the Wolverines may be without the services of a good quarterback, but Crisler may have forgotten to mention there now is a player on the squad who could assume the all-important backfield call in the interim.

At this time Howard Yerges seems the most logical choice to fill the shoes of Captain Joe.

Two Specialized Short Courses To Be Offered

Ralph W. Tenny, director of the short course program, announced that two specialized short courses are now being offered to students.

The first of these courses is in farm equipment service and sales, which will be continued through both fall and winter terms. The students are placed in farm equipment service centers throughout the nation after completion of the two terms' work.

Upon completion of the two-year course all students will return for a one-week summarization course and will receive a certificate.

Nursery and landscape management will be the program for the second short term course. The studies for these students are similar to those of the first short course but the students enrolled in this program the placed in nurseries during the spring and summer terms.

The two new courses will start Oct. 22 and will be offered in general agriculture and home economics. All of the courses offered under the short term program are in the nature of placement training.
