Navy Opposes Tie With War Department

Navy officers plan In Place of Merger

Pointing at beaten Germany as a horrible example, Rear Adm. Ralph E. Scott opposed proposals for merger of war-departments.

"The Germans had that in Hit-er's days and I don't think it's a profitable example," Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal told the Senate military affairs committee.

Military Suggests

In place of the congressional committee for a single department with authority over air, land and sea forces, the navy's civilian chief suggested:

1. A study of the whole field of postwar defense problems by a legislative committee of members of Congress from the various sections of the country.

2. The establishment of a permanent national military council composed of members from all the services.

3. A reduction of the present number of military and navy departments.

A navy official said many of the wartime organizations established to coordinate efforts in military departments.

Air Department

The cabinet members offered a long chart that showed a trend in the department of air. It was said that a trend in the present war had been toward the consolidation of all armed forces under a single cabinet post.

Coeds Stage Annual Carnival Tonight

Coeds Stage Annual Carnival Tonight

Floor Show, Skit, Demonstration Booths Included in Evening's Entertainment

Demonstration hall will open its doors tonight at 7 and give a pay appearance for all MSC women as the annual Coed Carnival, sponsored by the Student Council, under way. Greeting all fun-seekers at the door will be blowows and hawkers who will hand out pamphlets and a true touch of carnival spirit to the entrance.

Decorated booths representing women's clubs, honoraries, and interest groups will function during the evening both as a source of information about the organizations' activities and as a place of amusement.

Fortune tellers, freak摊, and demonstration booths will all be in evidence with the code booths supervised by the Home club.

Floor Show

The main show of the evening will feature an entertainment with Merrill Walker, Miss Uncomb's, master of ceremonies.

Walker will sing two vocal selections as well as the Lou Grez, singer who will be presented in a joint recital at 8:30 evening in the College auditorium, according to S. B. Moyle, dean of students.

Among other numbers, Miss Moscona will sing "Champion of the Cause" by Davis, the "Gaygo" and "The Last Post of the Day." These numbers will be preceded by a dance presented by the American Legionnaires.

Miss Moscona's debut, in Greece, made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House. Shortly afterwards, the Greek government appointed her as its national ambassador to the United States. The concert is a part of the general Postwar reconstruction program in the United States.

The lecture will include a show of motion pictures dealing with the "Mexican Holiday," which will be the topic of the talk.

How American women compare to the ones Yank soldiers associated with while stationed overseas is a matter of deep interest among V. W. women. The war has been a dark secret, Michigan State College veterans asked when asked of opinion on said subject, gave an answer that should cause a tale of "those who waited". The answer was:

"Many of them were different.

They were more interested in what we were doing, more interested in the work we were doing, and more interested in our American way of living."

It looks like all the excitement about the semi-finals on your campus has been reconciled to it or otherwise aired in this paper — this thing. They have everyday a host of things to talk about, looking to this in a manner, and the interfraternity. What they got up in miles high today is piled up with a bit more today. It is hard to get a sense that there is less positive than good in this game. It took isn't there a key-hole look to see something in the office. Kay Ross, who left school a little while ago, was married in Lansing to Bob Treanor on Saturday. Following the marriage, the bridal party became the bride of Lt. Ken Marshall in Lansing.

The editor: At last week's combined meeting of the faculty, student council, and student interfraternity council, and student interfraternity were drawn into an understandable participation in the discussion concerning the curfew. I am in favor of the curfew. I would like to point out that the viewpoints presented were purely personal opinions and not in accordance with the ideals and policies of the fraternity and of the Interfraternity council.

The topic of the curfew is an individual problem and no facts beyond the scope of authority of fraternal organizations. On behalf of the IPC and the individual it represents, I would like to apologize to all concerned, male and female, for any manner of representation of the administration.

Sincerely,
Bob Frengsteiner

The door for the Lambda Chis started barking on the first floor. As this was followed by Del's barking on the second floor, the activity poured out of the Lambda Chi house onto the street. A third floor was heard and answered. If Lambda Chis and Del had the same barking talent, the street would have no peace. But the third floor, though as hard to bark as its second floor neighbor, had not broken its own silence.
