Spitalny's All-Girl Orchestra To Present Concert Tonight

Program to Include Lighter Classic Repertoire

Thirty women, who comprise Phil Spitalny's all-girl orchestra, will present a concert in College auditorium tonight at 8:15. S. E. Crowe, dean of students, has announced.

Top attraction on radio for the last four years, this "Hour of Charm" orchestra was founded six years ago by its present Russian conductor, Spitalny.

Auditioned Women
Ten years ago Spitalny stopped working with men's orchestras to form an all-girl orchestra. The orchestra rounded into its present state only after Spitalny had auditioned more than 2,000 women.

The members were chosen on the basis of their musical ability on a particular instrument, their singing ability, and appearance, charm and background. Most of them are conservatory school graduates and play two or more instruments.

Main Soloists
Main soloists of the orchestra are Concertmistress Evelyn, violin; Vivian, contralto; and the brass choir of eight trumpeters.

Evelyn joined the organization in 1935 when Spitalny first started an all-girl orchestra. She was given the job of managing the members' problems and keeping the orchestra working smoothly.

Excels in Music
She was born Evelyn Klein in New York and was graduated from the Julliard graduate school of music with honors. She was presented a Berganzi (1756) by the National Arts society. Evelyn was the first woman guest soloist with the Houston Symphony orchestra.

The orchestra specializes in "heart appeal" programs and plays the lighter and more familiar classics to symphonic swing.

Knittel Announces Varsity Debate Try-out Dates

Varsity debate try-outs for men will be held Tuesday at 7:15 p.m. in room 111, Union annex. Try-outs for women will be Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the same room, according to B. J. Knittel of the speech department. Experience is not necessary for qualification on either squad.

Students should come to the try-outs prepared to speak briefly on such topics as foreign trade, free trade, exports, etc., Knittel said. Material is on reserve in the assigned reading room of the library on these topics.

The subject of this year's debate is: "Resolved that the foreign policy of the United States should be directed towards the establishment of free trade among the nations of the world." This question is pertinent to world peace and basic to any world organization.

Debating offers students individual training in analysis, organization of ideas, and a chance to become better informed on American democratic principles. Students also have a chance to qualify for membership in Pi Kappa Delta, national debate honorary, Knittel commented.

Now that the war is over several trips are being contemplated.

Men to Vote On Restoring Formal Dress

Corsage Ban to Continue For All Open Dances At Michigan State

Student council members decided at their meeting last night to put the question of reinstatement of formal college dances to a vote of all men students.

The voting on this subject will be held at the same time final ballots are cast for junior and senior class officers, in the first week of December, according to election chairman Ora Smith, Dearborn senior.

Voting will be limited to men students since the element of formal male dress was discussed as the chief factor against parties of the type held prior to the war. Pres. Helen Fisher, Grand Haven senior, said.

Smith announced that tentative plans for the dual class elections include nomination balloting the week before Thanksgiving. Final dates for both nominations and elections will be announced within the next week, he added.

Members of the group voted to continue the council amendment banning flowers and corsages from all open college dances. The ruling against corsages was added to the constitution of the organization several years ago, following an all-college vote, and will be rigidly enforced again this year, Miss Fisher said.

Byrnes Requests Lend Lease Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The United States has asked the British and Dutch to take the American label off lend-lease arms they use to put down restive natives in Java and Indo-China, Secretary of State Byrnes disclosed today.

This country objects to use of lend-lease munitions in situations having political connotations, he told a news conference.

This policy of objection applies everywhere, including South America, he asserted. Venezuelan revolutionists used lend-lease equipment in their recent successful uprising.

Byrnes virtually conceded there is little the United States can do about the political use of lend-lease arms, except to try to cover up their origin.

College To Select 400 Trailers Through FHA To Provide Emergency Housing For Vets; Expect Future Enrollment of 6,000

The "little legislature" granted Michigan State college $211,000 yesterday to provide emergency housing for returning veterans.

Pianist Stars With Singers

The Miliza Korju, Nicola Moscona recital held in College auditorium last evening was honored by a very large and attentive audience.

Nicola Moscona sang such songs as Handel's "Thanks Be to Thee" and "Silent Worship," Sarti's "Lungi Dal Caro Beene," and "Nebbie" by Respighi.

Two Selections
Miss Korjus made her entry in a flowing blue chiffon dress. She sang Mozart's "Ailcluia" and "Aria" from "Norma" by Bellini.

Then Glauca D'Attili, pianist, played a sonata of Clementi. This was, possibly, the best part of the entire program. The program consisted chiefly of foreign classical music. Not one piece could be described as being truly American in any characteristic.

Foreign Born
This can be explained by the fact that Miss Korjus was born in Warsaw, Poland, of Swedish-Polish descent, while Moscona is of Greek origin.

Miss Korjus was at her best when she sang "The Gypsy and the Bird," while Moscona hit his top rung in "One More River." —M. W.

Comedy Written By Versatile Englishman

By TOWNSEND RICH
English Department

Noel Coward, whose charming comedy "Blithe Spirit" will be presented by the department of drama Nov. 16 and 17 as the fall term play, is the most outstanding playwright now writing for the English stage.

His career has been one of such diversity, of such success in so many different fields, that he makes a man like Orson Welles seem little more than a talented boy with a gifted press agent.

Versatile Works
Noel Coward has exhibited his amazing theatrical versatility in problem plays like "The Vortex," in frivolous or topical comedies like "Hay Fever," "Private Lives," "Design for Living," and "Blithe Spirit," in melodramas like "Point Valaine," in revues like "This Year of Grace," in a patriotic spectacle like "Cavalcade," in operettas like "Bitter Sweet," in one-act plays like "The series called "Tonight at 8:30," and in a war film like "In Which We Serve."

Besides his career as a playwright, he has been prominent as an actor (particularly in Coward plays), as a writer of short stories and autobiography, as a composer of hit tunes, and as a world traveler and member of the international smart set.

Ideas Inexhaustible
His invention is inexhaustible—and superficial. His theatrical sense is unsurpassed, and invariably commercial. His world is one of smart, witty people whose chief concern in life is to match the brilliant wit of their friends or show up the stupidity and conventionality of those unhappy intruders who find themselves in such flashy society.

Noel Coward has that rare gift in English or any other comedy, a truly light touch. At its best the dialogue of his lovers is brilliant as Benedick and Beatrice are brilliant, or as Mirabell and Millamant. At its lesser moments the dialogue has the thoughtless appeal of sounding brass and tinkling cymbal.

Reverse Patterns
Probability has never concerned Coward particularly. In "Design for Living" he shows the problem of a woman in love with two men. In "Blithe Spirit" he reverses the pattern and shows the dilemma of a man married to two women, with the added complication that both are dead and both seem destined to remain as ghostly inhabitants of his house.

"Blithe Spirit" bears the subtitle, "an improbable farce." Noel Coward has contributed much gaiety to the life of his time, and "Blithe Spirit" is one of his gayest productions.

State now has an enrollment of over 600 veterans, 33 per cent of whom are married. He predicted that the enrollment of veterans would eventually reach 6,000.

The grant will be used to build 400 family units and service buildings with toilet and bath facilities. Trailers for this purpose to be obtained through the federal housing authority have not, as yet, been selected.

Housing Location

South Harrison road and Kalamazoo street will be the location of the trailer housing.

Though the bulk of the $390,500 appropriated for emergency housing goes to Michigan State, University of Michigan, Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Western Michigan College of Education, Central Michigan College of Education, and Northern Michigan College of Education will also receive allotments of the grant.

Other Grants

The University of Michigan will use $42,000 to set up 77 housing units and $25,000 to finance transportation of married veterans now living in Willow village.

Michigan College of Mining and Technology will get $50,000 for 80 family units; Western Michigan, $25,000 for 50 units; Central Michigan, $25,000 for 50 units; and Northern Michigan, $12,000 for 10 units.

Only 2,400 veteran students and their families are provided for in the emergency allotments, while ultimately, a total of 36,000 men are expected to return to Michigan colleges.

Game Rally Plans Include Surprise

An unannounced surprise is in the offing at the pep rally to be held at the west entrance of the Union tomorrow night at 7, according to Red Schneider, Lansing junior.

Cheerleaders will be there to get everyone back in the Spartan spirit. State's 60-piece band, under the direction of Leonard Falcone, will also help spur the Spartans to victory over Marquette Saturday.

"Red" Mulvihall, Grand Rapids senior, will represent the students with a talk in support of the team. Touchdown hero of last week's game, Russ Reader, Dearborn sophomore, will speak on behalf of the team.

State Graduate Sees Action In Red Cross Hospital Unit

By CAROLYN KARNEY
Margaret Collinge, a graduate of '39, returned recently to her home in East Lansing after serving 23 months overseas with the Red Cross. Working in a field hospital unit, she was awarded four battle stars and the ETO ribbon.

In order for a Red Cross woman to be awarded this ribbon she must have at least 100 days under fire and be recommended by the colonel of the army to which she is attached.

Joining the Red Cross in August, 1942, Miss Collinge sailed from Boston to England on a troop ship in December 1943. Soon after the invasion of Normandy, she was attached to a field hospital unit with the first army.

Transferred
She was then transferred to Patton's third army and crossed France and Germany. Miss Collinge was one of the first women to cross the Seine river with American forces.

A field hospital consists of 57 men; five nurses, five medical men, and a Red Cross representative. Field hospital units administer medical aid to those soldiers who would not be able to make an ambulance trip to a hospital station.

These patients are then left in the care of corpsmen or a doctor as the rest of the unit moves along three miles from the front line. These field hospital units are under constant fire of American artillery and at one time this unit lived on K rations for 22 days.

Various Jobs
Miss Collinge's work in the field hospital ranged from making bandages and cleaning the wounded as they came from

U.S. Economists See High Factory Profit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Government economists foresee higher factory profits in 1946 than in any war year, even if wage rates are increased to keep average hourly earnings at last April's war-time level.

The figures, which indicate 1946 profits of manufacturing corporations at $6,300,000,000 after payment of taxes, were submitted today to the reconversion advisory board to assist its study of a national wage-price policy.

They were prepared by economists of John W. Snyder's office of war mobilization and reconversion, at request of the advisory group headed by Max Gardner, former North Carolina governor.

Members of the advisory board conferred with President Truman, after debating the wage-price question in a special session in the White House.

Helicopter at State In Joint Experiment To Stop Crop Freeze

The helicopter that made an appearance on campus yesterday will cause excitement for two or three more days. It is here in connection with an experiment to prevent crops from freezing early. The theory is to draw the warm air down to ground level.

This experiment is being conducted jointly with the army air force and with the departments of horticulture, farm crops, soils, entomology and the agriculture engineering department.

Capt. Hermes of Oklahoma City, Okla., and his crew chief, Sgt. Nigro, Cleveland, O., piloted the helicopter from Wright Field, Dayton, O. Capt. Hermes and Sgt. Nigro are stationed at Wright Field.

Both men have had extensive experience with helicopters. Capt. Hermes has been working on them for two and one-half years, while Sgt. Nigro has handled both helicopters and autogyros as long as the army has used them.

Library Display Historic Papers

Official copies of the Japanese surrender documents, signed Tokyo Bay on Sept. 2, are on display in the foyer of the library, Jackson E. Towne, librarian, has announced.

Probably the most outstanding document is that which bears signature of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Adm. Chester Nimitz and other allied representatives who signed on board the U.S. Missouri.

Emperor Hirohito's proclamation calling for acceptance of surrender terms and consequent signature of the papers, is large made up of phrases concerning the titles and heritage of Japanese rulers. Towne said the documents were received from the U.S. printing office and will be on file with federal and United States documents.

Spartans Expect Crowd For Marquette-MSU Tilt

Coach Announces Same Starting Line-up; Steve Contos Returns to Backfield Slot; Pagel, Stewart to Alternate at Center

With an anticipated crowd of 10,000, the largest to watch a State football game since 1942, the Spartan eleven went to work yesterday in earnest to build up a defense that will stop the vengeance-seeking Marquette team.

Smarting under a 37 to 27 defeat suffered at the hands of the bluejackets from Great Lakes, the Marquette Hilltoppers can ill afford to lose this game, while State, by winning, would add luster to their already accumulated streak of three victories. So far this season the Hilltoppers have lost three and won only one game.

When the Spartans take to the field Saturday, they will be facing a major opponent, an opponent that can and has scored often, and a bunch that will settle for nothing less than victory.

With the return of State's speedy halfback, Steve Contos, the Spartan backfield was boosted to its original power. Contos has been declared eligible for service, but does not yet know when he will have to leave.

Marquette Practices

In yesterday's practice, the reserve team, under Coach Kircher, unloaded a bunch of Marquette plays on the varsity team that produced several weak points in the defense.

Coach Charlie Bachman has announced that the same line that started in the Pitt game will also begin Saturday. This team puts Bill Pagel at the center post while former quarterback Don Stewart will be held as a reserve for Pagel, and expects to see a lot of action.

Ends and Tackles

At the ends for State will be Huey and Ziegler, both of whom started the Wayne game. At the Winners of the college extemporaneous speaking contest, held Tuesday night are Robert Ballard, Jackson senior, first place, and Philip Hesby, Muskegon senior, second place.

Ballard spoke on "Compulsory Military Training for Men" and Hesby talked on "Industrial Relations, Union and Management." First place prize was $10 and second place $5. Ballard will represent the college in the state contest to be held Friday, Nov. 16, at Hillsdale college.

The women's college extemporaneous speaking contest will be held Friday at 7 p.m. in room 46 of College auditorium.

Spartan Players -

Frosh Bill Pagel Fills Center Spot, Stars in Both Offense, Defense

In both the Pittsburgh and Wayne games Bill Pagel has been working at the pivot spot. Starting with the first string in both tilts, he saw most of the action from the center post.

A 240-pound freshman addition to the squad, Pagel hails from Blissfield. On his high school gridiron, Bill played in the line both at the center and tackle slots, and alternated in the backfield as a fullback.

His imposing weight proves very convenient at times, especially when there is a need for a defensive hole to be blocked. Pagel has shown up very well on offense, and Coach Charlie Bachman has used him mainly in this capacity.

Bill is enrolled at State as a physical education major, and expects to become a coach himself some day. However, while at college, Pagel's athletic preference is football and he intends to concentrate upon this sport.

tackles will be Vezmar and Esbaugh, and at the guards, Black and Lamssies.

In the backfield for the Spartans will be either Conti or Johnson at quarterback, Johnson holding the edge over Conti. At the halves will be Reader and Contos, with Breslin at full.

Depend on Passing

In Saturday's game the Spartans will have to depend upon a concentrated passing and running attack to defeat the Hilltoppers. Coach Charlie Bachman stated last night that the coaching staff had to "drive the boys, as they didn't seem to click."

In keeping with the plans for the half time entertainment, the Grand Rapids South high school band will be the guest of the college.

Women's Sports

By TONI EBNER

KEEPING posted on coed campus activities rings up another series of winners in the volleyball tournament. In the rally with Shaw house, West Mayo went overboard to capture a 67 to 14 victory. The match between Alpha Omicron Pi and Precinct 14 put the Greek letter women into the lead with a 2 to 0 score.

Mason Precinct 15 topped Zeta Tau Alpha 31 to 27 and Chi Omega defeated Mason Precinct 11 with a final score of 61 to 10. Other games played this week include: Alpha Chi Omega, 46, and Sanford house, 21; North Williams, 36, and Precinct 17 and 18, 31; Gamma Phi Beta, 37, and Precinct 4, 14; and Kappa Alpha Theta, 54, and Concord house, 19.

The freshman hockey squad so far has held a monopoly on victory after defeating their senior rivals and again downing junior opponents in last Wednesday's game. Final tally gave the freshmen a 3 to 0 margin.

Throwing open its doors to men and women tomorrow night, the pool at the Women's gym will be the scene of a Green Splash party for all students on campus. Chairman of the splash party is Jacqueline Landback, Detroit senior.

Romance of Drugs Month

Penicillin... Blood Plasma... Ether... Diphtheria
Antitoxin... Iodine... these are only a few of the many life-giving drugs that medical science and research has endowed the world with since the turn of the century.

Without the physician's skill in diagnosis, no drug could do its proper work. And by the same reasoning, without the modern methods used by trained pharmacists in compounding the physician's prescription accurately, to the last letter... what assurance would you have that it was exactly as your doctor ordered it?

Think of the mother with her new born child. Today, thanks to the research of medical science... a never-ending quest... the child has a greater life expectancy than ever before in history. Think, too, of our war veterans... what a tremendous saving of human life has been accomplished because of the contribution of these life-giving drugs. Truly there's a romance in drugs when wan faces will smile again and parents will clasp a loved one snatched from death.

Romance of drugs? We can be ever-thankful for its progress through the centuries. Rexall's "Romance of Drug Month" is dedicated to your better health... celebrated with store-wide values.
