Fred Patton's Resignation Will Leave Void Spot in MSC Music Department

By LOIS KENT

In operatic roles, as an orchestral soloist, at music festivals, as a church soloist, on the radio, as a director of massed singing, with oratorio societies, and teaching, Fred Patton has made music most of his life.

Patton, whose resignation as associate professor of music becomes effective Jan. 1, 1946, began his musical career 27 years ago in 1919. He has achieved distinction in every branch of his profession.

Has Extensive Repertoire With a repertoire of more than 50 roles, Patton has sung with the leading operatic organizations of America, including the Metropolitan Opera association. Because of his extensive vocal range he has sung both bass and baritone roles.

Patton made his Detroit debut in 1920 with the Detroit Choral society in "Samson and Delilah." Since that time he has been soloist with the Detroit Symphony orchestra, as well as other leading organizations, singing under the direction of many of the world's great conductors.

Notable among Patton's appearances with the Detroit Symphony orchestra was his participation in the performances of the "St. Matthew Passion." This series of performances has been regarded as one of the outstanding achievements of the Detroit Symphony.

Intensely interested in the development of community singing, Patton inaugurated massed singing at the spring conventions of the Michigan Federation of Music clubs from which he resigned this year as choral chairman. His direction of community singing during Farmers' week was one of the outstanding events of the program.

Before coming to Michigan State 13 years ago, Patton was active in radio work, having been a member of the WEAJ Grand Opera company, the Gypsy Baritone on the Gypsy hour, and guest soloist on many other programs.

Well Traveled Singer Patton has appeared with all the leading oratorio societies, and has sung at musical festivals all over the United States.

He has enjoyed his work with young people at State, and has produced a number of outstanding vocalists. His students consistently placed first in the biennial Federation State contests in 1933, '35, '37, '39.

In 1944 Patton resigned as dean of the Bay View Summer School of Music, where he was director of the large chorus. Patton plans to continue teaching vocal music privately.

Basic Tests Offered To Special Students

More than 200 students taking the Basic college core courses have received permission to take comprehensive examinations with less than three terms registration in a course, according to Dean H. C. Rather.

Special permission must be obtained from Rather, dean of Basic college, to take these examinations early. Nov. 21 is the last day receipts of such applications for the fall quarter will be accepted, he emphasized.

Students who take these examinations are mostly those who are doing superior work in a course or who have had special experiences or hobby interests in these fields, Rather said.

Evening Classes To Be Discussed At Faculty Talk

The advisability of holding evening and noon-hour classes next term will be discussed at the monthly faculty meeting tomorrow night, Pres. John A. Hannah said yesterday.

Evening classes have not been held on campus since 1939, but the increased enrollment expected for next term will necessitate some change in the present schedule, Hannah stated.

The faculty will discuss the advisability of either enlarging the size of the sections from the usual 25 students to 30 or 35, or increasing the number of sections for certain subjects.

In the event that the number of sections is increased, laboratory and class room facilities will not be adequate to handle such subjects as physics, chemistry, and other laboratory courses, Dr. Hannah said. Since class rooms and laboratories are already completely utilized during the day, evening classes must be held.

Certain crowded courses in Basic college, such as written and spoken English, may also be held in the evening, he added.

Campus Treasurers Will Learn Ropes At Conference

Mortar Board will sponsor a meeting for the treasurers of student organizations next Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the Spartan room in the Union, according to Chairman Peggy Fox, Detroit senior.

M. R. Pierson of the accounting office will explain briefly the duties of these treasures and answer any questions concerning their accounts in the administration building.

If any organization is not notified of this meeting, presidents are asked to see that their treasurers attend.

After this fall, these meetings will be held every spring, sponsored by Mortar Board for the new treasurers of the various organizations, not just women's organizations.

The purpose is for the treasurers to find out how to fill requisitions and other forms that must go through the administration building.

Forestry Men Hear R. H. Westveldt Talk

Prof. R. H. Westveldt was the guest speaker at the Forestry club meeting that was held in the Forestry cabin last night. The subject talked on was "Southern Forestry."

Westveldt is an instructor at the University of Florida. He graduated from State in 1922 with a bachelor degree. He then went on to Yale and received his masters degree, and is now at Michigan State college studying for a doctor's degree in soil science.

All other women students who can, will also wear them. Larry Frymire will interview persons in the lobby of Fairchild theater before the performance. The interviews will be transmitted into the theater by loudspeaker for the audience to enjoy before curtain time.

Party Planned Backstage A party will be held in the construction room for the cast, crews, and director, immediately following the play, Billie Green, Detroit senior and chairman of the party, has announced.

The party will last until 11:45 p.m. and is open to speech majors, their families, and friends. Tickets may be purchased in the speech office, 149 College auditorium.

Geisenhof Will Emcee Paul E. Geisenhof will be master of ceremonies, and refreshments will be served. Committees for the party are: decorations, Helen Kroll, Lansing senior; refreshments, Pat Sheppard, Royal Oak senior; tickets, Randy TePoorten, Pontiac junior; and publicity, Renee Scott, East Lansing senior.

Spartan Varieties Postponed, Board Tells Other Plans

Union board made plans for Friday Frolic and Party-Party, stag or drag dances, and a student faculty tea at the joint dinner meeting of the executive board and the sub-committees last night, according to June McNutt, Detroit senior, and Jim Graves, Muskegon sophomore, co-chairmen.

An informal get-acquainted dance, the next Friday Frolic will be held Nov. 23 from 8:30 to 11 p.m. In addition to dancing by recorded music in the Union ballroom, tables will be set up in the main dining room for students who wish to play bridge, chess, checkers, or other games.

As a special feature the Michigan State-Miami university football game will be broadcast at this time on the main floor of the Union.

Union board also scheduled its Party-Party for Nov. 24 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Union ballroom, Graves announced. "Spartan Varieties," an original student talent broadcast, was scheduled to reappear at this time, but because this will be Thanksgiving weekend the radio show has been postponed until Jan. 19. After that it will be given each Saturday.

THAT DOES IT

By MARION HECKEL

THE merry-go-round of campus elections starts next week, but things really have to get lively if the old MSC politics pace is to get going this year. A quick check of newspaper files on the subject (it took a good hour, and much thumbing through dust) shows that the last mud-slinging, name-calling balloting was in 1941. By the following year, Spartans had a few other things on their minds—although still not much.

In the dead dead days beyond recall, thank heavens, electioneering was an art, and the politicians of the campus started during fall term to get their little black books filled with possibilities. Back then, voting for class officers, AWS representatives, Student Council divisional representatives and ISA (Independent Students Association) heads was a combined affair which kept winter term in a continuous muddle.

Funny things did happen, too, as for example, the freshman who promised two fraternities he would pledge if they would back him in to the frosh presidency. They did, but he didn't, and he was just a little popular for some time after that. Or, there was the ambitious student who greeted the deliverboys of the State News at the unearthly hour of 6 a.m., and inserted campaigning pamphlets into each copy of the paper.

When it came time for the regular vote, one class had no chance because during the primaries and nominations, their candidates had been disqualified. (Guess it was during that same period that another class didn't have any candidates . . . they weren't interested.) The legalities were too strong, and by the time a faculty examining board had considered all angles, the class had no one for whom they could vote.

Rules and regulations in previous years have been much more stringent than the present set. There are only five points to the rules which govern elections this year: a. campaign literature is limited to mimeographed material. This probably started when parades and handbills floated from the main intersection of East Lansing to the far banks of the Red Cedar.

b. Check lists of voters can be used, provided that such lists are not used on the floor where the election is being conducted. Apparently some former student was too near-sighted and had to move in on the voters to check 'em off, giving a few words of good advice at the same time.

c. No coercion, intimidation, force or fine shall be used. My, my, maybe a few billy-clubs were in use during campaigning at MSC. d. Each voter must identify himself or herself at the polls. Did they use the old politico technique of going through the grave yards and collecting names from the tombstones?

The last rule on the list says: e. Only members of the Student council election board will be present at all times while the polls are open. This undoubtedly began in the days when stuffing the ballot boxes was a common custom.

One of the minor points on the list of regulations asks that no written material nor electioneering shall be held within one hundred feet of the polls . . . probably all bars within 50 yards radius were closed one hour before the polls were opened.

Macklin Field Will Hold Last Game of Year

Spartans Face Penn This Week, Then Go To Miami

The fifth and final home game of the season will be played this Saturday on the college field, with the Spartans facing the powerful Penn State squad.

One week later, on Friday, Nov. 23, Coach Bachman will take his varsity squad to Miami, Fla., where the Spartans will wind up the 1945 season with a night game with the University of Miami.

This is the third of the series between Penn State and Michigan State, and so far each team has taken one game. It will be the first time that the Lions will appear at East Lansing, the previous two games being played at State college.

Penn Looks Strong

Penn State walked off with the most recent game of the series, when they toppled the Spartans 13 to 6 in 1925, and in 1914 State defeated Penn State 6 to 3. From these scores there is nothing to indicate what will happen this Saturday except the two schools' records so far this year.

Coach Bob Higgins, 1919 all-American end and head coach of his alma mater since 1930, has a staff unique in that its members are all Penn State alumni. One of the few all-alumni coaching units in college football, the staff includes Joe Bedenk, all-American guard in 1923, as line coach; Al Michaels, backfield coach; Earle Edwards, end coach, and Marty McAndrews, freshman coach.

Veteran is Threat

Kingpin of the Penn State attack is Joe Tepsic, Guadalcanal veteran and one of the best running backs in the East. The examine is the team's leading scorer, possessing triple threat talents.

In the forward wall Penn State boasts experience and weight, headed by tackles Marion Marchi, a 220-pound senior, and Johnny Nolan, a 210-pound navy trainee.

The Penn State game will mark the last time for the college fans to watch Jack Breslin, State's ace fullback, although he is playing only his second year of varsity ball. Breslin has announced his intention to graduate from State next summer.

Spartan Gridders Cross Fingers As Practice Starts

Michigan State's football team resumed practice last night after a one day layoff. The outlook for next Saturday's game with Pennsylvania State however is none too bright.

Several of the team's standout performers are nursing injuries.

Coach Charlie Bachman has no definite replacement for Vezmar, who was injured Saturday, and although Mike Tesin appears to have the inside track, Norm Tipton is also eligible. The possibility that Dick Massuch and Bob Schnitker could be used leaves the tackle position wide open as this week's practice gets underway.

In the backfield, State's chief offensive threats, Reader and Breslin, are being excused from scrimmage to avoid aggravating the injuries received last Saturday. Bob Ludwig and quarterback Dominic Conti were running in the left half slot last night, while Don Hendricks took over fullback.

On the line Coach John Kobs is faced with a double task. Next Saturday, for the first time since the Michigan game, State will face a team whose offense starts from a single wing formation.

Thus Kobs is not only trying to find a suitable replacement for Vezmar, in the event he can not play, but he is also drilling the line in defensive strategy aimed at stopping Penn State's powerful offense.

Farmers' Clubs Will Celebrate

The Michigan association of Farmers' clubs will hold its 50th annual meeting today in the Union ballroom, R. W. Tenny, short course director, announced. This will be a golden jubilee for the club and has been postponed since 1942 because of war conditions.

The meeting will open at 10 a.m. with an invocation at Peoples church. In the afternoon session Tom King will discuss the topic "Opportunities for Veterans in Agriculture." The convention will end with a banquet in the main dining room of the Union at 6:30 p.m. with Hayes as master of ceremonies. At the banquet Dean Anthony will speak on "A Look Into Agriculture."

Those present will be delegates from the Farmers' clubs all over the State; Karl McDonel, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, and various members of the MSC faculty.

Women's Sports

By LIZ CORKY

THE battle for the volley ball plaque is still raging, and so far it's anyone's race.

Last Thursday night North hall bowed to Kappa Delta who won with a score of 17 to 44. On the same night Sigma Kappa rose over Zones 1 and 3 with 39 points to the latter's 18.

Alpha Phi piled up 66 points to Ewing Bensons 10, while North Campbell defeated Lansing Zone 5 with the score of 41 to 10. Precinct 8 bowed to Alpha Xi Delta who had 41 points compared to the precinct's 18.

Also on Thursday night the Kappa Kappa Gammas defeated the Sarah Williams team with a score of 36 to 25, and Taft house conceded to Alpha Omicron Pi who scored 47 points to their 10. The Chi Omegas scored 46 points while their opponents the Zet Tau Alphas totaled only 9, and the Alpha Chi Omegas tied with Precinct 4 at 23 points each.

Monday night's games brought forth a new set of winners. The Kappa Alpha Thetas topped the Kappa Deltas 47 to 18, and South Williams accumulated 45 points to the Taft house 20. Precinct 14 was defeated by Robinson house 14 to 27, and the Kappa Kappa Gammas totaled 58 points to the Mason Nine 5.

The Pi Beta Phis tied with Alpha Omicron Pi at 24 points each, and the Zeta Tau Alphas scored 38 points while their opponents, Precinct 7, totaled only 29. North Williams defeated Sanford house 36 to 20, and Precinct 13 wone from Precincts 17 and 18 by a 10 to 30 score.

Champion Team Can Be One of 12

There are still 12 teams undefeated in the women's volley ball tournament, according to Miss Dorothy Parker, associate professor in the physical education department.

The tournament is still in progress and the rest of the games will be played off soon to decide the winners. The undefeated teams are: in Block I, Precinct 1-3, and 16 of Mason hall; Block II, Alpha Phi and North Campbell; Block III, Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma; Block IV, Chi Omega and West Mayo; Block V, Gamma Phi Beta and North Williams; and Block VI, South Campbell and Kappa Alpha Theta.

Last year the Thetas won first place in the tournament with the Kappas as runners up.

Combat Pilot Returns to Campus After 51 Missions Over Enemy

By KEN CLARK

Combat is an old story to Michigan State college matman Burl J. Boring, Ponca City, Okla., junior. A former air corps navigator and member of the famed "Jolly Rogers," heavy bomber group, Burl was discharged Oct. 20. He flew 51 missions in all, flying over such targets as Hongkong and Canton in China, Okinawa, Philippines and French Indo-China.

In flying more than 500 combat hours, Burl showed an abundance of courage. He brought in three different planes that had from 50 to as high as 80 holes in them, all the result of flak. Each of the B-24s had to be discarded, so extensively were they damaged.

Burl was born in St. Louis, Mo. He is a '41 graduate of Ponca City high. His first enrollment at State was in the fall term of 1941. He won his freshman wrestling numerals in the '42 season. In 1943 Burl won a varsity letter as a member of the Michigan State wrestling team.

While attending high school at Ponca City, Burl was coached by a brother-in-law of Michigan State college mat coach, Fendley

Collins. Burl is well schooled in the Collins technique. Although he has wrestled in the national AAU meet, Burl has not yet won a championship of grunt and groan variety. His opponents cannot take him too lightly.

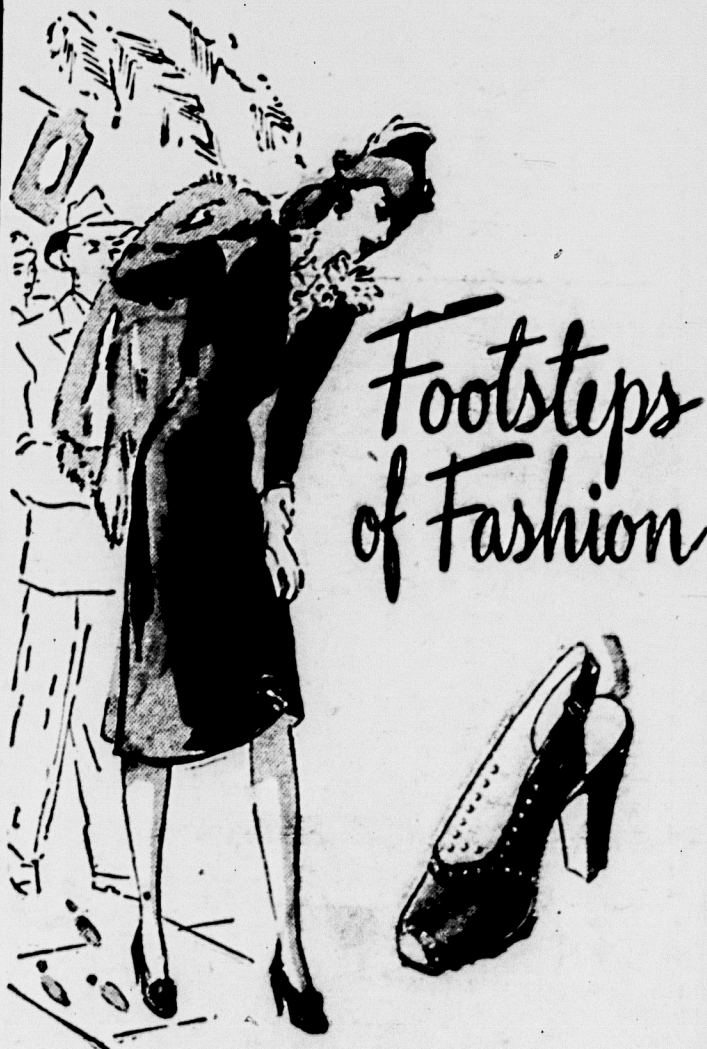

Vezmar Plans to Start

Yesterday's announcement of the injury which would force Walt Vezmar from playing with the Michigan State Spartans has been refuted by the 240-pound tackle. The story, which the Michigan State News took from the Associated Press wire, was substantially right in that Vezmar sustained injuries in the head, however, he expects to be playing with the team Saturday against Penn State.

Cleveland Orchestra Shows Up Brilliantly Under Leader

A capacity audience filled College auditorium last night to hear another excellent concert performance presented by the Cleveland orchestra under the direction of Erich Leinsdorf, famed musician and conductor at only 33 years of age.

Appropriately enough, the program began with a light, frothy composition: Overture, "Portsmouth Point," by Walton. Full of intertwining melodies, sounding exactly like a busy port, this work was played and directed with fine precision. Selections from "Pelleas and Melisande" by Debussy were melodious and soft with the string section bringing out the smoothness characteristic of this composer.

Lovely and familiar was the tone poem "Don Juan" by Strauss, displaying orchestral virtuosity and demonstrating the fine qualities of the music.

Beethoven's famous Fifth Symphony in C minor, the final number on the program, was brilliantly played with all the perfection and exactitude it deserves. The second movement was particularly deep and rhythmic. Leinsdorf conducted it with a gracefulness and excellence that brought out the best qualities of the symphony.

Three Strauss selections, "Music of the Spheres," "Thunder and Lightning," and "Perpetual Mobile," encores, were heartily applauded. Unappreciative listeners who left early paid scant tribute to the fine performance of the evening. —B. W.

Science, Arts School Leads in Enrollees For Fall Quarter

Of the 5,281 students enrolled for the fall quarter at MSC, a greater preference has been shown for science and arts than for any other curriculum offered, according to Robert S. Linton, registrar.

Business and public service, and home economics rank next in their respective order. Among the lowest is listed the agriculture and forestry curriculum, which ranks just slightly over that of students who profess no special major.

As for the subject preference, home economics, language and literature, and business administration hold the top three positions with pre-dental and business and public service (no major) holding down the bottom of the list.

Three Short Plays Will Be Presented By Studio Theater

Studio theater members will present three plays for the group at the meeting tomorrow night at 7:15 in room 49 of College auditorium, according to Paul Geisenhof, advisor for the group.

"The Dreg," a melodrama, will be directed by Forrest Coggan, Lansing junior. Members of the cast are Mary Taylor, Huron, O., sophomore; Don Perry, Detroit sophomore; Robert Long, Dearborn freshman, and Marius Ingratta, Lemington, Ont., freshman.

Kay Telfer, Owosso junior, has charge of the third play, "The Boor," a Russian melodrama. Included in the cast are Felice Breszy, Detroit junior; Kathleen Kragt, Holland freshman, and Jack Russell, Buchanan freshman.

Staging will be handled by Russell Mawby, Grand Rapids freshman, and makeup is under the direction of Ann Huggett, Hillsdale freshman.

Wheels of Progress to Turn For Publication Row Guests

State News, MSC Vet, Wolverine Will Exhibit

By JUNE WILKINSON

To the many timid souls who have never ventured down Publication row, the creation of a yearbook, magazine, or daily paper may be quite as mysterious as the workings of a ouija board.

For these students, and faculty members, the publications "open house" was instituted four years ago, and subsequently became an annual tradition.

Visitors to this year's open house, which will be held Tuesday night from 7 to 9, will be able to observe and ask questions about the Wolverine yearbook, the State News, and the MSC Veterinarian. All publications will have staff members present to explain the work they are doing.

Since the Wolverine staff has not yet been completed, displays of work already done for the 1946 book will be featured. Observers may see page dummies on which pictures and copy are organized, control sheets, and advertising plans among the interesting exhibitions.

Next door in the State News office, which is room 8, Union annex, visitors will find Wednesday's paper in the process of completion. With a local copy deadline for reporters of 3:30 p. m., there still remains much work to be done in the early evening by the night editor and her assistants.

In the Editor's Hair

Guests will be given a chance to read the latest Associated Press news as it comes over the wire and to watch it being edited by the assistant night editor.

Besides displays of the various news sources used by the State News, open house visitors will also see staff members busy writing heads for the stories already written, collecting last minute facts for the paper, or perhaps discussing the day's events in hopes of finding an inspiration for the Today's Campus column. One person will be present to take completed copy to the Campus Press for printing.

The veterinarians' quarterly magazine will move its office from the usual habitat in Vet clinic to the State News business office for the open house evening. The staff, which edits a magazine to be sent to veterinarians all over the state, will show its work largely in the form of mounted displays. Guests may also read past issues of the magazine.

Man is creation's masterpiece. But who says so?—Man. —Gavarni.
