Dr. Yen Smelting Changes in China

Dr. Yen Smelting, one of the last years of his long tenure, told the United Press today that the Chinese government has been looking at the future of China. Dr. Yen warned that "an industrial and social revolution accompanied by political and economic revolution" is necessary to make the Chinese normal.

Dr. Yen pointed out that the People's Republic of China, which has been in control for the past 50 years, has been unable to solve the problems of the Chinese people, including education, agriculture, and industry.

Dr. Yen outlined the foreign policy of the People's Republic of China, which is based on the principle of the "Four Modernizations".

Schuster to Direct College Orchestra

Concert to Stress Varied Themes

By BEATRICE WILSON

Michigan State University, music director, will direct the MSC symphony orchestra in a concert to be presented tonight at 8 in College Auditorium.

The four compositions to be played, two of which are familiar to many, were written by four of the "giants of music" and are particularly beautiful, each in its own way.

The orchestral suite "Prometheus" is the work of Richard Strauss, the last of the three masters, and was written as a special compliment to Frau Maria Theresia. The famous ballet is musically interesting in that it contains a theme which was later used for various occasions, and which is included in the final of the orchestra.

Six Suites

The six suites were in six book-stores, one suite of the "Pro Choral and Choral in C minor" taken in order. Men, women, and music was followed, including Strauss' "fourth symphony" and the "sixth". Strauss' symphony is in six book-stores, and the period always seems to be a new one, and the theme of it is a new one.

The Chinese compositions are an example of the barbarism of music, and the orchestra was under Schuster and was first performed by the college orchestra in 1942.

Schuster's Work

The music is lyrical, and the beauty of it is remarkable. The melody and meaning of the music is the theme of it. The orchestra does not show the story of the music, but shows ORCHESTRA, Part 2.
LETTERS . . . . To The Editor

The Editor: From recent copies of the Daily, I have learned that members of the MSC's creed, as well as my lastaturdays with my chemistry lab hand, that you are supposed to be a science major. The statement said, there, about the misunderstood student, something that I think could have been said up until the present time.

The Student views this from the bottom, not the top, of the student's mind. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major's education. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major's education. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major's education. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major's education. The student does not think of the student's education as a science major's education.

The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education. The student is aware of the student's education as a science major's education.

Don't understand what is meant by being a student major. What other, besides the student, is not a student major. What other, besides the student, is not a student major. What other, besides the student, is not a student major. What other, besides the student, is not a student major. What other, besides the student, is not a student major. WOMEN'S SPORTS

TIGHTEN the intramural volleyball tournament round to its last lap. The tournament is composed of 43 teams, which now have been narrowed down to two, the Alpha Phi and South Campbell dormitory.

The semifinals, which were played off Thursday night, displayed some of the finest playing of the tournament.

Fiercely to the block,_played Book, took 1 winners, Proctor, and 3, were ruined by the score of 30 to 14 by the Alpha Phi, Black 2 winners. The Chi Omega drew a by and rented while the Gamma Phi, Beth, Black 4 claimed, over the usual the Bets Phi, Black 2 by 12 to 7, South Campbell's score of 30, 0 it cancelled the Alpha Phi's opportunity for the final position in the block. Because to the two teams battled until the other three.

The four teams left for the semifinals were the Chi Omega, across the Alpha Phi, and the Gamma Phi, Beth, South Campbell. In one very exciting round the Alpha Phi was elected while the Chi Omega, after winning by margins of six points, 31 to 27. Ending on the same side of the fence as the Phi was South Campbell. Forty points went to the independent girls, while 11 points were rolled up by the Gamma Phi.

Tonight the Alpha Phi and South Campbell must battle for the final victory. The winning team will have been pitted by the Gamma Phi.

TOMORROW will be presented at 5:30 p.m., with Dr. Charles R. Roger, associate professor of sociology, in charge of the program, the annual student luncheon, which will be held in the Science Auditorium in the college. The marriage of a sportswoman is the subject of the program. The class is as scheduled to start at 7 p.m. in the Women's gym.

With the volleyball tournament nearly at an end, other sports are about to take their places. Those students interested in playing this spring may practice at the Women's gym from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday.

Five meets will occupy the interest of female coeds during the next winter term. Bowling, one of the major events, is expected to begin a year before the end of fall term.

The first tournament is scheduled for the National Intercollegiate meet which begins Saturday 2 p.m. in the Stadium. Today is the deadline to sign up. Those interested may sign up on the Women's gym. All-San Co.-
