

Union Dance, Victory Parade Take Spotlight for Tonight

Student Club, North Hall, Sorority, Fraternity Entertainment Also On Weekend Calendar

By LIZ CORRY

The social calendar is a full one for this weekend. Besides the Jan Savitt dance in College auditorium, many other events are planned.

Preceding the dance will be the Aquatic Victory Parade of 1945 which Porpoise, men's swimming honorary, is sponsoring. The program, which begins at 7:15, will consist of swimming exhibitions and the crowning of the aquatic queen.

Also taking place tonight is the party which Theta Chi pledges have planned for the actives. It will be given in the Forestry cabin, and the decorations will carry out a "Lil Abner" theme. The party is slated to take place from 9 to 12, and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fergus and Mr. and Mrs. Tom McGram will act as chaperons.

Radio Party

"Tinsel Twirl" is the theme of tonight's Kappa Delta radio party. Julie Truesdale, Buffalo, N. Y. junior, is in charge of this 9 to midnight affair, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Linton, and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Gallacher will be the chaperons.

Another group of pledges giving a party for the actives are the Sigma Alpha Epsilons. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Duncan will be chaperons, Chester Lulek, Dearborn freshman, has announced. The Alpha Omicron PIs will brave the cold and go on a hayride tonight. The two-hour ride will terminate at 10 and then the coeds and their dates will return to the chapter house for dancing and refreshments.

Term Party

Tomorrow night the Alpha Gamma Delta semi-formal term party will take place in the Masonic temple. Music will be provided by Dick Snook and his orchestra. The Sigma Kappas have a term party planned for the same night and likewise the Gamma Phi Betas. "Holiday Inn" is the theme of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Saturday night term party.

Also taking place tomorrow night is the Student club term social dance and North hall's term party. Concluding tomorrow night's program is the open house which the Alpha Xi Deltas are holding for the Lambda Chis.

Today's Campus

... Not So Quiet

Students of Prof. Alan Scott's advertising class were curious and furthermore amazed when recently he walked to the door, walked to his desk, walked to the door, and then back to his desk again (all students, of course, observed the silence). It was discovered that he was showing off a loud squeak in his new shoes. "These," he explained, "aren't just any ordinary wearing apparel, but my policeman shoes." It's a slight question now whether Scott's past is filled with a history of walking a reporter's beat—or something else.

... Blondes Desired

In case anyone was wondering why the former blonde, Dawn Haugan, Birmingham freshman, had an extremely dirty looking neck yesterday, they need only to suffer overnight the change from a beautiful blonde to an equally beautiful, but temporary, brunette. The dirty neck was due to the substance used—carbon paper.

Sten to Present Concert Tonight

SUZANNE STEN
... concert guest ...

Suzanne Sten, mezzo-soprano of the Chicago and San Francisco opera, will present a concert of classic and modern music tonight at 8 in the Music auditorium as a part of the music department series.

Miss Sten has a richness of voice combined with beauty and style which has made her known from coast to coast for her brilliant achievements in opera, radio, and concert.

As symphony soloist she has appeared with symphony orchestras such as the New York Philharmonic symphony, the Boston symphony, and the Pittsburgh symphony.

Miss Sten has a background of achievement in the opera houses and concert halls of Europe. She was a star of the famous Neues Deutsches theater in Prague.

Her program will include Bizet's "Agnus Dei," and aria from "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, and selections by Brahms Haydn, and Massenet.

Tickets For Banquet Available Tomorrow

The 25th annual football banquet for the Michigan State team will be held tomorrow at 6:15 p.m. in the Union ballroom. All football players and managers who finished the season are cordially invited and may secure their tickets from Glenn Moore, New Buffalo junior, between 5 and 6 p.m. in the main lobby of the Union tomorrow.

Jobs Made Available to Students

Just by walking into Prof. Tom King's office in the placement bureau, registering his name, stating the kind of work he desires and his hours, a student can get a job immediately or in the very near future.

Local merchants as well as the college departments contact King when a position is open, and King contacts those who have applied for such a position.

Positions offered on the campus include food services in the Union and dorms, buildings and grounds work, office work in the various departments, and jobs in the buildings and utilities department.

In the East Lansing vicinity there are shops and gas stations that employ students. Those who are regular residents of the East

Chairmen List Mardi Gras Committees

Committees to work on the annual Mardi Gras, which has been scheduled for Feb. 22, have been chosen by co-chairmen of the dance, Anne Cowan, Detroit senior, and Bud Smith, Dearborn senior.

As in past years, crowning of the queen of the Mardi Gras will climax the evening. Bob Butler, Fenton junior, is chairman of the coronation committee and will be assisted by Dorothy Lamont, Royal Oak senior; Dick Mosher, East Lansing junior, and Jane Walcott, Fenton junior.

Elections for the queen will be handled by Student council with Bill Page acting as chairman. On his committee will be Lou Cross, Painted Post, N. J., junior, and Juanita Soergel, South Haven sophomore. No money will be involved in this year's elections, and each student will have only one vote, according to Smith.

Marion Heckel, Birmingham senior, will take charge of publicity for the Mardi Gras. She will be assisted by Leone Seastrom, Geneva, Ill., senior, and Sue Littlefield, Eaton Rapids sophomore.

The patron committee will be headed by Betty Card, Hillsdale junior, with Fred Meyer, Fair Haven senior; Alice Ford, Forestia, O., junior, and Mary Mackey, Battle Creek sophomore, assisting. Howie Neale, Dearborn sophomore, has been appointed decorations chairman, but no committee has been chosen as yet.

Bud Cline, Owosso sophomore, is head of the band committee. Assisting him will be: Jayne Allmayer, Detroit sophomore; Marcia Gast, St. Joseph senior; Marion Clarke, Birmingham senior, and Butler.

Crowded Conditions Will Be Solved With Noon, Night Classes

As a temporary solution to the problem of crowded classrooms, between 45 and 50 classes will be offered during the noon hour and at night beginning winter term, Lloyd C. Emmons, dean of the school of science and arts, announced.

At least one section of all Basic college courses and various upper school subjects will be offered at noon and at night from 7 to 10.

This program will continue until a new classroom building and possibly until a new science building can be built, Emmons said.

The new schedule is necessary because of the increased enrollment due to the number of veterans returning to school. During the war many classrooms were converted to laboratories and offices; also—the basic courses, meeting more often, require more space than upper school courses.

Lansing area may obtain various positions during the Christmas holidays in the department stores and gift shops. King emphasized that those who plan to work during Christmas vacation should make application now.

An urgent plea has been made by the government that all students who are possibly able to, will help out in their hometown postoffices either as mail carriers, truck drivers or in the sorting department.

With the problem of insufficient help still around, King said he hopes Michigan State students will share in the burden of making the yuletide season a happy one by doing their share in keeping things running smoothly, be it helping mother to bake the Christmas cookies or driving the trucks that will deliver them.

Richard's Day Honored Here

Members of the school of home economics will observe Ellen H. Richards day at a reception to be given in honor of her memory Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Little Theater of the Home Economics building.

Regarded as the founder of home economics, Mrs. Richards was the first woman graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology where she was an instructor in chemistry until her death in 1911.

Mrs. Richards was an outstanding leader in the formation of the American Home Economics association as its first president.

Dean Marie Dye will give a brief talk at the reception on the contribution made to the field of home economics by Ellen H. Richards. At this time Dean Dye will also present the Borden award which consists of $300 awarded by the Borden company to a senior home economics student for outstanding scholarship during her first three years of college.

Ruth Koffel, Kalamazoo senior, is general chairman of the reception. Anne Cowan, Detroit senior, is in charge of guests and the receiving line. Invitations have been taken care of by the home economics sophomore board.

The hostesses for the reception will be the members of the freshman, sophomore and senior home ec boards. Louise Eltinge, Chicago, Ill., senior, is in charge of food and service.

Other chairmen include program, Miss Cowan; publicity, Colleen Vanderslice, Midland sophomore, and room decoration and arrangements, Marion Williams, Lansing junior.

International Club Initiates Tonight

International club will highlight this weekend with the initiation of new members tonight at 7:30, and an open house Sunday from 4 to 6 p.m., according to Peter Gerns, publicity chairman.

All members, and all prospective members who have been notified by mail of the initiation, are requested to attend the meeting at the house.

Lyle Maxwell will play Christmas carols on the piano at the last open house of the year this Sunday. Members of the Student council, State News and Mortar Board staffs will also be present.

Orchestra Gives Polished Concert For Small Public

A small, but select and very appreciative audience heard the MSC symphony orchestra perform in College auditorium last night. Under Alexander Schuster, professor of music, the orchestra played well and the performance with few exceptions was so smooth as to be practically perfect.

Symphony No 8 in B minor ("Unfinished") by Schubert was the composition most beautifully and proficiently played. The clear tone of the flutes and the smooth sound of the strings brought out all the simplicity, sincerity, and gentle melancholy that pervades this work, which the composer never completed and never heard performed. The soft, flowing andante con moto has a dreamy quality which the orchestra displayed effectively.

The plaintively lovely "Prelude and Fugue in C minor" by Bach-Gomer was performed brilliantly, and Beethoven's Overture to "The Men of Prometheus" displayed the best qualities of the string section.

The first two themes of Tschai-kowsky's Overture-Fantasy "Romeo and Juliet" was stirring and magnificent as it should be, but the theme from which the lovely song "Our Love" was taken, was spoiled by the violins, which were flat and too slow in joining the other instruments to make a perfect whole. —B. HELEN GOVER, Editor

This is the first of a series of AWS notes which will appear once a week, explaining problems the board has been confronted with during the week.
AWS NOTES OF THE WEEK:
Many cases have come to the AWS governing board this term that have as their basic cause a misunderstanding of one of the more pertinent AWS rules, according to Sue Averill, Birmingham senior and president of AWS.
Miss Averill stated that the rule was this, "Women who find it absolutely necessary to return between their residence's closing hour and 8 a.m. must have special permission from the counselor of women's office in advance and make arrangements with the hostess."
Many women have not been heeding this rule and have not made the proper arrangements. Miss Averill went on to say that all coeds will be held responsible for this rule and all others that are stated in the AWS handbook, and ignorance of the restriction is not deemed as an excuse.
AWS has had under discussion at its last few meetings, the advisability of prohibiting the use of late permissions on Sunday night by MSC women. The final decision on this subject will be made at next Tuesday's meeting.
Miss Averill announced that any faculty member, housemother or State student who has an opinion on that question and would like to express that opinion should get in touch with an AWS representative.

Basic Exams to Require Ident Card

Students taking comprehensive examinations next week must present their photostatic identification cards to the examiner. Temporary identification cards without pictures will not be acceptable unless prior arrangements have been made at the office of the board of examiners, Paul L. Dressel, of the board announced today.
Comprehensive examinations are being given according to the following schedule:
Effective living . . . . . Mon., Dec. 3, 9-12, 2-5 Fairchild theater
Written, spoken Eng. . . . . Tues., Dec. 4, 9-12, 1-5 Auditorium
Biological science . . . . . Wed., Dec. 5, 9-12, 1-5 Fairchild theater
Physical science . . . . . Thurs., Dec. 6, 9-12, 1-5 Fairchild theater
Social science . . . . . Fri., Dec. 7, 9-12, 1-5 Fairchild theater
History of civilization . . . . . Sat., Dec. 8, 9-12, 1-5 Fairchild theater
Basic college students should see their counselors before the close of this quarter in order to make out as much as possible of their winter quarter program. Dressel has also announced.
Counselors will not be able to handle all their students during the two day winter quarter registration period and those students who do not see their counselors earlier may miss their scheduled registration period.
Students who plan to change their school preference for winter quarter should see their counselors about this at once. If, for good reason any student wishes to change counselors, he or she should consult Dressel before the end of the quarter.

Mad As Hopps

By JANICE HOPPS

AFTER a lot of cussing and discussing on the part of the student body, Student council has set the wheels in motion to revise its constitution.
The aim, whatever the results may be, is to preserve a government of the student, by the student and for the student (if Lincoln will pardon the digression.) Or perhaps we mean the aim is to reinstate such a government. More than once in the past couple of years the status of our "student" government has been questionable.
The results achieved from such an ambition are going to depend on an actively interested student body or an existing Student council that is unusually alert to student needs, desires and idiosyncracies.
If we place our faith without question in our representatives we will be accepting a detrimental laissez-faire policy. No matter how carefully representatives were selected, no matter how outstanding their qualifications, the best of us are only human, subject to making errors and not usually endowed with great psychic powers.
But given a guiding hand, fed constructive instead of the usual destructive type of criticism, members of Student council aren't likely to bite the hand that feeds them.
This morning as you step up to that nucleus of States' activity, the Union desk, don't run when you have your bluebooks, cigarettes and four cents change in hand. Instead of verbally expounding on that pet gripe on student government, write it down, toss it in the box that Student council has placed at the desk and be on your way. A simple procedure and one that can bring results. I don't know what everyone's going to talk about if they just put those grapes on paper, but finals are always handy things for dragging down the morale.

One fallacy in this procedure, however, is that comparatively few students know the present Student council constitution, the rights, limitations and organization which it provides. Perhaps copies might be placed on all campus bulletin boards, in dormitories, off-campus houses and in the Union.
Students who have been groping in the dark wondering why the student government does some things and doesn't do others might discover the reasons if they could see the constitution in black and white. Their suggestions for revising the constitution would then have some basis, for it's difficult to change what one doesn't know.
Another suggestion might be to make copies of the old constitution available, the one in effect before the war, before it was necessary to enact a provisional constitution. Some may not know it, but Student council is now operating under rules which were set up especially for a student-operated college.
For example, normally a Student council president had to be of senior class standing. In order to keep the council in existence, it was necessary to lift this restriction in the provisional constitution which is still in effect.
The fact that the constitution is provisional, combined with its demonstrated inadequacy, is responsible for the pending revision. The old constitution may contain food for thought while

Lettermen Brighten State's Chances Against Michigan

State's letter-laden basketball squad is continuing daily practice to prepare for this season's opening game against Michigan tomorrow. Coach Van Alstyne has ten letter winners from whom to choose his starting lineup.

So far the inside track for starting berths seems to center in Robin Roberts, Sam Fortino, and Johnny Granack at the forwards; Pat Pepler, Danny Pjesky, and Ollie White at the guards; and Jack Cawood, Bill Krall, and Matt Mazza in the center slot. Although Roberts and Fortino were both regulars last year they are being hard pressed by sharp shooting Granack, from Hamilton, Ind. The possibility that Cawood may also be used at forward leaves tomorrow's starting lineup a little uncertain.

The Spartans anticipate a tough game with the Wolverines as Michigan is also well stocked with former letter winners. Dave Strack, captain of the 1943 team, leads the parade, although Bill Gregory, Keith Harder, John Mull-

Track coach Carl Schlade-man has announced an important meeting for all track candidates and men who expect to come out for track this year. The meeting will take place at 5:15 p.m. in room 215 of Jenison fieldhouse next Tuesday.

Walter Kell, and Harold Westerman have also won their basketball awards. These men, along with newcomers Glenn Selts, Bob Harrison, and Martin Fenners give Coach Benny Osterman a potentially strong quintet. The Wolverines opened their season two weeks ago with a decisive 68-45 victory over Central Michigan.

DISPLAY EDUCATION

Showcases Feature Physical Science Tools, Devices

Physical science department of MSC's Basic college is displaying, in the library foyer, instruments used in lectures and laboratories of the course, according to C. W. Miller, professor of physical science.

Of particular interest is the flasher light, which illuminates the display and works on the thermostat principle, and the cathode ray oscilloscope, an instrument whose principle is used in radar and television.

All tools and devices on display are related to the main parts of the course: astronomy, meteorology, physics, mathematics, geology, and chemistry. Miller stated that weekly changes will be made in the contents of the three cases.

Women's Sports

WOMEN'S gym will be the scene of this year's Amateur Fencing League of America tournament for fencing women, who will congregate from all over the State to participate in the contest tomorrow noon. A crowd of 90 fencers is expected to participate.

The AFLA tournament committee has been swamped with entries, and is now considering the prospect of holding the final bouts at a later date. Directors for the tournament are coming from Detroit, and the officials include some of the state's top ranking fencers, Paula Sweeney, Gerda Michels, Byron Krieger, Bill Osis, and Jerry Bruce.

Previous to this year the meets have been staged in Detroit. However, the number of entries in the affair has caused the location to be changed to MSC. Spartan entries from various fencing classes, and Delta Gamma Mu, women's fencing honorary, have been coached by Katherine Arnett, one of last year's top amateurs, now a professional.

Badminton will be in full swing next term when a tournament will be organized to allow badminton enthusiasts to put their talents to work in a competitive way. Both singles and doubles meets will be arranged.

Not only the experts but also those with purely amateur standing are invited to sign up. All intentions of playing must be handed in at the gym office no later than noon Thursday.

Saturday all students interested in badminton are invited to come over to Women's gym from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Miss Daily of the physical education department announced.

Revised Hort Club Holds New Officer Elections

Spartan Gives Deadline

The deadline for all material and copy for the prospective Spartan magazine is 5 p.m. today in organization room 2, Union. Anyone having something to submit should do so at that time, according to Morton Smerling, Spartan committee chairman.

Christmas is just around the corner, give to the Yanks who gave.

Football Squad Honors Best Opposition

University of Missouri won three places, and Michigan and Pittsburgh each placed two on the all-opponent collegiate football team selected by the 1945 Spartan team. Single selections were named from Penn State, Marquette, Miami, and Kentucky.

The team includes: ends, Leo Skladany, of Pittsburgh, and Roland Oakes, of Missouri; tackles, Wash Serim, of Kentucky, and Marino Marchi, of Penn State; guards, George Rami, of Pittsburgh, and Robert Eigelberger, of Missouri. At center Ralph Stewart, of Missouri, took the spotlight.

In the backfield, the best quarterback was Joe Ponzetto from the University of Michigan, Pete Elliott, also from Michigan, and Paul Copoulos, of Marquette, were chosen to fill the halfback slots. The fullback named was Harry Ghaul of Miami.

Members of the Spartan eleven also cited center Marty Wendell, end Bill O'Connor, halfback Frank Asehenbrenner and fullback Marion Motley. These men, however, are navy trainees, and selections for the all-opponent team were made from civilians.

AFFAIRS

A big surprise was on the docket over at the Theta house Wednesday night. Jean Ann Hall, Anderson, Ind., senior, announced her engagement to Ab Parlin amid hearts and flowers in a party she gave for her sorority sisters. The brave girl had kept it a secret from the time she was home on Thanksgiving. Ab graduated from the vet school here last June and was a member of FarmHouse fraternity.

Those Pi Phis are practically keeping this column going all by themselves. Surprises seem to be the big thing this week. Monday night Marjorie Jones, Detroit junior, and Meg Jury, Pleasant Ridge junior, told of their respective engagement and pinning. Marjorie received her ring from Wally Butcko, who has just returned from two years in the CBI, on Thanksgiving. Muri Smith, Owosso junior, presented Meg with an ATO pin Friday night.

Elaine Blasius has been glowing with glee over the sparkler Ensign Robert Mandenberg gave her. Elaine is a senior from Highland Park.

Jo Rasmussen has been made keeper of the pin Staff Sgt. Leonard Smith recently passed on to her. He has just been discharged from the army air forces, which makes Jo just that much happier.

If Margaret Miles, Lansing AOPi, has looked rather sleepy lately, it might be because she spends all her time, nights included, gazing at the ring which she just received from Sgt. Vernon Carvey of Plymouth.

To make sure that council activities are up to par and to make sure that revisions meet student demands, step into a council meeting once in a while. Meetings are held every Wednesday evening at 7:15 in organization room 1 of the Union and are always open to members of the student body.

Student council is on its way out of a wartime rut, but a revised constitution is only the first step. That constitution can be a lot of beautiful words expressing some beautiful ideas on a beautiful piece of paper. To carry out those ideals will require the constant vigilance of their originators, the students of Michigan State college.

A meeting of the Junior Farm bureau was held Wednesday night for the purpose of reorganization, according to chairman Dorothy Mulder, Holland junior. Ben Hennick, state director, was present to discuss the program for the year.

Plans were made for a regional party which will be held in the Forestry cabin Thursday.

Clayton Cory, Scottville freshman, will represent the group at the American Youth conference in Chicago, Dec. 16 and 17.
