The Eyes Have It

By calling Lansing 2-3170 one may speak to "Eyes." Ever since Mrs. Ralnd, Ionia junior, described Fred Schulte, Lansing sophomore, as the fellow on campus with the prettiest eyes, he has lost his original name. He is now flatteringly called "The Eyes" and can respond to nothing else.

Wolverine Gets Growing Pains This Year

Although the college yearbook will not make its appearance for seven months, rumors are "humming" in the Wolverine office. A great deal of engraving has already gone in to the printers and the sales quota has been met.

Before the finished product can be realized, a theme, which is kept secret until publication, must be decided upon. Next, a dummy is set up and from that all the work is done.

This year's Wolverine has gone back to the large size page 8 1/2" by 11" with over 400 pages. It will compare in size to the annuals of '42 and '43.

The book is divided into five sections: sports, organizations, honorees, underclassmen, and senior portraits. This year there will be a large opening section introducing the theme.

Most of the work that is being done now is on the underclass pages, which number 3,100. Each picture must be individually cut out and pasted on the page.

The staff photographer, Art [Name], is responsible for all candid shots and campus scenes. The National Schools studio of Minneapolis took the pictures of the underclassmen and Daguerre studio of Chicago is taking the senior portraits.

Marshall Says Pearl Harbor Attack Was Make or Break Risk

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—General George C. Marshall testified today that the Japanese, attacking Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, took an tremendous risk that he didn't think they could try.

The retired chief of staff told the joint committee investigating the disaster that there were forces at the Pacific base sufficient to have disrupted the enemy attack. Such a result, he said, could have turned the whole Japanese campaign of aggression.

Nonetheless, in Hawaii, he said, was the reason for both the attack and the success. He testified that the growing enemy force could have been recalled before the attack if the Japanese had known the defenses were "sealed."

Marshall said the risks of the attack were so great that he did not think it was worth it at the time. He said many recounted the attack as a "make or break" risk. He said he had been warned over the possibility of a surprise raid and had been taking precautions against it.

The general's testimony accompanied introduction of documents from the late President Roosevelt's secret files.

World Peace Is Challenged On This Pearl Harbor Day

Four years ago today the American people were plunged into the fury of another world war. The date December 7 stood for all the agony that humans are able to heap on each other. It stood for all the corruptions and beastliness of war. That December 7 started a bloody yuletide with a hollow note to sound in each Christmas carol.

For the first time in four years the American people can face a Christmas of peace. It would be wonderful to say that the world could face a Christ-like peace, but the war still rages in different forms—starvation, rioting, race prejudice, unrest, dissatisfaction. A true peace would show a united mankind, with a true observance of the rights of each individual.

Along with peace comes the normal reaction to forget the horrible. We forgot the horrible last time. We might forget again or just look forward to a better materialistic world with faster cars and nylon clothing. That is not peace.

The sturdy white crosses of American GIs are pounded into foreign soils and are stark reminders that peace is not merely the cessation of a war. The battle-fatigued GIs waiting at debarkation points all over the world, or the green GIs waiting at embarkation ports are not peaceful reminders.

Today, Pearl Harbor day, is not a monument but merely a milestone toward peace. The attitude with which we view this day will determine the future of the world. If there is ever to be a world at peace there must be an unselfish willingness on the part of every individual to make December 7, 1941, the last war date.

General Motors Declines To Make Public Reply

Corporation Refuses Statement on Truman's Proposal to Set Up Investigating Committee To Study Obstacle Hampering Reconversion

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—General Motors corporation announced tonight it would not make public its reply to President Truman's announcement that he would set up a fact-finding board to study the GM strike situation.

GM officials declined to say whether a reply had been sent to the White House in reply to Mr. Truman's Monday statement in which he called the GM strike "the major obstacle holding up our reconversion program."

Settlement Remote

The President said then that he would ask a fact-finding committee to look into the strike that has idled 213,000 GM workers.

Meanwhile, on Detroit's auto front, other developments today in the situation involving GM and Chrysler company workers and the United Auto Workers (CIO) seemed to make a settlement of wage disputes more remote.

The United Auto Workers tonight rejected a General Motors offer to "reinstate" its offer of a 10 percent wage rate increase which the union turned down prior to the start of the GM strike 16 days ago.

Walter Reuther, UAW vice-president, told a press conference after the meeting between GM and UAW officials adjourned, "the strike continues with no change in status."

Both GM and UAW spokesmen said, however, that another negotiating session would be held Friday.

Harry W. Anderson, GM vice-president, said in a prepared statement, "the offer to the auto workers was made on a 10 percent basis subject to a final adjustment after detailed analysis."

Arithmetic Factor

Reuther, commenting on the company offer, declared, "the corporation still refuses to discuss arithmetic and the fact that ability to pay should be a factor in wage discussions."

"We still maintain that an adequate wage to settle this strike is a 30 percent increase without increase in prices."

R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW, added, "I told the corporation that it was my opinion that the proffered wage increase was inadequate. And the strike will continue until such time as an agreement has been made on satisfactory terms."

Reuther told newsmen that during the conference a GM spokesman declared, "We won't say we can't pay 30 percent; we won't discuss it."

Thomas interjected that he asked directly if GM could afford to pay the 30 percent but that GM spokesmen refused to answer.

Reuther reiterated the union stand that it does not want to "take a wage increase if it means increased prices." He said "90 percent of today's conference was spent in trying to get the company to discuss economics."

The union officials disclosed today's session on the company's charges that the UAW had engaged in "illegal picketing."

News in Brief

LANSING, Dec. 6 (AP)—To mark the fourth anniversary of Pearl Harbor, Governor Harry F. Kelly today proclaimed Friday "Blue Star Mothers day" in Michigan and asked Michigan citizens to salute the mothers of those who won victory.

LANSING, Dec. 6 (AP)—A delegation of veterans attending the University of Michigan proposed to the state office of veterans' affairs today that the state spend $500,000 to provide emergency housing for the families of 1,000 veterans.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6 (AP)—Mysteriously swallowed up in the swift dusk of the tropics, five navy torpedo bombers with 14 men aboard and a sixth navy rescue plane with 13 crew members were the object of a great air-sea hunt covering thousands of square miles off the Florida east coast tonight.

Acheson Aided Defeat Of U. S. Foreign Policy Is Hurley's Charge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Major Gen. Patrick J. Hurley asserted today that American foreign policy had been "defeated," and charged that it was an "inside job."

The former ambassador to China also told the Senate foreign relations committee that undersecretary of state Dean Acheson had played "a leading part" in what Hurley termed destruction of this country's policy in Iran.

Hurley, who resigned his diplomatic post last week, did not go into any particulars. He said simply that his accusations would be borne out by documents he had asked the state department to produce.

Affairs of State

JUST about this time there are a few grim faces making their way about campus. How can one be cheerful with thoughts of blue books, big tests, and term papers registering a sour note for many of us? But with Santa Claus getting his red suit out of moth balls and preparing for a big holiday, the future looks a little brighter.

The end of the term is a time to take stock of the romantic doings that have been going on in this metropolis. In the ring department we have a long list of events.

Evelyn Brigham, Dearborn sophomore, has a new addition on the left hand donated by Bill Casper, Inkster, now with the air corps.

The same sort of news concerns Aliver Marshall, former student from Detroit and Winds Holden, Phi Delta who is now serving with the navy. Barb Pettingill, Mt. Clemens sophomore, is another in the diamond date and donor of the said object is Bob Freethy, student at Selfridge field with the air corps.

Nothing can stop the finding in our ears as orange blossoms and engagements echo for a few more weeks. There is nothing quite as inspiring as the ring which Nancy Williams, Adrian sophomore, has to brighten her waking hours. On the other end of the line is Kenneth Glaser, of Blissfield, serving a term at the present in the navy.

It seems that the infantry is also giving the diamond industry a big boost. At least it's true in the case of June Kenetic, Schenectady, N. Y. sophomore, and James Murray, also from New York. Jean Tracy, Detroit sophomore, has something to show about since her recent engagement to Bob Dembeck of Detroit.

On another topic but concerning the hearts and flowers club is that of pin passing. This is the status of Jean Lorine, Grosse Pointe sophomore, ever since she took a Sigma Chi pin from Gus. Hugh Mehlenbacher, now stationed in Washington, D. C.

Recent news from the Sigma Kappa house concerns the pinning of senior Ginny Fellows, Birmingham. The pin is the Sigma Chi cross of Bob Wandel, '42 graduate of the University of Michigan.

Leaving the more romantic thing to a later date it seems that seven men on campus have exchanged their independence for the pledge pin of Kappa Sig. The prospective members are: Don Howard, Chicago freshman, Andy Lindsey, Andover, Mass. freshman, Gerry Showmaker, Plymouth freshman, Bob Hankamp, Grand Rapids junior, John Yonacker, Grand Rapids freshman, Dave Braderick, Grand Rapids freshman and Peter Cole, Grand Rapids sophomore.

Students will use their fall term activity books for the home basketball games during the holiday period, according to L. L. Flamingo, assistant athletic director. The following coupons will be used:
No. 16 — Minnesota-State — Dec. 24
No. 17 — Syracuse-State — Jan. 2
Winter term activity books will be used starting with the Cincinnati-State game on Jan. 5.

Mad As Hopps

By JANICE HOPPS

WE know it's a tough time of year. The symptoms indicating the year's end seem to be too many term papers left until the last minute, too many exams to take without adequate preparation, too little sleep, and just too darn much to think about. Life would be simple if it weren't for the complications that always set in.

Still, after exams comes Christmas which is supposed to make us feel a little revival. But even Christmas offers further complications, no time to do that Christmas shopping that's been put off too long already, no time to create any festive atmosphere around our rooms, and no time to get in a festive mood. In fact, our reactions to everything are negative.

Recently the American Legion started promoting its "Give to the Yanks Who Gave" campaign. In line with the times or something, our responses were negative—that, too. By last Tuesday Spartans had established a new record with their contributions. In over a week, none had been received. Finally, one individual started making collections so that by yesterday noon, the "Yanks Who Gave" had 11 dollars and nine cents to look forward to.

Sure we're busy, everybody's busy, but no busier than we were last year. Last year any drive for the "Yanks" went over like a bomb because the war was still going on. But the fact that the war is over and a lot of those men have come home doesn't mean that we can rest on our laurels of a year ago.

A lot of men have reached the States, yes, but it will be a long time before some of the hospitalized veterans reach home. In the meantime they're still Yanks, only while their buddies enjoy a Christmas at home they will enjoy the same ultra-white, ultra-irradiated joys of hospital life.

This campaign is nothing new. Since the first world war Christmas contributions have cheered the lives of men who have spent 25 or 30 years in veterans' hospitals. We'll have to admit that

"More farm life for me!"

New developments, offering advantages of speed and economy in construction, are being fully used in our program for extending and improving farm telephone service.

Among these are mechanical pole-hole diggers and plows for burying wire underground. Sturdier steel wire that permits longer spans will require fewer poles.

And we are experimenting with "power line carrier" to provide telephone service over rural electric lines. Radio, too, is being studied for use in connecting more isolated sections with telephone exchanges.

Providing more and better rural telephone service is part of the Bell System plans for constantly improving nationwide communications service.

England to Use Credit to Carry Out Commercial Financial Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)

The Truman administration agreed today to grant Britain a $4,400,000,000 credit for British steps to promote world trade—and to provide immediately formed a loan.

The loan is promised to carry out a program of commercial and financial reforms if Congress approved the credits. The bill may be a big one. The Senate's official announcement was released at 5:30 p.m. and congressmen were on their feet in both chambers with rejoicing.

In the House, Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) declared that the loan "will provide the most damned good social and economic aid that has ever been sent abroad." Rep. Shaw (R-Mo.) asserted he would not vote one dollar as long as he does not get the crown jewels in return.

Sen. McNamara (D-Ill.) said the loan "will provide the most damned good social and economic aid that has ever been sent abroad." Rep. Shaw (R-Mo.) asserted he would not vote one dollar as long as he does not get the crown jewels in return.

All-American Football Team Selected

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP) The 1945 All-American football team selected by Collier's magazine includes four players from the all-victorious army squad and two from Alabama's Rose Bowl eleven. It was announced today.

It is the 35th annual compilation of a mythical eleven by the magazine which printed Walter Camp's selections from 1889 until his death in 1923. Grantland Rice has made Collier's selections since then, aided in recent years by an advisory board of football writers.

The team: Vaughn Mancha, Alabama, center; Warren Ameling, Ohio state, guard; John Green, Army, guard; George Savitsky, Pennsylvania, tackle; De Witt Coulter, Army, tackle; Richard Duden, Navy, end; Hubert Bechtel, Texas, end; Herman Wedemeyer, St. Mary's, quarterback; Glenn Davis, Army, halfback; Harry Gilmer, Alabama, halfback; Felix Blanchard, Army, halfback.

Wrestlers Finish Final Contests

State's all-college wrestling tournament is history as far as 1945-46 is concerned. Despite the absence of Coach Fendley Collins, the final bouts were carried out according to schedule.

In the final bouts last night, Red Pierce gained decision over Bill Ford for the right to rule third place in the heavyweight classification. Winning third place also was Rolland Young in the 150-pound class. Young took a clean cut decision over Jerry McCarthy, ASTR.

Coach Collins was unable to witness these two wrestling bouts due to the Big Ten meetings in Chicago. The Spartan wrestling mentor expects to complete as nearly as possible the 1946 MSC wrestling schedule while attending these meetings.

Exam Cram to Slow Down Coming Social Calendar

Six Parties Comprise Term's Final Fling

Christmas budgeting and last-minute cramming for finals have worked together to narrow the number of social activities planned on campus to a minimum this weekend.

Tonight Sigma Chi pledges will fetter their dates and actives and their guests at a radio party at the chapter house from 9 to 12. Promising to be one of the most original affairs of the term, the theme is "The Roaring Twenties." Pass words and locked doors, sawdust and "coke" bars reminiscent of prohibition days will provide the atmosphere.

Patrons reveling in the "speak-easy" activities will be Prof. and Mrs. Paul Geisenhof and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Davis.

Williams Party
The scene of another party scheduled for tonight will be the Forestry cabin where Williams hall student help will entertain dates from 8 to 12. Patrons will be Mr. and Mrs. James Gardner and Miss Ruth McNeal, according to Pat Crane, Detroit freshman, social chairman.

Big affair of tomorrow night will be Abbot hall's semi-formal term party, holding sway in the Union ballroom from 9 to 12. "Flamingo" is the theme and decoration ideas will be borrowed from the South Sea islands. Music will be provided by Rosemary Howland and her band, according to Jacqueline Elliott, Cheboygan sophomore, chairman. Other committee heads are Carlene Parker, decorations, and entertainment, Margaret Mead, Ann Arbor freshman.

Patrons attending will be Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Lawson, Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Wilden, and Mr. and Mrs. Karl A. Stiles.

Peoples Church Party
Students with time on their hands tomorrow night are invited stag-drag to a Christmas party in the Peoples church from 8 to 11:30, sponsored by Student club. Entertainment will include a Christmas play, square dancing, and refreshments, according to Joyce Lamb, Rockford sophomore, social chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Reuling, Miss Lexie Ferrel, and Earle McCullough will act as patrons.

Also tomorrow night Chi Omega women will entertain their dates at an informal radio party at the house from 8 to 12. Decorations will carry out the Christmas spirit, Dorothy Dye, Birmingham senior, revealed. There will be a punch bowl, dancing and bridge. Mr. and Mrs. B. J.

Knittle have been invited as patrons.

Final affair tomorrow night will be the Alpha Xi Delta term party from 8 to 12. The Forestry cabin will be converted in style to fit the "North Woods" theme. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Loomis and Prof. and Mrs. Jewell Jenson will be patron guests, according to co-chairman Gwen Gorsline, Lansing sophomore, and Carolyn Forrester, Highland Park sophomore.

HOPPS

those men are forgotten, a good part of the year, but they've never been forgotten on Christmas.

Gifts are the order of the day, and an inexpensive gift will be appreciated as much as a silver-plated one. Many are holding back because gifts only seem to add to shopping worries, but a monetary contribution is just as acceptable. A quarter, a half dollar, a dollar left with your name at the Union desk will be used for a gift for a war veteran at Christmas. It takes but a second to make that contribution, but the appreciation will be felt over a much longer period of time.

In connection with the campaign, the American Legion of Greater Lansing is sponsoring a Christmas festival Tuesday evening at the Veterans' building in Lansing. Proceeds are to go into the "Give to the Yanks Who Gave" fund, and tickets can be obtained at the Union desk or from members of the Red Cedar post of the American Legion.

More news from the campus
Legion Post brings out some flaws in the Veterans' administration. Any man who depends on a pay check that doesn't come through has a legitimate gripe, and such is the position of many a returned veteran on this campus.

If a veteran has a private income, he'll get along fine; otherwise he must live on his imagination while the Veterans' administration takes from three to four months to deliver his first benefit and consistently sends the checks late.

It would appear that some revisions on the part of the Veterans' administration are in order. A lot of red tape could be eliminated by establishing a direct channel between the veteran and his administration.
