SEVERAL STUDENTS, IN LETTERS TO THE EDITOR, have requested amendments to the construction bill. One student asked about the library's construction. He wrote:

"If those of us who were here in 1931 will look back, we see the student's name for what it is. That student's name was 'Library.'"

The question was: Is the library to be a building for all students? The answer is yes. The library is intended to be available to all students, not just those who are members of a particular organization. The library is an integral part of the campus, and it should be accessible to everyone. The student who wrote the letter is right: the name should reflect the library's purpose, which is to provide a space for all students to study and research. The library should be a place where students can go to find information and support. The name 'Library' is appropriate because it reflects the library's role as a central resource for learning and knowledge. Therefore, the name should not be changed, and the construction bill should proceed as planned.

BOGOTA, April 18 (AP) — An estimated 5,000 prisoners, some serving long terms, escaped from the Modelo and Picori prisons during the height of the revolution, it was learned yesterday.

Community leaders have provided a raid to escape as many as 13,000 prisoners from Modelo, whose prison yard has been the site of a recent uprising.

Some prisoners reported to the government that the only way to escape was to dig a tunnel from the top of the prison yard to a nearby row of factories and warehouses, where there are reports that prisoners are housed in a room with cell doors.

One prisoner said that he and his cellmates, who are housed in a room with cell doors, tried to escape by digging a tunnel from the top of the prison yard to a nearby row of factories and warehouses, where there are reports that prisoners are housed in a room with cell doors. The men were arrested in a raid last night, it was reported.

Meanwhile, it was reported that the top local government officials here were expected to adopt a new set of rules to govern the prison yard after the recent uprising. The men were arrested in a raid last night, it was reported.

Stark County Park. Home of the Spartans. As the spectators filtered in, the Michigan State University Maulers were already at work. The game was the first of the season, and the mud was still wet from the rain of the previous day. The Spartans were facing the defending state champions, the University of Michigan Wolverines. The crowd was excited, and the sound of cheering could be heard throughout the stadium. The game started with a bang, as the Spartans scored a run in the first inning. The Wolverines answered with a run in the second, but the Spartans responded with two more in the third. The game was back and forth, with both teams putting up a good fight. In the end, however, it was the Spartans who came out on top, winning the game 6-4. The crowd erupted in cheers as the final out was recorded. The Spartans had won their first game of the season, and the excitement was palpable. The next game of the series was set for the following day, and the crowd was already eagerly anticipating the outcome.
