House Cuts Truman's Budget
Basic Question

The result of the faculty vote on the proposed Basic College curriculum is shown below in the consideration of several issues raised by the suggested changes. As we have seen, the basic question to be decided by the vote is whether or not consolidation of Basic will facilitate a better educational system.

In response to the proposal, some instructors have expressed reservations. As the surface of material which should be cut, the students might see, "The recommendation was made, and it was defeated." Why?

The change is coming now to the Basic College. Although one or two statements as to what has been proposed before, study of course content and possible revision has been in progress since the origin of a general education program here eight years ago.

Although one or two theories have been brought out in connection with the planning of any major change, the point is reached that an action is necessary, lest, since it comes at a time when upper schools are being reorganized, the plan may be abandoned.

The fact that proposed courses would not seem to have been examined outside is a fact that some students are watching it in the interest of their courses. With actual reorganization of courses and the present of education staff, it is difficult to imagine that some basic discipline would be given much of a chance. Although instructors might be given a general interpretation in the new Basic College, there is no reason why they should not take advantage of more detailed material also at their disposal. Because some general outline is needed, should it be the change that the change is not only vital and necessary, but timely, since it comes at a time when upper schools are also being reorganized.

The faculty is now interested in educational standards of the college, there is no better place to begin than with instruction.

UN Plays a Waiting Game as Communist Shoots Mar Talks

Atmosphere Grows Heated:

Reds Accuse UN of Lying

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—Communist name-calling and shots marred Korean truce negotiations, sources in what the United Nations regarded as a waiting game designed to exasperate the Allies.

In an atmosphere of distrust and bitterness, staff officers of both sides attempted to meet again in Photographers Club behind the lines on Friday, Feb. 28. A simultaneous Cabinet meeting was scheduled to terminate the discussions.

The talks were expected to open at 11 a.m. today. But Japanese and Chinese delegations were not yet present when the United Nations press liaison officer, Mr. V. Sasakure, told the Associated Press that the Chinese side had returned to Manchuria for the weekend.

The Chinese, he said, would resume their role as mediators in the truce negotiations, which are now in a deadlock.

The North Korean side, he added, had left for its mountain headquarters in the north to confer with its military leadership.

The United Nations talks were resumed yesterday morning at 10 a.m. at the Photographers Club in Shenyang, Manchuria, with the Chinese side having arrived the previous day.

Yesterday's meeting lasted over seven hours and ended with a high note of frustration and impatience. Both sides refused to make any concessions on the key issues of demilitarization, armistice, and political settlement.
