The Faces a Test

The much-heralded return of General Dwight Eisenhower has been achieved at an unexpected cost. The event should serve to keep fuel on the already raging fires of political controversy.

The General’s harshest critics have been absorbing a tremendous amount of criticism from other elements in and about the Republican party and it does not appear that there has been any change.

The latest issue is the offer by Ike’s backers to pay the expenses of delegates who wish to strike the General if the question comes to a roll on political topics.

The offer has been called “a ploy to fob off the forces of Senator Taft and Senator Kefauver, leading Republican and Democratic opponents.”

This is but one of the many blasts leveled at the candidacy of Eisenhower. The Taft forces have been hammering almost unceasingly on the point that the General has not made any concrete statements concerning his stand on foreign and domestic issues. They want to know, as do many others, what the General stands for, and what he intends to do if elected.

From another source, although often unreliable, comes a rather surprising criticism.

In an interview with the Michigan Education the matter of parochial personalities, Geo. Douglas MacArthur, “saw” the nation of the evils of a military administration. Said the one-time hero of the Pacific, “It would be a tragic development indeed if the generation was forced to bow to the rigidity of military dominance and discipline to redeem it from the tragic failure of a civil administration.”

Of course, it can’t be forgotten that the author of this comment was an uncommitted candidate for the Republican nomination in the 1944 presidential campaign, while still in the Army.

Yet in both of the formidable candidates to be a presidential candidate Eisenhower has had continued souring of relations and a sizable portion of the American public has declared that Ike “likes Ike.”

Eisenhower’s public relations has been at an all-time high. With his first formal address to the nation since his return will not be mentioned with the highest honors, millions of Americans will be listening to his side of the issue.

Once again a great military man faces an hour but the test is a great one. How well he meets it can only be answered by time.

NCAA Proposes Football Plan

Group Sets Guaran¬
tees For Games

NEW YORK—Television football fans will be guaranteed one game every Saturday at least the football season in a proposal to be submitted to the NCAA tomorrow by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The proposal provides for the guarantee of a minimum of 12 games for the football season in the eastern states, including 10 conference games and 2 outside games.

The basic principle of the plan proposed by the NCAA also includes a guarantee to the networks for one game of some sort on 12 days during the season, to be selected by a special television committee.

The plan was announced by Dr. John W. Scrivner, president of the NCAA, at a news conference here today. It is expected to be submitted to the 16-member NCAA executive committee for action.

A number of the members of the committee favor the plan, but some members object to the guarantee of 12 games, which would mean that some games would be included in the guarantee that are not selected by the television networks.
