Reds Release Thirty-five More American POWs

Prisoners Quiet About Treatment

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—Thirty-five more Americans red, cut from the shameful ranks of Communist prisoners today and return to freedom, together with 55 other sick and wounded Allies in exchange for 55 Chinese and North Koreans.

Even as the second day of the historic swap began, the first 30 liberated Americans were due to be flown to Japan on the first leg of the long journey home.

The Communists agreed in the swap deal that 150 Koreans and 20 Chinese prisoners would also be exchanged.

Beginning this morning, the Japanese Air Force brought the 35 Americans and their Korean and Chinese companions to the airfield where they will be flown to Japan.

For them the UN Command returned the prisoners to the equator.
