Becomes Boston's Journalism Head

Dr. Joseph A. Del Porto, associate professor of journalism at MSC, has been appointed as assistant professor of journalism and chairman of the department at Northeastern University in Boston, Massachusetts.

Del Porto, who came to MSC as an assistant professor of journalism in 1951 after completing his doctoral degree at the University of Chicago, and his Ph.D. in English from Michigan State, is 38 years old.

Del Porto has had broad experience in journalism, including five years as a reporter for The New York Times, seven years as assistant professor of journalism at the University of Illinois, and five years as head of the dean of the College of Journalism at the University of Minnesota.

del Porto Appointed To Top Post

Becomes Boston's Journalism Head

Dr. Joseph A. Del Porto, associate professor of journalism at MSC, has been appointed as assistant professor of journalism and chairman of the department at Northeastern University in Boston, Massachusetts.

Del Porto, who came to MSC as an assistant professor of journalism in 1951 after completing his doctoral degree at the University of Chicago, and his Ph.D. in English from Michigan State, is 38 years old.

Del Porto has had broad experience in journalism, including five years as a reporter for The New York Times, seven years as assistant professor of journalism at the University of Illinois, and five years as head of the dean of the College of Journalism at the University of Minnesota.

Private Eyes Send Releases

By Lawrence Pavemore

Perhaps you were surprised to read the story in your hometown newspaper telling you that a private detective agency had obtained a large volume of secrets for you.

Many people are surprised to learn that private detective agencies are not new in Michigan, but are actually quite old.

Private detectives have been in existence for many years, and are employed by individuals, businesses, and government agencies for a variety of purposes.

In addition to investigating personal matters, such as determining the truth of allegations made by individuals or businesses, private detectives are used to conduct background checks on potential employees, to investigate criminal activity, and to locate missing persons.

Private detectives are also used by insurance companies to investigate claims of fraud, and by law enforcement agencies to gather evidence in criminal cases.

Researchers at the University of Michigan have found that private detectives are often used by individuals to obtain information that they cannot obtain through legal channels.

Private detectives are regulated by state and federal laws, and must meet certain qualifications before they can be licensed to practice.

The Michigan Private Detective Act requires private detectives to be licensed by the state, and to undergo a background check before they can be licensed.

Private detectives are also required to maintain a bond of insurance, and to undergo continuous training and education to keep their skills up to date.

The State Board of Private Detectives is responsible for enforcing the Michigan Private Detective Act, and for investigating complaints against private detectives.

If you have any questions about the role of private detectives in Michigan, or if you are considering hiring a private detective, it is advisable to contact the Michigan Board of Private Detectives for information.

Del Porto Appointed To Top Post

Becomes Boston's Journalism Head

Dr. Joseph A. Del Porto, associate professor of journalism at MSC, has been appointed as assistant professor of journalism and chairman of the department at Northeastern University in Boston, Massachusetts.

Del Porto, who came to MSC as an assistant professor of journalism in 1951 after completing his doctoral degree at the University of Chicago, and his Ph.D. in English from Michigan State, is 38 years old.

Del Porto has had broad experience in journalism, including five years as a reporter for The New York Times, seven years as assistant professor of journalism at the University of Illinois, and five years as head of the dean of the College of Journalism at the University of Minnesota.

Private Eyes Send Releases

By Lawrence Pavemore

Perhaps you were surprised to read the story in your hometown newspaper telling you that a private detective agency had obtained a large volume of secrets for you.

Many people are surprised to learn that private detective agencies are not new in Michigan, but are actually quite old.

Private detectives have been in existence for many years, and are employed by individuals, businesses, and government agencies for a variety of purposes.

In addition to investigating personal matters, such as determining the truth of allegations made by individuals or businesses, private detectives are used to conduct background checks on potential employees, to investigate criminal activity, and to locate missing persons.

Private detectives are also used by insurance companies to investigate claims of fraud, and by law enforcement agencies to gather evidence in criminal cases.

Researchers at the University of Michigan have found that private detectives are often used by individuals to obtain information that they cannot obtain through legal channels.

Private detectives are regulated by state and federal laws, and must meet certain qualifications before they can be licensed to practice.

The Michigan Private Detective Act requires private detectives to be licensed by the state, and to undergo a background check before they can be licensed.

Private detectives are also required to maintain a bond of insurance, and to undergo continuous training and education to keep their skills up to date.

The State Board of Private Detectives is responsible for enforcing the Michigan Private Detective Act, and for investigating complaints against private detectives.

If you have any questions about the role of private detectives in Michigan, or if you are considering hiring a private detective, it is advisable to contact the Michigan Board of Private Detectives for information.
The Michigan State's baseball squad has named the top performers for the past year and selected the captain for next year's team.

82 Athletes Get Letters:

The Michigan State's baseball squad, under the leadership of Coach Harry Morley, has named 82 athletes to the baseball team for the past year. This is the highest number of players in the team's history.

Next Year's Captain:

Ralph H. Young, former Michigan State All-American baseball player, has been named captain of the team for next year. Young was a key player on the team for several years and is expected to lead the team in the upcoming season.

Season Completed:

The 51st season of Michigan State's baseball team has been completed. The team has been active throughout the season, playing against various teams and demonstrating their skills in the sport.

Future Plans:

The team is looking forward to next year's season, which promises to be exciting and challenging. With the selection of the captain and the naming of the top performers, the team is well-prepared to take on the upcoming season with renewed energy and focus.

---

Carr's Baseball Club:

The Sports Mike
Is My Face Red!

By Mike Carr

Carr is one of the top performers on the Michigan State baseball team. His exceptional skills and dedication to the sport have earned him a spot on the team.

---

Week's Roundup:

Zuverink Shines As Tigers Win 2, Lose 5

The Detroit Tigers continued their winning streak with a convincing 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees. Zuverink, one of the team's top pitchers, delivered a strong performance on the mound.

The game was held at Comerica Park, with thousands of fans gathering to witness the exciting match. Zuverink's impressive pitching kept the Yankees at bay, allowing the Tigers to secure their victory.

---

Pilots Complete Lineups:

All-Star Teams Ready for Game

The opposing managers for the upcoming All-Star game, Casey Stengel and Walter Alston, have picked their rosters and reserves to round out the 25-man squads for the mid-season classic.

The game will be held at Cleveland, July 15. The American League has won 12 of 20 previous games, but the National League has won the last two.

Stengel's starting lineup will feature several of the New York Yankees' top players, including Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, and Yogi Berra. Alston's squad will also be strong, with stars like Ted Williams and Jackie Robinson.

---

Pilots Complete Lineups:

All-Star Teams Ready for Game

The opposing managers for the upcoming All-Star game, Casey Stengel and Walter Alston, have picked their rosters and reserves to round out the 25-man squads for the mid-season classic.

The game will be held at Cleveland, July 15. The American League has won 12 of 20 previous games, but the National League has won the last two.

Stengel's starting lineup will feature several of the New York Yankees' top players, including Lou Gehrig, Joe DiMaggio, and Yogi Berra. Alston's squad will also be strong, with stars like Ted Williams and Jackie Robinson.

---

DINNERS

Fit For A King

Always deliciously prepared at KWEEPEES

Open in downtown at 8:45 P.M. for 8:45 dinner.

MITCHELL'S SHELL SERVICE

Michigan and Center East Lansing, Michigan

Ph. ED 7-9817

RENT a typewriter

and keep up with your work.

LOW SUBSCRIPTION RATES!!

Summer Term (weekly) 50¢
One Term—$2.00 Two Terms—$3.50
Three Terms—$4.50

MICHIGAN STATE NEWS

Third Floor Union
E. M. 131-B, East Lansing.
Recent Films Slated For Summer Series

A group of six motion pictures are scheduled for the 1964 summer film series at Fairfield Theater. Those selected include "From Here to Eternity" on July 9 and 10; "Vivre" on July 16 and 17; "A Member of the Family" on July 23 and 24; "Kidnapped and Confined" on July 20; "The Four Poster," on 26 and 27, and "The Bridge on the River Kwai" on August 3 and 4.

"History Prof To Conduct Special Studies"

Three members of MSC's history department received special study grants recently. Mr. John Darton, chairman, Dr. William J. Atwood, and Dr. Arthur R. Taylor will study the history and development of the American People, the social history of Russia, and the Chinese revolution, respectively. Correlates will be made on teaching methods in order to improve the educational process. All three will be available for consultation and general instruction, and Dr. Arthur R. Taylor will write a history of the political history of Russia.

Soprano to Offer Varied Selections At Senior Recital

MSC's department of music will present Jean Pierre, pupil of Robert Casadesus of Chicago, at 6 P.M., July 16, in the Music Auditorium. Accompanist Miss Pierre will be Carol Broussard, Lansing. Miss Pierre will present a concert of contemporary music including Bruckner, Chausson, Dvorak, Fauré, Franck, and Wagner. Selections will be sung in French, German, Italian, and English.

SUNDAY

Have Sum Bright Beauty With Permanent Curls Take An Appointment at

Elda Diane Beauty Salon

PHONE 2-5166 2101 Abbott

TO OUR MIDSUMMER FASHION CLEARANCE

Very Substantial Reductions in Every Department on Fashion Favorites of the Summer Season

DRESSES — SUITS — TOPPERS
SPORTSWEAR — BLOUSES — SHOES
LINGERIE — GLOVES — JEWELRY
NYLON HOSIERY — CHILDREN'S WEAR

HANDBAGS

OPEN EVERY THURSDAY EVENING UNTIL NINE

JACOBSON'S

187 South Washington Ave.