Block S Fails In Second Try

Block S tried again Saturday.

It was the third time this season that the students of the Michigan State University have voted to remove the letter S from the front part of the name of the school. The previous votes were taken in 1930 and 1931.

The proposal was defeated by a vote of 2,919 to 2,874. The vote was close, but the S-fighters won by a narrow margin.

The S-fighters were led by a group of students who have been working for the past year to change the name of the school to Michigan State College.

In a speech made to the students before the vote, the leader of the S-fighters said that the letter S was an outdated symbol of the past and that it should be eliminated from the name of the school.

The S-fighters have been met with opposition from the administrators of the school, who have said that the letter S is an important part of the school's identity and that it should not be eliminated.

The vote was taken by secret ballot, and the results were announced immediately after the polls closed.

The S-fighters have announced that they will continue to work for the change in the name of the school, and they said that they will not give up until the letter S is eliminated from the name of the school.

Kleenex is used for the removal of the letter S from the name of the school. The S-fighters used Kleenex to wipe away the letter S from the name of the school, and they said that they are determined to win the fight.

The S-fighters have also announced that they will continue to work for the removal of other symbols of the past, such as the old bell at the entrance of the school, and the old library.

The S-fighters have said that they will continue to work for the improvement of the school, and they said that they will not give up until the school is changed to meet the needs of the students.

The S-fighters have also announced that they will continue to work for the removal of the letter S from the name of the school, and they said that they are determined to win the fight.

Alpha Gams, Delts, North Campbell Win

The winning display for Alpha Gamma Delta opened with a French pocketknife, named Emile, which was won by a March winner more or less. A large sign over the display read, "Alpha Gamma Delta, track and field," in red lettering on a white background. The items were placed in the same order as the display, which was balanced on MSC—balled on the base.
