Student Congress Repeals Controversial Angeli Bill

Substitute Ordinance Halts Bias Clauses

Budget Passed Unanimously: Augustine New Chief Justice

In a busy first meeting of the session, Student Congress Wednesday night unanimously passed a substitute ordinance for the much discussed Anti-discrimination bill.

Other action, Congress approved the budget for spring term, President Bill Hurl's "statement of the government address," and approved the appointment of a chief justice and three others to the Traffic Appeals Court.

The new anti-discrimination ordinance, which was passed last week, calls for a new organization similar to the State University's anti-discrimination bureau.

This does not apply to situations that are administrative.

It also provides for a complaint or appeal for any member of the faculty or any student for failure to act promptly.

The committee would consist of representatives of the Senate, the faculty, the student body, and the administration.

The new ordinance puts the old one, at least for the time being, out of existence. A committee appointed by the Governor and Legislature to study the old anti-discrimination statute will be assigned to report on the new one.

The old bill contained a number of words that would permit any organization, including fraternities, to make any statement or action a crime, and any order or appeal for establishing the bureau would be committed to the committee appointed by the Governor and Legislature.

Hurst Gives Last Report to Congress

Recommendations, Plans Un hdc lised.

Plenty of plans, several recommendations, and a few last words to Congress marked Student Congress's last major meeting of this semiannual session.

The Student Congress is now in recess until the next session, but this is the last time any meeting of this organization will be held until the spring of next year.

Hurst told Congress that he has been satisfied with the work done by Congress during the session and that he believes the organization has been successful in its work.

Hurst has been in Congress since March, 1954, and has served as its president since April, 1955. He has been member of the Congress for four years and has served as its president for two years.

Battle of Books
Library Gripe Lacks Clarity.

A freshman and senior library book for a term paper became involved in a battle of the books recently between librarians from Michigan State and the Grand Rapids Public Library.

It has developed into a typical case of snowballing controversies, whereby the leaves have been counted and run amuck.

The battle began when Donald W. Kohlstedt, director of the Grand Rapids Public Library, described to his board the sale of a State coed who supposedly ripped illustrations from their library books to the tune of a term paper.

The need aroused of stealing three books from the Grand Rapids Public Library, and it had been turned in 22 book eras by State's library and returned one book in return. It did not delay the clime.

A newspaper reporter happened to be present and enabled the story without consulting Kohlstedt. When Kohlstedt's statements were printed, they implied a direct attack against State's library.

Any destruction of library books is certainly a reason for complaint. But the initial question of destruction was not substituted for a larger question, that of the adequacy of State's present library.

State librarian, Jackson E. Toone, tried to clear up the question of the book by saying that if she had several points, she might have received a half dozen of the books she said for.

In addition, State's circulation staff denied that any student had every printed 22 book eras and had received only one in return.

An important story on the part of the first reporter, and misunderstanding of the facts by a lesser newsman caused a furor of protest between the two directors.

Kohlstedt was further quoted as saying that "evidences of State's inadequacy in the world have been enough books for the "pickpockets" when 4000 students choose the average size.

Two suggestions seemed pertinent here. Perhaps if students published as much as a force of one student can be added to their readings, and perhaps if as much as a force of the books they would work on their book list can be added to their work.

The new library, the one in the world, can have enough books for the "pickpockets" when 4000 students choose the average size.

The reserved books are chosen from closed shelves and are allowed to the library for two years. Toone maintains that there is a book for every student on each topic.

Foreign Student Urges "MSU" Name Change

To the Editor:

When the proposed name change for Michigan State is to be assumed during the meeting of the Board of Trustees, I, as a foreign student from China, wish to express my willingness to return to the State if the change is made.

During my three years stay in the United States, I have visited more than six universities. After my extensive study at Michigan State, I think that it appears a complete university it is at least the qualifications pertaining to it. Before I come to the States, I never heard of this college. The only Michigan school I knew was one of the U. of M. It is my hope that the change will be made, and I may get the opportunity to return there.

Feminine Pioneers

"MSU" is a name that we as students have received for the university, and it is our hope to be active in the university.

The name of the university should be changed to something more accurate and better, such as "Michigan University" or "Michigan State University".

We believe that the name change will bring more recognition to the university and make it more prominent in the world.

The present name does not reflect the true image of the university and does not accurately represent the diversity of its students and programs.

The name change will also provide a new identity for the university, allowing it to stand out as a leader in the academic community.

We urge the Board of Trustees to consider this request and make the necessary changes.

Faster and springtime usually mean a dust in the back and this year. This year in no exception. As usual, there were six first-year classes of students dancing and jumping around, according to John Gondecz, a senior manager.

"Fred was wrecked but everything is working now," he continued. "I was not sure what else to do but I'm glad it's working now." The men were wearing white shirts and ties, while the women were dressed in dresses with flowers.

The parade started on the east side of campus and ended at the theatre.

There's nothing like a good, hard-won victory in the world. And that's exactly what happened last week when the Michigan State University golf team won the Big Ten Championship.

The team, led by coach Jack Posse, finished the tournament with a score of 535, 13 strokes ahead of second-place Ohio State. The win earned the team an invitation to the NCAA Championship.

The Michigan State team consisted of four seniors and two sophomores. The seniors were: Ted Baker, John Posse, Mike Smith, and Bob Thompson. The sophomores were: Tim Anderson and Mark Wilson.

The team's victory was a fitting end to a successful season. The team had won five of its seven tournaments this year and had finished in the top five in all seven.

Stassen Refuses Request for Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen declined Wednesday to hand over 10 documents to the Senate Investigation Committee until he has a chance to review them. He said they were confidential exchanges within the government's executive branch.

Stassen, head of the Federal Civilian Conservation Corps, said he declined again with senators who were all told to the F.C.C.C. in his office or in his Washington home on Tuesday.

"I am not a spy," he said, "and I do not feel a legal right to make a request that the following documents be released for public use.

"I do not know whether they exist in this form or in any other form, but I do not feel that they are not within the purview of the Senate Investigation Committee."

SU Bill Seeks Direct Election

A bill to amend the State Constitution to provide for direct election of the treasurer was introduced today by Representative Harriet M. Stassen, D-Mich., in the Michigan House of Representatives. The bill, Senate Bill 393, would provide for the treasurer to be elected by popular vote in a separate election on the third Tuesday in November, the same day as the general election. The current system, which provides for the treasurer to be appointed by the governor, has come under attack in recent years for being too closely linked to the governor's political machine. The bill also provides for the treasurer to be a member of the State Board of Equalization and Tax Appeals. The treasurer's duties would be expanded under the bill to include overseeing the state's financial affairs and maintaining a more transparent and accountable government. The bill has been introduced by both Republicans and Democrats to address this issue.

Michigan State Young Republicans

The Michigan State Young Republicans is a political organization that advocates conservative principles and candidates. The group is open to all students, faculty, and staff of Michigan State University who share these values. The Young Republicans hold regular meetings to discuss political issues and plan events to promote their agenda. They have a wide range of events and activities, including meetings, debates, and social gatherings. The group is known for its active role in campus politics and its ability to mobilize young people to support conservative candidates and policies. The Young Republicans have been involved in a number of successful campaigns and have built a strong network of supporters across the state. The organization has a strong presence on campus and is well represented in the Michigan State University Student Government. The Young Republicans are committed to promoting conservative values and building a strong and vibrant conservative movement in Michigan State University and the broader community.
