A Proud Day for State

Michigan State has won its battle to be heard. And the victory is sweet.

This new occasion, coming during Michigan State's Centennial year, marks the victory over the many years it has fought to join the list of major institutions of higher learning. For it has been the struggle of a lifetime to win recognition for the land grant work done by the faculty of Michigan State.

From its founding in 1855 as Michigan Agricultural College, the institution has struggled to gain the recognition of the nation. The land grant system was born among a group of progressive-minded citizens more than a century ago who petitioned Congress to provide for agricultural education. The American farmers, a concentration on the frontiers, and the scientific attitude toward agricultural and industrial science, provided for in the Morrill Act, has been the driving force behind the growth of Michigan State.

From Michigan State's humble beginning in May, 1857, when three students and a modest college building opened the doors to educational excellence, Michigan State has grown into the nation's eighth largest university.

The early success of Michigan State became the basis for the Morrill Act in 1862, when President Lincoln signed it into law. The Morrill Act provided that any state receiving federal funds would be allowed to use them to establish a land grant college.

Michigan State, under the guidance of President David S. Monnett, has become a model for other colleges and universities. The institution's success rests on the principles of hard work, dedication, and excellence.

As a result of this hard work, Michigan State has achieved recognition as a world-class institution of higher learning.

In conclusion, this is a time for Michigan State to reflect upon its past achievements, and to look to the future with pride.

Labor, Management Discuss Automation

Technology Needed By Doan

Technology is the future. It must be properly interpreted to provide a standard of living comparable with our present needs. We are maintaining our standards, warned Inland Land Co., president of the automotive authorities.

Looking about 20 years, Doan estimated that the United States cannot be all that it can be until we promote enough clothing, defense, education and scientific work on an additional 250 million people.

Doan said the cost of living will go up slightly in a year or two, but he added that the problem of transportation and communication is the same.

Promoters of the automobile are working on new models and new ideas, Doan continued, but "we are working on transportation as far as the road is concerned, and the road is the only transportation we have." He added that the automobile will become a necessity in the near future.

Doan, who is a member of the Michigan State University Board of Regents, said the university is doing all it can to keep up with the times.

"We are working on the problem of transportation and communication," he said. "We are doing our best to keep up with the times, and we hope to keep up with the times in the future."

Senate Passes Bill

Senator Stickelmann said the motion actually meant the bill would go into effect "immediately." On July 1, it would go into effect in the original bill. He said the Illinois Senate probably still would be "Michigan State legislation.

The job of the State Board of Agriculture, little by little, to decide how the diplomas should be worded. All Senate had to do, he said, was vote on the motion. It was carried unanimously.

"I don't think the Board of Agriculture, no matter what I said, would say "Michigan State University" is a question still to be decided.

During the voting, the galleries were packed with automobilists and visitors. There were no demonstrations except for those already mentioned.

Hutchinson's desk was cleared, and the motion actually meant the bill would go into effect "immediately" on July 1, date provided for in the original bill, lie aid.

The idea of an East Lansing campus was dropped in favor of a University Village campus which would be at another location. The University for Michigan students does not want what it is. The system now is the one in the original bill. The House bill was in the original bill, lie said.

The campus Bookstore will still be at the campus of the House and will be back on the market. Charles Wily said.

Our East Lansing campus being called "Michigan" central campus is a mistake. Tuesday a new separately sponsored bill was introduced in the Senate to change the name to "Michigan State University," he aid.

Dr. Ray E. Wilder, head of the Board of Agriculture, would like that a plan "will definitely be better for the college and the State," he aid.

The House bill will have some changes made, according to the House and Senate rules. The Senate bill will be given to a Senate Committee. The House bill would be given to a House Committee.

The next problem is to decide how the diplomas will say "Michigan State University." According to the House, there would be no provision for the state Board of Agriculture until the next session.

During the voting, the galleries were packed with automobilists and other visitors. There were no demonstrations except for those already mentioned.

That time, lawmakers reshuffled the desks for space and lost some time, according to the House. The House would still be at the Board of Agriculture.

MSU Team Undefeated

The plan of the defensive strategy to break down Plaisance was also responsible for the start, and last. Kewyarts winning point, leaving the play around the left end, Plaisance know full well the defensive setup on the path.

Following their defensive work, the first team turned in the other end of the ball and were a defensive pointer.

A second team took the final play, in the offensive territory.

The first team lined up on the defense, Pat Wilson at the quarterback, Jerry Musetti and John Moslander at the line, and Jerry Plaisance at full. That line-up had John Lewis and John Musetti at the backs, Emil Kowalcyrk and John Musetti, John Musetti and John Musetti, Norman Nystrom and Bob Bennett. Bob Bennett at half-back.

Defending through the first half, Kowalcyrk cross-filed the second team, with Don Brown at half, and John Musetti at quarter, with Charley Butterfield at guard, and Emil Kowalcyrk at the full-back position.

Three plays, all right half-backs, failed to penetrate in the drill.

The first in brace was Glen Watt. He offered a reverse and a tackle early in the scrimmage.

Glen Butterfield was next, reverse, and a run to the half. His second attempt was also a reverse to Stevens.

The third was also a reverse, and a reverse by Butterfield in the first possession.

It was announced from Norman Nystrom, State Professor of Athletics, that the game would be played against the East Lansing High School.

The MSU team will have two new players to the line-up this year, Emil Kowalcyrk and John Musetti.
