Communism Denounced In
Asian-African Conference

By HERBY HALL

One of the few representatives of a-theory speaking before the Pan-African Congress was The Hon. Nehru, Premier of India. His address, which was given last Wednesday afternoon, drew large crowds, and many of the delegates held their breath in suspense while they listened to the Premier's impassioned plea against the menace of communism.

In an address lasting nearly an hour, Nehru said that the main theme of his speech was this: "We are living at a time when the West, for the sake of a few million of men, is prepared to destroy the life of hundreds of millions.

The Premier also stated that the West was trying to undermine the Indian economy and the democratic government. He accused the West of using spies, assassins, and other means to bring down the Indian government.

Nehru concluded his speech by saying that the world would soon see the end of the West's influence in Asia and Africa.

In other news, the United Nations Security Council has voted to condemn the West's actions against the Asian and African nations.

One of the leading figures in the conference was the Hon. Pham Van Dong, Prime Minister of South Vietnam. He spoke for nearly two hours on the subject of the West's aggression against Vietnam.

Dong said that the West was trying to destroy the Vietnamese government and economy. He accused the West of using spies and assassins to bring down the Vietnamese government.

Dong concluded his speech by saying that the West's actions would be met with equal aggression by the Vietnamese people.

Walt’s Wallow "Eastern Eden"

By WALT OLKEY

There’s a real good movie on the screen tonight, "Eastern Eden," and I’ve got to say that I really enjoyed it.

But even a movie like this can’t make you forget your troubles. There’s something about those old black and white movies that just gets to you, no matter how much you try to ignore it.

But this movie was different. It really hit home for me. I don’t know what it was about the story, but it just hit me right in the heart.

Just like in real life, when things go wrong, we all need a little bit of escape. That’s why movies like "Eastern Eden" are so important.

Now, if you’re looking for a movie that will make you laugh, you might want to look elsewhere. But if you want a movie that will touch your heart, then "Eastern Eden" is definitely worth a watch.

Q&A Session About the Michigan State Legislature

The problem of building bigger and better roads for Michigan is still a major issue for legislators. The budget for the upcoming session is expected to be quite challenging.

But that agreement hasn’t extended to a plan which spells out the details for financing improved Michigan roads.

Only one plan has received enough support to be approved by one legislative house. And the author and supporter of that plan last week announced he was withdrawing his support.

Rep. Emil Peltz (D-Detroit) said that, subject to modifications, he would "yield" to a Senate bill on highways. Some of the differences between the two bills have emerged in a half-dozen after-proposals.

The Senate version of the bill now in House-Senate conference is 25 per cent of the new revenue from the state and 25 per cent to the cities and counties. The version in the House now has 30 per cent of the new revenue from the state, 25 to the counties and 15 to the cities.

One section of the Senate version is the one休息 limiting the state’s funds in construction of a four-lane divided highway to areas that have a 35 per cent increase in possible traffic to finance the project.

Peltz says he will go along with the elimination of his proposed 25 per cent tax in truck license fees. But no a road bill seems to be reaching a compromise after three months of political wrangling, a new financing gimmick has been proposed in the House.

The bill would impose a 10-cent tax on big trucks using Michigan highways. It could contribute to Michigan’s highway program. But it could also, like a half dozen other new-deferred programs, spark new opposition to the action which is needed now.

Now, if you’re looking for a movie that will make you laugh, you might want to look elsewhere. But if you want a movie that will touch your heart, then "Eastern Eden" is definitely worth a watch.

In Grid Drills

Mended Cripples Return To End Injury String

Michigan State's football squad was put through light drills Monday and came through them without an injury— the first injury-free day since spring drills opened April 11.

Not only were there no injuries sustained but two reinforcements were needed for the Monday drill.

Halfback Jerry Hussey and 6-foot 1-inch, 187-pound fullback Bill Resimus both were back in pads following ligament knee injuries.

Four more players are expected back for today's drills, with light contact work planned.
