The Old and New German

A People Looking to the West

Dr. Freydon Gruener

BOOKS: "The Old and New German: A People Looking to the West" (Bantam Books), is a novel

The Germans are a people who have always been on the move, always seeking new horizons. This is especially true today, in a world where national boundaries are becoming less relevant.

The novel explores the lives of several individuals who are caught up in the complexities of contemporary German politics. It delves into the issues of reunification, the role of the European Union, and the impact of globalization on German society. The story is set against the backdrop of the Rhine River, a symbol of unity and division, much like the country itself.

The author, Dr. Freydon Gruener, is a well-known scholar and author on German and European affairs. His previous works have been widely acclaimed for their insights into contemporary politics and society. In "The Old and New German," Gruener offers a fresh perspective on an enduring theme in German history: the quest for identity in a changing world.

The book is available at major bookstores and online retailers. For more information on the author and his works, visit his website at www.freydongoehler.de.

The University of Notre Dame will hand donned masks to be worn by the players without a score if the opponent cannot agree to use them.

Dr. James F. O'Sullivan, head physician, said on Monday that he was in favor of the players wearing a mask in competition.

"We prefer to have the players wear masks in all games," said Dr. F. O'Sullivan, "but we understand that some opponents cannot agree to use them."

Kobs in Intrasquad Game

By JACQUES BERNSTEIN

Spartan ball fell flat in the third inning as the team scored seven runs off the pitcher of the third inning. They were held scoreless in the fourth inning by the assistant coach. The score was tied in the fifth inning and the score remained tied in the sixth inning.

Coach Kobs, who has been coaching the team since the first game of the season, said the players were not allowed to use masks in the games.

"We will continue to use masks in our intrasquad games," said Coach Kobs. "We are not allowed to use masks in our official games, but we will continue to use them in our practice games."
