German Reds Warn of 'Inconveniences'
Threaten Retaliation if West Withholds Its Recognition

BERLIN (AP) - East Germany said Sunday if the West continues to withhold recognition of its Communist government and "inconveniences" will be clamped on it and surrounds West Berlin.

Deputy Prime Minister Otto Huber and current ambassador to West Berlin would not have been in the anti-West Berlin protest. He specifically mentioned the West Berlin.

"It was the first time in the West Berlin protests, which made it possible for the people to see the way we are facing," Huber said.

The White Paper also mentions that the East German government has released an official statement on the subject. It says that the West Berlin government is not acting in a democratic manner.

Photographers End 3-Day Conference

By DON SHELTON

Boston University's Dave Strickler and Don Sushik, of the Detroit News, walked away with top honors in the regular and professional print contests at the Michigan Press Photographers Conference.

It was held in conjunction with the national convention of the Newspaper Photographers Association of America, held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Kegel's Center.

Strickler took first and the "best of show" title in the George Atchison-Michigan Press Photographers Scholarship Contest. The award is given for the best portfolio of pictures entered in the contest.

Art Wilson, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and winner of the NPPA, presented the awards and commented on the winning pictures.

Strickler's portfolio didn't contain a picture of anything, but his pictures were the best of the best.

The wining pictures will be exhibited in the Cameron Center Thursday.

Strickler said the best of show was "the best of show" for the event.

The Michigan Press Photographers Conference is an annual event that brings together the best of the best in Michigan photography.

Survival City Waits For A-Bomb Blast

SURVIVAL CITY, Dec. 30 — A brand new Survival City colonizing in the desert sun, was opened up Sunday for the use of any atomic blast twice as potent as those which ravaged Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Civil Defense workers and officials put finishing touches on houses, a radio station, power Plant and tunnels in Tornado Flat.

Three familiar sights of the coming years will be associated with Tuesday as a number of buildings stand in the walls of 3,000 tons of TNT. That's right before the annual A-bomb test will be held.

More than 1,000 persons are participating in the test to determine how our community would withstand the atomic fury, and how men can protect their families.

Among 300 Civil Defense workers representing 20 percent of the population participating are at least two women among 111 workers who will be stationed in trenches. Auxiliary personnel will crowd into a trench 1,500 yards from the tower.

This is the closest humans have been simulated for a demonstration operation for more than 2,000 yards from the tower—stood the first few seconds the blast is generated in most American towns.

They include a two-story brick house, a frame dwelling, a one-story frame church, with walls and a concrete block. Every house is surrounded by concrete block.

The ladies are furnished much like your home. Substituting for people are mannequins, dressed in typical homes, some standing, some lying in bed. Several are children, there are a few babies. All wear tags on heavy wire around their necks.

In several houses are microphones, transmitting glass and collapsing walls. All the buildings will be in swarms.

A lightweight wireless antenna is placed on a pole to raise the possibility of U.S. heavy nuclear weapons.

Heidt Show Seeks Local Talent Stars

Michigan State talent stars will have a chance to shine when Horace Heidt's shows comes to Sexton High School's auditorium in Lansing May 10.

Lee Jones, field supervisor for the show, visited an invitation to State students to participate in "The American Show."

All types of talent will be acceptable. Application blanks required for the auditions. The contest is open to all students in Lansing. Auditions will be held Friday at the Women's Club House, 445 Michigan Avenue. Application blanks for the auditions will be available at the MICHIGAN STATE NEWS office through Friday. The entry fee, including the type of act, must be accompanied by the audition form.

A representative of Heidt's will be on the feeding committee of the auditions. The set of this group is to be selected by auditors. Applicants will compete with other top entertainers selected during the week.

Heidt will pick the top entertainers of the week to appear on his NBC television show.

Applicants that appear as winners and are engaged in the show will receive $100 and a television contract as the year's best entertainer.
