Soviet Ag Head
To Visit State

There will be 14 very interested persons among the thousands expected for Michigan State's Farm Mechanization Day, Aug. 15. These 14 could well be expected to show more interest than the average farmer since they are being sent by the Soviet government.

The delegation, scheduled to arrive in New York City Saturday, is headed by the frozen minister of agriculture. The official party is believed to consist of 16 members, the minister, 15 agricultural experts and farmers and their associates. A United States State Department official is in attendance.

John Stein, editor of The Ford Alumni and formerly chairman of the Ford Foundation, was announced as their escort on the trip that will take them through Midwest farming areas, concluding with a full day at Michigan State, Aug. 15.

Secretary of Agriculture Gene E. Thurado, who will head the Continental Farm Mechanization tour, was a wonderful opportunity to show to one of the world's leading farming nations what mechanization has done for the United States.

We wholeheartedly agree.

The trip apparently came about when an editorial in the Des Moines, Iowa, Register-Tribune suggested that Soviet farmers might learn better methods in raising crops, especially corn, by coming to Iowa.

In light of the agricultural situation of travel regulations in the U.S.S.R. and their peace overtures leading up to the forthcoming Geneva conference it is hoped that the agriculturists' visit to the United States will help to further cement Soviet-U.S. relations.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, before leaving for the meeting in Geneva and the national defense conference "longhair." The American tour of the U.S. is also a beginning, we hope.

It is the opportunity of a lifetime to see the vast array of modern farming equipment and farming methods sponsored by the pioneer land-rental institutions.

The full-scale visit to the U.S. will certainly be open to the Soviets. It is to be hoped that the Soviet and Western world will benefit from the trip.
