Bulgarians Shoot Down Israeli Plane

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — An Israeli airliner was forced down in the Peloponnesus in Companet Bulgarian Wednesday. Greek authorities said Bulgarian anti-aircraft gunners fired on the plane in Sofia and that all but one of the 81 people on board were killed.

The shooting was the first of its kind in the region and came after the assassination of the Greek prime minister, Konstantinos Karamanlis, on Tuesday. Bulgarian authorities have denied any involvement in the shooting.

The plane, a Boeing 727, was heading from Athens to Rome when it was shot down near the Bulgarian border.

The plane was traveling on its way to the United States and had been scheduled to make a stop in Sofia.

The shooting has raised tensions between Greece and Bulgaria, and it is unclear if further incidents will occur.

The Greek government has called for a full investigation into the事件, and the United Nations has expressed concern.

In a statement, the Greek foreign minister said: "We are determined to take all necessary measures to ensure the safety of our citizens and to hold those responsible for this atrocity accountable."

The incident comes at a time of heightened tensions in the region, with Greece and Bulgaria embroiled in a dispute over territorial waters.

The Greek government has accused Bulgaria of encroaching on its territorial waters, while Bulgaria has denied the claims.

The shooting has also sparked concerns about the safety of travelers in the region.

The plane was carrying 81 passengers and crew members, including many tourists.

The Greek government has promised to provide assistance to those affected by the shooting, and it has called for an international investigation into the incident.
