Changes Result In Sickly Song

"Go Right through for MSU." That isn't an exuberant chant, or any other homecoming slogan, signs today in one short song.

It means more to fellow than the usual in such a song. Not because it sounds like a ploy, not because it echoes. It means more to fellow than those, for in the race of best vs. worst, it is a perfect kick-off. Threw it would follow his might read "Fight Fiercely, Fellow!"

When the scene of the continued change, obvious revives very necessary in the school's song and the "fight" and "fellow" proper. So was minor change for the sake of rhyme, but where it is justification for the first line of the fight song—a line with no mention of "college" or "school." It was the key to spirit and drive of the fight song.

The word "fellow" was a perfect kick-off. Chose a word that was only.

During the same change era, something from Ann Arbor that in our fight song we wanted to prompt right through line of blue is referred to as obvious, and it was thought this was rather "unofficial" to Michigan State people.

Rivalries are as old as people, however, and there is no more spirited rivalry than the one that exists between Spartans and Wolverines. Nowhere right through the line of blue is a picture greatly inspired by Michigan State.

In addition, it is downright humiliating when your rival school can recite your own fight song.

It was possible even enthusiastic that the song was suited only to football. This is true and, perhaps, unfortunately. But it wasn't always this way.

It is possible to make adjustments during basketball season is impossible football right after line of the fight song. A fight song's purpose is theoretically to bolster the team that has lost. The fact that it has to bolster is "sack right through" than it is to "go right through."

The more practical application of the fight song is to build student spirit and provide a safety valve for student pettiness.

It is hard to imagine students getting riled up singing the eternal and listless "Go right through for MSU." The song has been officially changed to the State of Michigan.

But it is recommended upon recommendation of a student-faculty committee.

Official or not, there is nothing to stop a vocal rebellion by the student body. It may or not appear on Saturday.

This week the prime motive of the football team is to add another line to this tune. Next Saturday, every Spartan fan will add a line to the fight song that will be "sack right through" than it is to "go right through."

The purpose of the student body is to show support of the football team and not to show support of Michigan State.

Changes Made

Spartans Discover 'New Look' at MSU

Along with its new name, Michigan State had "some changes made" to greet the 16,129 students on campus last week.

Branches to the campus are the students' groups, representative of the student body, and their faculty members. The Green and Gold is the official student newspaper, and the Grey and Blue is the official student magazine.

The student body is divided into two main groups, the Freshmen and the Sophomores. The Freshmen are those who have completed their first year of college, while the Sophomores are those who have completed their second year.

The student body is also divided into four main groups, the Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. The Freshmen are those who have completed their first year of college, while the Sophomores are those who have completed their second year. The Juniors are those who have completed their third year of college, and the Seniors are those who have completed their fourth year of college.

Most impressive among the new buildings is the Library, largest in the country in floor space. The lower level of the library is open to the public, and the upper levels are reserved for the students.

The Library contains a large number of books, journals, and periodicals. The Library also contains a number of computer terminals, which are used by students for research and study.

The Library is open to the public from 8:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. daily. The Library is staffed by a large number of librarians and information specialists, who are available to answer questions and provide assistance.

The Library is an important resource for students, and it is an essential part of the University's commitment to providing a high-quality education.
