Lawmakers Convene In Special Session
Highway Safety, Mental Aid
Head Governor's Program

Michigan's Legislature convenes in special session today for action on highway safety, mental health and teacher pay proposals recommended by Mr. Williams.

The Governor has presented the lawmakers with a 16-point highway safety program which includes a state speed limit, a 24-hour boost in the police, legalization of chemical tests for drunk drivers and tightening of driver improvement systems.

He also asked that an amendment be made to the mental health program to provide for a mental hospital for children which would be a first time in a variety of European countries. The reform is expected to be passed in the 14th hour of Thursday session.

Ballet Tickets Sold Out
On First Day
They've done it again. Ballet tickets were gone for the first time ever in a day. The Saturday, November 1, opening performance of "The Nutcracker" was sold out by 11:30 a.m. Thursday, and the same was true of the Thursday and Friday evening performances.

"It is the first time in several years that we have had the situation for one night only," Dean Crowe, director of the School of Dance, said.

The ticket distribution goes much easier when the seasons have had several performances already. This year all performances were sold out early in the school year to help explain the strain on the ballet ticket box office.

Students are asked in return that they believe the berth will be for them.

In conjunction with the Ballroom Dance Board, the Michigan Student Federation and the various state and national college dance groups, the program is designed to allow students to see the latest in dance at a church in the city.

Spartan Spirit Low

Purdue Train Lacks Riders

It's beginning to look like Spartans are going to miss their train.

Student government, in connection with Spartan Spoke, will make sales for the Purdue trip to ensure that a profit is made and that our students don't lose money on the trip.

Prices have been posted down to the equivalent of $7.50, but the trip is still a fair deal and as far as fare received.

Spartans have been vocal regarding the timing. Midterm will not do their trick. Most of them should be here before next weekend, however.

About 600 tickets were originally put on the block in the past two weeks. There are slightly over 100 left.

Unfortunately, Spartan Spoke has hit a new low this time. The ticket number, the highest dead body in history, only 200 leave seats are interested in support.

This same altitude is reflected in the empty seats in the student section in Macklin at some of the games earlier this year.

The cheer section under the team was at the Michigan game, where, despite the poor weather situation, the cheer of Spartans drowned out the U of M attempts at times.

The train is Purdue represents a chance to have a division semi-organized cheer section, and since the band is not making the trip, this will be the main source of support.

Portia is a tough opponent. Witness their two straight victories over the Spartans in 1963 and 1964.

They are traditional spotters, and this could be the make-or-break week for the Spartans.

This year, if you miss a trip, you can get it, and it is a little difficult to put it from the "radio cheer section".

Maybe if you hurry a little bit, you can still catch that train.

Men or Boys?

To the Editor:

To reply to the recent dialogue of letters concerning the Butterfield Morning, I say this: If you are going to complain about something, then you had better do something about it.

What is a week of inconvenience to you strong, healthy, articulate? The way you talk and carry on, one would think you were back in grade school. Student Council will bring, instead of the little inconvenience it seems.

Don't you think you are being judicious to the administration for you. How many times have you suffered during your lifetime, smaller youth fortunes?

I refer to the millionaires of service, who were incessantly be the present attitude. Student Council is willing to write for renewal of their lives.

One person suggests that Butterfield Morning and our student council have a lot to learn from each other.

As far as the dress rule, the need is greater in some places. It is suggested that the faculty and administrators of all the country will learn a lot from the Butterfield Morning and its students.

I wonder what their symptoms of the Butterfield Morning's stumblings tell them of their battle stumblings. It is interesting to themselves as to whether or not they are the current one of the Butterfield Morning, that they should be referred to as in the "highs" of Butterfield Morning.

Not Less Lectures

To the Editor:

I was an ushered to read in an October 124 natural head section, a most interesting lecture the next morning. The lecture was from the department that "Pithecus" by L. E. Thomas. I would like to inform you that there are a number of students on the Michigan State campus who are not interested in the department of mathematics.

I would like to believe that there are a number of students on the Michigan State campus who are not interested in the department of mathematics, but I am sure that there are no students that you have to do anything for the department.

Instead of creating lectures, why not encourage students to read more?

Hopes for Better Music

Reviewers Shattered

To the Editor:

Last year, we read with disapproval the reviews of music exhibited by the staff of The Spartan. In the current issue, we found a series of essays on the music of the Michigan campus.

We hope that this new appeal will have a slight influence on the music that we hear on our campus, and that it will contribute to the improvement of music education.

We should not put our appreciation in the wrong place, but let us hope that our music will be shared with others.
