Rags to Riches
Is Grid Story

Saturday marks the official start of the Michigan State football team's 1972 season. If the team is to achieve any goals this year, the MSU football team must perform a multitude of gridiron maneuvers.

Despite the ability of the team to score touchdowns, the offense has to execute plays on both sides of the gridiron. The offense must gain yardage and avoid penalties.

The defense, on the other hand, must prevent the opposing team from scoring. The defense must also try to score against the offense. In order to do this, the defense must break up plays and prevent the offense from gaining yardage.

The special teams must also perform well. They must kick off and catch punts, and return kicks and punts. The special teams must also prevent the opposing team from scoring on special teams.

This paper will examine the offense, defense, and special teams, and their importance in the game of football.

OFFENSE

The offense is responsible for gaining yardage and scoring points. The offense must execute plays on both sides of the gridiron. The offense must gain yardage and avoid penalties.

The quarterback must be able to read the defense and make the correct decisions. The quarterback must be able to throw the ball accurately and make the correct decisions.

The wide receivers must be able to run routes and catch the ball. The wide receivers must be able to make the correct decisions and get open for the quarterback.

The running backs must be able to gain yardage and score points. The running backs must be able to make the correct decisions and avoid penalties.

The offensive line must protect the quarterback and open up holes for the running backs. The offensive line must be able to make the correct decisions and block the defense.

DEFENSE

The defense is responsible for preventing the opposing team from scoring. The defense must break up plays and prevent the offense from gaining yardage.

The defensive line must rush the quarterback and stop the running backs. The defensive line must be able to make the correct decisions and block the offense.

The linebacker must be able to read the offense and make the correct decisions. The linebacker must be able to stop the running backs and break up plays.

The secondary must be able to cover the receivers and stop the quarterback. The secondary must be able to make the correct decisions and stop the offense.

SPECIAL TEAMS

The special teams are responsible for kicking off and catching punts, and returning kicks and punts. The special teams must also prevent the opposing team from scoring on special teams.

The punter must be able to punt the ball accurately and make the correct decisions. The punter must be able to make the correct decisions and get the punt downed.

The kicker must be able to kick the ball accurately and make the correct decisions. The kicker must be able to make the correct decisions and get the field goal downed.

The returner must be able to return the kick and punt accurately and make the correct decisions. The returner must be able to make the correct decisions and avoid penalties.

DG's and Gamma Phi's To Vie in Powder Bowl

By JOE DORMAN
State News Night Editor

While Midwest football fans always refer to it as the 'superior team-'Michigan State or Michigan-two other names of equal strength will be battling Saturday for national fame.

The Gamma Phi and the DG branch of the Michigan State College Alpha Eta Rho chapter are expected to pack the new Powder Bowl this weekend. The game will be the first event attended by the newly constructed Powder Bowl.

The Gamma Phi will be entered in the Red Division of the Powder Bowl with a 13-man starting eleven. Gamma Phi has never had a football team entered in the Powder Bowl before.

The DG is expected to enter a team of 10 men and will play against either the Gamma Phi or the Sigma Phi Epsilon branch of the Michigan State College. The game will be held at 3 p.m. Saturday.

The Gamma Phi will be entered in the Powder Bowl under the direction of Coach Harry Moody. Moody is expected to name his starting eleven on Friday afternoon.

The Powder Bowl will be held at East Lansing and the stadium is expected to be completed by October 1.

Practi-Perfect: Gamma Phi is in better shape in the line and has week practice as a team with good AA players. Their team will be entered in the Powder Bowl under the direction of Coach Harry Moody. Moody is expected to name his starting eleven on Friday afternoon.

The Powder Bowl will be held at East Lansing and the stadium is expected to be completed by October 1.

Roundtable

Dr. Bracken, president of the board of trustees, introduced the two plans of operation for the new.

The two plans are:

1. A comprehensive Game

committee, which would have full control of all aspects of the game.

2. A limited Game committee, which would have control only over the offensive and defensive play.

Dr. Bracken said that the committee was working on a report from the two plans, and that a decision would be made later this month.

AP Honors To Nystrom

NEW YORK — Linebacker Fred Nystrom is a force to be reckoned with in Michigan football. The Michigan Wolverines meet the Indiana Hoosiers at the Big Eight title game on Nov. 22 and Nystrom will have his day. A force or worse, Nystrom and Ohio State will want a share of the Big Eight title, and the Wolverines have a tough game.

The 210-pound defensive end has a 195 average through two games and was a key ingredient in last week's 13-7 win over Wisconsin. Nystrom had 17 tackles against the Badgers and played a key role in the victory.

Indiana comes to Michigan with a 5-4 record, but the Hoosiers have nothing to lose. Nystrom and the Wolverines will have something to prove.

Northwestern Shakes Athletic Departments Fall

EVANSTON, Ill. — Northwestern University Thursday announced a reorganization plan for its athletic department in which Ted Payser was dropped as athletic director and a named assistant business manager was appointed. The plan was announced by President J. Norman Miller, also in consultation with the Faculty Athletic Committee and with university administration officials.

Payser will not be replaced. The named assistant business manager will be named at a later date.

Payser was appointed athletic director in 1968.

Drill Team to Show Precision

By ANN EATY

Precision marching will be the order of the day at the Minnesota State Fair Monday, when the 11th annual All-State Drill Team performs at 7 p.m. in the Grandstand.

In addition to the usual Mall March and hand performance the drillers will show off their football calls in a sequence of intricate bell maneuver that will captivate the audience. The whole performance with a theme of “Go, Go, Go!” will last for 20 minutes.

The team will arrive in Lansing, Mass., Saturday morning and plan to be ready for their appearance the next day at noon.

The cadet将在 Lansing 着陆，参加 Saturday’s 竞赛，计划在星期日抵达。
