Meet Spartans At Macklin

A battle for supremacy between the air and land forces will take place this afternoon at 3:30 in Michigan Stadium when the Michigan State gridiron meets Indiana in their 1956 homecoming game.

The Hoosiers will be coming on the scene of quarterback Eugene "Sticky" Gaskin's offense to provide them with a determined offensive threat, while the Spartans will rely on their defense to prevent the enemy from scoring. The Michigan defense has been particularly effective in recent games.

Fullback Clarence Peak, one of the top dozen in total offense, has attained a second place national rating in the Associated Press Football Poll with the help of only four pass completions in 10 tries, while fullback Peak and the rest of the Michigan offense have produced only one turnover in the post.

Right half Maltzowz, who has been used sparingly under the guidance of the scrimmage ankle injury, may be given the chance to fill his regular first team post against the Indiana.

Fullback Ben Gilbert came into his own against the Wolverines, carrying the ball 37 yards and averaging more than five yards per carry.

Michigan's most dangerous running duo has been Flanagan and Shulist, who have accounted for 272 yards on the ground, despite the fact that the Michigan offense has struggled against other teams.

Indiana quarterback Tom Kendrick scored the lone falls against Notre Dame in a contest won by the Irish, 26-13.

Possible Showers Predicted Today

A scattered shower is expected for this afternoon and evening, with showers becoming scattered again on Thursday. The rain is expected to last throughout the week, with the exception of Friday and Saturday, when the possibility of showers will decrease.

Brass Spittoon Put on Line

The annual brass spittoon contest between Michigan State and Indiana will be held on the field before the game.

The game will be preceded by the Michigan State Marching Band and the Indiana University Marching Band.

Speculation—
Upsets Again?

By Jerry Herring
State News Sports Editor

Upsets came by the bucketful last weekend as many of the champions puffed a few exceptions from the husk and walked off the field with the winner's score. Once again we were the wise men and jock what we feel will be the winners of 30 of the top games today.

KENTUCKY 14, Auburn 12: Both teams have triumphed only once this year. The Wildcats looked sharp against highly-rated Georgia Tech in their opening game. BOSTON COLLEGE 13, Marquette 7: Neither team seems to be laughing with the Warriors having the edge of the two.

BROWN 28, Dartmouth 6: Steve Selbch Quakers got the best of the Indians last week but won't today.

OREGON STATE 20, California 19: This one should be just about as close as Oregon State's 18-14 win over the Golden Bears last season.

CLEMSON 25, Wake Forest 19: The Tigers are mature at every position and should be able to pick up their third win.

SMU 31, Tulane 10: The Mustangs have surprised everyone including Notre Dame and Georgia Tech. This looks like an even one for Woody Wooster's boys.

HIGHER 25, Florida 6: The Owls were picked to many to finish last in the Southeast Conference but are yet to lose a game. The Gators are their next victim.

GEORGE 15, North Carolina 6: Jim Tatum doesn't seem to have that magic touch as he had at Maryland.

OHIO STATE 25, Illinois 23: The Buckeyes are still rolling and will continue to keep their unblemished record intact with another victory.

IOWA 30, Wisconsin 7: The Hawkeyes have a close call against American State and can't take the Badgers too lightly but should come out on top.

MICHIGAN 29, Army 14: The ever-powerful Wolverines have too much power for Red Bill's Cadets.

MINNESOTA 32, Northwestern 8: We understated the Gophers last week in their 21-14 win over Purdue. Today's opponent has little to offer.

MISSISSIPPI 13, Vanderbilt 7: The battle of the unbeatens. Hindsight shows Ole Miss should keep going for its fourth.

UMAN 24, Arkansas 14: Every running back in the South is expected to show up in this one.

DE LA SALLE 26, Purdue 14: Every running back in the South is expected to show up in this one.

DOMINION 13, Kentucky 7: The Tigers have one of the best defensive lines in the Ivy League and the Quakers have nothing but the final memories of breaking their 11 game, losing streak last week.

W. VA 15, Virginia 7: Could be close but the Mountaineers should be able to add another win to their 2-1-1 season.

IU Faces Spartans

after Iowa had blanked the Hoosiers, 22-0, in their season opener.

Meanwhile, the Spartans beat two of the biggest opponents on this year's schedule, topping Stanford, 25-0, and shutting out Michigan, 29-0.

Book of the month for Stadler's 9 defense has been heaped on a pair of injured linemen, tackles. Pat Burke and John Jones.

Burke, a regular starter in 1955, his sophomore year, made an amazing recovery from a severe knee sprain at Stanford to bolster the Michigan State forward wall at Ann Arbor last week, was chosen to receive the game ball.

Jones, who was converted from a defensive end to a tackle during spring training, has been one of the football world's biggest surprises this year, and has played masterful ball throughout the two games played.

He has moved down the starting right tackle position after starting out as a candidate for Joe Larocch's in the first game.

Coach Don Corri and center Capt. John Mattock have also been standing on the State line. Mattock has also established himself as an offensive threat, kicking the field goal that started the Spartans on their way to the Michigan victory.

Coach Duff Bailey has turned Jim Bimble to start at right guard. He replaces Pat Kaiser, who will miss the game as the result of a sprained ankle in the West Virginia game.

Kaiser was State's only serious injury within the last week, although left end Bob Jackett was sidelined for the season when he broke his hand in the Stanford game.

Injuries have taken their toll on the Indians line recently. Dan Holland has been selected by Coach Les comerc on to start at right guard in place of the sidelined Don Howard. The official is eligible to start today, too.

Coach Sorensen was impressed in full practice and had no contact work prior to the opening game, but appeared to be back in top form in the practice session.

The remaining end of many of the Colorado aerials will be on the line, despite the senior, who finished among Big Ten receivers in 1957.
