AUSG Kills Popular Election

Vote Reverses In Secret Ballot

By PETE WILTERS
State News Night Editor

A bill to provide students with the opportunity to vote for Student Government president by popular ballot was defeated, 29-18, in Student Congress Wednesday night. A secret third ballot completely reversed an earlier 24-18 vote in favor of the bill on a roll call ballot in the committee of the whole.

The controversial proposed legislation was reported favorably out of the elections committee, with five clarification recommendations which Congress passed during part of the three hours spent on the bill.

Heated debate over wording of various passages in the document resulted in a rash of minor changes before the roll call vote finally passed it, allowing it to go before the entire Congress for approval.

After a spirited discussion of the bill on the floor, Congress voted by show of hands to use the secret ballot in making its third and final decision.

AUSG President Bob Becker spoke in behalf of the bill, drafted by Roger Augustine, chief traffic court justice, before the last vote was taken.

Becker said he hoped Congress would show its confidence in the student body by giving it the chance to vote on the proposed constitutional amendment, which must be ratified by a majority of the student body.

In order for the bill to go before the students for a vote at spring term registration, it would now be necessary for 10 per cent of the student body to sign a petition requesting it, according to AUSG's constitution.

A bill establishing basic qualifications for recipients of Student Government scholarships was passed with little opposition to the proposed amendments.

Becker announced in his executive report that he planned to hold a pep rally for the tournament-bound basketball team Wednesday afternoon at a time and location to be determined later.

Pat Pallister, the newly elected AWS Activities president, and her companion-in-arms, Louise Hornbeck, Judiciary head, sit atop ballot boxes following their election Wednesday night.

Students who have already registered for permits need only make sure their cars display a student sticker. All cars with stickers will be allowed to unload after 6 p.m. on Friday and all day Saturday until 5 p.m.

As in the past, trucks and trailers will be allowed on the grounds.

Art in America Topic At Music Aud Tonight

Confidence Vote Given Ben-Gurion

UN Troops Move Into Egypt Today

JERUSALEM (P)—Israeli troops and administrators headed home from the Gaza Strip Wednesday night in a withdrawal operation due to be completed by 7 p.m. today.

Others based on the Arab Gulf coast loaded their equipment aboard ship at Sharm El Sheikh for a similar pullout.

The exodus came as Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion received overwhelming endorsement of his policy from parliament.

Israel's parliament — torn by dissension for days over the withdrawal order — largely closed ranks behind Ben-Gurion and his conception that peace now becomes the moral responsibility of the United States and other nations which swayed him in the decision.

UN emergency force troops moved into the Gaza Strip, home to about 230,000 Arab refugees of the Palestine War of 1948, largely supported by the UN works and relief agencies.

If all goes according to plan, the 26 by 8-mile Mediterranean coastal strip will be occupied by Danish, Norwegian, Swedish and Indian troops by daybreak today. Israeli will remain in only one small camp near Rafa at the Strip's southern end.

The UN forces in Gaza are under command of Col. Walter Lindquist of Sweden. A UN spokesman said the emergency forces had encountered no incidents or difficulties in Gaza.

The Israeli Army announced, "The administration of the Sharm El Sheikh area will be transferred to UNEF by Israeli defense forces on Friday, "implying Israel would retain possession of that base on the Gulf about 48 hours.

The historic changeover in Gaza was started under cover of darkness, with the Arab population forced to remain indoors under a rigid curfew after a flurry of disorders which left an Arab civilian and an Israeli soldier dead and two Israelis wounded.

Ben-Gurion made a last-minute plea for unity before the showdown in Parliament.

"He put it up to the United States and Israeli's other friends abroad to see the pullout does not plunge the area again into war."

"If the United States and other powers will keep their word to us, there will be peace," he said. "If they will not keep their promise and if they shrink before the Egyptian dictator's threats that he will not allow Israeli shipping in the Gulf of Aqaba, there will be no peace."

Declarations alone are no guarantee of Israel's rights and we cannot build on them alone. The makers of these declarations can deny them tomorrow or interpret them as they please."

Capitalism a Minor Cause Of Russian Dissatisfaction

MOSCOW (P)—The Soviet Communist Party warned its members Wednesday against blaming all the defects of Communist society on penetration of capitalist ideas.

Some of the blame for dissatisfaction must fall on Soviet failure to satisfy all the needs of the people, the party was told.

This unusually frank discussion appeared in the current issue of Kommunist, authoritative monthly of the Soviet Party. Its appearance coincides with widespread changes in the country's economic structure which emphasize decentralization of authority.

Even the principle of paying people according to their work cannot eliminate the differences in satisfying the material needs of Soviet people, the magazine said.

Kommunist said old capitalist memories linger to a considerable degree in the Soviet Union, but Communists must also consider that the Soviet level of production this far cannot guarantee complete satisfaction of all the personal requirements of the people.

Congratulations, We've Survived It All

168 Years Old--Congress Looks Back

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON—Since this is Congress' birth week, our legislators have been busy congratulating themselves on what a wonderful old institution they are.

And in addition to the adjectives and the jollity that might be expected on the anniversary of any lively 168-year-old, quite a bit of early Congressional history has loomed up.

Sen. Karl Mundt (D-S.D.), for instance, has put in the "Congressional Record" an excerpt that shows what it meant to be a Congressman in 1802.

"We go into bed at 11," Rep. Roger Griswold of Connecticut wrote Mrs. Fanny Washington, "we rise at half past 8, eat our breakfast at 9; talk politics till 10; dress ourselves by 11; then go to the hall and quarrel till 3; return at that hour for dinner, after which we either sit stupidly in our chambers till supper or read newspapers, enjoy the perfume of tobacco smoke, and talk scandal and snuff till 9, after which we retire to our chambers to write or read till the hour of rest."

"It is true that the scene is occasionally diversified by invitations to dine with our acquaintances, etc., but this is making the thing worse."

"Upon those occasions we must sit at the dinner table till 9 in the evening and without enjoying much mirth must entail on ourselves a headache for the next day at least."

"Such is the life of a member of Congress."

When anyone looks back, the tendency is to say: "They were giants in those days." But they didn't always look like giants to their contemporaries.

In 1809, Sen. Nicholas Gilman of New Hampshire was complaining:

"To expect from the efforts of a heterogeneous mass composed of 200 wretches and blockheads, in pursuit of popularity, a correct, well digested political course... is to my mind irrational."

And just as today we often complain that Congress seems uncommonly slow in getting down to business, so in 1809 a man Jack's son — possibly Rep. Richard Jackson Jr. of Rhode Island — was writing:

"Committees have been appointed in the Senate and House of Representatives to take into consideration parts of the President's message."

"But the only occurrence that has yet taken place there worthy of notice is that one of the members of the House of Representatives has been horsewhipped by the President's secretary within the halls of the Capitol and another has been severely wounded in a duel."

In some ways Congress doesn't seem to have changed much. A few have great talent, a few have no discernible talent at all, and most are somewhere in between. Leastwise, that's the way Rep. Ezekiel Whitman of Massachusetts sized up his colleagues in 1810.

After naming those he thought had talent, Whitman said:

"Burwell has considerable information and seems very capable. Pirk is a long-winded, chuckle-headed fellow. McKee is brightly and fanciful."

"There are three stupid, loquacious old fellows, Viz. Smilie, Rhea, and a man we call Lord Holland of N.C. who feel the weight of the nation resting on their shoulders. The two latter make long, loud, senseless speeches upon every occasion."

And yet we've survived it all. It is indeed a time for congratulations.

Young Miss Linda Fairly and Master Mark Easton offer a quick piece as King and Queen of the Veteran's Wives Club. The youngsters, elected last week, are the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Fairly and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Easton.

Critical Condition

Quick Solution Not Seen For Parking Problems

A short time ago the State News received a letter in regard to the time worn problem of parking at MSU.

The letter was insignificant in itself as the author failed to sign his or her name. But the State News decided to investigate the situation and came up with the following findings:

The parking problem is a real one and cannot be solved overnight.

There are approximately 12,800 legal parking spaces on campus at present which include 7,500 on surfaced parking lots and street spaces; and 5,300 spaces on unpaved areas.

Things that add up to make this problem are not a shortage of spaces alone, but, the fact that:

- (1) Students who use both a lot for storage and drive and park elsewhere on campus actually require two spaces instead of one.

A Kiss? Gosh No!

Our elderly relative over Ann Arbor way is pulling a switch. Instead of leading, they are following a trend set several months ago by Marquette University.

On November 29 Marquette's dean of women ordered strict enforcement of the university rule which prohibits "public display of affection" outside the women's dorms.

At U. of M. the evening of February 21 was a dark one indeed for the coeds who live at Stockwell hall and the men who date them. Members of the dormitory council voted to ban kissing anywhere in the area of the hall.

Council members elected to play the "Big Brother is Watching" role to see that the ruling is enforced. They will patrol the area to see that the men leave their dates with only an emotion-packed handshake.

The reason given for this action by one of the larger coed dorms on the Ann Arbor campus was given as numerous complaints of excessive kissing and cuddling.

Too much of anything is not good. Too many green apples will give a stomach ache. Too much good night kissing is most likely to get the cood late minutes.

Seriously, though, while a university is not supposed to be a passion pit or to look like one, most universities advise their students to regard their dorm as a home away from home. In that case it does not seem logical to ban what is done on the porch at home.

The only good thing about this ban is that it makes it possible for the dateless ones to get into the dorms without first training in New York's subway crowds.

The whole idea is marked for failure from the start. The only success it will have will be to drive the osculators into parked cars and dark corners.

(2) The spaces taken up by construction workers on campus, and,

(3) The visitors on campus every day.

In the past parking meters were installed and according to Lt. Arthur E. Hahn of the Department of Public Safety helped to relieve the situation a little.

Added parking will soon be available in the area of Olin Memorial Hospital where construction shacks are standing.

But the only way the overall picture can be cleared up is with money. According to Harold W. Lautner, department head of Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning, plans (on paper) have been made to construct parking facilities for 26,000 automobiles on campus.

Lautner believes a reasonable amount of improvement has and will continue to be made on the parking situation every year, but for any full scale construction to begin the State Board of Agriculture must obtain the funds. There are three ways in which it can do this:

(1) Borrowing. In order to borrow money the University has to use it on construction that pays for itself such as the dormitories and Olin Memorial Health Center.

(2) Gifts to the University would supply funds for the purpose, and,

(3) The most important source of revenue is from the State Legislature. Recent legislative cuts in MSU's budget on building makes the outlook in this direction rather dim.

The main reason why funds are hard to obtain the amount needed to construct the parking areas. For just the gravel surfaced type lot, including the lighting, it would cost on an average of $50 per parking space. Asphalt paved lots with lighting, gravel and drainage average $200 per space and multi-level type lots $2,250 per space.

Many students complain about the $5 fee they have to pay to register their cars, but according to Lautner that fee doesn't even pay for the interest being paid for the space they use.

Lautner said, "If the student paid what the University pays, it would cost him approximately $15 to $20 a term to park." (He is referring to dorm students who store their cars on campus 24 hours a day. Payment for parking by married students is included in their rent.)

According to Hahn, as long as the parking situation remains critical, the Morrill Hall and Ag Hall parking lots reserved for faculty and visitors will be on first come first serve basis.

The muddy conditions caused by the spring thaw on unpaved lots is likely to persist for some time to come. No plans are in the making to pave these lots due to the cost.

Without a large grant that the University can use for additional parking facilities, or a change of heart by the State legislature, no quick action is in sight.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Parking Lot Cost Not Nominal Sum

To The Editor:

With Spring and its inherent mud on the way, man's emotions should turn once again toward the fair sex, rather than to lashing the Administration for muddy sidewalks and parking lots. The definition of an adult is "the who walks around a puddle rather than through it." This perhaps, hints at a solution to your problem. I say your because the trampled and hoof-printed campus grass shows that some people don't mind muddy shoes. Or, for that matter, care about how the grass looks either. But, after reading your letter, I felt that perhaps it would be worthwhile to look a little deeper into the situation than you apparently did. With this thought in mind, I took the liberty of calling several of the gravel dealers in the neighborhood and got some estimates of cost.

Contrary to your belief on the parking lots, I think it would take quite a high level meeting to improve the situation. You say all it would require would be a few truck loads of gravel. Well here are my findings. First, the recommended material for this type of work seems to be crushed white limestone. Second, the average truck load of this material is six tons. Third, using the recommended four inch depth, it would require 90 tons to cover 10,000 feet, or an area of 1,000 square feet. Fourth, the price of this limestone is $4.25 per ton, or $25.50 per truck load.

Now, after finding this out, I decided to see how many parking lots were of dirt base and how many square feet they represent. I find that there are six lots with dirt base and that they represent roughly 700,000 square feet. Some people may disagree with me on this, but I took the liberty of including two areas on south campus which were crowded with student cars even though these lots were not designated as student parking lots.

The total area you can find as I am out by looking at the map in the Student Motor Vehicles Regulation No. 9. After a little math, I came up with the answer to the total cost of materials. It would be roughly $26,775, or just a few truck loads as you said.

Now, last summer I worked as a laborer, being paid the union wage of $2.30 per hour. How many laborers do you think we would need? The last time I heard, grader operators were making somewhere in the neighborhood of $10 per hour. I think we would need "just a few" graders and steam-rollers for this job too. But, I'll let you figure the rest of the cost, Mr. Gorman.

Mr. Dickenson, let me tell you about the problem of financing this little venture. Perhaps you'd like to donate the materials.

Interpreting the News

Ike's Doctrine Timed Right

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Congressional approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine comes just in time to take advantage of a new psychological situation in the Middle East.

Indeed, it can be argued that if it had been faster it might not have been so effective.

The Middle Eastern crisis has been eased but by no means ended. It is possible that the area's concentration on day-to-day symptoms may now be shifted to longer-range approaches.

The Israeli pullout is being accompanied by Syria's decision to reopen the pipeline by which Iraq Oil reaches the Mediterranean. When the damage has been repaired, this supply, added to American oil now being shipped, will just about balance western Europe's loss through closure of the Suez Canal.

Indications from Cairo are that the Canal will soon be reopened.

By obtaining passage for shipping through the Strait of Tiran, Israel expects to enter upon a new trade program with Indian Ocean and Pacific Ocean ports.

One great development from the crisis is the new relationship of the United States to the area.

American companies have always operated in the Middle East on a strictly business rather than a colonial basis. The U. S. government has acted as an honest and successful broker during the crisis. Prior to that she was little more than an onlooker. The British had the United States blocked out with their claim to be the know-it-alls of the area, and they flopped miserably.

Now the United States is preparing to help the struggling states take a forward look. She has lifted the fear that Russia will intervene with force, because Russia dare not and will not cross the deadline set in the Eisenhower resolution.

Behind this barrier of security, the economic problems which leave the Middle East a power vacuum in world affairs, open to Communist infiltration, can be approached from a constructive standpoint.

The President and Secretary Dulles have promised that no political strings will be attached to the money they now propose to invest in creating more stable conditions. The ability of a nation to make proper use of the aid program, however, will inevitably be tied up with its military program and its intention with regard to working or fighting, and will be a consideration in the allocation of projects.

Like the aid program around the world, it might buy a little bit of peace.

All Coeds Invited To Enter Contest

During March, Reed & Barton Silversmiths will conduct a contest at MSU in which coeds will have a chance to win scholarship awards.

First award is a $500 scholarship and second a $250 scholarship, and third, three prizes of $100 scholarships. One hundred $25 saving bonds will also be given.

In the contest the coed is asked to name her favorite china, sterling, and crystal, and tell why she likes them.

Carol Ratzol is the student representative for the contest at Michigan State. Entry blanks can be obtained from Miss Ratzol at 329 West Yakeley. The contest closes March 31.

Reds Accuse Sweden of Espionage

U.S. Linked With Spy Smuggling

Swedish Officials Refute Charges

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Soviet Union Wednesday accused Sweden of maintaining a special crew of sailors to smuggle spies into Russia reported 14 spies have been dealt with.

It said the spies were linked with U. S. intelligence services. Sweden called the charges absurd.

The charges were broadcast by Moscow radio after appearing in Wednesday morning's editions of Pravda and Izvestia in Moscow.

The broadcast said 14 agents for Sweden were seized in a recent roundup, tried and sentenced. It did not give details of the sentences.

The charges said the spies were recruited in Sweden by a "Captain Anderson of the Swedish intelligence service and the American resident Valdin, with the assistance of the ringleaders of the so-called Estonian National Council."

The spies were trained for several months in secret flats in Stockholm, the announcement said, and were then turned over to "a special crew of sailors" to be smuggled into Soviet territory.

"All the spies were instructed by the Stockholm intelligence center to organize groups of gangsters, to collect secret information, to set up hideouts in the Baltic shore where other spies smuggled into the U.S.S.R. could put up," the announcement said.

The broadcast said Swedish and American intelligence agencies had been "in contact" for a number of years in the spy-smuggling operation.

The Soviet Union sent a formal note to Sweden protesting against the alleged espionage.

Commenting officially on the Soviet note, the Swedish Foreign Office said the charge "falls of its own absurdity." It said Sweden "stands far from any sort of agent activity for espionage purposes on Soviet territory."

Diplomatic observers in Stockholm viewed the extraordinary Soviet move as part of a Soviet clamp-down on the restive Baltic peoples.

They also thought Russia might be seeking to counteract the effect of two Soviet spy trials in progress in Sweden.

Four Power Group Meets

Big 3 Begins Problem Talks On Germany Reunification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomats of Germany and the Big Three Western powers met here Wednesday seeking ways to break the long deadlock with Russia over German unification.

The State Department announced that a "four power working group" met in late afternoon for about 75 minutes, beginning a conference which may last 10 days or two weeks.

One of the tasks assigned to the group is to determine the minimum requirements of the West in negotiating with Russia for the unification of West Germany and Communist East Germany.

It will seek out ways by which 'Y' holds election. Style Show Tonight

A fashion show and election of officers will be the program at tonight's University YWCA meeting. Dr. Marion Neidermum, assistant professor of textiles, clothing and related arts, will be the guest speaker.

The meeting will be held from 6:30-8. According to Mary Keranen, Lansing sophomore, publicity chairman, a dessert will be served.

The West may seize the initiative for a new attack on this critical problem.

Efforts to merge the two Germanys go back virtually to the end of World War II. But real progress has been blocked because any merger acceptable to the West would mean that Russia would in fact have to yield its hold on East Germany.

Indications were that the four governments represented in the sessions here already are agreed that two elements of any unification plan must be:

1. Provision for completely free elections throughout Eastern as well as Western Germany.
2. Membership of a reunited Germany in the Western Alliance.

The four nations are the United States, Britain, France and West Germany.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano said in a speech at the National Press Club Wednesday that the present West German nation and "tomorrow's reunited Germany" must "will and shall exist in unbreakable alliance with the free world."

In response to questions, following his prepared address, von

Brentano declared that if Germany departed from a policy of Western alliance and "has to lean toward the East, then it must follow the policy of expediency and that would mean the beginning of a terrible war." He asserted that with its 70 million people and its position in the heart of Europe "Germany cannot live in isolation."

Survey Reveals Polio May Prevent Cancer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A survey of several thousand cases of disease has yielded a hint that infection with polio virus may prevent cancer, a medical statistician reported today.

The finding came from an examination of records covering 14,000 cases of cancer and 822 cases of polio in Harris County (Houston). Among all the individuals who had cancer only one was found with a history of polio. Among the polio victims, not one case of malignancy was uncovered.

These results were cited by Miss Eleanor J. MacDonald in a report prepared for the 11th annual symposium of fundamental cancer research sponsored by the M. D. Anderson Hospital and the University of Texas post-graduate school of medicine. Miss MacDonald specializes in mathematical analyses of medical statistics.

The cancer statistics covered all hospital cases in the county from 1944 through 1950. The only one of the 14,000 cancer victims found to have had polio was an aged woman with breast cancer.

Normally, the statistician added, three or four cases of polio would have been found among that many people.

A survey of the polio cases covered all those reported in the county for 1948 through 1950. On the basis of chance, three of these should have had cancer, Miss MacDonald said.

The number of cases involved is too small to prove anything but the conclusions are "provocative," she asserted.

Findings tie in with results obtained by other researchers who have demonstrated that some viruses can destroy cancer cells, but their experiments have been confined to the laboratory.

Dr. Leon Dmochowski of M. D. Anderson Hospital, who has done some of the laboratory tests, said the survey findings indicate that the use of polio virus experimentally in human cancer is "theoretically feasible."

He added, however, that there is no assurance yet that live polio virus injected into a cancerous patient would behave in the same way as they do in test tubes.

Top Performer Leads Gymnasts Leas Stars On Trampoline

One of the finest trampolinists in the country and a top ringman, that's what gymnastic Coach George Szypula says about his star, gymnast Don Leas.

Leas, an all-around performer, has won first in five of the seven events slated at gymnastics meets. He has won the trampoline, flying rings, horizontal bar, free exercise and parallel bars.

On the trampoline, which is his best event, Leas met defeat only once during the regular season. The loss was to Illinois captain, Mike Karon.

Leas' other top event is on the flying rings. The only defeat for him in this event came at the hands of his own teammate, Russ Paul in the Minnesota match.

Leas, until this year, was a top diver on Coach Chuck McCaffrey's varsity swimming team. This year he decided to drop swimming and concentrate on gymnastics in which he is trying for a national title.

Leas first became interested in gymnastics when he won a junior carnival while still in junior high school. At Northeast High School in Philadelphia he took up gymnastics along with swimming, cross country and track and field.

Leas is a member of Theta Chi and vice president of Phi Epsilon Kappa. He is also a member of the porpoise honorary and the aerobatics club.

Next term, Don will teach physical education as a student teacher in the Battle Creek school system. Next year he plans to take up graduate work at Southern Illinois. Leas maintains a three-point all college average in his major, physical education.

Coach Szypula says he should make one of the top exercises in gymnastics.

Leas says this year's team has very good depth and has a chance for the Big 10 title this weekend at Ann Arbor.

Fencers Seek 1st Big 10 Title

Thomas Opposes Little In Featured Sabre Bout

The Spartan fencers head for Champaign, Ill., Friday in quest of their first Big 10 crown. The meet is scheduled for Saturday.

Coach Chuck Schmitter's swordsmen have compiled an impressive 7-3 record against the nation and should better last year's fifth place finish.

Posing as a dominant contender again is defending champion Illinois. Earlier in the season the fencers conquered the Illini, 15-12.

Illinois, a perennial champion, has won first place honors 13 times, winning titles in the last seven seasons. Wisconsin broke the consecutive string in 1955.

Spartan title hopes depend upon the performance of six fine blade manipulators.

Comprising the squad are Ed Hildebrandt (22-5) in the foil event, Warner Johnson (19-11) in the epee and George Thomas (22-2) and Donald McCalla (23-6) going in the sabre. Also competing in the epee and foil are Ed Kotlar and Hal Simonds.

A fence off was required to pick the sixth member of the team. Kotlar squeaked past Capt. Norm Winger, 5-4, to fill the final spot.

Other teams entered in the big meet are Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and possibly Northwestern and Ohio State.

The Spartans were dealt defeats by the Buckeyes and Wisconsin, while the fencers triumphed over Iowa and Indiana.

One of the key battles of the meet will pit Ohio State's Don Little against Thomas.

Thomas, last year's coveted sabre title holder, will face Little. However, when the Spartans met the Buckeyes in dual meet competition this year, Thomas edged the conference champ by taking two of three bouts.

Heading the Illini attack will be Art Shankin and Tyler Hunt in the sabre.

"If the team functions as it did at the start of the campaign we'll surprise many people," Coach Schmitter commented.

Continuing, Schmitter said, "The outcome will be determined by the individual performance of the players."

All-University Title Won by West Shaw 2

By JERRY WRIGHT

West Shaw 2 won the all-university championship which defeated the Dishwashers 48-39 in IM cage action Wednesday night. West Shaw 2 ran up a 21-7 lead in the first 10 minutes.

In the first half West Shaw 2 made 60 per cent of their shots while the Dishwashers hit on 35 per cent of theirs.

Led by Jim Walsh, the Dishwashers scored eight straight points to make the score 22-16 at half-time.

Ron Klingelhoefer led West Shaw's first half surge with eight points on four field goals. Scoring seven points in the second half, Klingelhoefer was the game high scorer with 15 tallies.

Walsh was the outstanding player in the game. He grabbed many rebounds and pumped 11 points through the hoop to lead the losers in scoring.

The second half was close as West Shaw outscored the Dishwashers by three points, 26-23. Frank Vackerelli led West Shaw 2 with eight points on one basket and six free throws. Walsh pumped in nine points to lead the losers in the second half.

The Dishwashers' Joe Kowalski scored the game's first point on a free throw, and this was the only time that the Dishwashers were to lead during the remainder of the game.

With three minutes remaining, the Dishwashers trailed 37-33, but West Shaw 2 quickly opened up a nine point lead.

The scoring was well divided among the West Shaw starters. Behing Klingelhoefer's 15 points were Bob Beruch and Frank Vackerelli, each with 10 points. Vackerelli tallied two field goals and pumped in six straight free throws.

Lyn Ackerman pumped in seven points for the victors. Teammate Roger Blackport pumped in two field goals and two foul shots for six points.

Walsh was the leading scorer for the losers with 14 points on six field goals and two foul shots.

The Rube brothers, Dick and Skip, each pumped in 11 tallies to rank behind Walsh in the scoring. Jim Mitchell and Kowalski scored two and one points, respectively.

All-American Team Picked

NEW YORK (AP)—Three big guys and two "shrimps" were named Wednesday to the 1957 Associated Press collegiate basketball All-America.

The big boys are Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, 7-foot sophomore sensation at Kansas in the Big Seven; Lenzie Rosenblatt, 6-5 star of unbeaten North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference; and "Hot Rod" Hundley, 6-4 whiz at West Virginia in the Southern Conference.

Little 3-10 Gary Thompson of Iowa City (The Jet) Forte of Columbia in the Ivy League completed the lineup.

Michigan State's John Green and two other Big 10 players were also named to the squad. Green was given an honorable mention, while Indiana's Archie Dees and Ohio State's Frank Howard made second and third teams respectively.

Elkin Baylor, Seattle sophomore who is heralded on the Pacific Coast as better in some respects than Chamberlain, tops a second team quintet. Others on the second team are: Jim Krebs of Southern Methodist's Southwest Conference Championships; Charley Tyra of Louisville; Grady Wallace, high scoring South Carolina ace; and Howard of Ohio State in the Big 10.

On the third team are Temple's accomplished junior, Gus Rodgers; Detroit's Bill Ebbett; Mississippi State's Jim Ashmore; Indiana's Dees and California's Larry Friend.

Twenty-seven additional players drew honorable mention.

Quiggle, Green Chosen to AP All-Western Conference Team

Hedden Is On Second Team List

Ferguson Gets Mentioned Also

Jack Quiggle and John Green, two members of Michigan State's co-championship squad, were named Wednesday to the Associated Press 1957 All-Big 10 basketball team.

Five juniors and one sophomore were named to the six-man squad with Michigan State having two spots.

In addition to Green's naming to the all-Big 10 first team, he was given an honorable mention on the Associated Press American collegiate squad.

Green, unknown during the first part of the season, came into stardom to become the only sophomore on the all-Big 10 team.

Another name of State's top performers, Jimmie Lacey Hedden, was placed on the second team of the Big 10. George Ferguson of the Spartans was given an honorable mention for making four of five Michigan State starts being mentioned.

Archie Dees, Frank Howard, George Kline and Don Oll make up the rest of the first team.

Dees, 6'8" center, on co-champion Indiana, and Howard, 6'7" forward, on Ohio State's Howard were the only unanimous choices of the eight Associated Press sports writers who blanketed the Western Conference.

Dees ended up as the conference's top scorer, and Howard was considered the best defensive player until the unveiling of Michigan State's Green. He ranked second in scoring.

Minnesota's Kline, 6'4" junior forward, started slow, but came out to stardom late in the conference race to help the Gophers win a third-place tie with Ohio State.

Oll of Illinois and State's Hedden are the smallest men on the squad, both being 6'3" tall. They were noted for their speed and outside shooting ability.

Headed by the Spartans' Hedden, the second team are: Joe Dommever, Minnesota; Harry Schmidt, Illinois; Ron Kramer, Michigan; and Dick Neal, Indiana. Kramer was also named to the second team a year ago.

Honorable mentions went to Ferguson, Michigan State; Joe Ruklick, Northwestern; Bill Greve, Lamar Lundy and Joe Campbell, Purdue; Halie Bryant, Indiana; Ken Sidle and Gene Millard, Ohio State; Roger Taylor, Illinois; George Lee, Michigan; Dave Tucker, Minnesota; Augie Martel, Dave Gunter and Clarence Wordlaw, Iowa.

Tiger Shakeup Sends Porter to Outfield

LAKELAND (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Wednesday shifted J. W. Porter to the outfield and opened negotiations to obtain Bill Benna, one-time New York Yankee outfielder who is talking at returning to the minors.

Porter was listed as a catcher on the Tigers roster last season, although he appeared in only 14 games, most of them as a pinch hitter.

The move to obtain Benna was not announced but it was known that John M. Hale, manager of player personnel, was making calls on the Yankee. Tittle to the New York Yankees in exchange for third baseman Andy Carey.

A new service (that the Associated Press) reported the Tittle deal was on the fire.

"It's so fantastic I don't even want to comment about it," said McHale. "I don't know when the talk started. We've certainly never considered it and further, more never would. We simply can't afford to part with an outfielder unless we get another good outfielder in return."

The shift of Porter from catcher to the outfield was not entirely unexpected. He has played there before, and also has worked behind the bat and at first base for the Tigers.

Several factors are involved in the switch, McHale said both Porter and the front office know

Dees Top Point Man In Big 10

Archie Dees, sensational Indiana center, was certified Wednesday as the Big 10 basketball scoring champion, and his teammate, Dick Neal, was credited with a field goal accuracy record.

Official conference statistics showed that Dees easily took the scoring title with an average of 25.5 points in 14 league games. Ohio State's Frank Howard is second with 19.9, barely edging out George Kline of Minnesota who had 19.1.

Michigan State's co-championship squad took team defensive honors with a yield of 94.7 points. Their closest rival was Wisconsin, who yielded 97.1 tallies.

Illinois gained the team scoring championship with 1,180 points, and Indiana ranked second with 1,116.

The Spartans' Larry Hedden finished in the eighth spot in the individual scoring race with an average of 16.1.

The Hoosiers' Neal ranked tenth on the scoring list with 15.6, but he hit on 81 out of 164 shots from the floor for a record 51.2 percentage. The old mark was set in 1954 by Indiana's Don Schmidt with 115 out of 224 for 50.4.

Sharing the fourth spot in the individual scoring are two Illinois sharpshooters, Don Oll and Harry Schmidt, each with 17.8.

Joe Ruklick of Northwestern finished in sixth place with 17.1. Pop Latow of Wisconsin is in seventh place with a 16.7 percentage and he can still improve 69 that as his team has one more game on Saturday against Iowa.

Benna, Hedden in ninth spot is Minnesota's Joe Dommever with a 15.7 average.

Rochester Defeats Philadelphia, 82-79

ROCHESTER (AP)—The Rochester Royals squeezed out an 82-79 National Basketball Assn. victory over Philadelphia Wednesday night, moving two percentage points into third place in the Western Division over idle Minneapolis. The loss cost Philadelphia a chance to escape a second place Eastern Division deadlock with Syracuse, which also lost.

Baseball Players Rehire Attorney

Norman Lewis Retained; Representatives Relected

TAMPA (AP)—The major league baseball players representatives rehire J. Norman Lewis as their attorney for another year at their spring meeting Wednesday.

Although Lewis' salary was not announced, it is believed to be $30,000, the same as he received last year.

The player representatives also re-elected their officers for 1957. Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators was re-elected American League Representative and Jerry Coleman of the New York Yankees an alternate. Yost had succeeded Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, who retired from baseball in February.

The National League retained Homer Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies as its player representative and Ted Kluszewski of the Cincinnati Reds as alternate.

Several items of business were transacted at the meeting although there were no important developments.

The player group discussed the major league owners' reply to their demands to increase the minimum salary from $6,000 to $7,500. At their February meeting the owners told the player representatives the understanding was that no player who is released after May 15 will receive under $5,500.

Maple Leafs Nip Canadiens, 3-1

TORONTO (AP)—The Canadiens scored two goals Wednesday night to lead Toronto to a 3-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens, thus giving the Maple Leafs playoff chances in the National Hockey League's further months of play.

The victory moved the Leafs within six points of the New York Rangers in the battle for the fourth and last playoff berth.

The loss left the second-place Canadiens three points behind the Detroit Red Wings, who have played two less games.

would. Eisenhower asked for it two months ago.

It will be essentially what the chief executive asked.

When House that the United States will go to war, if need be, to safeguard the vital Middle East against Communist aggression.

Since the President a free hand in paying out some 200 million dollars in military and economic aid to the Middle East in the next four months.

Although the Senate made some changes before adopting the resolution Wednesday night, the White House was talking no objections to any of them.

Identical Press Secretary James F. Hagerly told news men Eisenhower was "very pleased" at the bipartisan support the measure commanded in the Senate.

He was also particularly pleased, Hagerly said, by the large majority the resolution received.

The Senate passed it 72-19. It passed the House on Jan. 31, 1956.

The House voted then to give Eisenhower the authority he asked to send American troops to the defense of any nation requesting help against Soviet Communist aggression.

Some Senators and Eisenhower already had such authority and it would weaken the resolution to leave that word in.

Some said it he lacked the authority, Congress couldn't grant it without changing the Constitution.

Consequently the Senate version will put Congress on record as saying "The United States is prepared to use armed force" to halt a Red attack in the Middle East if the President determines it to be necessary. While there were other modifications in the Senate, Hagerly told a news conference.

"I don't think there's enough difference to fuss about," Republican leaders went along with that.

The House, therefore, will duck the usual procedure of sending the measure to a Senate House conference committee to work out compromise language. That would have meant more delay.
