'Antigone' An Unusual Production

But Greek Classic
Meaning a Bit Hazy

By MARY MARTIN

An interesting experiment in theater took place Wednesday night when Theta Alpha Phi, national theater honorary, presented Anouilh's "Antigone," in Studio Theater. Tickets for the three remaining nights may be obtained at the door for $1 and are not reserved. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

As a unique theatrical production "Antigone" comes across with its unusual staging, modernistic sets, contemporary dress and colloquial speech. As an example of the present-day stage giving a modern twist to an antique it is entertaining. As a type of tragedy it does not succeed, for tragedy as stated in the play is clean, pure and restful. "Antigone" was none of these.

The audience left not pondering on the philosophical motivations of the heroine but rather attempting to sift through the mass of ideas, conflicting arguments and glaring comedy situations interspersed with classic drama which were thrown at them.

Members of Theta Alpha Phi directed the entire play. Carol Larsen, Detroit junior, in her role as Antigone resembled more a Joan D'Arc battling relentlessly the forces of evil. The convincing idea of a princess defying a death edict to bury her brother did not come across the footlights.

The criticism can be leveled at Anouilh's play itself and not at the acting of Miss Larsen, which was as usual effective and enjoyable.

Jon Brokenshire, Shaker Heights, Ohio, freshman as the pragmatic King Creon and Jim Howrigan, St. Clair Shores sophomore as Haemon, Antigone's fiancé, gave credible performances. Jerry Flood, Bay City sophomore, as the Chorus, was perhaps the most plausible characterization—providing the only real, understandable bond between the ancient and the modern.

The techniques of staging, lighting, costuming and set design were a credit to the ingenuity of the director, Dan Covert, Bay City senior. But the play seemed to war against itself jarring the audience with trite statements imposing the attempt at action of thought. The Chorus began the play with "Well, here we are," commented part way through "That's that and finished off with "Well, there you are."

In the Sophocles classic the audience accepts the Greek philosophy and builds action and idea. In Anouilh's version this premise was out of place in the modern setting and was not accepted.

"Antigone" was written as a message of resistance to the German occupation of Paris in 1943. But this is 1957 and the mission is removed. The statement that Creon makes about the futility of quarreling over something so meaningless as a burial of a brother somehow sums up the whole play.

Men Discuss Leadership At Meetings

The first meeting of a series in the newly inaugurated leadership training program of Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council was held Tuesday. This meeting consisted of the scholarship chairmen from residence halls.

Guest speakers, presented by Wayne Thiele, educational director, men's division and director of this program, were Dr. Frances DeLisle, director, women's division; Dr. J. W. Truitt, director, men's division; Dr. M. H. Goer, counseling center and J. R. Stewart, director of scholarships.

Dr. Truitt outlined to the chairmen how they can best assist fellow students with scholarship problems. Stewart enumerated the types of available scholarships and the qualifications for eligibility. Dr. Goer clarified the Counseling Center's services to students who are academically confused.

2.2 Average Now Required

New Ruling Raises Pledging Standards

The IFC Presidents' Assembly Wednesday night voted a change in the IFC by-laws to require all pledges to earn an all-college 2.2 scholastic average and a 2.2 the previous term before they can go active. The required average had been a two point in both cases.

This revision was affirmed by a 25-2 vote. A two-thirds majority of the 28 fraternities is needed to make a change in the by-laws. Last week the proposed change was tabled because only a two-thirds majority was present.

The new requirement will affect men pledged next fall term. The point average necessary for pledging is still only a two point.

The change was proposed after 13 of the 28 fraternities failed to comply with an IFC ruling requiring all fraternities to maintain a 2.2 average fall term. Averages for winter term have not been officially computed. However, it is estimated that the all-fraternity average will be well above fall term's.

The penalty for not having a 2.2 is one term of warning probation followed by strict probation until the fraternity again gains that average. Strict probation means that the fraternity cannot participate in all-university activities, intramural sports or sponsor social events of their own.

The assembly also voted to sponsor the Nephrosis Foundation in the Lansing area. They propose to solicit money in the East Lansing area for equipment for a Nephrosis clinic in Ann Arbor.

Active support was voted to the Plasma Pageant, Army and AFROTC sponsored blood drive from May 6-10.

Jordan Government Resigns

Khalidi Rule Yields to Pressure

Rioting Forces
Cabinet Session

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Premier Hussein Khalidi's government has resigned, two cabinet ministers reported Wednesday.

The Western-inclined regime had been under steady attack since it was installed at young King Hussein's behest eight days ago.

Foreign Minister Suleiman Nabulsi and Development Minister Amin Madaj emerged from a long cabinet session, saying the resignation had been presented and accepted by King Hussein.

Street rioting, a familiar device in Jordan politics, had driven the cabinet into urgent session.

The next step in the government crisis that has rocked Jordan for 15 days was not clear although Tuesday the king said in an interview: "You will get the idea of this in the next 24 hours."

In the interview the young king dramatically hurled a challenge at Communism and said it would be overcome in his realm.

While the cabinet met throughout the night at the Philadelphia Hotel, waiting in the lobby were members of the committee representing all the country's political parties that had demanded Khalidi's cabinet resign to make way for an all-party coalition government.

The ministers met for the second time Tuesday after Khalidi had visited the royal palace and talked with the king for an hour.

Khalidi was reported carrying the cabinet's resignation with him.

When he returned to the hotel to meet again with his ministers, the ailing premier was smiling.

Observers surmised that he and the young monarch had agreed on some new scheme to end the political crisis, but there was no hint of what it might be.

Hussein last night blamed international Communism and all its followers for the riots and shifts of government that threatened his kingdom.

He told American newsmen in an interview:

"I realize that it is not myself that is the only target of attack, but it is a general move to destroy all elements that can stand in the way of the new imperialism that wants to come into the Arab world . . ."

"This campaign was forced upon us and we are going to fight for what we believe is for our honor and our responsibilities," he said in an interview.

"I don't think the crisis will come to an end until all elements and powers behind them (the Communists) realize it is not possible to infiltrate into this part of the world and change the way of thinking and beliefs of the people here."

He said he felt stronger now than ever and did not need any help from outside to win his fight.

American Heads Discuss Hussein, Mideast Problem

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles Wednesday discussed the crisis in Jordan as the eight-day-old government of Premier Hussein Khalidi resigned.

They declared they regard that nation's "independence and integrity as vital."

Their view of the situation seemed to amount to a warning against any Communist aggression in the Mideast area.

The Eisenhower doctrine on the Mideast provides for extension of American military and economic aid to nations of that area threatened by Communist aggression—if such aid is requested.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty replied, "Not to my knowledge," when asked whether Jordan has requested United States aid.

UN Security Council Called in

Nasser Announces Plan To Control Suez Canal

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt made public here Wednesday its plan to clamp complete Egyptian control on Suez Canal operations and toll money.

In New York the UN Security Council scheduled a meeting on the Suez issue Friday morning at the request of the United States.

The announced Egyptian plan provides some latitude in arbitrating disputes that may arise in operating the 103-mile waterway the Egyptians nationalized last July 26.

The Egyptian memorandum promised uninterrupted navigation for all nations—with some reservations—and proposed setting up a fund of one-fourth of all tolls to develop the canal.

Egypt will collect all tolls, the memorandum said, and the Egyptian government will take five per cent in royalties. It said toll increases would be limited to one per cent a year unless negotiations with users provided for more.

The Egyptian announcement and responsible Egyptian officials insisted that the document will have the force of an international treaty registered with the United Nations.

The Egyptian statement said use of the canal would be

"within the limits and in accordance with the provisions" of the 1888 Constantinople Convention. This provides unhindered access to the Canal for ships of all nations in war and peace; but Egypt bars Israeli ships under a convention security clause with the condition that the 1948 state of war with Israel still exists under the 1949 armistice.

In Washington, officials said the United States is not satisfied with the Egyptian plan.

The plan appears deficient on the questions of tolls and of nondiscrimination, they said. The omissions affect Israel's use of the Canal and Egypt's attitude toward the Suez Canal Users Assn. (SCUAL), set up by the West, they added.

In London, Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan ordered his cabinet to meet Thursday morning to draft special instructions for Sir Pierson Dixon, British UN delegate who is also president of the council this month.

Today is the last day of primary voting. Ten finalists will be chosen and they will then be voted on at the UMOG Dance to be held Saturday.

Everyone at the dance will have one vote. Tickets are available only at the Union Ticket Desk at $2.50 a couple.

Wednesday balloting results are as follows: Roger Forbush, 57; Jack Quiggle, 63; Joe Carruthers, 62; Pat Burke, 80; Bob Romal, 76; Johnny Rogers, 68; Noel Stookey, 59; John Birchfield, 51; Barry Grant, 55; Bob Becker, 52; Paul Sansone and Pat Wilson, 50; Bob Jemias, 48; Roger Bennett, 39; Jim Rose, 40; Dick Herrmann, 36; Les Rutledge, 35; Bill Bopf, 32; George Ferguson, 30; Elden Hagerty, 29; Jim Leigh, 28; Dave Kaiser, 23; Jim Herrmann, 14; Bob Berlich, 12; Walter Schimmel, 10.

Petitions may be picked up from the Student Government office and must be returned there by 5 p.m. May 2.

Junior Council Meets For J-Day Final Talk

Plans for Friday's J-Day activities go into the final stages tonight at 7:30 when the Junior Council meets in the Union Mural Room. Also under discussion will be suggestions directed toward elections campaign written material for class officers.

In the main, the document appears to correspond closely to the plan President Nasser presented to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold several weeks ago.

The biggest concessions by Nasser appear to be in the realm of arbitrating disputes, particularly clauses which state the arbitration must be binding on both disputing parties.

In Washington, officials said the United States is not satisfied with the Egyptian plan.

The plan appears deficient on the questions of tolls and of nondiscrimination, they said. The omissions affect Israel's use of the Canal and Egypt's attitude toward the Suez Canal Users Assn. (SCUAL), set up by the West, they added.

In London, Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan ordered his cabinet to meet Thursday morning to draft special instructions for Sir Pierson Dixon, British UN delegate who is also president of the council this month.

"Building Your Marriage," a course designed for newlyweds and engaged couples, begins today at 7:30 p.m. at the Lansing YMCA, 301 West Lenawee Street.

Topics to be covered during the five weekly sessions include "So Now You're Engaged," "Off to a Good Start," "Sexual Harmony in Marriage," "Marriage Is a Partnership" and "What Holds the Family Together."

Specialists will be on hand to discuss all phases of married life. A small registration fee will be charged.

Congressional Aid?

U. S. Slack in Support Of International Games

Interest in international athletics in the last two decades has hit a low point in the United States.

This attitude is evidenced by the difficulty in obtaining the rights to the 1959 Pan-American Games.

A few months ago there appeared in the newspapers a statement that Cleveland, Ohio, had the inside track to being named the site of these games.

However, there remained an enormous obstacle—the need of five million dollars. So the city turned to Congress for the appropriations. But Congress refused such an appropriation.

So, as the situation stands the United States again passes up an opportunity for starting the games which were inaugurated in 1951.

What effect this has placed upon the United States' athletic prominence is yet undetermined.

But when a small South American country bids for the games it certainly places the wealthier nation in an embarrassing spot.

This same situation has happened before. For instance, the U.S. policy concerning previously held Olympic Games. The bill for the transportation of the team and other essentials is paid by the public through donations.

Major Crisis

If this hadn't happened at least a dozen times before, we could say it was spring fever, traditional spring term slump, or the call of the beaches that caused it. We can blame it on almost anything we want—but it all boils down to student apathy.

"Apathy" is coming to be a much over-used word in connection with student bodies. A glance at the editorial pages of most of the 10 newspapers shows that it is a disease prevalent all over the nation.

At Michigan State it crops up every time there is a major issue at hand. It is always there, but it is most noticeable at times like this.

The major issue at stake now is the election of Student Congress representatives and class officers.

As of Wednesday night only 11 petitions had been filed for the 61 Student Congress seats and 20 for the 12 class officers.

Petitioning ends at 5 this afternoon, which leaves less than 10 hours for 118 students to suddenly become interested in running for office. At least 118 more students must petition if there is to be any contest at all. This figure allows at least two candidates for each office. It seems to be an idealistic figure, as it is seldom attained.

If the present trend continues there will not even be one candidate for each congressional seat.

Perhaps we are wrong in calling this a major issue, at the moment it seems to be more of a crisis, than an issue.

The prospects for a student congress are pretty black unless there is an eleventh hour revival of student interest.

Now is the time for students to show their interest in governing themselves. Students are always crying for a voice in the university's policy. They demand the right to make decisions and design their own laws. Well, we're waiting for some action.

It seems that if Congress decided to pay the fare it would be a practice of governmental control. However, the tremendous winning power displayed by the Soviets in the 1956 Games necessitates a definite change.

International competition has lost its established goal—it is now used for propaganda. The winning of the Olympics by Russia provided them with a hard-hitting propaganda outlet.

Three years ago this problem came to the attention of President Eisenhower. The President called a special conference with famous athletes and coaches. Many ideas were exchanged and possible plans formulated but still no action was outlined.

Who is to head the committee to obtain funds for these world renowned games? Many suggestions have pointed to the forming of a private body to collect the money. But this plan was employed in the recent winter Olympics and ended up a failure.

A skating foursome was sent to the games in Italy. The lack of funds caused them to stop over in Norway until more money was sent.

Douglas F. Roby of Detroit has been trying to get the Olympic Games for the Motor City. Again shortage of money dissolved all hope.

Rome was finally designated as the Olympic site for the 1960 Games.

As Congress continues to slash at the budget, it should consider the financing of future international athletic events. Certainly, the financing of international sports would not take a huge amount from the government's monetary resources.

In the years to come the newspapers will be stating that a particular U.S. city has been named a host site for international competition, but this will be only a myth because some definite program has to be established, preferably on a governmental level.

Interpreting the News

Nasser Proposals Follows New Policy

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Nasser's proposal for operation of the Suez Canal leave loopholes for almost interminable litigation and are not nearly so firm as the user nations have been demanding.

Nevertheless they represent a definite attempt on the dictator's part not to let Egypt become isolated from everyone except Russia.

They may also represent an effort to keep negotiations going until the Western powers are persuaded to put pressure on Israel for a general Middle Eastern settlement.

Nasser has said that the canal and all other problems could be settled easily if the Arab world was given guarantees that Israel would stay behind the borders originally proposed for her by the United Nations. In that case he said, Israel's existence would be recognized.

This is a reversal of the long-standing Arab contention that Israel must be and will eventually be destroyed.

Whether he intends to stick by that—whether it is politically possible for him to stick by it—is a question. His record for living off the bundle is far more impressive than his record of following through on specific statements made in private.

But the canal is a good club for him in the Israeli dispute if he really is interested in peace.

Nasser doesn't want to be completely abandoned by nations such as India and the United States to whom the canal is important. He doesn't want to be thrown irrevocably into the arms of Russia.

The offer to operate the canal under a system of international arbitration plays lip service, at least to international desires.

Aside from the fact that it refuses the international supervision proposed by the United States, it also avoids direct submission of disputes to the World Court.

Nasser proposes to arbitrate both compensation to the original canal owners and future points of disagreement. But he proposes three-man courts, with one appointed by Egypt, one by the users, and a third by the first two, with the world court appointing the third if the first two cannot agree.

This, together with arbitration hearings themselves, is a cumbersome and slow process. It leaves open the way for almost interminable and intolerable interference by Egypt with canal operation pending decisions.

Nasser offers no indemnity to the users if Egypt donates decisions after they have been made.

All in all, it looks like a tongue-in-cheek way of keeping negotiations going. It leaves the canal situation as it is. It interferes with any retaliatory action the security council might want to take. It prevents breaking off at least technically friendly relations with some countries.

President Of AOCS Answers

To the Editor:
In reply to the letter about the Association of Old-Campus Students, I think some corrections and suggestions should be made.

As to the election of the vice president, the second to his nomination did not come in highest tones as was stated. There was no "almost immediate" call for a unanimous ballot, since a second person was nominated. The second candidate declined, however. As there were no further nominations, a motion was made to cast a unanimous ballot. The final vote on this appeared unanimous to me; it was definitely much more than a limited response. If there was disagreement as to the procedure, I wish it would have been brought up at the meeting where something could have been done.

As to the ability to nominate and elect, any student who has an interest can nominate someone, including himself. The election itself is decided by the majority of the members present and not by just an "elite few."

The people elected to positions were elected because of their previous work and interest in the club. They were not pushed into office by me or any so-called "elites."

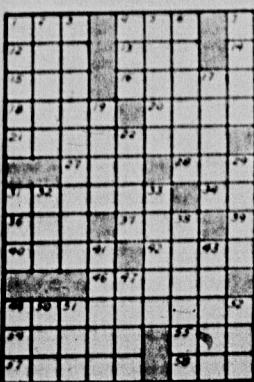

I invite the two dissatisfied persons and any other off-campus students to our meeting next week, where they can offer constructive criticism if they feel the organization is not being run as it should.

A person gets out of an organization only what he puts in to it. AOCS welcomes anyone who wants to become a member and is willing to take an active part. Committees are set up for those interested in working in the association. The club exists only on the efforts of its members and more workers are always needed.

Newspaper Publishers Seek Free Travel in Red China

NEW YORK (AP)—Leaders of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. reacted coolly Wednesday to limitations placed by Secretary of State Dulles on his qualified offer to permit American newsmen to travel to Red China.

Travel to the Communist Chinese mainland presently is banned entirely. Newsmen have contended this infringes on the American people's right to get firsthand news of conditions there.

William Dwight, ANPA president, told a general session of the NAPA convention: "The Secretary of State yesterday invited the American journalistic community to devise a way to send a limited number of reporters to Communist China without breaking down the general ban on travel to that country."

"The secretary refers to 'limited' travel in the thinking of the American newspaperman there is no such thing as limiting the right to know."

Asked whether this could be interpreted as a rejection of Dulles' offer, Dwight said: "You can interpret it any way you wish."

Cranston Williams, ANPA general manager, told newsmen that publishers objected to the principle of limitations. He said if the number of newsmen were limited to three one time, it could be limited to two another time and later to none at all.

"The battle we are engaged in to sustain the people's right to know is endless," Dwight said in his address.

"We find ourselves engaged in a clash on this now of the highest level—with the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the Congress."

Old Gospel Replica At Library

The library is the proud possessor of a replica of the "Codex Lindisfarneensis" or the "Lindisfarne Gospels." This replica was produced from one of the world's rarest, most beautiful volumes, which contains the New Testament books of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

The original manuscript was completed over a period of years and is now on display in the British Museum. Its facsimile edition includes 28 of the more than 500 pages in full color.

The work was begun in the closing years of the seventh century of the Northumbrian Island of Lindisfarne, the Holy Island of Saints Aidan and Cuthbert. The text is given in Latin and the lettering and rich illustrations were hand-done by the monks.

In the 19th century an inter-linear gloss or translation in Anglo-Saxon was added to the Latin text. Thus, the book is not only important as a work of art and paleography, it is also valuable as a guide to the development of the English language.

The history of the original is quite unique. It is said that in the ninth century the monks, fleeing the Holy Island before a Danish invasion, took their Gospels with them, but in a storm the manuscript was swept into the sea.

Miraculously it was unharmed and restored to the monks.

Baseball Bill Withstands Opposition

By LYNN SHEPARD
State News Capitol Reporter

East Lansing Rep. Ralph Young's bill concerning minors, baseball contracts and circuit judges dodged a near fatal opposition maneuver in the House of Representatives Wednesday.

The bill, intended as a safeguard against exploitation of high school diamond standouts by "hard dog" scouts, would provide that circuit judges be given the authority to inspect the contract and explain the loss of college eligibility to the youth before the contract becomes valid.

Young had seen the bill strengthened in the Judiciary Committee, passed on the third reading and scheduled for general orders passage last Friday.

However, the presence of opposition from an organized baseball lobby was suggested as the bill was postponed Friday, Monday and Tuesday. Rep. Frank O'Brien of Detroit appeared to be representing these interests.

O'Brien moved Wednesday that the bill be referred back to committee for amendments on the grounds that it might also be applied to other sports.

At this time, Young was absent from the House chamber attending a committee meeting, so his co-sponsor, Rep. Sterling Eaton of Plymouth, informed that this move would kill the bill, asked that it be placed on the calendar for consideration today.

The freshman legislator from East Lansing, on hearing of the events during his absence, appeared untruffled and confidently predicted the Young-Eaton measure to pass the House by "around 90-0."

Swimmers Celebrate at Banquet

A victory dinner was held in the Centennial room of Kelllogg Center Wednesday night for the swimming team which captured the Big 10 crown and gained a third place in the NCAA championships.

Attending the affair were the team members, their wives, Freshman swimmers, Head Coach McCaffree and assistant Coach Hines who directed the team to its first conference title. McCaffree praised the outstanding performance turned in by a team which made the personal champs, Ohio State and Michigan, sit up and take notice.

Graduating seniors, divers John Mason and Don Morey, Paul Benke, Big 10 100-yard breaststroke champ and NCAA runnerup in the 100 and 220-yard breaststroke, Frank Parish, anchor swimmer of the winning Big 10 and NCAA runnerup 400-yard freestyle relay, Capt. Jim Clemens, who took second place in the Big 10 and NCAA 440-yard freestyle events, Tom Wines and Greg Moenarak all gave farewell speeches.

An awards banquet is scheduled for May.

Trade-Minded Tighe Wants to Do Business

CHICAGO (AP)—Thundershowers forced a postponement of Wednesday's scheduled game between the Detroit Tigers and the Chicago White Sox and gave Tiger Manager Jack Tighe and other club officials time to consider ways of improving the last-place Tigers.

Hutchinson Was Called Things Too

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Freddie Hutchinson of the St. Louis Cardinals, a former Detroit Tiger pitcher, Wednesday said he had been called a "cheater" and worse — many times during his playing days, but never thought of asking for an apology.

"The next thing you know," said Hutchinson, "they'll be serving tea out on the mound." Hutchinson was referring to the Ririe, Tebbetts-Lew Burdette spitball feud.

Burdette, Milwaukee Braves right-hander, Tuesday requested a public apology from Tebbetts, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, for calling him a "cheating spitballer."

"Shucks," said Hutchinson who favors legalizing the spitter, "he's probably been called a lot of names. That's part of baseball. You call somebody something, and he calls you something. It doesn't mean anything. Everybody knows that."

Asked whether he ever threw a spitball, Hutchinson nodded his head and said, "Yep, but I couldn't control the ball, so I gave it up."

Asked whether he ever threw a spitball, Hutchinson nodded his head and said, "Yep, but I couldn't control the ball, so I gave it up."

The same two pitchers were to start Wednesday, Frank Lary for the Tigers and Lefty Jack Harshman for the Sox, as listed as today's starters.

Atterberry Sets Frash Record

Willie Atterberry last week continued to rewrite the freshman track record book.

Two days prior to his world record performance at the Ohio Relays, Atterberry set a fresh record in the 440-yard dash. The Detroit runner coasted to a .485 clocking at that distance, easily smashing the old mark of .495 set by Lloyd Whetter in 1942.

Coach Kobs Sees Rough Road Ahead

Arranges Lineup For Indiana Game

Coach John Kobs had to move the baseball team inside for the second straight day Wednesday, because of rain. The team was only able to hold a short practice in Jenison due to the football team also using the field-house for practice.

The Kobsmen are slated to play their Big 10 opener against Indiana Friday and a double-header against Ohio State Saturday.

Coach Kobs said that while his team has been improving steadily, and has looked good against non-conference opponents, he feels that they will have to bear down once they get into Big 10 competition.

Coach Kobs pointed out that MSU's baseball team is fairly green and made up mostly of sophomores and juniors. In their first four games at Old College Field the Spartans haven't started more than two seniors in the lineup.

Southpaw Ron Ferranowski will be his choice for the starting berth against Indiana, Kobs said. He said the rest of his lineup will be partly determined by the starting pitcher Indiana uses.

Dennis Mendyk and Dean Moore will alternate in left field and John Russell and Ted Kearly in right field with a chance for Gerald Meredith at that position.

These two positions and the catching post which will alternate between Team Captain Al Luce and Barry Fullerton, will be decided when Coach Kobs learns whether Indiana will use a left or right-handed pitcher.

The other starting positions against Indiana will be: Dick McKenzie, center field; Roscoe Davis, first base; Frank Palamara, second base; Jerry Korwek, short stop, and Gary Warner, third base.

Kobs said that he plans to let his pitchers go as much of the distance as they can, starting with the Indiana game.

Anybody who squawks about taxi bills should take notice of Wheatley Stable's Kentucky Derby contender, Bold Ruler. The costs of shipping the thoroughbred from New York to Kentucky for the May 4 classic were $1,200.

IM Hi-Lights

Softball managers are reminded to have their teams at the playing field on time. This is especially important for early games. Forfeit time is 10 minutes after the scheduled starting time.

Thirty-six teams are entered in the volleyball league this year and have been divided into six blocks, meaning each team will play at least five times.

The baseball throw, a spring term sports skill event, begins Monday, April 29 in front of Jenison Fieldhouse.

Persons interested in participating need only to report at the time of competition.

Dormitory and fraternity tennis play is scheduled to begin Tuesday, May 7. Athletic managers of all organizations will receive circulars pertaining to this event.

Tennis courts may be reserved for Saturdays and Sundays by calling the IM office.

Botvink Loses Game To Smyslov at Chess

MOSCOW (AP) — Challenger Vasily Smyslov Wednesday won the 20th game in the marathon world chess championship play against titleholder Mikhail Botvink. Both are Russians.

Botvink resigned without resuming the game, after adjournment last night.

Smyslov now leads 11½-8½ points with only four games left to play.

Coeds Hold Swim Meet

At least 12 teams, possibly as many as 14, have been entered in the Women's Intramural Synchronized Swimming Meet scheduled for 7:30 tonight at the pool in the Women's Gym, according to swimming manager, Barbara Mueller.

Each group consists of three girls, who will perform six stunts apiece. Four required stunts will be executed by each swimmer, and then each coed may choose two optional stunts to complete her performance.

Judging is to be based on individual displays only, as no team routines will be shown.

Golfers Vie for Squad Spots, Prepare for Tri-Way Tussle

Seven golfers battled for the No. 7 and No. 8 positions on Michigan State's link squad Wednesday in a 36-hole medal playoff at the Walnut Hill course. Jim Sullivan, a sophomore, led the field with a 149 score, and another sophomore, Gary Spees, followed him, shooting a 154 total.

The other five men placed in this order: George Cieskorn, 156; Bill Jares, 159; Roger Fuller and John Payne, 161; and Dave Balfour, 163.

Sullivan, as a result of winning this playoff, will challenge the man who places sixth in Friday's triangular meet against Wisconsin and Detroit.

The winner of this second match will gain the No. 6 berth when the squad makes its trip to South Bend, Ind., and Evanston, Ill., for two quadrangular meets next weekend.
