A-Tests Warning Sounded

Congress Hears Scientists Testify

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress heard new testimony Tuesday that atomic weapons tests could wreck the health, or shorten the lives, of thousands if not millions of persons — and may cost mankind a million babies in generations to come.

One of the scientific witnesses, Dr. Bentley Glass, an adviser to the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC), said too that the danger to future generations may have been seriously underestimated.

The increasing tempo of weapons testing in 1957 will certainly make a reevaluation necessary, Glass told a Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee.

The group is looking into the dangers of radioactive fallout, or "hot" droppings from atomic explosions. AEC says there are far below the danger level now. Some scientists have agreed, others have raised questions.

Tuesday's witnesses were geneticists — specialists in what may happen to generations yet unborn. All agreed that untold thousands of lives may be shortened or at least damaged by continued testing of nuclear weapons.

The scientist, Dr. James F. Crow of the University of Wisconsin, said testing as now conducted may cost mankind a million children—stillborn, lost in miscarriages, or victims of death in early infancy — in the long run.

Crow offered the figure as "a very rough guess" covering the next 100 or so generations.

He said the degree of damage to future generations "will be a very small fraction of the total human death, disease and misery."

Crow went on to say, however, that it is certain "several thousands, or perhaps more persons will be diseased, or deformed, or will die prematurely, or be otherwise impaired as a consequence of fallout if the present rate of testing continues."

From the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), meanwhile, came a warning that vast quantities of potentially dangerous radioactivity may spill into the nation's food and water supplies from non-war uses of atomic energy.

W. B. Rankin, assistant to the FDA commissioner, said his agency plans a long-range program to find out how much of this material can safely be absorbed by human beings.

AEC officials have taken the view that the risk from fallout is less than the danger of letting the Russians get ahead in weapons testing.

Tuesday's witnesses stressed these points:

1. When it comes to hereditary damage, there is no "safe dose" of radiation — it all produces mutations, or changes in offspring, and nearly all are bad.

2. Any increase in weapons testing means more future damage, in proportion to the extra radiation produced.

Second Largest Class

2,401 to Receive Diplomas Sunday

Michigan State's second largest class in history will be graduated Sunday in ceremonies beginning at 4 p.m. in MacKinnon Stadium.

An estimated 2,401 seniors and graduate students will receive their diplomas from President John A. Hannah, and will hear U.S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon give the commencement address.

Some 1,991 students will receive bachelors' degrees, 293 masters' degrees and 117 doctoral degrees. Alumni awards for distinguished service will also be given during the program.

Senior Week activities officially began Sunday with Lantern Night, followed Tuesday with Senior Swingout. Water Carnival will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights on the Red Cedar River.

Saturday, 195 Army and Air Force ROTC cadets who have completed military training at MSU will receive second lieutenant commissions from Lt. Gen. Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., U.S. Air Force deputy chief of staff for personnel.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. at Old College Field and will be immediately followed by a formal military parade.

The entire weekend is filled with events for returning alumni. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday at Kellogg Center or the Union, followed by several luncheons in the afternoon.

Friday evening, two class reunion dinners will be held Saturday, at 10 a.m., Kellogg Center will be the location of a Mortar Board reunion breakfast.

Bus Tours of the campus are also planned for Saturday morning. The buses will leave from Kellogg Center and the Union at 10:30 a.m.

It was announced that both commencement ceremonies and the ROTC commissioning will take place in Jenison Fieldhouse in case of rain.

Stitt and Bystrom Hired by Miami

William C. Stitt, ass't manager of the Union Bookstore, has been appointed manager of the University Center Bookstore at Miami University of Ohio. He has been with the bookstore here five years.

Stitt is the second staff member to join Miami. Richard Bystrom, manager of the Brody group, has been hired as manager of the University Center Building.

AUSG Committee To Consider Revisals

An open meeting of the Student Congress Elections Committee will be held today at 6:30 p.m. in 32 Union to hear student suggestions for the revision of AUSG elections ordinance, according to Barry Alley, chairman of the committee.

Student opinions and suggestions regarding campus elections will be welcome, he said.

Titles, Order of Floats Listed

Oscar Plunges Into Final Preparations

By AUDREY MACKNIESH

The phrase "the man who led three lives" might aptly apply to Oscar, our carefree but busy visitor who arrived on campus at the beginning of this term.

The main reason for Oscar's visit is to act as theme for Water Carnival, which will be held this Thursday at 8:30 p.m., Friday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday at 9 p.m.

He has been busy for several months choosing the names of movies which have won the academy award or have had a leading actor or actress that has been awarded the oscar. Choosing which living units would work together, and the name of the movie they would use for their theme was another big job for Oscar.

Construction of the floats on the Red Cedar officially began

Tuesday at midnight. This is the order of appearance: 1. King and Queen Float; 2. Greatest Show on Earth; 3. Baby Doll; 4. Philadelphia Story; 5. Seventh Heaven; 6. King Henry VII; 7. Born Yesterday, and 8. Gone with the Wind.

More are: 9. All Quiet on the Western Front; 10. War and Peace; 11. Best Years of Our Lives; 12. Captains Courageous; 13. Giant; 14. From Here to Eternity; 15. The High and the Mighty; 16. Streetcar Named Desire; 17. The Living Desert; 18. Three Moscovites; 19. A Double Life.

Others are: 20. Mr. MacGoo; 21. To Each His Own; 22. You Can't Take It With You; 23. Greek Feast; and Tuesday and made an appearance at Senior Swingout, even though he has been graduated from several universities.

Yesterday he was in the grill, (where he spends a great deal of time when he isn't working) and passed out wooden nickel souvenirs, some of which had his name spelled OSCER rather than OSCAR.

Oscar will also appear on the trophies, in the form of a full length statue of himself. These academy awards will be presented to the winners of Water Carnival Saturday evening.

According to Oscar and Al Pick, ticket chairmen, the tickets are selling quite fast, and they may be purchased at the main entrance the night of the performances if the supply lasts.

Oscar was also quite honored recently when he had his foot imprinted in cement at the Pantheon theater, before a large and starstudded audience. This memorable event will be captured forever on the front of the Water Carnival program.

TODAY'S WEATHER
Will be partly cloudy with some drizzle in the north. Winds will be north-northeast, reaching 15 mph. Low last night 53. High today 76. Weather forecast for the rest of the state will be cloudy and cool with a possibility of showers.

Wilson Gites Milestones

Honored Seniors Selected At Swingout Ceremonies

Dave Boyne, Marlette, and Joanne Lang, East Lansing, were named Outstanding Seniors of the Year and awarded $50 savings bonds by Dejeanene, Lansing senior, who headed the Senior of the Year competition. Runners-up were Yvonne Duncan, Chicago; Peg Foster, East Lansing; Pat Wilson, Lapeer; Bob Becker, Lansing, who were awarded $25 bonds. Both the winners and the runners-up were chosen from the senior of the week contestants.

Joanne Brantly, Detroit senior, announced the names of the 10 class officers.

They are president, Dick Herriman, Lansing; vice president, Bill Walling, Tallahassee, Fla.; secretary, Lorraine Nagler, Detroit; treasurer, Bonnie Wilson, St. Clair Shores.

Star Kessler, director of alumnae relations, and Jack Breslin, director of the placement bureau, also spoke. The program was opened by June Turner, Farmington, senior, first to serve as mistress of ceremonies at the annual event.

Senior Swingout is a traditional ceremony dating back to 1919. Originally senior men actually pushed oars in swings which were set up in front of their dormitory which is now Merrill Hall. It was also part of the ceremonies for seniors to burn their books in a huge bonfire. The swingout was a parade begun in 1921, when five honoraries participated.

Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council, A.W.S. and/or the All-University Judiciary are the legal bodies to take action on the Butterfield and Campbell presidents, the spokesman added.

Concert Band
To Conclude
Season Tonight

More than 700 MSU fraternities men, participating in a walk night drive in Lansing and East Lansing, collected $4,832.50 Monday evening for the various drives.

Thomas Coughlin, Columbus, Ohio, sophomore, chairman of the "walk night" drive, said more funds are still arriving at IPC headquarters. He predicted the drive would be 20 over $10,000. The amount collected in 1956 totaled $4,200 collected by 12 of M men last year.

Coughlin said IPC would like to thank all who participated in and supported the drive.

Funds collected in the drive will be sent to the Michigan nephrosis foundation for research and for the construction of a clinic in Lansing.

Nephrosis is a kidney disease found in more than 50 per cent of the cases, that generally strikes children under five years of age.

The band will be directed by Leonard Falcone and Byron Autry is to be solo cornoist.

Williams' Fanfare and Allegro will open the program. Following is the "Spiritual" from the Symphony No. 3 by Glinka. Music from the Musicals "Can-Can" and "My Fair Lady" will be a light touch to the performance. And the band will, after more music, close the program with the Overture — Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna by Von Suppe.

Booth Chairmen To Plan Carnival

The final meeting of booth chairmen from organizations participating in Activities Carnival has been set for tonight at 7:30 in the Union Tower Room.

Organizations who have yet to fill out their applications may send representatives, as the set-up of the 1957 Carnival will be discussed.

The names of organizations not having filed an application by Friday can not appear in the program for Activities Carnival next Oct. 3.

Jack Breslin, placement bureau director and graduate of the class of '46, has been named co-advisor of Excellence, senior men's honorary. While a student at MSU, Breslin was senior class president, Union Board president, vice president of the Varsity Club and a six-letter man in football, baseball and basketball, being named football "most valuable player" as a senior.

That's Gold in Them Thar Hills

Dodgers, Giants Seek Fortune in the West

Baseball experienced a great lift last week, when the National League executives gave the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants permission to approach to move to the West Coast.

In recent years, the League meetings on paper have been voiced that the big step to the West was off at hand.

Last year, the Dodgers began to look for a new home after a poor midseason response at the gate. The action taken was the scheduling of seven games for Jersey City to rally the Brooklyn fans to return to the club's neutral Ebbets Field.

Due to a tight pennant race, Brooklyn was able to draw 1,213,367 paid customers.

Bermudas

The wear or not to wear, that is the question. To wear Bermudas that is. With June lightning out all over, the bermuda question in campus domestic policy comes to the fore once again.

The administration takes its usual moderate, common sense viewpoint and says mix on these cool shorts for females in the Union and the library.

Then reasoning follows this track. We are here not only to attend classes and win football games but to be examples for the constant stream of visitors who flock over the campus throughout the year and especially during this warm weather.

Evidently we set a bad example or make these visitors uncomfortable in our bare knees. And eventually these tales are carried home and it is feared that some of the prospective 8,000 freshmen coming to State next fall will drop out when they hear that some of our fall goods actually dress in that kind of apparel.

This student reason d'etre is something new and not to be found in the catalogues. Most of us just thought that we paid our tuition for four years and then in similar bad June weather hoped to graduate probably in cap and gown with bare ankles underneath.

This wish-bowl function is interesting, almost reminds one of the "Big Brother is Watching You" routine. This seems to be based on the assumption that MSU coeds don't know how to dress and the administration must protect not only the campus but the rest of the State, from them. But daily observation refutes this as MSU coeds are known throughout the State as good looking and well-dressed.

To be forced to sneak across campus sweltering in a coat as soft as to show the offensive bermuda constitutes a most uncomfortable situation in one's "home away from home."

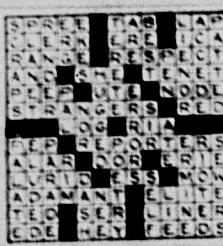

Perhaps MSU's coeds might band together and form a "Right to Wear Bermudas" movement. After all, never underestimate the power of a woman.

Japanese Court to Try U. S. Soldier

Ike Agrees
To Foreign Proceeding

Japan Pleased,
Congress Angry

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower Administration announced Tuesday that it is going through with its decision to let Japan try an American soldier for killing a Japanese woman.

The action pleased Japan and congressional critics.

A joint statement by Secretary of State Dulles and Secretary of Defense Wilson indicated that the decision was made with concern for (1) Japanese pressures to take over the case and (2) an agreement generated elsewhere in the Far East by the presence of American armed forces.

Specifically, the announcement said that the decision was necessary "to preserve the integrity of the pledges of the United States" which had previously agreed that Japan should try the soldier.

The case arose out of the shooting on July 30 of a 46-year-old woman, Nakai Sakai, while she was gathering scrap metal on a Japanese firing range used by American forces. She was hit by an empty grass rifle shell case fired from a grenade launcher.

The American soldier accused of the shooting is 21-year-old William C. Girard, an army specialist third class from Ottawa, Indiana.

Girard was on duty at the time, having been assigned by his platoon leader to guard a machine gun together with another GI.

The Wilson-Dulles statement said that "bring empty shell cases from the rifle grenade launcher was not authorized."

The United States has with Japan, as with many other countries where U.S. forces are stationed, a "status of forces" agreement providing trial by local government rather than by American courts in specified circumstances.

Under this agreement the United States had told Japan on May 1 that it agreed to a Japanese trial for Girard.

Japanese judicial authorities then indicted Girard on a charge of causing a death by wounding. This carries a potential penalty on conviction of two to 15 years imprisonment. The statement Tuesday said it was "the least serious homicide charge for which he could have been indicted under Japanese law."

Construction of the new apartment-type living unit for university women, Van Hoosen Hall, is well underway. Completion is expected by fall of this year.

Cards Only Need 2.2

Requirements Changed For Van Hoosen Hall

Cards applying for the new apartment-type housing unit, Van Hoosen Hall, need only have a 2.2 all university point average, according to Miss Elizabeth Corbishly of the housing office. The qualification has been lowered from the 2.5 previously required because of the unexpectedly small number of applications submitted.

Other changes include the decision to provide each apartment with the minimum amount of necessary cooking utensils. Janitorial services in the public areas will be provided. This will cut down the amount of work that will be required of the cooks living there.

Applications will be accepted from those who will be out students teaching or in the home management house. Previously cards who would have to live outside the apartment for a term or part of one were not accepted.

The rumor that the apartments would be turned over to the men because of insufficient applications from the cards is not true, Miss Corbishly said. The possibility was discussed but decided against because the committee felt that the cards should have a chance to live in the apartments since they were designed for them.

The committee which makes the decisions for the apartment is made up of Emery Foster in charge of dormitories and food services, Lyle Thoburn, residence halls manager; Mildred Jones, ass't residence manager in charge of food services; Lauren Beadle, ass't director of women's affairs; Miss Corbishly, Charlene Schadt, former women's Interdorm Council president, and Louise Hornbeck, AWS Judiciary president.

Van Hoosen will be located near Shaw Hall on South Campus. The building has apartments on three sides with a low wall on the fourth which encloses the court yard formed by the hollow square of the building.

Each apartment will house six cards. Room rates have been set at $100 a term. Food costs will depend on individual budgets. Applications are available.

Cuts in Defense Spending Praised, Damned in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration orders to hold down military spending were alternately condemned and lauded Tuesday as "arbitrary fiscal manipulation" and as sound business.

The conflicting appraisals of the economy decisions were aired at a Senate Appropriations Committee hearing. The committee is considering the 1958 money bill, which the House cut $15 billion below President Eisenhower's original request for more than $8 billion dollars. The Defense Department wants nearly half of the House cuts restored.

Sen. Washington (D-Mo.) leveled the charge of "arbitrary fiscal manipulation" after Ass't Secretary of Defense Wilfred McNeil told about steps taken by the Pentagon to control mounting armed services spending.

McNeil replied: "That is not fiscal manipulation, that is sound business."

As defense controller, McNeil testified that spending for the fiscal year ending June 30 will run about $25 billion dollars on his original estimates.

He added the warning that unless the spending rate is checked it could run to $42 billion dollars next year, or four billion dollars more than President Eisenhower estimated in January.

Actual defense spending may exceed congressional appropriations for any one year because the Pentagon has available funds carried over unspent from previous years.

McNeil, who has served as budget watchdog under all five secretaries of defense, cited two actions taken by Secretary Wilson to curb spending and hold military costs to budget estimates for the coming fiscal year.

His explanations provoked Washington's charge that the Administration was pugilistic figures that will affect the number of planes, carriers and submarines. Congress has already approved for the defense of the country."

At issue were two directives signed by Wilson last month. The first order forbade the services from ordering or committing themselves to procure any item for which money or specific appropriations were not on hand. Wilson gave the armed forces until June 1 to submit items they will be exempt from the rules.

In his second directive, Wilson told the services to postpone spending or obligating the nation dollars from funds already appropriated by Congress.

Under this order, the Army must withhold 100 millions, the Navy 150 millions, and the Air Force 250 millions pending a congressional defense plan for the next fiscal year.

Under questioning by Senator McNeil, conceded the effect of the direct, as could be done by law, to reduce some military programs. He countered, however, that the armed services had been warned several months ago to

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southpaw Billy Pierce kept the Chicago White Sox five-game American League lead intact with a two-hit, 7-5 victory over Boston in 10 innings Tuesday night. And in the National League, Philadelphia's thinn' Phillies edged to within 1/2 games of third-place Cincinnati with a 3-1 victory over the Redlegs behind the three-hit pitching of lefty Harvey Haddix.

The New York Yankees remained in second place behind the White Sox with a 3-1 victory over Cleveland that dropped the third-place Indians 6 1/2 games off the pace.

The Dodgers took control of third place in the National, two games behind, with a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs while the Milwaukee Brewers skidded back to fourth with an 8-1, 13-inning defeat by the New York Giants. The Beams remained three games out of the Redlegs.

The Pittsburgh Pirates gained their fourth victory in a row, their longest winning streak of the season—and may end it at the National League with a 3-1 verdict over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Baltimore Orioles came from behind to beat Kansas City 9-7 in the other two AL games.

A bases-loaded single by Nelson Fox with one out in the 10th brought Pierce his ninth victory of the year. Billy, who has allowed just two runs—one unearned—in his last 38 innings, gave up only a third-inning double by Billy Klaus and an eighth-inning single by Norm Lownes. He struck out seven, walked none and now has bested every other team in the league at least once. Jim Dwyer, who replaced starter Dean Stone in the eighth, lost his
