'Fashion' Opens Run In Ballroom

MSU Players Present 1845 Manners Satire

"Fashion," an early American comedy of 1845 vintage, opens a three-night run tonight in the Union Ballroom. Curtain time is 8:15. Tickets for the air-conditioned ballroom are $1 and are not reserved. They can be purchased at the door.

The annual summer offerings of the MSU Players is a comedy of manners satirizing slavish devotion to all types of style.

"Fashion," the very first American comedy that became popular in Europe is one of the few from that period able to be revived with its original dialogue and message hilariously preserved, according to Dr. Roger Busfield, director.

This year's cast of 11 is composed of many familiar faces of the MSU stage interspersed with newcomers. The drawing room comedy typifies the theater of the actor with the emphasis on dialogue making use of all its subtleties to evoke humor.

Costumes for the period play are under the direction of Agnes David, director of costuming for the MSU speech department. Staging is under the direction of Dr. Orville Larson, assistant professor of speech.

"Fashion" will be played on a two-level set, constructed and designed by graduate students in speech. The departure from the arena-style production will lead emphasis to the dialogue of the play.

Jointly sponsored by the Union Board and the department of speech, the play will complete its run July 27. The Ballroom seats approximately 200 at each performance, with no reserved seats.

Grants, Gifts Awarded For Study

Gifts and grants of $255,781, 18 were accepted for MSU, July 18, by the State Board of Agriculture.

Among the research projects covered by the grants, is a study of compounds of importance in atomic energy work, a study of corrosion in copper pipes and the search for a mechanical harvester for cucumbers.

Also included were 16 grants totaling $14,485 to be used for scholarship and loan fund purposes.

A $24,000 grant from the 4-H Club Foundation of Michigan at East Lansing, was accepted by the board for renewal of an agreement to support salaries of four urban 4-H club agents.

A study of the pressure of water in clay soils will be conducted by Dr. Tien Hsing Wu, assistant professor of civil engineering, under a $17,500 grant from the National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C.

The Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative of East Lansing granted $16,232.66 to be used under the direction of Prof. C. W. Duncan, agricultural chemistry, and Dr. Charles C. Morrill, head of veterinary pathology, in a study of reproductive disorders of livestock.

The Cooperative also granted $10,141 for further experimentation of artificial insemination, a study by Dr. E. L. Willett, associate professor of research in the dairy department.

The Atomic Energy Commission, Lemont, Ill., granted $16,900 to be used under the direction of Chemistry Professor Max T. Rogers in a continuation of his study of the physical properties of a group of compounds of fluorine, which are important in atomic energy work.

A study of corrosion in copper pipe, under operating conditions, similar to those here at MSU will be continued under a $14,000 grant from the Copper and Brass Research Association of New York City. Discontinuing the study is Dr. Lawrence L. Gault, head of the chemistry department.

A project to develop principles for construction of a mechanical harvester of cucumbers will be directed by Dr. Arthur W. Farrell, head of agricultural engineering, under a $12,000 grant from Cucurbit Harvester committee members.

Chavez Wants Action!

Defense Compromise Reached by Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees here reached complete agreement on a compromise $33,759,000, 000 defense department appropriations bill.

The measure, as it now goes before the House for action first, carries $197,125,000 more than that body originally voted. But the compromise figure is $774, 379,000 less than the Senate had allowed.

The total agreed upon was $2,368,150,000 under the budget estimates for this fiscal year which President Eisenhower originally submitted to Congress. The compromise bill allows the army $7,264,550,000, the air force, $11,570,500,000 and the navy, $9,985,000,000. Much of the increase in the House figures goes to aircraft procurement and research and development.

The negotiations were conducted in an atmosphere of Senate criticism of fluctuating Administration positions on the amount that should be appropriated. President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Wilson had asked the Senate to increase the House figures by more than $1, 200,000,000. The Senate added $711 million and the Defense Department subsequently agreed to cut back more than 142 million dollars of that increase.

Sen. Chavez (D-N.M.) said that if the House acts promptly on the compromise, he would attempt to call it up in the Senate for action this week, if he can get consent to lay the civil rights bills aside temporarily.

Philosophy Head Publishes Text

"The Principles of Right Reason" is the title of a new philosophy textbook written by Dr. Henry S. Leonard, head of the philosophy department.

Designed as an introduction to applied logic, the 620-page text of philosophy, contains studies in language, logic, methodology and theory of knowledge. It also utilizes classical terminology but with a revised and updated account of subject matter.

The product of 20 years' study of the needs of freshmen and under-graduates generally, the book has been used in mimeographed form in philosophy classes here for the past five years. The book is published by Henry Holt and Co.

Head of the department of philosophy here since 1949, Dr. Leonard previously has been chairman of the philosophy department at Duke University since 1937. He received the A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at Harvard.

Student Loan Service Continued By AUSG

Loans, up to a maximum of $10, may be obtained from the Student Government Loan Funds, announced Barrett Alley, Acting President.

Through the new summer term service, undergraduate students, except those receiving degrees this term, may apply for the two-week repayable loans.

The Student Government officers, located in the basement of the Union building will be open between 3:30 and 4:00 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday to serve students.

Ag Board Approves Budget and Projects

Last Series Meeting

A. Webster Tenney To Talk on Japan

The Special Education Series, sponsored by the College of Education, will hold its last meeting next Wednesday in the Union Ballroom.

A. Webster Tenney will speak on the topic, "A U.S. Educator Visits Japan." The meeting is at 11 a.m. and is open to the public.

Mr. Tenney is a specialist in Agricultural Education at the United States Office of Education and is executive secretary of the national organization of the Future Farmers of America. He will describe the development of education in post-war Japan, illustrating his address with slides and anecdotes gathered from his years of experience working in Japan.

This Education Series, headed by Donald Hughes and a committee in the Education of the Department, has its theme for the summer, "U.S. Education in World Perspective." It is hoped that those who listen will come to a better understanding of the possibilities for the promotion of peace through education.

Speakers of different fields are offered to interest everyone. Other speakers on the program have been John A. Hannah, Norman Cousins, Walter Coking, and Kenneth "Tug" Wilson. Starting August 5, the College of Education will present several workshops. These are open to graduate students as well as those already teaching.

Those who wish to enroll may see their enrollment officer; the coordinator of workshops, Roy Edelfelt; or the director of the preferred workshop.

There are workshops in Counseling and Vocational Rehabilitation of the Cerebral Palsied; Higher Education; Improving Instruction in Junior High Schools; Improved Practices in Reading Instruction; Instructional Materials; Research in Personnel Services; Elementary School Principals; Secondary School Principals; Beginning and New Superintendents; Driver Education; and six other workshops.

Best 'Viewpoints' To be Rebroadcast

"Viewpoint," a discussion program heard weekly during the school year and featuring members of the faculty, is being rebroadcast every Friday at 7:30 P.M. during the summer by WKAR-RADIO.

Produced by Major John Barron, Air Force ROTC, who also acts as host for the discussion, the programs to be heard include Freud and Freudism, Marriage a La Mode, Time for the Humanities, U.S.-Canada Relationships, Impact of TV on American Culture, The Case for 20th Century Painting, Ha-Southeast Asia, Inside Pro Baseball, 49th State, Problems of ball and Thomas Wolfe, a New Biography.

Future Student-Faculty Visit to Unveil Ag Oddity

By RUDEN BARRETT
State News Science Writer

A peek into a cow's stomach and an insight into milk processing—this is what is in store for students and faculty members on two tours coming up shortly.

The first, entitled "Feed Utilization of Dairy Cows," will be on Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Dairy Nutrition Bldg., located off Shaw Lane behind the main dairy barn. Dr. Roy S. Emery, assistant professor of the Dairy Dept., will be in charge.

The second tour, "Manufacturing of Dairy Products," will be on Thursday, Aug. 1 at 4 p.m. with Dr. T. L. Hedrick, associate professor of the Dairy Dept., as director. Those interested should meet in the lobby of South Anthony Hall.

Country Clergymen Meet Daily at Shaw

Seventy-two ministers from 13 different states have been making West Shaw Hall their headquarters these past two weeks.

The occasion for the gathering is the eleventh annual Rural Leadership School, a unique interdenominational event sponsored cooperatively by MSU's Committee on Church Related Programs, the Michigan Council of Churches and the Steering Committee for the Rural Leadership School.

A stronger church for a more effective rural community is the main objective of the educational conference which meets to study areas such as community organization, home and family living, pastoral counseling, the land and its use, church finance, and other areas of rural church and community life.

This year for the first time one of the courses offered is being devoted in full to a study of "The Church and Its Senior Citizens."

The aim of the course is to present and discuss techniques to be used in the discovery and utilization of resources and talents possessed by retired persons with emphasis being placed on the individual's sense of belonging and desire to serve. William Nicholas, of the Lansing Community Services Council, is the course instructor.

Participants of one of the round table discussion classes entitled "Introductory Psychiatry," under the direction of Dr. Wallace Watts of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, formulated certain basic needs of all children in order to grow into emotionally mature adults.

The list included "love," "security," "sense of belonging," "recognition (acceptance as is),

"control," and the "chance to mentally, socially, emotionally, grow—four ways: physically, and spiritually.

The importance of paying more attention to the mental health of today's children was indicated by a pamphlet put out by the National Association for Mental Health which states that "at the present rate, one out of every 12 children born each year will need to go to a mental hospital sometime during his life because of severe mental illness.

Michigan State instructors form the nucleus of the Rural Leadership School's special faculty which also includes several outstanding country-life ministers.

Driver Training Class To Be Held in August

A driver education workshop will be conducted Aug. 5-23 by the MSU Highway Traffic Safety Center. All University employees, students and their wives are eligible for complete driving instruction, for only $5.

Classes will be held each afternoon, Monday through Friday, meeting each day for an hour as well as longer sessions twice a week.

Those wishing to take the course must register with the receptionist at the Highway Traffic Safety Center, Wells Hall, Ext. 3291, before the course starts.

Comm. Arts, Cyclotron Included

Kresge Art Center To Be Constructed

The State Board of Agriculture meeting at the Wilson estate (site of the future MSU Oakland), at Rochester, Michigan on July 19, approved:

1. Fiscal Year 1957-1958 budget at $36,129,342.
2. Construction of the $1,500, 000 Kresge Art Center, gift funded by the S. S. Kresge foundation.
3. Planning of nuclear research equipment including a cyclotron, estimated to cost $1,300,000.
4. Planning of a Communication Arts building which will cost about $5,000,000.
5. Construction of smaller projects totaling $203,386.62.

Members of the State Board of Agriculture present at the meeting were President John A. Hannah, Forest H. Akers, Frederick H. Mueller, Clark L. Brody, Arthur K. Rouse, William E. Baker, Conner D. Smith, Philip J. May, Karl McDowell and Lynn M. Bartlett.

The budget presented to the board by Vice President May included $26,326,500 in state appropriation, $2,461,791 from federal funds, $4,190,000 from student fees and $1,150, 151 in other income.

Expenditures in the budget includes $23,609,152 for salaries, $2,807,946 in labor, $6,654,000, supplies and services, $1,637,710, equipment and $1,589,526 for project expenses.

The new Kresge Art Center, functionally designed by Detroit architect Ralph J. Calder, will occupy 140,000 sq. ft. between Fairchild Theater and Memorial Chapel. The new art center will display complete sculpture utilizing the pavilion in front of Fairchild.

Vice President Thomas H. Hamilton, addressing the board, called for planning of a building to house a cyclotron like the Oak Ridge project model. Cost of plans for the equipment will run $95,000. Upon completion, the cyclotron will be used in teaching physics and nuclear research.

Funds amounting to $25,000 were allotted for a low nuclear energy unit in addition to the cyclotron.

The Communication Arts building plans will be designed by Ralph J. Calder, who designed Kresge Art Center. The schools of journalism and department of speech as well as WKAR and WKAR-TV transmitting facilities will be joined in the building from locations throughout the campus.

The minor construction projects included parking and roads at Olin Memorial Hospital, Van Housen hall (east of Shaw Hall), the new Student Service building, Livestock Judging building and the new Education center.

At the new golf course, a maintenance and services building and a mid-fairway shelter will be constructed.

Fences are contracted along Harrison Road and the railroad and along the east, west borders of the married housing area for students.

Britain Aids Middle East Revolt Crisis

Sultunate Tribes Rebel In Interior

LONDON, (AP)—Britain agreed tonight to help the Sultan of Muscat and Oman crush a rebellion in the Arabian Peninsula Gulf area. The government made the decision in the face of warning from laborites that Britain may be heading into another crisis in the Middle East, and another conflict of interests with the United States.

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd accused "outside" forces of stirring up the revolt against the Sultan and defended Britain's right to answer a friend's call for assistance—with troops if necessary.

Lloyd told the House of Commons that small-scale precautionary movements of our forces have already taken place—but "no British troops are, as far as I am aware, at the moment on Muscat soil."

British commanders in the Arabian Peninsula were consulting with the Sultan on the best way to help him, Lloyd said, and "have been given discretion within certain limits to take military action."

He told the Royal Air Force's heavy troop-carrying planes were rushed to the Middle East zone. The air ministry said the "movements would undertake whatever airlift may be required. Two were sent to the Arabian Peninsula and two to Nakhla in Kenya, East Africa. Major Mancroft, government spokesman in the House of Commons, said British aircraft already has engaged in reconnaissance work over the Sultanate.

British infantry companies were reported alerted in Kenya, as well as aircraft in both Cyprus and Iraq. Two British frigates were reported standing by off Muscat, the Sultan's capital.

Revolt in the oven-hot southeast corner of Arabia broke out three days ago when tribal followers of the exiled Imam Ghaleb Ben Ali, religious leader of Oman, swooped out of the mountains and began attacking foothill villages ruled by Sultan Said Bin Taimur.

About 500 rebel tribesmen have taken control of 5,000 square miles of the interior, and were reported to have isolated Oduha Airfield, only 15 miles from Muscat. The Sultan's private army of 400 men is officered by Britons.

Nurses Plan Graduation

Twenty-six nurses will become graduate nurses in a ceremony at 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 2 in the Alumni Memorial Chapel.

The group to wear the white uniforms of graduate nurses for the first time, is the fourth and largest class to be graduated from MSU's department of nursing education.

Miss Florence C. Kempf, head of the nursing education department will present MSU pins to the class in a candlelight ceremony which marks completion of the students' work for the B.S. degree in nursing education. The graduates are eligible to become registered nurses through state examination.

Speaker will be Dr. Hugh T. Gammart, radiologist at St. Luke's Hospital, Saginaw, where the students undergo clinical training.

Three theater members of the annual High School Speech Institute are shown working on set construction. The four-week workshop, specializing in radio-TV, forensics and theater closes July 26.

Plays, Debates, TV Shows

Special Projects Climax Summer Speech Institute

The ninth annual high school speech institute climaxes its four-week campus stay with special projects in all areas.

A student congress, a "live" TV production and a filmed show, and three one-act plays are being undertaken this week, according to Dr. F. G. Alexander, institute director.

For the first time, the students concentrating in forensics are attempting a parliamentary technique learned in debate session to be held July 26. The discussions and other public address classes will be employed.

The national high school debate question concerning U.S. government aid to foreign countries has formed the topic of concentration. Discussions, extemporaneous speaking and tournament style debates have preceded the model congress, according to Dr. Huber Ellingsworth, MSU director of forensics and head of the institute.

A filmed TV show or kinescope designed to promote the high school institute throughout the state is one of the key projects of radio-TV area students.

The kinescope will employ personnel from the three speech areas and will be produced by the students, according to Miss Jane Hucker, area institute head.

Also included in the projects are a "live" TV show completely produced by the students, and a 15 minute radio show. A complete tour of WKAR-TV conducted by the students is also on the agenda.

Drama, comedy and fantasy plays being offered by the theater area. "Trifles," "Suppressed Desire" and "Overtones" are on the bill, says Mr. Clarence Murphy, who is directing the theater end of the institute.

The students will act in the plays and handle all the staging and production work for the one-acts, climaxing their classes and workshop in individual theater operations.

Ike's Suggestion Federal-State Committee To Consider 'Task Force'

CHICAGO, (AP)—A committee of state governors and aides to President Eisenhower will meet early next month at Hershey, Pa., to consider how the states may take over some services now performed by the Federal Government.

The Joint Federal State Action Committee is the outgrowth of a suggestion in Eisenhower's speech to the annual Governor's Conference at Williamsburg, Va., June 24.

A resolution was adopted by the conference, directing Gov. J. Stratton of Illinois, the conference chairman, to appoint a committee of governors, and asking the President to name a committee from the executive branch of the Federal Government.

These two groups have been formed, and will meet jointly Aug. 9 and 10 at the Hershey Hotel in Hershey.

Those named by Stratton are Governors Lane Dwinell of New Hampshire, state group chairman; Victor E. Anderson (Neb.); James P. Coleman (Miss.); Price Daniel (Texas); George Docking (Kan.); George M. Leader (Pa.); and Robert E. Smylie (Idaho). Gov. Stratton is a member ex-officio.

The Federal group named by the President is made up of Robert Anderson, secretary-designate of the treasury, who is chairman; secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell; Marion B. Folsom, secretary of Health, education and welfare; Percival

Brundage, director of the budget; and Presidential Assistants Howard Pyle, Meyer Kesbaum, and Maj. Gen. John S. Bragdon. Eisenhower asked state leaders to join with the Federal Administration in setting up "a task force for action" which would have these objectives:

1—Designate functions which the states are ready and willing to assume and finance that are now performed or financed wholly or in part by the Federal Government.

2—To recommend the Federal and state revenue adjustments required to enable the states to assume such functions.

3—Identify functions and responsibilities likely to require state or Federal attention in the future, and to recommend the level of state effort at Federal effort, or both, that will be needed to assure effective action.

The conference resolution charged the committee to "develop ways and means of obtaining a sound relationship of functions and finances between the Federal government and the states, and to formulate definite proposals to these ends."

Bachelor Congress Ends in Marriage

ENSCHDEDE, NETHERLANDS, (AP)—Ger Greun won some fame as organizer of the "World's First Bachelors' Congress." Now in response to what he calls popular demand from the bachelors, he is setting up the "World's first Conference of Widows and Widowers" Sept. 27-29 and says he has 2,000 applicants from eight European countries.

It will not be a "marriage market," he insists, but a free and easy get-together to discuss many common problems.

Greun got married after the bachelors' congress.

'Phantom Horse' Color Film of Japan Appearing at Fairchild

"The Phantom Horse," the first color film of modern Japan to be produced out-of-doors, will be shown July 26 and 27 in Fairchild Theater.

Since the story of "The Phantom Horse" deals with a family that breeds and trains thoroughbred horses, most of the picture was made on location on the northern island of Hokkaido. This island has been noted for breeding the finest racing champions of Japan. It is also a ranching country of great scenic beauty.

To capture this natural pictorial beauty, the film was photographed in four stages offering an opportunity to show the remarkable range of colors of the changing season. The picture also shows the color, excitement and melodrama of the Japan Derby, one of the great racing classics of the sport world.

Produced by Masachi Nagata, who previously made the prize-winning "Rashomon," "Ugetsu" and "Gate of Hell," the picture was directed by Koshi Shima, who also collaborated on the screen-play and the musical score.

The romantic duo starring in "The Phantom Horse" are Ayako Wakao and Yoshiko Kitahara, two of Japan's rising young stars. A new juvenile discovery, Yukihiko Iwafare, is introduced in the starring role of the boy, Jiro.

TWO ROMANTIC STARS

at 7:30 p.m. only. Single admissions may be purchased at the door.

'Responsibility' Topic Of Dame Professor

McDaniels' Act Recalls 'Diz' & 'Daf'

Brother Combo Stirs Flag Fever

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In St. Louis they once talked incessantly about the Dean brothers, Dizzy and Paul, Pepper Martin and the Gas House Gang and more recently Stan Musial.

But now the talk is about the McDaniels brothers, Lindy, 21, and Von, 18.

Both are pitchers and their success on the mound may help disprove the old theory that pitchers fail to make good big league managers. For their St. Louis Cardinal manager is Fred Hutchinson, former Detroit pitching star whose best year in the majors was a fourth place National League with the 1936 Cards. Now the fans are talking pennant.

They are talking it because of two boys who once tossed green cotton balls and made baseball gloves out of gunny sacks on their father's farm at Hollis, Okla.

Each signed for $50,000 "if you want Von," said papa Newell McDaniel, "he costs the same as Lindy. I don't think he should get any more."

VON AND LINDY MCDANIEL

Von, christened Max Von, stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 180 pounds. He was signed May 27, a day after graduating from high school as class valedictorian. He turned 18 on April 18.

Lindy, christened Lyndall Dale and nicknamed after flyer Charles A. Linnberg, is 6-foot-3 and 190 pounds. He attended Oklahoma for a year, and Abilene Christian and Florida Christian College, each for one semester.

He cut short his studies for the ministry to sign with the Red Birds in September 1955. The family of Scottish-German descent attends the Church of Christ.

Lindy had a 7-6 record for 116 innings in 1956 and was taken for granted as a pitcher who might do better in the minors after his two-year bonus term expired. But by the time his younger brother Von arrived, Lindy was on the way to a 16-game season. He had won 8 by the All-Star break.

On June 13, Von made his Cardinal debut with a one-hit, four-inning relief effort against the Phillies. Two days later in Ebbets Field he won his first contest, one-hitting the Dodgers in four relief frames. On June 21, he got his first start and blanked the Dodgers with two hits under lights in St. Louis.

Von had rolled up 17 scoreless innings. "Amazing," said Dizzy Dean. "Amazing. Maybe these boys will win 49 like me and Paul did in 1934."

And just out of high school, said Dizzy Dean. "Amazing. Maybe these boys will win 49 like me and Paul did in 1934."

Von followed his shutout with wins over the Phillies and Braves and at the All-Star break had a 4-0 record. He allowed some runs in these games just to prove he's human.

Right now all of St. Louis is watching Lindy and Von in the hopes the Cardinals will bring home their first pennant since 1946.

Lions' Rookies Don Hip Pads As Grid Season Approaches

Twenty-seven Detroit Lion rookies and a trio of veterans, fullback John Henry Johnson, quarterback Jerry Reichow, and halfback Dick Kercher, will report to Coach Buddy Parker at Cranbrook, today, July 25, as preliminary activity for the 1957 season gets underway.

John Henry Johnson was obtained from the San Francisco 49ers in a winter trade for Bill Bowman and Bill Stuts and Parker and his aids want to give the bruising fullback the advantage of a couple extra days workouts before other veteran players move into camp.

Johnson represents the biggest threat at fullback since the Lions acquired Pat Harder from the Chicago Cardinals and then went on to win three straight division championships.

Reichow, started for the underdog role to Bobby Layne during the regular season and in line for major action in pre-season games, can use the extra days practice working with rookie backs and helping the newcomers learn the Lions' offensive system. Kercher returned from service late last season but was never placed on the active roster.

NORMAN MASTERS

The remainder of the Lions' veterans are due to report to camp on Monday afternoon, July 30.

Top rated newcomers in the first group of Lions to report include Norm Masters, former Michigan State All-American tackle who played one year of Canadian football.

Gordon Malloy, a high draft choice two years ago from Miami who suffered a knee injury in All-Star camp and is attempting a comeback, and tackle Ken Russell of Bowling Green, the Lion's fifth draft selection in '57, also arrived today.

Commissioner of Big 10 Narrates Olympic Films

One of the outstanding figures in the sports world, Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson, Big 10 commissioner and chairman of the U.S. Olympic Committee, visited MSU Wednesday.

Wilson highlighted a discussion of the role of athletics and physical education programs in promoting world peace and good will with official films of the Olympics. The Olympic Chairman is the only man authorized to show the films.

Wilson is a guest speaker in the College of Education summer series "U.S. Education in World Perspective."

After serving as Director of Athletics at Northwestern University for 29 years, Wilson was appointed to the post of Big 10 commissioner in 1945. He was elected vice-president of the U.S.

Olympic Association in 1946 and chosen president in 1953.

A graduate of the University of Illinois where he competed in football and track and was captain of the 1920 basketball team. "Tug" Wilson also was a member of the U.S. Olympic team, competing in the javelin and discus events at Antwerp.

Before becoming director of athletics at Northwestern in 1925, Wilson had been athletic director and track coach at Drake University for two years and had also been an assistant in the athletic department at the University of Illinois.

SPORTALK Irish De-Emphasis?

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
State News Night Editor

After concluding the worst gridiron season in Irish annals last season, Notre Dame faces the crucial 1957 pigskin schedule hoping to bounce back and retain lost prestige.

But before Irish followers can proclaim "I told you so" the Irish must buckle a power-laden schedule. This includes Purdue, Indiana, Army, Pitt., Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma, Iowa, Southern Cal and Southern Methodist, four of these teams won over the Irish from four to six touchdowns in 1956.

Under the tutelage of youthful Terry Brennan, who prior to last year directed his team to 17 victories in 19 years, Notre Dame recorded a miserable 2-8 mark.

Football fans across the nation wondered what happened to the fabulous "Fighting Irish." Was the institution now enjoining a de-emphasizing policy? Had the Irish spirit, the backbone of the school, reached its lowest point? Would ex-coach Frank Leahy be reinstated to his old post?

Experts have pointed out that Notre Dame maintains the highest passing academic average (77%) of the major colleges. The dropping of physical education courses is a step taken to eliminate football from the Irish campus, they say. But President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh and Athletic Director Ed "A Moose" Krause have expressed statements contrary to those sighting any de-emphasizing policy.

President Rev. Hesburgh said, "Notre Dame is not de-emphasizing football. In order to de-emphasize, there must first have been emphasis, and at Notre Dame this has certainly not been true of the football program."

Preceding last year's final game against Southern Cal, Leahy verbally blasted Brennan, the team and student body for not responding with the spirit long a trademark of Notre Dame.

However, in watching both the Michigan State and Oklahoma "slaughters" no other school gave a better display of being able to absorb such drubbings and still come back for more.

Concerning the possible ousting of Brennan, President Rev. Hesburgh put a stop to such rumors by saying, "We hired Terry to do a difficult job and we believe he can do it best."

So now the Irish must adjust to the recruiting policies of other schools to survive in the national football limelight.

This involves a vast change in scholarships and the stiffening of athletic regulations by not allowing a student the right to participate in varsity sports after eight-terms of study.

Brennan, a serious, good-natured mentor, looks at the 1957 campaign in an optimistic way and predicts a break-even season with 1958 as the year Notre Dame again ascends to the top of the football world.

The big project ahead for the Irish coaching staff is the correction of a leaky defense which gave up an average of 29 points, 19 first downs and 372 yards to the opposition.

Upon conclusion of the spring practice sessions, Brennan stated, "We have made definite progress from last year's dismal showing and we will be stronger."

Therefore, the final score on the scoreboard at Lafayette, Ind., on September 28, announcing the winner of the Irish-Purdue tilt, should spell out the future success of Notre Dame as a football power.

New Ass't Swimming Coach Takes Over Job Next Week

G. Robert Mowerson, head swimming coach at Battle Creek Central High school, joins the Michigan State athletic staff as assistant swimming coach next Thursday.

Mowerson will team with head coach Charles McCaffree, Jr., himself former Battle Creek Central swim coach, in handling MSU's defending Big Ten tank champions.

The new assistant coached at Battle Creek from 1937 to 1942 and from 1943 through 1957. His squads won several state and Six-A league team championships and many of his pupils have been members of McCaffree's Spartan teams. He also coached track and cross country at Battle Creek.

Mowerson was an outstanding swimmer at the University of Michigan in the middle 1930's and received a B. S. degree in education in 1937. He also received an M. A. degree at Michigan in 1945.

He has been a member of the National Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association since 1937, and served as president of that body in 1954-55. Mowerson is a native of Ann Arbor. He is married and has a son, 6, and a daughter, 4.

Great Comeback

The Detroit Lions record of nine victories and three losses in 1956 after a 3-9 record in 1955 was the greatest comeback in one season in the history of the National Football League.

B. K to Visit E. Germany

BERLIN, (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin plan to visit Communist East Germany next month on their satellite orientation campaign.

An announcement Monday night by the official news agency ADN said the Soviet Communist Party boss and Bulganin are coming at the invitation of the East German regime.

East Germany will be the second satellite to be visited by the two Kremlin leaders since Khrushchev's arrival on the scene in the latest battle of the Moscow struggle for power.

East Germany's communists still are ruled by men considered to be die-hard Stalinists under Party Boss Walter Ulbricht.

While the Soviet shakeup reportedly was aimed at contact with Stalinists, it would not necessarily follow that Ulbricht's grip on East Germany is in danger.

It is considered more likely that Khrushchev will explain to the East Germans, as he did to the Czechoslovaks a week ago, just what is the current communist party line.

ADN did not say on what day the Russians will arrive or give other details. East Berlin sources said they probably would remain in East Germany about a week.

The announcement came almost simultaneously with one from Moscow saying Soviet trade and consular negotiations with West Germany have resumed.

Adult Courses To Aid 6,000

Extension courses can be aptly described as courses given "off campus." MSU tries to satisfy the needs of Michiganians by carrying education "to the student."

Three reasons are given by students who take these extension courses. One is that they are interested in subjects that are not available at their present work, and still others sought their own personal development. Very few indicated that the purpose of their study was to meet new and interesting people.

This fall, the total of courses is expected to exceed the 181 mark of last fall by 19. MSU is responsible for six thousand adults completing off campus courses this year.

Extension courses are offered over the state of Michigan. Approximately twenty-five courses are proposed for the Grand Rapids area, fall-term. Saginaw, Traverse City, Jackson, Alpena, Benton Harbor, and other Michigan cities are on the proposed fall list.

Distance and directing has been the theme of the Continuing Education program of MSU. The new offices were opened this past year, one at Saginaw and the other at Marquette.

Students tend to be men and women who have graduated from college six to ten years ago. Extension courses help students who have never taken MSU courses before.

A research report conducted this spring indicates that the average age of the students is twenty-eight years. The mass-cadre gender represented fifty-three per cent.

Three MSU students are in the process of producing a short movie concerning the normal duties that a police officer may be expected to perform in an average day. Local Dragnet

Police Movie Filmed By 3 MSU Students

By DARWIN BENNETT

Three MSU students are presently in the process of producing a short film portraying the normal duties that a police officer may be expected to perform in an average day shift.

The three students, Barrie Alley, East Lansing senior, Tom Andrews, Ferndale senior, and A. Ray Schumaker, Birmingham junior, approached East Lansing Chief of Police Charles Pegg, and presented their idea of making a film on the department with a request for assistance and suggestions.

The East Lansing Police Department has made available its facilities or technical advice that may be used in the filming of this fifteen minute short which even includes a running narration of the scenes.

The movie is a direct result of an assignment given them by John Marston, associate professor of journalism.

City Manager John Patriarche when presented with the proposal, seemed favorable and in agreement with the value of such a film. "It should be helpful along the lines of public relations for East Lansing."

Corporal John Platte, an MSU sophomore in police administration, has volunteered his time and will portray the officer in the film.

An interesting side note is that a student who was being used in one scene to portray a drunk being apprehended by the police, being intoxicated and then placed in jail, found himself actually imprisoned as the door became jammed momentarily and refused to open. After some difficulty he was finally sprung.

The film goes on to show the many small duties of a police officer that the public never sees. All the scenes are based on actual experiences and records compiled by the East Lansing Police Department. It may not have the authenticity of "Dragnet," but it will carry its message to all those that see it.

Chief of Police Pegg feels that it should have far reaching effect because of its ability to be shown to all age groups and many types of service groups in the community.

"My department has participated in other projects such as these and I believe that these three students have started quite a job and are handling it quite well."

The value of this project to the college would lie in the fact that it might also improve public relations between the school and the City of East Lansing.

Smoke Gets in Your Lungs Top Cancer Authority Renews Controversy

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The government's top cancer expert said that a man over 45 who is a heavy cigarette smoker stands almost the same chance of dying from lung cancer as "being hit by a automobile."

Dr. John R. Heller, director of the U.S. Public Health Service's National Cancer Institute, said about 25,000 Americans die of lung cancer each year—slightly over 1 per cent of all deaths.

If a person doesn't smoke, Heller said, his chances of acquiring lung cancer are 1 in 275. If one is a heavy cigarette smoker—two packages or more a day—his chances of dying from lung cancer are 1 in 10, the doctor said.

He said the chances of surviving lung cancer are slim, less than 5 per cent of those who get it live.

Heller added his voice to the argument over whether smoking causes cancer. He said his agency is making an intensive study of the problem.

Like others who have said there is a connection between smoking and lung cancer, Heller said there is less risk from cigars and pipes than from cigarettes. As for the reason, he said several had been advanced: cigarettes may contain some harmful chemical; the higher burning temperature in cigarettes may result in chemical changes; it may be in the packing or curing of the tobacco, or it may be because many pipe and cigar smokers do not inhale.

As to the effectiveness of filter cigarettes, which a congressional committee is investigating, Heller said:

"It seems to be factually correct that the presence of filters cut down only slightly the amount of tars in cigarettes."

Originally, he said, the filters "really filtered out a lot of the tars, but it filtered out the taste" and people "simply will not stand for it."

Women, he said, have less risk of lung cancer than men, whether they smoke or not. However, he said recent data indicate that the death rate from lung cancer in women is beginning to come closer to that of men.

While saying that the number of lung cancer cases is increasing in the United States, Heller said the rate is higher in Great Britain, Austria and the Scandinavian countries. He said Austrians apparently smoke more than Americans, and while Britons smoke less "they smoke a cigarette right down to the bare nub."

Howard Pyle, Meyer Kestnbaum and Maj. Gen. John S. Bragdon. In his Governor's Conference speech, Eisenhower asked state leaders to join with the federal administration in setting up a task force for action "which would have these objectives:

1—Designate functions which the states are ready and willing to assume and finance that are now performed or financed wholly or in part by federal government.

2—Recommend the federal and state revenue adjustments required to enable the states to assume such functions.

3—Identify functions and responsibilities likely to require state or federal attention in the future, and recommend the level of state effort, or both, that will be needed to assure effective action.

The conference is also charging the committee to develop ways and means of maintaining a sound relationship of functions and finances between the federal government and the states, and to formulate definite proposals to these needs.
