It's Official: LA Gets Dodgers

Coast Assured—
Of 2 NL Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers finally made their long-awaited move Tuesday. They definitely are going to Los Angeles in 1958.

The official announcement, made at a press conference by Public Relations Director Arthur (Red) Patterson, was so anti-climactic that Walter O'Malley, the club president, didn't even bother to attend. He was at a meeting of the club's board of directors.

Patterson's announcement, contained in one brief printed statement, said simply that in view of the action of the Los Angeles City Council Monday, the Dodgers stockholders had unanimously agreed to take the necessary steps toward drafting the Los Angeles territory from the Pacific Coast League.

The City Council Monday endorsed, by a 10-4 vote, the proposed contract between the city and the National League club which would give O'Malley the 30-acre Chavez Ravine site for a ball park in exchange for Brooklyn-owned Wrigley Field in Los Angeles.

Thus California is assured of two National League teams for next year and New York will have none. The New York Giants committed themselves last Aug. 12 to move to San Francisco next season.

The Dodger announcement was greeted with mixed reactions on the part of all interested parties. In Los Angeles, Mayor Poulos hailed the coming of the Dodgers and Giants as a tremendous boost to California's economy and its position in the sports world.

The team, incidentally, will still be called the Dodgers, according to Patterson.

The reaction in New York was quite different. Although the shift was expected, die-hard Dodger fans just could not make themselves believe that they no longer had "the Bums."

New York City Mayor Wagner accepted the news with sadness and he vowed to start working immediately toward getting another National League club for New York.

Asked if the city would give serious consideration to building a municipal stadium in Flushing Meadows, Queens, the site reported by O'Malley, as an inducement to attract another baseball team, the Mayor replied:

"Naturally, they have got to have a place to play."

Did the Mayor hope to get another National League club by next year?

"We will try to get a team as soon as we can," he said, declining to discuss the makeup of the proposed committee or to name any persons he had in mind.

Luncheon Slated For Knowland

The Ingham County Young Republican Club is sponsoring a luncheon for Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Cal) in the Hotel Oak, Monday at 12-1:30 p.m.

Knowland, now campaigning for the governorship of California,

SEN. KNOWLAND to visit Lansing.

Knowland is to be the honored speaker.

Tickets for the luncheon are $2.50 and anyone interested is invited.

Also tickets may be reserved until Friday afternoon by contacting Robert Fuller (TV-3-3888 or TV-2-0468) or Miss Vera Martin (TV-3-9798 or TV-2-5494), secretary to Henry Williams, secretary of the Ingham County Club.

Vocational opportunities avail themselves as students seek information at the Career Carnival booths Tuesday night. Record attendance was established for the two-day run which ended Tuesday night.

John Scott Opens '57 L-C Series

"Time" Publisher
Discusses Asia

By PAT MELOY

Speaking to a near-capacity audience in Fairchild Theater, John Scott, world traveler and currently special assistant to the publisher of Time magazine, presented his first hand view of "U. S. Foreign Policy in Asia" Tuesday night at the opening of the 1957-58 Lecture-Concert series.

Scott, just returned from a four-month tour, centered primarily in Asia, stressed the point that the United States would do well to de-emphasize the military aspects of its policy and concentrate on the economic and political side.

On the political side he pointed out that China is the dominant force in southeast Asia, in the eyes of the smaller nations surrounding her, due in part to the fact that the Red nation has achieved a unity of action never possible among the Western states.

Looking to the western part of the continent, Scott holds from interviews with both Israeli and Arab supporters that a solution to the problems in this area can be brought about with the help of the West.

Following these statements about specific regions he enumerated two axioms about the overall Asian policy: First, the United States must realize that the retarded countries there look to us for the capital needs for industrial development just as we received help in our national infancy.

Secondly, Scott claims that the U. S. policy-makers had better realize the fact that democracy won't work in retarded countries (i.e. those with a literacy rate of less than 50 per cent).

Hamilton Greet 300 Businessmen

Career Carnival Crowd
Views 'Excellent' Displays

By DALE FRANZ—
State News Night Editor

"Unless it is to become remote and unrealistic, a university must be aware of the needs of the society which supports it, and certainly the business enterprise is a major part of the university constituency."

Thus spoke Thomas Hamilton, vice president of Academic Affairs, addressing more than 300 representatives of business and industry on campus for the Ninth Annual Career Carnival, Hamilton told his audience, gathered in the Kellogg Center "Big 10 Room" Tuesday evening, that business could assist the university by answering three provocative questions regarding its needs in the university graduate.

First, Hamilton asked whether or not business considered high intellectual ability of prime importance. He mentioned the growing emphasis on "personality" and asked if business thought it more valuable.

Second, Hamilton wondered if industry really considers a liberal or general education important. A liberal education, which, according to Hamilton, makes possible wisdom, individual thinking and creativity, would not in any case be abandoned by the university.

An opinion from business would, however, enable the administration to at least give the student an honest appraisal of the business emphasis.

Third, does business, Hamilton queried, want education for independent thinking, or education for adjustment to an organization?

In the long run, Hamilton admitted, a university cannot make a person over anyway; but answers to such questions would aid in the general direction of the university's attempt to prepare the student for a vocation.

An estimated 12,000-14,000 students attended the 1957 Career Carnival, the finest in its nine year history according to Jack Breslin, director of the sponsoring Placement Bureau.

Breslin attributed most of the success to the excellent work of the student committee, which began plans last winter term.

Company representatives were highly pleased with this year's Carnival, Breslin said.

He felt the exhibits were more personalized and informative this year than in former years, due, partly, to the extra space allotted for the booths.

Visitors from the University of Indiana and the University of Michigan attended the Carnival, seeking ideas for instituting similar functions of their own.

Career Carnival, largest event of its kind in the nation, acts as a vocational information service for the entire student body.

Representatives from 74 companies were stationed in booths, designed by the individual firms both as informative and eye-see CAREER CARNIVAL, Pg. 1.

Anti-Reds Order Soviets Out

As San Marino
Crisis Declines

SAN MARINO (AP)—The anti-Communist provisional government in this tiny republic delivered an ultimatum Tuesday to the rival Communist regime, whose strongman showed signs of wavering.

Federico Bigli, unofficial premier of the provisional government, said the ultimatum contains "a diplomatically worded request for complete surrender."

He said the Reds must reply to it by 6 p.m. (1 p.m. EST) today.

Bigli refused to say what would happen if the Communists rejected it. Instead, he said he thought it would be accepted.

"I am optimistic," he told newsmen.

Moments earlier the Red strongman, Interior Minister Domenico Morganti, told a news conference he expected a peaceful settlement of the San Marino crisis within 24 hours.

His comments, and the general atmosphere in this country of 13,000 inhabitants, made it appear that the Reds would step down and leave power to the anti-Communists.

"Really we have no choice because we have been under siege by an enormous force of foreign troops," Morganti said.

At the start of the crisis eight days ago, Italian troops sealed off the borders of the country, surrounded by Italy.

ZBT Schedules Union Rushes

Zeta Beta Tau fraternity will hold its first open rush of fall term Wednesday night, 7:30 in Parlor C, Union.

Thursday night's rush is scheduled for the same time, but in Parlor B.

The fraternity anxiously awaits the breaking of ground of their property on Abbot Road, scheduled for the latter part of the week. An ultra-modern home will be constructed on the site.

Pi Kappa Phi members receive new fraternity candidates as the fraternity rush season began Tuesday night.

Mixer Dance Set After U of M Classic

Continuous entertainment is in store for the 2,000 residence hall students who are expected to attend "E. Q. Hosts MSU," the mixer dance following the U of M game at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Sponsored by the East Quad and the Men's Inter-residence Hall Council and the Women's Inter-residence Council of MSU, the casual dance will last from 8-12.

During the evening four dining rooms will be used, two of which will be opened for social dancing. An opportunity to square dance will be offered for those who are interested.

Refreshments, 100 gallons of cider and 120 dozen doughnuts, will be served by 60 U of M crews. In the same dining room, a hula dancer and calypso band will keep the tempo of the evening lively.

Pianist Paul McDonough "who can play any request and has yet to be stumped" will entertain in the south lounge.

Students will be requested to show only their ID cards for admittance.

Rooms on the first two floors of the East Quad will be open to students who wish to freshen up or change their clothes before the dance.

Students who are staying overnight must find their own accommodation. Lists of eating places in Ann Arbor have been prepared and students may pick up maps of the U of M campus from their RA's.

"The post-game event, initiated last year when Cooley House hosted, may become an annual tradition," according to MIRHC President Henry Grubel.

"Diary" Tickets Still Available

Sign-ups for the Union Board trip to Detroit's Schubert Theater to see "The Diary of Anne Frank" are still being accepted in the UB office from 9-5 today.

Tickets will cost $4.40 which includes the round trip bus ticket and the play ticket. On Friday, Oct. 18, the trip will begin at the Union at 4:30.

According to Donald Buel of the speech department this play is one of the most outstanding events of this year.

MSU-California Game Films Shown Tonight

The Michigan State-California football game movie will be shown tonight to interested Spartans at 8 in the Union Ballroom.

Sally Novak, Grosse Pointe senior, announced that this event will be free and the public is invited.

'U.N. Should Handle Situation'

U.S. to Follow
Previous Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev's proposal that earth satellites be brought under international control drew an American response Tuesday which said in effect: Take the matter up with all the United Nations—not just the United States.

The Communist party boss said in Moscow that Russia would be willing, as part of a general U. S.-Soviet agreement, to put an international leash on satellites and missiles.

In reaction, a State Department spokesman said the United States stands on the Aug. 29 disarmament proposal made by the four Western members of the UN disarmament subcommittee—the United States, Britain, France and Canada.

Russia, the fifth member of the subcommittee, rejected this proposal which had been made as an integral part of a disarmament package.

Both the United States and Russia are now preparing to go before the United Nations General Assembly in search of support for their opposing views.

American officials made clear they hope to clarify their position and win at least a majority of UN members to the U. S. viewpoint.

The officials said Khrushchev's proposal undoubtedly will find its way into arguments put forth by the American UN delegation.

They noted that, as usual, Khrushchev spoke only of a bilateral U. S.-Soviet agreement. They emphasized that America's policy of a broad multilateral disarmament agreement still stands—including futuristic conceptions like control of Earth satellites and space missiles.

Smilingly, officials said they were glad to see Khrushchev come around to their view that modern disarmament must cover modern devices. Previously the Russians had scoffed at American space-control arguments as Buck Rogers nonsense.

The American bid for UN support of the West's disarmament package will be made Thursday, officials said.

U. S. Rejects
Zhukov's Visit,
Says Red Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—A newspaperman said Tuesday Nikita Khrushchev told a colleague the United States turned down a Soviet proposal that Marshal Georgi Zhukov visit this country.

W. H. Lawrence of the New York Times made this disclosure at the White House in a news conference exchange with James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary.

Lawrence said Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party boss, reported rejection of a proposed visit by the Soviet defense minister in an interview with James Reston, the Washington correspondent for the Times.

Hagerty said he would have something to say on the subject when the story is published in the Times.

Senior Pictures
In Final Week

For the remainder of this week there will be a special photographer in 41 Union for any senior who has been unable to make his picture appointment for the 1958 "Waiver" series.

On a "first come-first served" basis, pictures will be shot between 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Those now holding appointments will have their pictures taken as usual.

Textbook Sellouts Handicap Students

With the second week of classes underway, most students have settled down to the task of hitting the books for another year. Or have they?
Textbook buying is not the easy business it appears to be...

The answer to the problem is not to shop a term ahead of time, either. Anyone who obtained a beginning economics book...

Perhaps the university could do something, by cooperating with the bookstores to see that there was an adequate supply of texts for classes scheduled each term...

It is the students who buy the books—and spend plenty of money in the process. Certainly their needs should be fulfilled with the promptness that is so necessary under the circumstances.

Reign Ends

This Saturday when MSU Band Director Leonard Falcone and Michigan Band Director William Ravelli bring their charges together in the annual intra-state "battle of bands" it will mark an end to host Michigan's reign in their 110,000 capacity stadium.

At approximately this time next year the MSU Marching Band will be able to parade about on home grounds before a predominantly home crowd.

Also the beg, borrow or steal methods MSU students have had to employ in the past to obtain seats at this annual gridiron spectacle will be passed on to our southern neighbors.

MSU's 135-piece band will salute composer Irving Berlin at halftime Saturday with "50 Years of Song Writing With Irving Berlin" and will go through five formations in addition to forming a block "M" and "MSU."

The band, traveling to Ann Arbor by courtesy of Oldsmobile will also travel to the Wisconsin game at Madison this year. For the Michigan game Falcone has selected Ray Stewart of Urbana, Ohio, as drum major.

Incentive

A truck line in Chicago has its employees vying not to win monthly awards.

The awards, it happens, are two skunks, not deodorized. They're presented each month to the company's terminals lagging most in sales quotas. Employees have to feed, clean and exercise the critters—warily, we're sure.

In that outfit, to be skunked on one's quota is to be really skunked.

The Optimist Still Carries His Umbrella

Letters To The Editor Editorials Draw Comment

To The Editor:
Your two editorials of Tuesday, October 8, were certainly fine companion pieces. In the first you have helped to dispense the very points you hoped to make in the second.

College students with a few exceptions, most certainly contain dutifully and dutily to the changing majority opinions. You yourself have done so in calling for punishments for the 41 Americans who toured Communist China.

Independent thought, going deeper than the headlines of the daily news, would show that the actions of Eisenhower, Nixon, and John Foster Dulles have done more to compromise the country and lower its international prestige, than any act of private citizens could possibly.

If the day comes when it is no longer possible to defy the United States Department of State or entertain an opinion, no matter how unwelcome to the rest of the population, then this country is indeed no better than the Soviet Union.

If absence of thought is conservatism, then the country is indeed becoming conservative.

Richard L. McNamee

To The Editor:
Contrary to the opinion of G. Mennen Williams, Michigan's renowned governor, I believe that complacency, a disease that is in some ways deadlier than cancer, has struck the youth of America's colleges and universities. Evidence of this malignancy is everywhere within our midst.

College work becomes progressively more slipshod, students find it easier to accept preliminary opinions, both in classroom and text, rather than to seek the truth in a little research that might require an effort on their parts.

In four years I have watched this progressive decline and the apparent failure of the United States in maintaining a lead in the field of interplanetary missile and research, may be an indication that this has been going on for some time.

Another excellent indication of the complacent attitude of students in America's institutions of higher education is evident right here on the campus of Michigan State University. That evidence is graphically portrayed in the apparent inability of the students of this university to resist the usurpation of rights by the governing body of MSU.

Unfortunately we are all guilty of the same crime!

Thomas Van Riper

To The Editor:
Apparently the old university tradition of rebellion and dissent for new ideas is dying in this country. The editorial of 41 American Youth Month Movement, appearing in Tuesday's MSU News is an example of this new spirit of the resman and the rubberstamp.

What could be more American than the very act of doing against the wishes of the government, or hitting behind the often erroneous policies and opinions of a government?

These young Americans may have aided the Communist cause in some ways, but his all-occurring to people that the State Department policy in question, itself hasn't exactly earned the label of "The August 28th issue of the Christian Century." There is the right to go and see which is part of the democratic heritage of free peoples everywhere.

Travel is part of the essential equipment of the free man, and any government that takes upon itself the responsibility is playing a foolish game. There are still far too many restrictions against moving around in the world, too many forms to fill in, too many questions to be answered.

The right to go is part of the "right to know," and from that stems all sound democratic life.

No Flu Shots

To The Editor:
Recent articles have listed what Dr. Menzies and staff plan to do in the event of a widespread flu epidemic here on campus.

I consider their efforts very noble, but perhaps they are closing the barn door after the horse has run out.

During registration I was advised that the flu vaccine simply ran out and that if I wanted a flu shot I would have to go over to the campus hospital to get one.

I went to the hospital last week only to learn that the flu vaccine was not available. A return trip also proved negative.

It only seems logical that this situation could have been foreseen and enough vaccine purchased to vaccinate every student who desired a flu shot.

Students Refuse Embassy's Request

To Give Passports To Officials

Documents Valid For Return to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eighteen American students who defied a state department travel ban to visit Red China have refused to hand over their passports to American embassy officials.

Authorities who disclosed this Tuesday said embassy officials requested the passports in order to stamp them valid for return to the United States.

Sixteen of the students were contacted at the Moscow Airport, these informants said, but they refused to hand over their passports, even after an explanation was given them.

Two others were located in Rangoon, Burma, by American embassy officials. These students also spurned the request to hand over the passports.

The State Department announced Sept. 25 that passports of all would be picked up once the students entered American territory.

American diplomats were instructed to stamp each passport valid only for return to the United States.

State Department officials said that even though the students have refused to hand over their passports, the documents are automatically valid only for return to the United States. Foreign governments will be notified of this, if necessary, they said, in order to make certain all return home promptly.

Once they reach American territory the passports will be picked up in line with previous decisions. Each student will have the right to appeal to State Department passport authorities for a review of his case.

State Department officials are confident that they will be able to pick up all passports. Each American who travels overseas, it was noted, must hand over his passport on reaching American territory as proof of citizenship.

Pep Rally Plans Set For Friday

Plans for the pep rally before the Michigan game include a broadcast of the event by radio station WJLS. The rally is scheduled for 7:30 Friday at the bandshell. Emcee for the show will be Al Aiken. Also on the program will be Bob Knapp and his brother playing the accordion and drums. The featured guests of the evening are Something Smith and the Red Heads. Athletic Director Biggie Munn will appear on the stage to say a few words. Also on hand will be the activities band and the cheerleaders.

This informal discussion, the Placement Bureau feels, offers a unique opportunity to the student and the company.

Underclassmen have an opportunity to find out what type of study to pursue for a specific vocation, learn what various companies have to offer of interest to the student, or perhaps just crystallize their thinking regarding a possible vocational field.

Organizations, on the other hand, have a chance to meet prospective employees, and explain various functions of their concerns which are perhaps unfamiliar to the public.

Other schools, such as the universities of Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan, are currently looking seriously into this type of affair for their own student bodies.

Cadets, Irish at Full Strength

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Army and Notre Dame spokesmen said Tuesday that the Cadets and Fighting Irish have their "most representative football teams in years but they offered different interpretations."

Army and coach of the Academy team, and Charley Callahan, soft-spoken director of sports publicity at Notre Dame, broke bread with the Philadelphia Football Writers Club, later previewing Saturday's Army-Notre Dame game at Municipal Stadium here.

Callahan, who followed Stephenson as a speaker, said Notre Dame's 1957 team also was its most representative team in years. "We have boys from Pennsylvania, California, Louisiana, New York, Ohio, Nebraska, New England, etc., said the Irish drum beater.

Capt. Stephenson said Army, under Coach Earl (Red) Black, never with certain weaknesses, possibly has its most representative team since 1950. Pressed to elaborate on his remarks, Stephenson said:

Both spokesmen said their respective teams would be at full strength for this first meeting of these two arch rivals since Notre Dame won 27-7 in 1947. Callahan said there were 3,000 tickets remaining and predicted a sellout of some 101,000 fans. The game will be the NCAA Eastern Regional Telecast of the Week and will be broadcast on radio nationally.

IM Roundup

Ulrey Swamps Hedrick, 19-0, in IM Grid Opener

By DARWIN BENNETT
Ulrey defeated Hedrick, 19-0, in a lopsided 19-0 score in the intramural touch football game opened Tuesday night.

In a passing attack, Ulrey's Summers connected with Tom Harrington for two touchdowns on short passes. On a play that saw Donovan struck in the gut to add the final tally.

Holland Downs Mutt's

Passing proved to be the measure of defeat as Holland won 14-6 over the Mutt's. Holland gained their two TD's on aerial plays from George Frick to Ennor Thorlund and Don Curl, and led all the way in a close contest.

Negs in 6-0 Victory

One touch down proved to be all that was needed as the Negs beat the Six-Packers 6-0 and took the victory, 6-0.

Games Rescheduled

Due to light failure all touch football games scheduled for Tuesday night except those played on the secret practice field were postponed. They will be rescheduled, and new dates will appear in the IM Schedule on this page.

Mantle Out of Action

Milwaukee Infielder Also Injured

Buhl Will Aim for Series Clincher

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Vernon and Red Schoendienst probably will be out of action today when the World Series resumes at Yankee Stadium with Milwaukee's Bob Buhl trying to clinch against the New York Yankees' Bob Taylor. The Braves hold a 2-1 edge going into the sixth inning.

Mantle's injured Yankee center fielder who hurt his shoulder Saturday's game, probably will be in the stadium for Saturday's game after X-rays showed no serious damage to his right arm, according to an unexpected chance. He won't be able to swing a bat as a throw.

Schoendienst, who pulled a groin muscle in Monday's thriller at Milwaukee, still was hobbled. Normally it takes several days for such an injury to heal.

Mantle can't play in the Bronx, probably because of his groin injury. His replacement, Alvin Dark, who played for the Puerto Rican who had a fine 300 hitting average.

Squad Still Healthy

Duffy's Orders to Team: Stay Away from Flu Bug

The orders from Coach Duffy Daugherty to his football team Tuesday night were simple: don't catch the flu, Asian or nonpreference.

Duffy volunteered the information that Ching-Kai-Shok has the American flu. Ex-Spartan quarterback John Matsoc was a visitor at practice.

In hopes of keeping everyone in top shape, as they are now according to team physician James Feung, Duffy will not hold any scrimmages this week. The team ran through plays and defended against the scout-line team, which ran the plays expected of Michigan in Ann Arbor Saturday.

Duffy said his greatest worry is "keeping the flu bug and keeping the boys healthy." He was not concerned about the successful pass completion record set up by California last week. He said most of the passes were short ones and not long, gained plays.

Glenn Miller's Orchestra Coming Here

Glenn Miller's original orchestra, conducted by Ray McKinley will play for the Coronation Ball, the committee announced.

The Coronation Ball, an all-University semi-formal dance sponsored jointly by the Army ROTC Officers' Club and the Arnold Air Society, will be held Friday, Nov. 1.

Ticket price is $4 per couple, and the dance will run from 9-11 Friday night. Late permissions until 2 a.m. have been granted. Freshmen will be allowed to drive their cars on campus the night of the dance.

During the intermission, songs will be presented to the crowd chosen as sponsors and honorary Colonels. Blue Key members will be tapped, and distinguished Army and Air Force cadets will be honored.

Etah, Mo., is really the backward spelling of the German "Haite." Early settlers found it a good "halting" place for water and rest.

Conference Set To Discuss New Junior Colleges

The Community College in the American Educational System will be the keynote speech at a conference to be held here Oct. 25 for representatives of establishing such a community-junior college.

Keynote speaker will be Dr. John Dale Russell, director of the Michigan Legislative Committee on Higher Education.

"More than 20 Michigan communities are currently studying the possibilities of opening a community-junior college," reports Dr. Max S. Smith, head of the MSU Office of Community-Junior College Cooperation.

Sticklers are back!

Send yours in and MAKE $25

MOST POPULAR GAME that ever went to college—that's Sticklers! Just write a simple riddle and a two-word rhyming answer. For example: What's a big cat shot full of holes? (Answer: peppered leopard.) Both words must have the same number of syllables—bleak freak, fluent truant, vinery finery. Send Sticklers, with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Don't do drawings! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we use in our ads—and for hundreds that never see print. While you're Stickling, light up a light smoke—light up a Lucky. You'll say it's the best-tasting cigarette you ever smoked!
