

Turley Wins Praise From Casey

Stengel Has First Base Problems

Haney Unruffled; Convinced of a Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Bullet Bob Turley lived up to his name for seven innings Wednesday when he whipped the Milwaukee Braves 3-2, to tie the World Series for the New York Yankees.

"But I wasn't throwing any bullets in the last two or three innings," he laughed happily in the clubhouse later. "I was using a sinker mostly with some curves thrown in."

Manager Casey Stengel was all praise for Turley although he said that he had Whitey Ford ready in the bullpen and would have put the lefty ace in had Eddie Mathews come to bat in the eighth inning. But he didn't and that saved Turley.

"From my standpoint, Mathews is a tougher hitter than Hank Aaron," Turley said. "The cause he can pull. Aaron is not a strong pull hitter although he sure pulled that home run he hit off me. But you worry about percentages in this game and the odds were all against Aaron coming in."

Stengel still is trying to dig out his first base troubles. With Bill Skowron injured, Harry Simpson has been playing first, but has been no ball of fire. Casey was upset about putting Joe Collins at first but he explained that with Skowron and Mickey Mantle both on the bench with injuries, he needed a long ball hitter like Simpson in the lineup.

Lew Burdette, who has scalped the Yankees twice, will be on the mound with only two days rest, and 21-game winner Warren Spahn will be in the bullpen for Milwaukee today in the seventh and decisive World Series game.

Fred Haney, crazy manager of the Braves, made the announcement with a ring of confidence Wednesday after the Braves had bowed to the world champions in a battle of home runs 3-2 which knotted the series at 3-3.

"There wasn't much we could have done about Wednesday's game," Haney said philosophically. "Those home runs the Yogi Berra and Hank Bauer licked us. I don't know of a thing I would have done differently."

Wings Open Season With Rangers Tonight

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings will open a new campaign to capture another National Hockey League championship tonight when they take to the ice against the New York Rangers at Olympia Stadium.

If past seasons are a good gauge, the Wings should emerge as the victors in the opener; they defeated the Rangers in 10 out of 14 meetings a season ago and have won 9 of their last 10 home games.

Michigan State's lone trip to the Orange Bowl (1937) was marred by a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Auburn.

Six Irish Starters Hit by Flu

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Six Notre Dame starters and top second stringers were confined to bed with the flu Wednesday and Coach Terry Brennan said his team was "just badly" for Saturday's game with Army at Philadelphia.

Brennan also said others on the squad showed symptoms of the flu as the Irish slowed Wednesday's workouts to a virtual walk because of the ailment.

Jim Schaaf and Gary Myers, center-back Ed Sullivan, full-back Nick Petrovich and center-back Bob Schultz were all confined to their rooms or the college infirmary. Also absent were No. 2 guards Dave Hurd and Bob Gaydon.

"We are just hurt badly," Brennan said after the practice session. "There is no likelihood that we will be in top shape for Army, although all the men who are down with the flu now probably will make the trip."

Harriers Conduct Light Drill Session

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
State News Night Editor

With the Michigan State cross country team still afflicted with the flu and leg injuries, Head Coach Karl Schladenman has postponed the intra-squad meet until next week.

The team suffered its first defeat since 1955 last Saturday at the Michigan AAU meet and Schladenman aims to have his championship crew fit for the season's first home meet against Penn State on Oct. 26.

On Monday and Wednesday workouts were restricted to quarter-mile sprints and a jog along the banks of the Red Cedar.

Appearing at Monday's practice session was Dave Lean, Olympic medalist, who seemed to have shrugged off a cold. Sophomore Jim Moran went through a light workout, but his legs still bothered him.

HENRY KENNEDY

Capt. Henry Kennedy appeared on the scene in street clothes looking fully recovered from the flu Wednesday the Scots-Canadian jogged around the Red Cedar course.

Freddy Kennedy, individual Michigan AAU winner, and Ron Wheeler were suffering from mild colds.

However, Fran Dittrich, assistant coach, had the freshmen complete the two-mile course.

William Reynolds, top freshman prospect, ran a brilliant first place time of 9:58, and a fast '66 in the final lap to oust Dave Tate who posted a 10:03 clocking.

Jim McLaughlin, Stanley Wheeler, Warren Keillogg and Ben Tate finished third, fourth, fifth and sixth respectively.

IM Gridders Tie, 0-0, in Defensive Tilt

By LES MICHAELS

In a defensive battle, Bryan 3 and Bryn Mawr 4 fought out a scoreless dual Wednesday night in a game that went into a sudden death period.

Both teams were presented with several scoring opportunities during the course of the game, but all attempts proved fruitless.

Bailey 3 Victorious

A long pass in the last 10 seconds of the game from Dick Vernon to John Jambas paved the way for Bailey 3 in a 9-8 win over Bryn Mawr 4. Vernon passed to Hradeculewicz for the game-winning extra point. A 30-yard run by Bruce Doerfield gave Bryan 4 its touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Bryan 2 Wins, 13-0

Alert defensive play and sparkling passing paced Bryan 2 to a 13-0 shutout of Bryan 1. Ted DeGroot's pass to Al Feldman engineered the winner's first period TD.

Larry Herron ran over for the extra point. Herron's touchdown pass to Jerry Madden in the fourth quarter ended the game's scoring.

East Shaw Shutout

East Shaw 3 displayed a superb aerial attack to smother East Shaw 6, 25-0, scoring in every quarter. Burton Stocke's pass to Owen Pope led to the winner's first TD. Additional passes by Bob Beckwith and Pope produced the other tallies.

U. S. Moon

(Continued from Page 1) something picked up volume. A leading Republican, Sen. Fred Wadsworth of New Hampshire, added his voice to a demand for a full-scale inquiry into this country's satellite and missile programs. He fired off a telegram to Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the senate armed services committee who already has instructed a subcommittee to take on this task.

Ignited by the Democratic leader of the Senate, Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who announced that staff members already are assembling facts. Bridges said the Soviet breakthrough into space was "no cause for immediate hysterical alarm" but that its implications were serious enough for congress to start an inquiry into our own program.

gram direct to Eisenhower urging him to summon congress back into a special session "for a multi-billion dollar get-going program to recapture first place in space."

The telegram, released by Lhne's office, said the congressman is drafting bills to establish an outer space commission with authority and cash to develop satellites, space ships and missiles.

Dr. E. M. Leitch, above, director of Fels Planetarium, said Monday the United States could have launched its huge Jupiter C guided missile into outer space a year ago. He said the Pentagon explained this "astonishing piece of stupidity" by asserting the Jupiter was designed as a missile, not a satellite launcher. (AP Wirephoto)

The Big Game? Raccoon Rage Hits Collegians Via Mothballs

Today's collegians will pull their raccoon coats out of mothballs for stadium wear.

The old ankle-length fur pieces are definitely making a comeback this fall if fashion displays in local college shops are any indication.

And where would be a better place for a raccoon coat fashion show than a Michigan-Michigan State game? asks a University of Michigan expert on mammals.

"The animal is commonly found in most of the state," says William H. Burt. He's curator of mammals at Michigan.

"The raccoon is a sociable animal, at least within the family group," says Burt. "This group usually forages and den together."

Burt didn't say if the Spartans of Michigan State would be wearing Wolverine coats after the game.

Three Hour Session Election Rule Debate Extends Congress Meet

Prolonged debate over new elections regulations extended Student Congress' second session well over three hours Wednesday night.

Cause of the controversy was Bill No. 7, which provides a system for administering All-University elections. It was introduced by Barrie Alley (East Lansing) last week.

Congressional fire centered on these sections: membership of the Elections Review Board, and deadline on election appeals.

The new regulation sets up a three-member Elections Review Board. It will be made up of a representative of Mortar Board, Excalibur, and the Chairman of the Legislative Elections Committee, who will act as chairman.

Dave Gibson (East Lansing) proposed that members of Men's Union and AWS be substituted for the Excalibur and Mortar Board members. After much discussion the proposal was defeated.

The matter of whether the three-hour deadline should go into effect when the election results were announced or after they were printed in the State News also brought some debate.

The regulations were amended to read 24 hours after publication in the State News to conform with a previous session which defined the results as being official only after publication.

In other action, Bill No. 10, introduced by Alen Sosen (East Shaw), was read and sent to committee. It dealt with summer sessions for student congress.

The executive report by Marne Gleason outlined the summer session bill and reminded congressmen of the other services currently sponsored by the government, including the pep rally Friday night and the book delivering service for those in Ohio Hospital. Messages, books and other articles are delivered by volunteers at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. daily.

The traffic committee report said that the traffic near the parking was mismanaged. Parking north of Harrison Hall is legal though marked illegal by the map.

Because of the lateness of the hour, Bill No. 8 by Alley, campaigning regulations, was tabled.

Editorials For Michigan Game Students at Fault If Lacking Tickets

One hundred thousand and one fans will jam Michigan Stadium Saturday as the Spartans meet their arch-rivals from Ann Arbor in their 50th grid battle. Just 5,000 of these spectators, less than five per cent of the total audience, will be Michigan State students.
Where will the other 46,000 or so MSU "fans" be? At home, perhaps, listening to the game on the radio — and complaining sadly that they just couldn't get tickets.
No tickets for students — that's their cry. Alums get first grab — all the tickets were sold in big blocks — the Michigan ticket office didn't allot enough for our student body — these complaints are surely familiar.
Even supposedly well-informed sources are lamenting the fact that "A lot of those without tickets are seniors and this would be their last chance to watch their team beat Michigan."
But, have these truly uninformed complainers looked into the situation? Where did the tickets go? To students? Surprising as it may seem to those who are still bemoaning the fact that they were left out when the ducats were distributed, the Michigan game tickets went to MSU students first! Yes, students had first preference on ordering tickets — and after the students had been given a chance, then, and only then, were sales opened up to alumni and to the general public.
MSU received 21,000 tickets — only 1,500 of these were purchased by students. Those who were on the campus last spring were given the chance to order tickets during the first two weeks of June. The announcement of sales was made in the State News, and ran for several days. As a result, about 2,900 ordered tickets, and everyone of these orders has now been filled. About 1,600 ducats were saved for incoming freshmen and new students. Alumni requests and orders from the general public were then filled — after the student body had been taken care of.
Students came first for this important game, as far as tickets were concerned. At MSU students have always been given first preference.
Another example of this exceptionally fair treatment is the 1956 Rose Bowl game. When Michigan State's ticket office received the ducats, the first big question was — who would be forced to sit in the end zone — Michigan State students, or the loyal alums? The decision was typical of the administrations fair play — yes, the student cheering section was located not in the end zone, but in the much preferred middle section.
The Michigan-Michigan State game has been a sell-out for 10 straight years. This year, every seat in the huge stadium had been potentially filled by June 17, and the game was announced a sell-out earlier than ever before.
Next year, when the contest moves to Spartan Stadium in East Lansing, we look for no complaints — at least not from students. As always, first grabs will be given to the MSU student body. They had better take advantage of their chance and quit the complaining — they don't know what a darn good deal they are getting after all.

Poor Rabbit Hunting

SCHUYLER, Va. (AP)—John Mayo thinks railroading is still a fine thing, but he deplores the fact that rabbit hunting isn't as good as it used to be.
Mayo, retiring after 51 years on the Nelson and Albemarle railroad, owned by a stone company, says he used to stop the engine almost any time and shoot a rabbit—got 14 in one season. As engineer he covered the railroads 32 miles every day after he advanced from fireman in 1925.

But Is He Headed for the Right Goal!

Letters To The Editor A Newcomer Speaks Up

Just coming from the east to Michigan State—this is the first experience that I have had with anything non-western. Frankly, I was warned about the political climate that prevailed here, which was said to be indicative of other living patterns.
I find, after picking up the Tuesday October 8 issue of the News, that these warnings have turned out to be true. I refer specifically to your editorial about the 41 American Youth who went to China. Note that I do not use the word red because of its sensational connotations. And Formosa is Formosa and not part of China and therefore has no adjective such as Nationalist.
I feel, without any moral condemnation and trying to be objective, that before any criticism can be undertaken of the actions of the 41 youth involved, the aims of the U. S. Government in the area should be laid clear—especially to the "newspaper" reading public.
I feel that this is just the obvious aim of the United States Government to place all varieties of pressure, economic, political, etc., short of war, which it cannot do, on a government of a nation which it considers to be hostile to its best interests. Hence we have the non-recognition policy and the one of economic privation, all designed to bring about the downfall of the Communist regime.
The policy of restricting the granting of visas to American citizens is another tool in the kits that is being applied to the above ends. In other words, a precedent of free entry must not be set in order that the Communist regime may not earn dollar exchange. This is understandable.
What is at stake here is just this: will or will not the right of the individual to free movement between countries be abridged due to the government's policy of pressuring another government?
And is there to be a free, first hand press coverage by Americans in China?
Frankly, I feel the role of the individual to be much more important in this case than any national loyalty, even mine to the U. S. Government. This loyalty is not owed as you state in your editorial, but granted by the individual to your government. Clearly, a man cannot be expected past certain limits to back every policy of his government on loyalty grounds.
The aim of the American pressure policy, rather than achieving its ends, will force the Chinese government and its people closer together. It will not hasten the revolution from the right as is hoped.
Also to be frank we assume the U. S. government to have confidence in the ability of the people to judge for themselves from a free press what is to be done over China.
I am quite frightened by manipulation of symbols of nationalism by journalists who are immature in their political thinking. This applies to the following: loyalty, duty to the state against the state's best interests.
What seems the case here is that in fear of Communism, we are to act in such a way as to hasten Fascism upon ourselves.
In regard to your quality of writing—I haven't seen this caliber since I read a New Jersey Anti-Semite paper. In short this is rabble rousing. I also doubt sincerely the academic qualifications of the editorial board on the recent political history of China or the U. S. in world affairs.
Perhaps this is consistent with your radio station which plays Deutschland Deutschland from World War II tapes.
Reuben M. Emanuel

More Rah

To The Editor:
If the scholars ("Aging radical professors and other intellectuals") criticize us for poor expression of our thoughts (if any), strike back and ridicule them. We have no time to think, read, or write, because we are too busy taking courses how to drive a car, how to behave on dates, and how to weave baskets. We watch TV and get educated. We think education is a perfectly splendid thing, but we haven't the slightest idea what it is.
Concerning your editorial "Rah for our side." Which side? Your lower rear?
Your obvious misuse of the words "radical" and "conservative" brings up the following questions. Just what is your idea of a radical intellectual? One who despise the mass hysteria around him insists that our civil liberties apply just as well to even the most unpopular people (i. e. gangsters, communists, etc.)? And what is this trend toward "conservatism" that you refer to? The general feeling that the fifth amendment be there because they sometimes get in our way?
Mr. Robert M. Hoffmann tells us why history bypassed Louis Niemoller. When the Nazis attacked the communists, Mr. Niemoller did nothing because he was not a communist. When they attacked the Jews, he still did nothing as he was not a Jew. The Nazis attacked the schools, the press, and the radio stations. Mr. Niemoller was a little uneasy, but not being directly affected he still did nothing. Then the Nazis attacked the Church. Pastor Niemoller was a churchman. He tried to do something, but it was too late!

MAC-1871

To The Editor:
The following was taken from the Prairie Farmer, March 18, 1871.
"Michigan State Agricultural College. The academic year began February 23rd. The higher classes are larger than common, while the Freshman class already includes seventy (70) members, nearly twice as many as any previous class. There is every prospect that the Freshmen will be a young lady. In the other classes are about a half a dozen more. There are no accommodations here for many young ladies. There is no preparatory class this year. The faculty is increased by the appointment of W. J. Heal, Professor of Botany. In addition to the money derived from the grant of land by the government the College gets and appropriation from the State of $40,000, to pay a debt on the new buildings and to aid in current expenses the next two years. Ten thousand more will likely be appropriated for a new chemical laboratory. The large classes show an increasing interest in the college. It is very popular with the best class of farmers in the state."

Litterbug

To The Editor:
The women of the division of the East Lansing Chamber of Commerce join with others in the community in extending a warm welcome to MSU students to the campus for the 1957-58 school year.
We are proud of MSU. Proud of her academic accomplishments, proud of her beautiful campus, and your assistance is needed.
With the cooperation of merchants and various civic organizations, the drive to make our city clean already shows results.
Litter is a Public Enemy No. 1 and a clean community is the forest of the East Lansing Beautiful campaign for this year.
Building community pride is a long process of education and appeal to pride which can be served by constant repetition, and by the oldest and most powerful advertising medium, "word of mouth."
No one methodically sets out to create litter. It is a bad habit compounded of human carelessness, indifference to dirt and the nature of the city we live in.
We are all truly proud of our community and to attain our goal, wouldn't it be easy for us all, when you have something in your hand not to drop it, but to put it in your pocket until you can put it in a trash container?
Our problem is how to set our citizens to refrain from dropping bits of paper and other unsightly trash in our roadways and parks.
Why shouldn't every one exert an effort, and have a strong determination to help see this through?
Let's banish the litterbug habit and make it possible for our neighbor to keep his property clean. Why not put it in your pocket and stop it.
With your cooperation MSU can continue to be known as the most beautiful campus in America. Likewise, East Lansing, the home of MSU, can achieve the distinction of being a fine attractive place to live in.
So as the fight against "litter" shifts into high gear in the fall of 1957, the help of every organization devoted to a cleaner, better community is earnestly solicited.

At U of M Game Gate Crashers Beware!

ANN ARBOR (AP)—You'll have a tougher time crashing Saturday's Michigan-Michigan State game than ever before.
And if you do succeed in hopping the wire fence circling the stadium, you won't find a place to sit anyway. All 101,000 seats for the big game have been sold for four months and scalpers are hustling tickets at a premium.
Latest reports from Detroit and Ann Arbor's black-market alleys indicate you'll have to shell out from $15 to $25 if you want to gain entrance to the ballpark. And there are few tickets to be had at those inflation rates.
To further discourage crashers, Michigan stadium has been equipped with an extension atop the old eight-foot-high fence. Barbed wire along the top is an added obstacle for would-be gate hoppers.
Ticket manager Don Weir says the new fence is almost impossible to scale. Three feet of cyclone fencing have been added to make the barrier a foot tall.
In the past, Weir estimates, 200 ticketless spectators gained admittance. Some tried snipping the fence with wire cutters or tunneled underneath it.
An 18-man police force patrols the borders of the stadium grounds.
Weir says forging the names of coaches or Athletic Director Fritz Crider on notes also is a crime. These are spotted immediately, he says.

Missile Control Urged

Reds Show No Interest In U. S. Plan

Gromyko Insists West 'Unwilling'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States offered Thursday to enter immediately into multi-nation talks on control of outer space missiles. The offer was ignored by the Soviet Union, which accused the West of trickery in disarmament negotiations.

U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge warned the United Nations "We must not miss this chance" to harness for peace outer space missiles "which can blow us to bits."

But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, speaking after Lodge in the UN's 32-nation political committee, made no specific mention of control of missiles. He declared the Western powers are "still unwilling to reach any agreement." He added:

"For that reason we call upon the governments of the United States, Britain and France to accept an honest and mutually acceptable agreement. It is time to put trickery aside and stop making a good face when the game is lost."

Gromyko made only brief reference to the intercontinental missile which the Soviet Union now claims as part of its arsenal. He called attention to the growing power of atomic and hydrogen bombs and the appearance of intercontinental weapons, capable of reaching any objective on earth.

The Soviet foreign minister declared one of his toughest UN speeches in recent years. He rejected the Western proposals put forth at the London talks of disarmament and stood on previous Soviet proposals which put primary on immediate and unconditional abolition of tests of nuclear weapons.

Lodge recalled that the United States proposed in 1946, when it alone had nuclear weapons, that atomic energy be put under international control. He added:

"The world knows now that a decade of anxiety and trouble could have been avoided if that plan had been accepted. We now have a similar opportunity to harness for peace man's new pioneering efforts in outer space. We must not miss this chance."

Union Gallery Exhibit Features Student Art

An exciting and varied exhibition of work by students who studied this past summer at MSU's Summer Art School in Leand, Mich., opened in the Union Gallery this past week. The exhibition will continue through Oct. 16 and may be seen daily from 8 a.m.-9 p.m.

Eggs Unscramble Situation

Ghana Minister Pacified

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower smoothed over an international incident Thursday with a breakfast of bacon and eggs.

Eisenhower's guest at the White House meal was K. A. Gbedemah, who was refused service at a Diner, Del. restaurant Monday evening because he is a Negro.

Gbedemah, who is the finance minister of Ghana, the new African Negro republic, told reporters after having breakfast with Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

"The President expressed personal apologies over all that was done in Delaware," Gbedemah added. Eisenhower was "a little worried" about the snub. He went on to say that the invitation to breakfast "makes up for what happened" in Delaware.

Further quoting the President, Gbedemah said Eisenhower told him there are "little things like

NEWS IN BRIEF

He Blamed for 'Lag'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-N.M.) Thursday accused the Soviet Bureau of impeding development of a guided missile program, and said President Eisenhower was warned two years ago that Russia was far ahead of the U.S. in developing missiles.

Anderson, vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy, said the warning was given, and solutions suggested in a June 30, 1955, letter to Eisenhower from Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) and Anderson, then Chairman of the Joint Committee. The letter never has been made public before.

Stocks Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dow Jones Industrial Average suffered its sharpest drop in two years Thursday, closing almost five million dollars in a quiet volume of stocks.

Brokers were unable to pinpoint any single reason for the drop. Generally, they blamed the bearish outlook in business, including reports of layoffs and cutbacks, and the ominous picture in the Middle East.

Reds Give Up

SAN MARINO (AP)—The 12-year-old Communist government admitted defeat Thursday night in the postwar-stamp republic, less than a year after its seizure of power. It is expected to give up power to the second of an anti-Communist coalition.

Interior Minister Domenico Morganti, last congressman, said after a three-hour meeting with members of the anti-Communist provisional government.

It is pretty obvious that we are moving out because we have been given no choice.

Human Space Trips Due Within Decade

NEW YORK (AP)—Some boy or girl now in school could well become the first Earthling to set foot on the face of the moon.

The girl, grown into a slim young woman, could be the first space-trip pilot, just because she weighs less. Weight could be critical in deciding who goes exploring space.

Space trips by humans are apparently causing this is the quickening promise of the space age, opened just seven days ago by Russia's Sputnik or baby moon.

For Sputnik marks the first break in the chain of gravity keeping mankind bound to Earth.

The space race between Russian and American alike—nobody predicting rocket flights to the moon within a few to half a dozen or 10 years or more. The lesson is learning out of this old science-fiction book.

Just how realistic are these predictions? What are the next solid steps? Why worry about space anyhow? Why send up Sputniks or American probes launched within the coming year?

At any moment, the U. S. Air Force will launch a four-stage rocket expected to soar 1,000 to 4,000 miles into space. If it can be given an extra kick sometime later, this rocket conservatively could whiz right on and bang the moon in the moon in the moon. Television could see it hit.

The rocket will be lifted by balloons 20 miles high over Eniwetok in the Pacific, then its rocket engines will fire in sequence to make the deepest penetration yet into space.

It will carry a small package of instruments and radio gear to get back facts from space about cosmic rays and Earth magnetism. This rocket will either burn up from the friction in the Earth's atmosphere as it plunges back from space, or will fall harmlessly into the Pacific Ocean. It is not being aimed to become a satellite.

But it and the baby moon flights are essential first steps before man can send rockets to or around the moon, or take steps toward Mars.

First men want cautiously to explore the mysterious heavens of space. What are the hazards, what peculiar events go on out there?

Human volunteers, protected by space suits, are already being subjected to conditions they will meet in space, to see whether the human body can tolerate them, or be protected against them. Psychological experiments try to duplicate the emotional strains of long space voyages.

What are the chances that pressurized space ships can be punctured by meteorites, snuffing out the lives of human occupants? How deadly was up there in the rain of cosmic rays, or the powerful X-rays and ultra-violet light coming from the sun? Could man take it? The moon can tell.

High Standards Aim of PanHel

By MARY HITE
 "Good college citizenship is preparation for good citizenship in the larger world of tomorrow," is the ideal which will guide our chapter activities under the PanHellenic Council's charter. It is toward this goal that PanHel's Standards Committee in particular is working.

The committee met for the first time this year Tuesday evening. This meeting was essentially a get-acquainted affair, designed to allow new and former members to meet each other and find to become acquainted.

Under the chairmanship of April Cameron, Grosse Pointe sophomore and Sigma Kappa, the committee consists of standards chairmen representing every sorority house on campus.

Jane Woolam, Delta Delta Delta, is secretary of the group, while the faculty advisor is Miss Mabel Peterson of the Women's Division, Dean of Students of the University.

Standards, as explained by the chairman of the committee, are really the backbone of all sororities. PanHel takes care of the mechanisms of governing the Greeks, while Standards Committee is concerned with the ethics of Greek living.

It has been emphasized on numerous occasions, for instance when MSU President John A. Hannah spoke to the new pledges last winter term, that Greeks would not be allowed on this campus if they were not fulfilling a purpose.

A sorority on the MSU campus makes a contract with the university. It promises to make efforts to instill among its members high standards of ethical, social behavior and scholarship. Through emphasis on loyalty of its members to certain attitudes and characteristics a sorority can work ably to these objectives set by the university and by its own national council.

The Standards Committee will serve as an organized body to reinforce aims and goals for which each sorority strives. One important asset of the group is that it can be a means of communication.

Here costs can air their problems, problems of individual houses or those which may be common to all. New methods and solutions may be discovered through discussion and cooperation, and eventually these decisions will be brought back to cords through their committee representatives.

The committee will work closely with AWS, and has planned programs to aid Standards chairmen in their work.

Special events discussed include a meeting of dorm and sorority housemothers; talking with dormitory standards chairmen, and sponsoring talks by members of the administration concerned with university regulations and standards.

Wolverines Host Spartans Following Football Classic

By RAE FIFE
 Spartans taking off for a weekend of cheering, celebrating, two houses and partying at Ann Arbor, will have no trouble finding entertainment.

A casual mixer dance sponsored by the East Quad and the Men's Inter-residence, H-11 Council and the Women's Inter-residence Council of MSU will be held Saturday from 9-12 p.m. at Ann Arbor.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, Men's Physical Education Honorary of MSU, is also sponsoring a dance, appropriately titled "Beat Michigan." It will be held at the American Legion Hall in Ann Arbor.

Agriculturist Visits MSU, Faith Group

Bruce Smalley, a Methodist agriculturist who has directed a 6,000 acre demonstration farm in Southern Rhodesia for five years, will speak at Peoples Church at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday.

Smalley has returned to the country for a year's furlough from missionary service. Since going to Rhodesia in 1952, he has been in charge of a development and training program for African families at the Nyadiri Mission.

For three years, men learn to become expert farmers, women receive training in homemaking and children attend primary school. Emphasis is placed upon Christian living within the family and community.

Smalley has also supervised a boys' boarding department, taught industrial arts and worked with 300 members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Born of missionary parents in the Belgian Congo, Smalley came to the United States for schooling. He was graduated from MSU in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree. He also attended Kennedy School of Missions in Hartford, Conn.

Smalley is sponsored in the mission field by Peoples Church, where he was active while attending MSU, and a church in New York.

IFC Offers Advice to Rushees

"Be Yourself," Say Councilmen

"Be yourself, since you will be taken at face value, and try to gain a feeling of how you can live with the people of a chosen house, get around and see all the houses, if possible, before pledging—we hope that the male student will take full advantage of the opportunities that fraternity life has to offer."

The Executive Council of IFC has this collective advice to encourage interested students who are presently participating in rush activities.

Open Rush Smokers, that is smokers to which all rushees are invited, were held Oct. 8. Next week marks the beginning of closed rush, when rushees may go to the houses by invitation only.

The final pledging date is p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 20.

What to wear to smokers. Dress is informal, meaning slacks or sportswear with dress shirt and tie.

On the MSU campus there are 28 fraternities and six "groups" to entice the rushee. "Groups" are those attempting to colonize on campus, who, after meeting requirements of IFC, eventually gain full fraternity status.

In the rush of rush, a large one freshman has paused to smoke-filled room and wonder what fraternity life really has to offer. According to the general consensus of fraternities, it offers friendship in a big school and builds freshmen into poised college men, surrounded by high ideals of scholarship and democracy.

Petitions Ready For Frosh-Soph

Frosh-Soph Council petitions are available in the Student Government office today through Oct. 17, according to Doty Schweinberg, Sophomore Executive Council member. Petitions will require 35 names instead of the usual 50.

Primaries will be held Oct. 24, and finals Oct. 31.

Openings are available for one freshman and one sophomore from each dormitory, and sophomore representing sororities; one sophomore representing fraternities, and one freshman and one sophomore living off campus.

Herb Harmon, elections commissioner, reminds prospective candidates that petitions may not be circulated by anyone other than the candidate himself.

Enola, Ark., is not a backward place. Truth is the first poster there carved "Alone" on a board and it was read backwards.

Hotel Association Auditions Talent

Auditions for entertainment at the Annual Hotel Dinner Dance, sponsored by the MSU Hotel Association, will be held Sunday from 2-4 p.m. in Kellogg Center.

Singers, dancers, comedians and novelty acts are invited to audition.

The sports section of the State News is always short-handed, come up to the third floor of the Union Building and talk to the Sports Editor. Many staffers are needed to cover the IM fall sports and the varsity football practices.

Michigan's Delta Sigma Pi Chapter will play host to the State chapter with a mixer following the game. A buffet dinner and a dance at the fraternity house will entertain the Delta Sig PIs and their dates.

Friday night activities are also planned to warm up for the big day at Ann Arbor.

Farmhouse will hold a dance at the Grange Hall in East Lansing from 8:30-12 Friday night. Round and square dancing is on the agenda for Farmhouse men and their dates. Entertainment will be provided by the pledge class.

Both the Delta Upsilon and the Alpha Kappa PIs will play the country role with hayrides sponsored by the respective houses.

The DU's hayride will be Friday from 7-9 p.m. at Rowe Ranch. Dancing for actives and their dates will follow.

Plans for the Alpha Kappa PIs' Friday evening also include a hayride at Rowe Ranch, followed by refreshments and dancing from 8-12 p.m.

Alpha Tau Omega will hold a rushee dance Friday night from 9-12. Much sound will be emitted from the house on Evergreen Ave. as the Don Thompson Quintet and the Playboys provide music for the ATO's and their guests.

The Theta Chi's will attend the pep rally Friday night before their rush party from 9-12. The "Statesmen" musical members of the fraternity, will provide dancing music for the actives, rushees and their dates.

This meeting was especially a get-acquainted affair designed to allow new and former members to meet each other and to become acquainted.

Under the chairmanship of April Cameron, Grosse Pointe sophomore and Sigma Kappa, the committee consists of standard chairmen representing every sorority house on campus. Jane Woolam, Delta Delta Delta, is secretary of the group, while the faculty advisor is Miss Mabel Peterson of the Women's Division, Dean of Students office.

The Standards Committee will serve as an organized body to reinforce aims and goals for which each sorority strives. One important asset of the group is that it can be a means of communication. Here coasts can air their problems, problems of individual houses of those which may be common to all. New methods and solutions may be discovered through discussion and cooperation, and eventually these decisions will be brought back to coeds through their committee representatives.

It has been emphasized on numerous occasions, for instance when MSU President John A. Hannah spoke to the new pledges last winter term, that Greeks would not be allowed on this campus if they were not fulfilling a purpose. A society on the MSU campus makes a contract with the university. It promises to make efforts to instill among its members high standards of ethical, social behavior and scholarship. Through emphasis on loyalty of its members to certain attitudes and characteristics a society can work only to these objectives set by the university and by its own national council.

The committee will work closely with AWS, and has planned programs to all Standards chairmen in their work. Special events discussed include a meeting of dorm and sorority housemothers, talking with dormitory standard chairmen, and sponsoring talks by members of the administration concerned with university regulations and standards.

IFC Offers Advice to Rushees

 "Be yourself, since you will be taken at face value, and try to gain a feeling of how you can live with the people of a chosen house. Get around and see all the houses, if possible, before pledging—we hope that the male student will take advantage of the opportunities that fraternity life has to offer."

The Executive Council of the IFC has this collective advice to encourage students who are presently participating in rush activities. Open Rush Smokers, that is smokers to which all rushees are invited, were held on Oct. 8. Next week marks the beginning of closed rush, when rushees may go to the houses by invitation only. The final pledging date is on Sunday, Oct. 20.

Agriculturist Visits MSU, Faith Group

Bruce Smalley, a Methodist agriculturist who has directed a 6,000-acre demonstration farm in Southern Rhodesia for five years, will speak at Peoples Church at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services Sunday. Smalley has returned to the country for a year's furlough from missionary service. Since going to Rhodesia in 1952, he has been in charge of a development and training program for African families at the Nyadiri Mission. For three years, men learn to become expert farmers, women receive training in homemaking and children attend primary school. Emphasis is placed upon Christian living within the family and community. Smalley has also supervised a boys' boarding department, taught industrial arts and worked with 300 members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. Born of missionary parents in the Belgian Congo, Smalley came to the United States for schooling. He was graduated from MSU in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree. He also attended the Kennedy School of Mission in Hartford, Conn. Smalley is sponsored in the mission field by Peoples Church, where he was active while attending MSU, and a church in New York.

Milwaukee Holds Wildest Celebration Since V-J Day

MILWAUKEE, Baseball Capital of the World (P)—Note to the Milwaukee Braves: You may think the Milwaukee celebration has hit this city as hard as when your plane tries to land from New York, but don't worry—its only paper.

When Eddie Mathews stepped on third base in Yankee Stadium for the final out of the 1957 World Series, he also touched off the wildest celebration Milwaukee has seen since V-J Day.

The old city on the west shore of Lake Michigan which had been as quiet as a mouse while its million inhabitants sat indoors for two hours and 34 minutes with eyes and ears glued to radio and television sets, suddenly erupted at 1:30 p.m. Thursday with a piercing shriek of unbounded joy.

In short, Milwaukee lost no time in living up to its claim of being the "Baseball Capital of the World." Factory whistles blew; Church bells clanged; Men, women and children poured out of downtown buildings like marbles being dumped out of a bag; streets were suddenly filled with automobiles, their horns blaring. Pedestrians overflowed the sidewalks and swarmed into the streets, stopping traffic at some spots.

"This was it!" shouted nearly everyone at once. The Braves showed these Yankees what they could do. Perfect strangers pointed each other in the back of each other's heads.

Windows in office buildings along Wisconsin Avenue were flung open as if some strange power had released them simultaneously.

Somebody started dumping torn bits of paper from one high window. Then the confetti shower spread rapidly all along the city's main street and throughout the business district. Within minutes, the sky was filled with paper. (After the first supply ran out, nobody took the time to tear more paper into little pieces. Entire sheets, some legal size, were flung through open windows by the handful. It was caught up by the wind and swirled around the joyous scene, proclaiming to the world that the Milwaukee Braves had beaten the mighty Yankees for baseball's most coveted prize.)

Lew Burdette, the Braves' controversial man-in-motion, was now the man of the hour. The fidgety pitcher who shut out the Yankees for the second time to take his third victory of the series was the "cock of the city," "Lew's our boy," shouted customers of some of the taverns who rushed out into the sunshine to join the celebration, leaving half-filled glasses on the bar behind them.

The suddenness with which the celebration started was almost frightening. At 1:30 p.m., you could have shot a cannon down Wisconsin Avenue without hitting anybody. There was virtually no traffic; only the buses made their scheduled routes with nobody except the drivers inside. Sidewalks were deserted.

An occasional policeman walked his appointed route. The only sign of life were found in front of television stores, where small hundreds of people were making the most of the situation by watching the game on a set in the window. Nobody else was indoors.

Then the game came to a sudden and dramatic end, with the bases full of Yankees who probably will spend the long winter

That was the signal for a city whose populace had waited five long years to start letting off steam. The result was deafening. And it was still going on while the new world champions were flying back to their home base, to be welcomed by a grateful fandom.

"If you think this is something," one middle-aged woman said to her companion a few minutes after the celebration started "wait 'til tonight when the team gets back."

The only time the Braves "choked up" was Thursday—after the Braves had realized they were the new world champions. The players choked up, all right, but from emotion. They could hardly talk, they were so happy.

So when Casey Stengel, the losing manager, came to Haney's little room in the Braves' clubhouse after the game to congratulate him and the team on a fine job, Haney was deeply moved.

"Thanks Casey," the tired but happy little guy whispered with a choke in his voice. "You don't know what this means to me. Nobody does. This makes up for everything."

Casey had fended his way through a horde of reporters, photographers, broadcasters and newsreel men. He reached out, grabbed Haney's hand and shouted above the noise:

"I want to tell you something, Toledo (both had once managed in Toledo). You did a very wonderful and very efficient job all year and you ran that club very well during this Series, too."

"You beat us and you beat us right. There's no question about it. The team did great. They played better ball than the Yankees and Haney managed better than Stengel. You've got a great club but then it takes a great club to beat us."

It was difficult to hear Stengel above the tremendous din unless you were practically at his elbow. The photographers were screaming for pictures, beseeching Stengel to shake hands with Haney.

"Take it easy," Stengel cautioned the photographers. "Don't get excited. You're making Fred nervous here. I've been through this before but he hasn't. This is his first one. But he'll have plenty of others before he's through. So you fellows better get used to him. Casey obligingly shook hands with Haney, hugged him a dozen times for the photographers and even kissed Fred once. The old man, who must have been keenly disappointed in coming so close only to miss winning his seventh world title, balked only once. That was when he was asked to smile for the camera.

"What have I got to smile about?" he asked. "You don't think I'm going to smile, do you?"

Casey made his exit then. As he was about to push his way through the clogged doorway, he turned again to Haney, waved and yelled: "See you in California, dad!"

Haney laughed. "Imagine that old gaffer calling me dad!" he said, the broad grin still on his perspiring, red-beet face. "He's old enough to be my father." For the record Stengel is 67 and Haney is 39. Both are residents of California.

Turmoil Reigns Thousands Greet Braves In Homecoming Reception

MILWAUKEE (P)—Between 15,000 and 20,000 citizens of this self-styled baseball capital of the world screamed themselves hoarse Thursday night as the Milwaukee Braves brought home the World Championship.

No sense was the mood of the madly surging Billy Mitchell Field where the Braves' chartered airliner landed, that the players' 30-car caravan had difficulty making headway.

The airport crowd was only a small vanguard of hundreds of thousands waiting to add their voices to a tumultuous welcome.

A roar of greeting echoed in the cool night air and grew to thunderous proportions as the airliner taxied to a stop in front of a long outdoor observation deck packed solidly with people.

A Tri-State American Legion band played martial music and four Winnebago Indian girls, all in colorful regalia, did a victory dance just before the plane touched down.

As the door of the plane swung open and Manager Fred Haney and his wife, Florence, were illuminated in the glare of spotlights, from a fire department auxiliary truck, the cheers were deafening.

There were cheers and yells for Lew Burdette, the pitcher who downed the New York Yankees 3-0 Thursday in the final game of the World Series and his third victory in the seven-game swing.

Teammates mob Lew Burdette as he comes off the field after leading his Milwaukee Braves to the world baseball championship, 3-0, Thursday over the New York Yankees.

Casey Praises Lew Burdette

NEW YORK (P)—"That pitcher stopped us like no other pitcher I've seen since I took over this club."

The man talking was Casey Stengel, manager of the ex-champs. And there wasn't any doubt who "that pitcher" was. Casey couldn't seem to say enough about Lew Burdette, the fidgety right-hander who looked cool and collected and kept leading the New York Yankees until they finally gave up their hold on the World Championship.

You didn't really need to ask Burdette how he became the first pitcher to win three times as a starter in a series since Cleveland's Stan Coveleskie did it against Brooklyn in 1920. You didn't really have to be there to hear Burdette drawl. "I went to my last ball once in a while, but it didn't have the snap it had in the fifth game." It didn't really matter if you weren't there to hear Burdette say "I just threw strikes and let 'em hit the ball."

Stengel talked free and easy about the pitcher who had run up a string of 24 shutout innings (three shy of the one-series record set by Christy Mathewson in 1905 with the New York Giants—remember them?) against a club that had been shut out only twice during the entire American League season.

Was Casey purposely stalling when he went to the bullpen to get Elton Howard for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning. Was he trying to upset Burdette, working with just two days rest?

"Now," said Case, "I had to have Howard out in the bullpen. I had a lot of pitchers out there and I needed my catchers out there. And I'll tell you something else. I wasn't deciding whether to pinch-hit then at all because it's rather hard. I heard some clubs in that (National League) had looked up with lefthanders against him."

—DETROIT (P)—The spirited New York Rangers twice battled from behind, then defeated the Detroit Red Wings 3-2 Thursday night on Andy Hebenton's brilliant effort in their National Hockey League opener at Olympia Stadium.

Rookie Tom McCarthy sent the Wings into a 2-1 lead in the second period with a high 20-foot shot. The Rangers boomed right back again with Larry Popen scoring from short range after the New Yorkers pressured Goalie Terry Sawchuk for a full two minutes.

Hebenton fought his way around the Detroit defense early in the third period, faked Sawchuk to his knees, and flipped a high shot into the corner of the Detroit nets for the deciding goal.

Meet for 50th Time Wolves, Spartans Renew Grid Classic

One of football's oldest rivalries will be renewed Saturday as the Spartans meet Michigan before 101,001 at Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor. It will be the 50th gridiron clash since 1898 for the ancient rivals.

In some ways this year's game is similar to the situation prevailing State's 9-0 defeat of the Wolverines in 1956. Both teams were considered among the best in the nation, the Wolverines with their two great ends, Ben Koser and Tom Maentz, and the Spartans with the talented Clarence Peaks.

Both are unbeaten. The Spartans easily romped over the hapless Hoosiers of Indiana, 54-0, two weeks ago and outgassed a rugged California squad, 19-0, last week.

Michigan had a hard time defeating Southern California, 4-6, in their opener, and the Wolverines clash with Georgia last Saturday was far closer than the 26-6 score indicated.

Coach Duffy Daugherty's attack will be led by Walt Kowalczyk, the Spartan right halfback. All-American nominee, quarterback Jim Ninowski, left half Blanche Martin and fullback Don Gilbert.

Michigan, which lost only Terry Barr from its 1956 backfield probably will have Jim

The Spartans are the nation's No. 1 team in rushing average and rank second only to Iowa in total offense.

Should either team find trouble advancing on the ground, it will probably not hesitate to take to the air. While the Spartans have not attempted passes as much as the Wolverines, it is significant that Ninowski threw 12 straight complete airballs in the first two games before he finally missed.

State's passing power was illustrated in the California game. The Bears, after two straight losses, were keyed up enough to slow the Spartan ground game to a crawl. Ninowski threw two touchdown passes and his stand-in, Mike Panich, tossed another for the only score.

But unless both squads find the going tough on the ground, they will most likely take no chances and play a safe, hard ground game.

The probable starting lineups:

MICHIGAN	MICHIGAN
Williams	LF Prabh
O'Brien	LG Orwig
Middleton	LG Faul
Kelly	C Snyder
Curry	R Nyren
Burke	RT Davies
Martin	LH Pace
Ninowski	QB Van Pelt
Kowalczyk	RH Shatusky
Gilbert	FB Herrstein
Kaiser	RE Johnson

Neither Team Beaten in 2 Years Booters Clash With Navy Pier

By PETE WALTERS
State News Edit Page Editor

Hoping to avenge the tie that spoiled its perfect record last year, Michigan State's soccer team meets Navy Pier of Chicago Saturday morning at 10 on the Soccer Field.

The booters, who played to a 3-3 deadlock with Michigan last week in their season opener, are faced with a serious lack of depth that could be an important factor in determining the game's outcome.

Art Southan, star forward who scored six goals last season and one in the 1957 opener, is a doubtful starter with a pulled leg muscle. "Besides that," Coach Gene Kenney stated, "Navy Pier has plenty of reserve power and is still one of the finest teams in the country."

So far this season Navy Pier has downed Illinois, 2-0, and tied Wheaton, 0-0. The Chicago team won eight of their nine games last year, tying the Spartans 2-2, in the other match. Kenney has juggled his lineup considerably in preparation for Saturday's tilt. Leo Vander Horst has been switched from his old halfback position to a forward post and Zeno Sanabria and Dan Clifford have both changed spots on the forward line.

The brother team of Dick and Eric Strieder will have a chance to see one another Saturday, but not on the field of play.

Dick is a standout center forward for Navy Pier, while Eric, who was the Chicago team's top scorer last year before he transferred to Michigan State, will be sitting out his year of ineligibility under NCAA rules.

Additional seating facilities have been erected at the Soccer Field, following last Saturday's standing-room-only crowd.

The probable starting lineup:

MICHIGAN STATE
GOAL: Al Sasonko
FULLBACKS: George Sapetov, Neil Butler
HALFBACK: Ray Burnett, Angelo Plutis, Bob Norman
FORWARDS: Art Southan, Al Strieder, Dan Clifford, Leo Vander Horst, Zeno Sanabria

NAVY PIER
GOAL: Andy Bitt
FULLBACKS: Leo Pavlaka, Adam Wambach
HALFBACKS: Tony Weigandt, Saly Panich, Joe Vlatkovic
FORWARDS: Dick Strieder, Walt Boykowitz, Fernando Herrera, George Kaszuba, Mike Czikeintlmahvi

Sparring Predictions

By LARRY GUSTIN
State News Sports Editor

WHILE MICHIGAN and Michigan State battle it out for the championship of the state Saturday, the rest of the Big 10 teams meet each other in much less important games. For at Ann Arbor, the Spartans and Wolverines will be fighting to determine which one will be co-favorite with Minnesota for the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

It has been a tradition for State News sports editors to predict the leading games of the weekend. So, with hopes the jinx which hits my boxing predictions won't carry over to football, here goes.

ARMY over Notre Dame: The Irish have been fairly impressive in their first two games, but still are in the rebuilding stage.

WISCONSIN over Purdue: Badgers have been running roughshod over inferior opposition while the Boilermakers nearly stopped Minnesota. We'll stay with Wisconsin in a close one.

OHIO STATE over Illinois: Another one which could go either way. Buckeyes have best potential despite unpredictable performance.

MINNESOTA over Northwestern: Wildcats are showing signs of improvement over recent years, but the Gophers, after a long absence have returned to power with quarterback Bobby Cox.

IOWA over Indiana: This should be a runaway. Hoosiers are playing traditional doormat role, while Hawkeyes could well repeat as Big 10 champs.

OKLAHOMA over Texas: The Sooners may or may not be the No. 1 team in the nation. But no matter what you may say about their weak schedule, they still beat everyone they play.

ARKANSAS over Baylor: The Big Bears were upset last week by Miami while the Razorbacks downed TCU. Both teams are about equal, but Arkansas has the habit of winning.

Tough Schedule Ahead for Harriers

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
State News Night Editor

The opposition ahead for the Michigan State harriers is power-laden and could pose as an obstacle to the repeating championship hopes of the team.

Barring any further injuries, the team will give a respectable showing in its quest of retaining the Big 10, IC4A and NCAA crowns.

Head Coach Karl Schladehman has set up practice sessions by having his squad workout at the Frander Golf course and along the banks of the Red Cedar.

Penn State visits East Lansing on Oct. 26 and this meet will probably decide whether or not the harriers have the equipment to duplicate last fall's feats.

The Nittany Lions are one of the top teams in the East. They are figured to field a stronger ensemble than last year's team which the Spartans trounced, 15-40.

Once again they will have a well-balanced trio in Ed Notan, Fred Kerr and Clem Schoenbeck.

Five days later, the harriers tangle with Notre Dame at Old College Field.

Last year the Fighting Irish managed to be the only dual meet opponent of the Spartans to avert a shutout though losing 19-58.

Irish Coach Alex Wilson has strong hopes that the squad will better last year's 4-2 mark in dual competition, and sixth place finish in the NCAA meet.

Included among the returning members are Capt. Dale Vandenberg, Ed Monnelly, Dick DiCamillo and Mike Haverty.

Top sophomores are Dave Cotton and Galen Cawley.

The harriers then will journey to Madison, Wis., to oppose the Badgers in a dual meet.

State easily disposed of Wisconsin by sweeping the first eight positions in nothing a shutout, 15-40.

Though suffering five defeats last season, Wisconsin should have a better season, but is not considered to threaten the harriers.

Returning performers who will comprise the attack are Capt. Tom Koenig, Dick Blaney and Dave Thompson.

Following the Badger meet, the Big 10 teams convene at Chicago, Ill., on Nov. 15 for the Western Conference title.

The Spartans rolled to their fifth Big 10 crown in the last six years. In the process the harriers set a new point total mark by registering 21 points on the basis of first, second, fifth, sixth and seventh place finishes.

Three days later will find the cross country team in New York City competing for the IC4A championship.

Top-ranked East schools will be trying to dethrone the harriers.

Among the entries each year are Notre Dame, Harvard, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, Manhattan, Pitt and New York University.

The climatic race of the season is the NCAA race which Michigan State will host.

This meet decides national supremacy in cross country. It attracts the finest runners in the country. Last year 38 schools sent 196 runners.

Capt. Henry Kennedy's performance will be a main factor in the team's attack.

After being afflicted with infectious mononucleosis and the flu Henry's health could either make this season a successful one or a disappointment.

However, Fordy Kennedy proved in his initial test at the Michigan AAU meet that he can probably match the feats of his brother.

Dave Lean, brilliant middle-distance runner, considered a "rookie" in cross country circles will face his first test as a long distance-runner in the intra-squad meet next week.

Ken Wheeler, still ill with a cold, is expected to improve his eighth Michigan AAU placement in the Penn State meet when the team opposes Penn State.

Bob Lake, second place Michigan AAU finisher, will be counted on to score valuable team points.

Sophomore Jim Horan Wednesday was ordered to give his injured legs a rest and not to appear at practice until Monday.

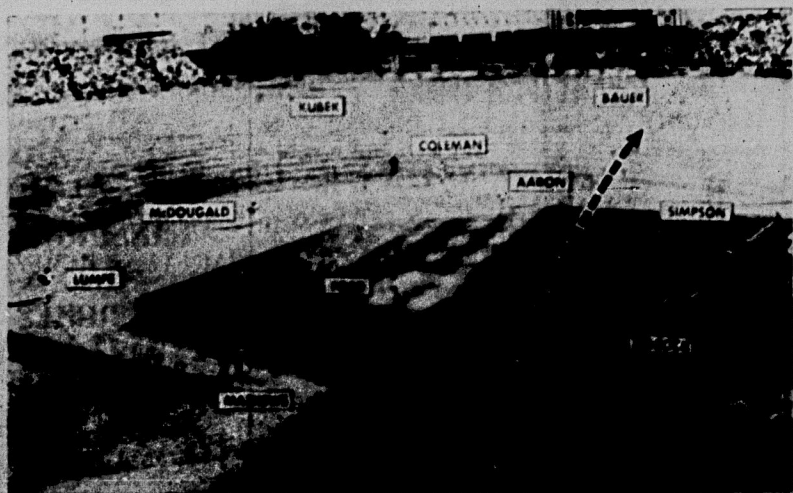

Other mainstays on the squad include Jack Crowell, Ken Daffoe, Tony Smith and Jim Carr.

"As soon as the flu cases decline we will be ready for competition," Schladehman said.

U. S. Lifts Fingerprint Demands

Visitors Freed Of Obligation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Thursday abolished, with some few exceptions, its controversial requirement that all visitors from abroad be subjected to fingerprinting.

Secretary of State Dulles told Army Gen. Brownell, acting on authority given them by Congress a month ago, to suspend the practice of 15 years standing.

Dulles and Brownell ruled that in most cases, foreigners visiting the United States for a year or less can be given visas without first submitting to fingerprinting.

The move seemed clearly aimed at meeting bitter protests from such countries as Russia which have denounced fingerprinting as a device to discourage visitors to the United States.

Soviet Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev bitterly complained about the fingerprinting requirement to President Eisenhower during the Geneva Summit Conference in 1955.

Khrushchev contended fingerprinting should be reserved for criminals. As long as the requirement remained, he said, Russians would refuse to visit the United States except under official passports which did not require fingerprinting.

The State Department in announcing the end of the requirement Thursday said it would "on a basis of reciprocity" visitors from Liberia, Peru and Ecuador will continue to be fingerprinted, officials said, until these countries abandon their fingerprinting practice.

Fingerprints also may be required, it said, of visitors who arrive without visas of any kind such as foreign seamen, who work shore leave and seasonal workers from Mexico.

But for the overwhelming majority of tourists, some 500,000 a year, the fingerprinting will be eliminated if they otherwise qualify for an American visa.

Visa requirements remain unchanged, it was emphasized, with each American consul overseas having the right to refuse entry permission to Communists or others advocating overthrow of the American government by force.

The net effect of the new ruling will be to put up to the American government a decision on whether to allow known Russian Communist party members to enter under the East-West cultural exchange program.

American diplomats around the globe have already been notified to discontinue fingerprinting as soon as the new regulation is formally published, probably by Saturday.

Foreign businessmen visiting the United States under visas good for four years, it was said, will not be fingerprinted unless they remain in this country a year or longer without a break.

Both Sides Stand Firm Integration Crisis In Silent Deadlock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Central High School racial integration crisis subsided Thursday into a silent deadlock.

Gov. Orval Faubus stood firm on his stand that no compromise is in sight unless the nine Negro students are withdrawn from integrated Central classrooms.

Faubus' Eisenhower has refused to withdraw regular army troops and federalized Arkansas National Guardmen from the school until he is satisfied that the court-ordered Central High integration plan will be enforced by local authorities.

Faubus Wednesday showed newspaper photographs which he said depicted soldiers and officers sauntering through the shorts-clad high school girls during gym class. He said he regarded this as intolerable on the part of the troops.

Short-clad girls again went through gym classes on the playgrounds back of the school during the day. A few soldiers and officers went about duties in the immediate vicinity, without, however, seeming to draw any attention from the girls.

One of the Negro girls, Coretta Walls, 14, was the pitcher for one of the two teams engaged in a shrill softball game. The white girls exhorted her by name as she pitched. She, in turn, slapped several of the white girls on their backs in a congratulatory gesture for base hits or good holding plays.

Adams to Speak On WKAR-Radio

Dr. Arthur Adams of the history department, who recently returned from the Soviet Union, will appear as a guest on "Viewpoint," Sunday at 2 p.m. over WKAR-radio.

Joining him to discuss "Russia from the Inside" will be Dr. Alfred Meyer, a new member of the Political Science Department, and author of several books on Marxism and Leninism.

Major John Barron of the Air Force ROTC, continues for the second year as the program's host.

Braves Take World Series, 5-0

ed a single to left for his first Series hit. Johnny Logan bounced a grounder to Kubek that had double play written all over it. Kubek hurriedly threw high, pulling Jerry Coleman off second base. Coleman's relay to first was too late to get Logan although the Yanks, led by Stengel, beamed to umpire Augie Donatelli.

Instead of being out of the inning, Larsen now was in deep trouble with men on first and second and the feared slugger, Eddie Mathews, at bat.

Mathews ripped a double into the right field corner, a line drive over the head of first baseman Joe Collins, and both Hazle and Logan scored. Hank Bauer's throw, relayed by Collins to Yogi Berra, was too late to get Logan.

Stengel made his second appearance of the inning and brought in Bobby Shantz, the veteran lefty, to replace Larsen.

Hank Aaron singled to center, knocking in Mathews, and Wes Covington, hitless since the first two games, dropped a Texas league single into center. Aaron had scooted to third on the hit and he scored as Coleman forced Covington at second on Frank Torre's grounder.

Shantz was followed by Art Ditmar, Tom Sturdivant and finally Byrne but the damage had been done. Whitey Ford who had asked for this start although he had only two days rest, like Burdette, was in the bullpen. He never got in the game.

Mantle played in a surprising last hour switch by Stengel who had posted an early lineup with Kubek in center and Andy Carey on third. When Mantle reported ready, he benched Carey and put Kubek on third.

The Yanks had their best chance at Burdette in the very first inning. Bauer, setting a series record by hitting safely in his 14th consecutive game, opened with a double down the left field line.

When Enos Slaughter grounded back to the box, Bauer was trapped between second and third. The Braves messed up the rundown, however, only to find Bauer sliding into second base on one side and Slaughter sliding in from the other. Shortstop Logan touched Slaughter for the out.

Cadets to See New Aircraft

Thirty-seven Air Force ROTC cadets, accompanied by Major A. G. Benson from the AFROTC detachment, departed Thursday afternoon in a C-119 aircraft for an over-night visit to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

During their one day stay at Wright-Patterson, this group will have the opportunity to see such varied Air Force activities as the Air Force Museum, a Univac in operation, and the latest supersonic aircraft.

In addition, they will take brief flight instruction in the base instrument school and will spend half a day visiting various research activities at the Wright Air Development Center.

This base visit is one of a series of visits to various Air Force installations throughout the country that provide firsthand information to MSU cadets of Air Force operations and activities.
