

First Quarter Spurt Keeps Gridders in Bowl Contention

By LARRY GUSTIN
State News Sports Editor

MICHIGAN STATE'S football team looked listless at halftime but still showed enough of its reputed power to coach a spirited Illinois squad, 19-14, before a cheering crowd of 64,354 at Spartan Stadium.

The Spartans kept alive Spartan hopes for a Rose Bowl trip to the title, although outside help is needed to stop the state and Michigan.

Lightning Illini spotted State 13 points, then came back in the third period to lead, 14-13. But the Spartans who they could come from behind when Walt Kowalski broke loose for a 36-yard touchdown run early in the quarter. The Illini threatened several times before the buzzer, but a sharp Michigan State pass defense kept the drives.

Patent, who started at quarterback in place of the injured Ninowski, kept State's offense on the ground and attempted only seven passes and completed

Predict Answer in 10 Years Promising Clues Assist Heart Research

CHICAGO (AP)—Within 10 years we could learn how to prevent heart attacks, the president-elect of the American Heart Association declared Sunday night.

Dr. Robert W. Wilson of Boston said there now are such highly promising clues that the answer could come, than soon, with intensified and continued research.

Earlier, for a public puzzled over conflicting advice on how to guard their hearts, a panel of medical experts said:

Red Boss Shows Power By Removal of Zhukov

Leaders Seek Clue On Zhukov

Shakeup Might Evaluate Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government administration leaders eagerly sought all possible clues Sunday on the Zhukov shakeup, aware that the removal of the Soviet marshal might be profoundly significant in evaluating Soviet policies and foreign policy.

Russian Col. Rudolf Ivanovitch Avil is escorted from prison van on arrival at Brooklyn federal court Friday in New York where a jury found him guilty on three counts of transmitting U. S. atomic secrets to Russia. He faces a death penalty—the first foreigner ever to face death under 1950 Espionage Law.

Washington leaders expected the State Department's withdrawal of the marshal to be a signal to stop any further moves of any kind in the Soviet Union. Several dispatches were received from the Associated Press in Washington in Moscow, reporting that the official announcement of Zhukov's removal would be a defense of the Soviet Union's foreign policy.

Press Ban Change Not Satisfactory

The State Department's face-saving modification of its ban on press coverage of Red China is an uninspired as it is unsatisfactory...

Under the late summer edict, 24 news-gathering organizations which has expressed a desire to assign "a full-time American correspondent to the China mainland...

Under this formula, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who some months ago asked for permission to visit Red China as a correspondent...

Moreover, Mr. Dulles makes it plain that the whole project is an "experiment." Presumably the renewal of individual passports—and the granting of others—will depend on whether Lord High Editor Dulles is pleased with what he reads during this adventure now going on in half-free journalism.

The key to the State Department's indefensible stubborn ways on fundamental matters of principle lies in these words:

... new factors have come into the picture, making it desirable that additional information be made available to the American people respecting current conditions within China. The Secretary of State has accordingly determined that it may prove consistent with the foreign policy of the United States that there be travel by a limited number of American news representatives to the mainland of China in order to permit direct reporting by them to the American people about conditions in the area under Chinese Communist control.

Once again Mr. Dulles finds himself echoing the Communist-Fascist notion that newspapers are servants of the state. Under his standard, correspondents can be pushed around day and night by bureaucrats who arrogate to themselves the right to decide what the people should or should not know "consistent with the foreign policy of the United States."

It is not Mr. Dulles' business to fix the conditions under which newspapers may assign their correspondents to any place on earth.

It is not his right to prevent newspapers from sending anyone anywhere unless they are willing to accept his rules about the duration or conditions of the assignment.

Let no publisher or editor feel any pride or triumph about the manner in which Mr. Dulles has altered his position. By laying down the law in this fashion he has undermined the humiliating posture to which the U.S. press has been reduced throughout this controversy.

We believe the basic issue should be fought to a finish in the courts. The case of William Worthy, who defied the State Department ban, offers the framework for such a test. But the department apparently shrinks from a final legal resolution of the conflict.

Worthy, denied renewal of his passport when he completed his Chinese journey, is battling to reverse that decree. But his case is stymied because the department's review authorities have refused for some months to hand down a final decision on his appeal. Until that happens, Worthy cannot force a full legal airing of Dulles' assault on press freedom.

We think American newspapers should avoid any premature celebration over Dulles' small surrender; let them concentrate instead on the great issues involved in Worthy's fight. Those issues are no less urgent today than they were before Mr. Dulles' Department of Propaganda and Enlightenment decided to offer its token reprieve.

Khrushchev Possible Organizer

Zhukov May Be Plot Victim

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY AP Foreign News Analyst

The replacement of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov as Soviet defense minister has the earmarks of a plot carefully organized by master intriguers...

Two possible interpretations can be put on the Kremlin fighting involved in the Zhukov replacement. One is that Khrushchev himself master-minded the action in order to eliminate a formidable rival in his drive to supreme dictatorial power over Russia...

The fact of the replacement of Zhukov by Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, was decided while Zhukov was abroad...

It looks as if while Zhukov was outside the USSR, the Communist Party leadership and factions in the Soviet high command which feared Zhukov's prestige and authority compared to that of Khrushchev...

Two considerations If, as seems likely, it was Khrushchev who organized the replacement of Zhukov, the Communist Party boss probably was guided by two considerations...

One was a factor in domestic politics: So long as Zhukov was commander of the armed forces he might under certain circumstances — if he felt the security of Russia was threatened — challenge the party.

The second factor in the replacement of Zhukov may have been a crucial question of foreign policy and its military implications.

Letters A Loud Voice

To the Editor: This is in reply to the letter of Tom Ryan and Don Vogel, who evidently didn't wear their hearing aids to the Purdue game. They complained that the fans weren't cheering and seemed to have lost their voices at the game. We're sure that if you question around you will find that most students lost their voices after the game, not before. We know that the Spartans have many loyal fans who go all out to cheer the team, with or without their voices.

I Hate Redheads

By DAVID STROUD State News City Editor

I don't like redheads. I need a significant prejudice. Most people do and all the ones I have don't loom too importantly these days. You see, I was never indoctrinated with these popular ones concerning skin pigment, religious worship and that ilk.

So redheads it is. And this is a good group to pick on. Better, you see, than people with one leg or crossed eyes—there aren't enough of them to make an all out prejudice worth while.

There are lots of redheads. Now one has to be told why I hate them. That's part of the rules you know. But I will anyway because the old ball has to get rolling.

All Redheads Are Evil They're all evil—the least astute of observers can see this. It's written plainly in their shifty manners, the way they all walk around acting so equal. Some even act superior to me, and of course they're not. Why just one glance at that carrot colored thatch proves that.

Now I don't hate them because their hair is red—that's not their fault. I just wish they'd stay where they belong and stop trying to move in on us.

Just the other day one of them butted in line ahead of me and tossed a woman without an apology. And I saw another drop papers all over the street and spit on the sidewalk. Oh, they're vicious and dirty all right.

Every time I see one of them do something like that I can't help but think—just if that isn't typical of them, they're all alike.

Often I've seen other people whose hair isn't red do some of the same disgusting things. They're really redheads wearing natural disguises. This type is sneaky and difficult to uncover, so I've got to keep on guard.

I hope people get on the bandwagon soon so I won't have to fight this battle alone. One sat next to me on the bus the other day and I could do nothing about it. I'll soon go mad unless I start walking.

Well, there it is. And because my reasons are just as good as any other prejudice pusher's, I'm standing on firm ground.

I didn't originate this prejudice, it belongs to my good friend Charlie. We're traveling to Little Rock soon. We figure that's a perfect spot to get entrenched and find lots of help.

Pope Inaugurates $2½ Million Vatican Station

SANTA MARIA DE GALEA, Italy (AP)—Pope Pius XII made the longest trip of his pontificate Sunday to bless and inaugurate the Vatican's new radio station, a complex of steel towers and equipment powerful enough to carry his voice easily to all parts of the world.

In the station's first broadcast message, the 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church exhorted the world to use the marvelous discoveries of our times for the spiritual improvement and not for the ruin of man.

Cardinal archbishop, bishop and the entire diplomatic corps accredited to the Vatican labored as the pontiff read his message in Latin. The station was built at a cost of about 2½ million dollars.

Dogs Used In Rockets By Russia

LONDON (AP) — Radio Moscow Sunday night introduced the first space traveler—a chubby Russian dog wearing a space suit and a transparent helmet—and announced an animal-carrying satellite will be launched soon.

The Moscow broadcast said preparations for launching of a test rocket are near completion and a team of dogs has been conditioned to provide the first passenger to rocket off into space.

The announcement that a satellite will be launched in the near future, first followed by a later rocket launch from the laboratory, where the dog will be trained.

Name is Kudravya. The star space traveler introduced to the radio audience was described by Moscow as a small, chubby dog named Kudravya.

The dog is scheduled to be launched into the atmosphere and the astronaut said Kudravya enjoyed the space. He then described how Kudravya got the test rocket.

Stubborn Penn State Overcome

Harriers Trip Lions, 24-31; Fordy Cops Third Victory

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
State News Night Editor

The opposition was met and vanquished! Michigan State's harriers claimed their first dual meet victory by turning back a stubborn Penn State squad, 24-31, Saturday at Old College Field. The Spartans experienced stiff opposition from the Nittany Lions out of the East. The scant seven-point margin was closer than last year's shut-out, 15-0, inflicted by the Spartans.

Scrambling, the harriers managed to take the first, fourth, fifth, sixth and eighth placements while the Nittany Lions finished runners in the second, third, seventh, ninth and tenth positions.

Fordy Kennedy continued his individual winning streak with a first place last time of 20:20.3. Previously, the team South-Central had won the Michigan AAU two-mile senior four-mile tests.

Taking the lead at the quarter-mile mark, Fordy never was in real danger of losing the lead. His best time of 2:18 for the half mile, 4:48 for the mile, 12:26 for the two-mile stretch and 17:40 at the three and half mile pole.

Penn State's Ed Moran and Capt. Fred Kerr picked up the second and third spots with clockings of 26:35 and 29:36, respectively.

Seizomore Rob Lake was next man to tally for the harriers by taking fourth place with a time of 29:42. Five seconds behind Lake was Ron Wheeler.

Capt. Henry Kennedy crossed the finish line in sixth place in 30:58. Ironically, this was the lowest placement ever registered by the great runner. But Henry hasn't as yet attained top physical strength and as the season progresses he is expected to challenge his brother.

Chasing in for the eighth place was Dave Loan, top middle-distance runner in 23:39. Loan has made the change to the distance spot in grand fashion.

Crowd cheerleaders go wild as Walt Kowalezyk scores winning TD.

Because engineering is a profession at GM—we offer you a career—not a job.

ONE REASON engineering standards at General Motors are so high is that GM recognizes engineering as a profession. And the men who engineer the many different products made by General Motors are respected for the profession they practice.

That is why, when you are invited to join General Motors as an engineer, you don't simply take a job—you start a career.

It's a career that is rewarding both professionally and financially—starting your first day of association with General Motors at one of its 53 divisions and 120 plants in 35 cities and 19 states.

During your early days at GM, for example, you work with a senior engineer who guides your career along professional lines.

You are also actively encouraged to pursue your education towards an advanced degree. For we at General Motors recognize that, in doing so, you will become more valuable to us and the engineering profession.

You are given the opportunity to obtain professional recognition through participation in engineering societies, forums, presentation of technical papers, winning of patents and other recognition of your accomplishments.

And you are also encouraged to take an active role in your community's affairs because a truly professional man is a good citizen as well as a good engineer.

All this is for a reason—and a good one. Many of the men who will fill the key positions at GM in the future are the young engineers joining GM today. This is not theory, it is fact. For 14 of our 33 Vice Presidents are engineers, 23 of our 42 Division General Managers are engineers, too.

Today we are looking for young engineers—such as you—who may fill these positions tomorrow. The rewards—both professional and financial—are substantial. If you feel you have the ability, write us. It could be the most important letter of your life.

June graduates!

A General Motors Representative will be on hand to answer questions about job opportunities with GM.

Shooters Register 1st Shutout On Southan's Dramatic Goal

Force Illini, 1-0, to Stretch Unbeaten String to 10 Games

Art Southan came off the bench for three minutes—long enough to score the lone goal in the soccer team's 1-0 victory over Illinois at the Soccer Field.

Hockey Practice Underway

The varsity hockey team began strenuous scrimmage last week in preparation for the opening of the 1957-58 hockey season.

The squad has been fortunate having no major injuries to date. A host of returning lettermen round out the squad. Last year's team which had a poor season is looking forward to the juniors on the squad who now have a year of experience behind them.

Captain Bob Jayson, forward "Butch" Miller, Ross Packer and Gene Grazia have two years experience. Twelve members from the 1956-57 freshman are also trying to make the varsity squad for the first time.

The pucksters open their season against the Detroit Red Wings in an exhibition game December 3 at the Michigan Ice Arena. The Spartans open the Western Intercollegiate Hockey League season at home on December 17 against 1956-57 W.H.L. champion, Colorado College.

This season will also mark the first time Michigan State will play an Ivy League school in hockey. The Spartans meet Harvard at the M.H.L. Ice Arena on January 4. In all, the Spartans will play a 21-game schedule.

Porpoise 'Aquaquad' Held

A diving exhibition by Miss Barbara Gilders of Detroit, member of the 1956 Olympic swimming team, highlighted Porpoise Fraternity's annual Homecoming "Aquaquad" Saturday morning at Jackson Gym Pool.

Miss Gilders displayed a variety of dives from the high board.

The fraternity also admitted one of its paddlers to Miss Sandy Giltner, MSU, swimmer who holds the National AAU Synchronized Swimming title. Miss Giltner entertained solo performance of a routine entitled "Tale of a King."

The all-university swim championships were depicted at Saturday's event, the final match of the Spartan's buoy.

Ernie Dewell faced the way to a 2:08.2 clocking and all-university title in the 200 yard freestyle. In the 50 yard freestyle George Jones led all swimmers with his 24.9.

David Dager bettered his preliminary time of 42.4 by 72 seconds to take the 75 yard individual medley title in 42.2.

Diget Nabu Three Titles

Diget nabbed off with two more championships by completing his morning's efforts to take the 100 yard freestyle event in 56.9 and with a 28.5 clocking nabbed
