

...Spartan Defense Dumps the Badgers...

By LARRY GUSTIN

MADISON, Wis. — A tough Michigan state defense held Wisconsin to just 53 yards on the ground Saturday as the Spartans stopped the Badgers here, 21-7.

The game, played in old Camp Randall stadium before 49,826 raincoat-clad fans, proved the Spartans still can move the ball without the help of passing. They ground out 165 yards rushing and threw only four completions for 50 yards.

And the Spartan defense, led by Sam Williams, Dan Currie and Dave Kaiser, kept the pressure on at all times. Currie was the first downfield after every State punt.

The Spartans scored in six plays early in the first period. Jim Ninowski, starting at quarterback, passed to Kaiser for 14 yards, then threw to Martin for six more. Gilbert carried for a first down, then, after a five yard loss, Ninowski passed to Walt Kowalczyk who was tackled on the four yard line. Fullback Don Gilbert took a handoff on a single wing and plowed into the end zone for the first touchdown. Kaiser, using a kicking tee after his unsuccessful conversion attempts, without one in previous games, made his first of three extra points.

The Badgers were unable to move. Earl Hall, who was booting tremendous punts all day, kicked a high floater 41 yards and Martin called for a fair catch.

After State picked up a first down, Ninowski rolled back and threw a long pass from his own 42 yard line. Wisconsin right halfback Dan Lewis intercepted the ball on the one yard line, but his momentum carried him into the end zone.

Kaiser, the intended receiver, tackled him in the end zone for an apparent safety. But the officials, not in position to see the play, ruled that Lewis was in the end zone when he caught the ball, thereby ruling it a touchback.

A Ninowski fumble set up the tying score in the second quarter. Ninowski went back to pass from his own 38, but was hit before he could get the ball away. As he fell, the Spartan quarterback flipped a lateral to Martin.

The lateral was low, and the ball bounced back to the State 11, where Wisconsin's Jon Hobbs recovered. Lewis gained five, then ran the right side into the end zone. Hobbs converted and the score stood at 7-7.

The Spartans regained the lead in eight plays after the kickoff, chiefly on a pass interference penalty and a kickoff return by Martin.

Martin took the kickoff on his three-yard line and dashed straight down the middle of the field with the aid of good blocking by his interference. Martin was leading the speeding procession toward the Badger goal when Lewis dragged him down from behind on the Wisconsin 32, after a 65-yard return.

Ninowski threw a desperation long pass to Martin which was incomplete on the three, but Bob Altmann was charged with interference and State had a first down on the three.

Martin slashed off left guard for a touchdown and the conversion made it 14-7 for Michigan State.

Both squads fumbled and intercepted each other's passes to offset any other drives in the first half.

Rain began to fall in the second half and both teams stuck to the ground in their attacks. Kowalczyk, the workhorse of the game, did most of the carrying and wound up with 67 yards, more than the entire Wisconsin team was able to run.

With just three minutes remaining in the game, Wisconsin punted to Look who signalled for a fair catch on the MSU 48. Kowalczyk smashed his way down the left sidelines for an 18 yard gain on the first play from scrimmage.

With Kowalczyk and Look carrying, the Spartans went down to the two. State called for a time out with 19 seconds left in the game and Look barreled into the line. It looked as if he was in, but the referee said he had only gained the one yard line. The clock was still ticking with six seconds left and the Spartans were frantically lining up to try another play.

Just as the gun went off, a Wisconsin player jumped offside. There was no time left and the Wisconsin beachwarmers ran out into the field. But a game cannot end on a penalty so State had one more chance.

The ball was moved half the distance to the goal, which was no move at all, and Kowalczyk crashed into the end zone. As fans milled around the sidelines, Kaiser kicked the point and the game was over.

Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty said in the dressing room after the game that his players had voted the game ball to end Larry Harding, who is out for the season with a leg injury sustained the previous week.

Sputnik II Circles Globe

U.S. Race For 'Moon' Holds Pace

Sputnik II Lifting Won't Affect Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States apparently has not speeded up its development of missiles and earth satellites despite the loud cries for haste which poured forth after Russia launched Sputnik I a month ago.

So far, Pentagon officials said Sunday, the various American programs in both fields are being carried out at the same pace as planned many months before the Sputnik era.

The United States has been hurling aloft a virtual fuselage of mighty missiles and rockets in recent weeks, but officials say this does mean speeding. The impact of these tests, they said, is stronger on the public because the Pentagon is putting out a more detailed description instead of wrapping the whole program in secrecy as before the Sputniks.

The same atmosphere of studied calm prevailed among Pentagon officials despite the beep-beep of Sputnik II, which the Russians launched Sunday and the new demands it will bring for putting the U.S. rocket and missile program on a rush basis.

Secretary of Defense McElroy said the new Russian satellite, with its shaggy dog, will have no great effect on the U.S. missile-satellite program.

The United States plans to launch an experimental basket-ball-size moon some time next month but it is not expected to orbit around the earth.

An estimated 1500 coeds attended rush teas held over the week-end.

Shaggy Dog Passenger In Satellite

Survives Ascent: Heartbeat Normal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shaggy dog with a tongue-twisting Russian name was flying through space Sunday in a new, bigger Soviet earth satellite. American scientists said they weren't surprised by the new Russian achievement.

The Soviets announced they had thrust a half-ton Sputnik II 1,956 miles into space Saturday night. Aboard the man-made moon was a small, shaggy, female dog, the first living creature to orbit around the earth.

A top Russian scientist hinted he and his colleagues will try to bring the animal back to earth alive, probably by parachute.

Moscow radio said the dog survived the rocket's roaring ascent and that radio signals indicated the animal was healthy and unhurt.

American experts said the 11.36-pound weight of the new Soviet satellite is not surprising. They noted Moscow described the satellite as being part of the rocket that lifted it into the heavens.

The American scientists expressed interest in exactly how the Russians are using all that weight—six times more than the 184 pounds of Sputnik I launched just a month ago.

Moscow reports spoke of the new satellite as weighing about as much as a nuclear warhead. And they said the weight suggested the Soviets may have perfected a new version of the Soviet Politicians Degrade Zhukov In Hailing Leninist Principles

MOSCOW (AP) — Political organizations in the Soviet Union forced Sunday to endorse the Communist party's devaluation of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov.

Top military leaders, from Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky — the man who succeeded Zhukov as defense minister — down, jumped in hailing the Leninist principle which places the Communist party above all marshals and generals.

The party's central committee found Zhukov guilty of trying to overthrow this Leninist principle and announced last Saturday night that he had been expelled from the committee and from the ruling Presidium (Polburo). The party Secretariat was instructed to find a new job for the World War II hero of Moscow, Stalingrad and Berlin, who — Pravda said — acknowledged the error of his ways.

Bringing the Festival to a close Thursday in the Ballroom, Theta Alpha Phi and Studio Theatre Workshop will present two one-act plays, "The Moving On," a drama by R. A. Ball, directed by Donald Bumgardner, and "The Sky High," a comedy by Carmen Hubbell, directed by Carl Soderlund.

New Fad: Krazy-kolored-Kitty

The Skunk - A Fraternity's Best Friend

De-odorized skunks may well become the latest fad in fraternity mascots.

Members of Delta Sigma Pi recently purchased such an animal, as yet unnamed. The skunk will be the object of an all-university name contest for which the winners will receive gift certificates from two Lansing-area stores, according to Sam Monte, Benton Harbor senior.

One fraternity member stated the "name the skunk" contest has been planned to alleviate a desire on the part of any fellow to name the skunk after his roommate.

A State Park Property sign, "Hunting and Trapping Prohibited," nailed to the door, warns against unfriendly trespassers.

The five-month-old skunk was shipped from Florida. It will take approximately three weeks for it to become friendly, according to Chuck Werle, Lapeer senior, who stated that skunks are known to be tamer than cats.

The skunk, still timid in its new surroundings, often burrows in the straw in its box. One morning he was found crowded behind a desk drawer.

Six-foot, 228 pound tackle, Les Rutledge, was a victim of the skunk's teeth.

A special leash was purchased and fraternity members may be seen any day "taming" the pet.

They are slightly hesitant about the skunk's possibilities for winning the fraternity mascot race at Water Carnival.

Browns Win

CLEVELAND — Cleveland's Browns today won a decisive victory over the Washington Redskins in a game that was a tactical battle for three long-drive touchdowns today to defeat the Redskins 21-17 before a crowd of 32,936.

The victory gave the Browns a 3-1 record and maintained leadership of the National Football League's Eastern Division at the season's halfway mark.

Fred LeBaron, the Redskins' league-leading passer, was injured in the second quarter and did not return to the game. He suffered a mild brain concussion.

Areas to Vote Tuesday On Annexation to E. L.

By IAN CARDWELL

A special election to decide the question of annexing two areas to the city of East Lansing is to be held Tuesday.

Areas considering annexation are the Marble School District in Meridian Township, which immediately adjoins East Lansing on the east and north, and the Red Cedar School District area in Lansing Township, west and southwest of East Lansing. The latter consists of a residential area served by Red Cedar elementary school, the Prandor shopping center and some adjacent territory.

Ballots are open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Registered voters in the Marble School District vote at the Marble School. Those in the Red Cedar School District vote at the Red Cedar School. The latter is located on the east side of East Lansing, near the intersection of the M-10 highway and the M-52 highway.

Each annexation proposal will be voted upon separately. Registered voters in the whole of Meridian and Lansing Townships, as well as voters in East Lansing, are urged to vote on this issue.

In order for these annexations to take place, each area must receive a "Yes" vote by a majority of three voters in the area to be annexed.

A majority of the Marble School District is in favor of annexation to East Lansing. Those voting in the Marble School District are urged to vote "Yes" on this issue.

Annexation to East Lansing is also being considered by the residents of the Red Cedar School District area. Those voting in the Red Cedar School District are urged to vote "Yes" on this issue.

Now the residents of this area are faced with the alternative of annexing to East Lansing or building their own high school financed by levying a bond issue.

Those voting in the Red Cedar School District are urged to vote "Yes" on this issue.

The Kathakali dance, noted for its elaborate costumes, will be presented by the Dancers of India in the Aud Thursday.

Ritual Temple Dances To Bring India to Aud

The Dancers of India will bring to the stage the mystery and glamor of India's ritual temple dances. Shanta Rao, India's greatest dancer, and her company of 20 will appear in a special number Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at the Aud.

They will present highlights from three classic Indian dance styles, the Kathakali, Bharata Natyam and Mohini Attam.

Kathakali, which literally means "story play," has been called the most exciting dance drama form of Asia. It tells the ancient stories of heroes and villains in pantomime using fantastic make-up and headgear. This particular form of dance is always concerned with such themes as battle, love or religious fervor.

The Bharata Natyam and the Mohini Attam are female solo dances. The former was originally performed in the temple courts. Costumes for the Kathakali performances are very elaborate, costing as much as $750 apiece. The traditional make-up will be done by an Indian make-up expert who is working with the group to insure authentic reproductions of the Kathakali masques.

Shanta Rao, star of the company, has undergone rigorous
